Bill Swad Is State's Newest Factory Outlet

The newest direct factory dealership in the state is Bill Swad Chrysler Plymouth Co. at 465 S. Hamilton-rd.

Grand opening is Saturday, Feb. 26, at which time a live one and one half hour TV show will be presented to mark the occasion. The telecast will originate from the new showroom.

Bill Swad's Rambler at 667 S. Hamilton-rd has been Ohio's leading Rambler outlet for the past two years.

In adding the Chrysler-Plymouth products, the firm is now able to supply a full line of American Motors products.

"With the new facilities, we can furnish every auto need from sales and service to car leasing and car rental," according to R. J. McVicker, a spokesman for the firm.

Green Meadows Country Inn Has Many Features

The Green Meadows Country Inn offers many unusual features. Located on N. High-st, north of Worthington, the inn is close enough to be convenient and yet far enough to be exclusive.

In a separate building is the Management Training Center. It is designed for executive meetings, conferences and training sessions. This is the only motel or hotel educational facility in Central Ohio. It will accommodate 150 people and has all the latest electronic devices. There is an adjacent dormitory for housing.

Green Meadows has special banquet rooms for wedding receptions and private parties.

The inn has an olympic size swimming pool, well equipped playground, and one of the city's largest dining areas.

Green Meadows Inn is managed by Benito Tibaldi, a native of Switzerland. Educated at Lausanne, Switzerland, and working in hotels in Italy, Greece and Switzerland, Tibaldi came directly to Green Meadows from Europe.

INFORMATION AVAILABLE

Pension and annuity payments received by residents of Ohio during 1965 fall into three classes for federal income tax purposes: non-taxable, fully taxable, or partly taxable, the Internal Revenue Service said today.

Document No. 5018, which furnishes more detailed information, may be obtained from the local Internal Revenue Office.

Applications Ready

The director of State Personnel announces civil service examinations are scheduled for Mar. 8 and 9, for retail store clerks in state liquor stores.

Candidates may obtain applications from any Ohio State Employment Service Office, or from the Department of State Personnel, Ohio Departments Building, Columbus, O. 43215. Applications must be postmarked no later than Feb. 24.

Income Tax Hints Given

The Internal Revenue Service released a few hints for those pondering over their income tax problems:

- When married persons file separate returns, both husband and wife must either itemize deductions or claim the same type standard deduction; a husband can not itemize while his wife takes the standard deduction.
- If a taxpayer is a homeowner paying interest and taxes, if he made unusually large contributions, paid large medical expenses or had a theft or other casualty loss, his tax will ordinarily be less if he itemizes deductions. However, if the total of his deductions is less than either the 10 percent standard or the minimum standard deduction, then it will probably be better to take the standard deduction.
- A partnership or sole proprietor doing business in Ohio and desiring to pay taxes as a corporation for the calendar year, must file a statement of election with the Director of Internal Revenue in the district where the principal place of business is located. The statement is due no later than Tuesday, Mar. 1.

New Winter Course Set

The Institute for Adult Catholic Studies for the winter semester will offer a course titled "The Second Vatican Council," from 8-10 p.m. Mondays of Lent Feb. 28-Apr. 4 at 12 different centers

The Lenten education program is part of the diocesan observance of the jubilee proclaimed by Pope Paul VI which began Jan. 1 and continues through Pentecost, May 29.

The course consists of six lectures, followed by group discussion on "The Meaning of the Council," "The Church," "The Liturgy," "Ecumenism," "Revelation," and "Education."

Three centers are St. Charles College, Bishop Ready and Bishop Watterson High Schools. The others are Chillicothe, Coshocton, Lancaster, Marion, Mt. Vernon, Newark, New Philadelphia, Portsmouth and Zanesville.

Tuition is $2 per person, or $3, couple.

Westinghouse Hikes Its J. A. Contribution

The Westinghouse Electric Corporation has again increased its contribution to the Junior Achievement fund campaign now in progress.

Clyde Covington Makes Viet Landing

Seaman Apprentice Clyde P. Covington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde P. Covington of 2006 Maryland-av, participated in Operation "Double Eagle," the largest amphibious landing ever made in Viet Nam, while serving with this command.

The assault landing of a large U. S. Marine force near Thach Tru, 30 miles south of Chu Lai, began when a 13-ship Naval Task Force steamed into the objective area in the predawn hours of Jan. 28.

Western Electric salutes the Engineering Profession

National Engineers' Week... Feb. 20-26

Western Electric Company INCORPORATED
P. ZWEIER WORKS MANAGER

February 20, 1966

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE ENGINEERING PROFESSION
Central Ohio

On behalf of Western Electric Columbus Works, it gives me great pleasure to join in honoring the more than 800,000 men and women of America who have chosen the profession of engineering as their career.

Engineering is a challenging job at the Columbus Works. The more than 600 Western Electric engineers and their colleagues of the Bell Telephone Laboratories are a powerful engineering team serving the nation and contributing to the growth and prosperity of Greater Columbus. Through research and development, they create improved telephone switching equipment for the expanding needs of America's communications system. In manufacturing, they must meet Bell System standards of high quality, low cost and compatibility with the existing complex network of telephone facilities.

On the occasion of National Engineers' Week, I salute the people of Western Electric and Bell Telephone Laboratories and all engineers in America who make the profession "a creative resource for progress."

Sincerely,
P. Zweier
Works Manager

Society For Promotion Of Cruelty To Animals Has Local Chapter

SEVENTH IN A SERIES

Shown are dogs, cats, pigeons, skunks and raccoons, crowded into filthy crates too small to permit standing; heavily chained dogs too weak to crawl to the stale bread and frozen entrails that comprise the only food in sight. A humane society raid rescued 28 of the worst cases. Some 75 dogs remained.

This is a sample of what goes on in many such compounds all over the United States. What about greater Columbus? Quite possibly here, too, officials at the Franklin County Humane Society say.

To cash in on the need of experimental laboratories for almost 2,000,000 dogs a year, "dog dealers" buy dogs and other small animals wherever they can. These, most of them strayed or stolen pets, are eventually sold to laboratories where they often fare no better than they did with dealers.

"We have received a number of phone calls that tell of dog-napping," one Humane Society official said. "We have tried to track them down but have had no luck. But, at least, we keep our ear to the ground."

The Humane Society says that if it is going on in Columbus, she doesn't know where the dog-nappers sell their animals. She says she doesn't know where Ohio State University animal researchers get their animals but she doesn't think they buy them from peddlers.

An Ohio State professor confirmed this. He said that very little experimentation is done with smaller animals. Occasionally, experiments in germs are conducted on dogs but, he added, the university uses only dogs they raise themselves.

The Christian Science Monitor became quite vocal on the subject recently, a subject which they call "a national shame."

The Monitor asks, who is guilty? The thieves? The dealers? The laboratories that buy animals which are obviously lost or stolen pets? Wantonly cruel laboratory operators?

Of course.

But guilty also are people who avail themselves of benefits from medical research but close they eyes to its abuses and demand no reform; indifferent or reluctant legislators and executives; individuals who are too sensitive to read shocking exposes but too busy to write their legislators; individuals who are able to back their convictions with money and fail to do so.

What can Columbus residents do? There are already pending in Congress a number of bills that would do much toward correcting these abuses, notably the Poage Bill, H.R. 12488, and the Clark-Cleveland combination, S. 1071 and H.R. 5647.

Meanwhile, Franklin County workers will continue to keep a watchful eye on Columbus. The conscience of this city is demanding it.

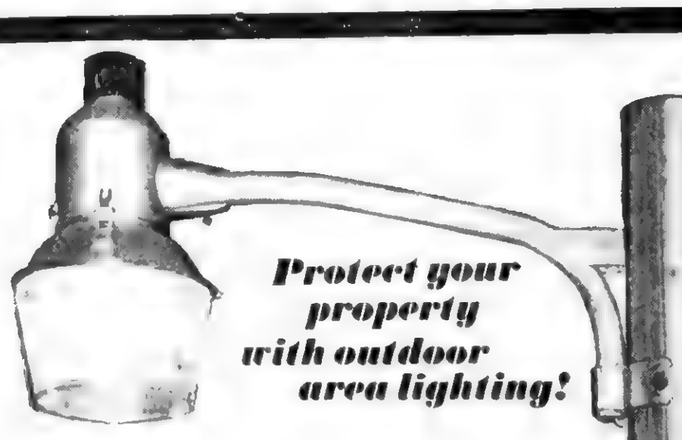
Volunteers Of America Here Hosting Meeting

Cmdr. Ray Tremont

The Volunteers of America Area Council meeting, the first in 20 years in Columbus, will be held Feb. 27, 28, Mar. 1 and 2, at the Sheraton-Columbus Hotel. This meeting is composed of executive officers and assistants who manage posts throughout Louisiana, Texas, Virginia, Florida, Tennessee and Kentucky (southern area) and Ohio, Indiana and Michigan (central area).



Delegates will arrive Saturday, Feb. 26. Sunday, Feb. 27, a memorial service will be held from 2 to 4 p.m., to which the public is invited. Monday, Feb. 28, Fred Morr will represent the governor's office and bring greetings to the group. A luncheon at the Columbus Post on W. Broad will be held for delegates and guests.

Tuesday, Mar. 1, Mayor Sensenbrenner will bring greetings from the city, and from 2 to 4 p.m. Robert Blees, minister of counseling, First Community Church, will speak on "Barriers to Communication." This meeting is open to the public.

At 7 p.m. the council banquet will be held with Cmdr. Ray C. Tremont, southern area commander, as emcee, and Dr. Floyd Faust, banquet speaker. Special music will be performed by Lella White, Mrs. Harold Lust and Marianne Sayre Weirick, with dinner music by Arthur Withrow, all of Columbus.

Purpose of this area council meeting is to bring legislation to the national conference which will be held in May.

Also attending the meeting will be central area commander, William T. Altman.

Teenage Spenders Rely On Ads In Newspapers

To the question, "What advertising source do you generally depend on for the things you buy?" 56 percent of the total quota sampling between the ages of 13 and 18 preferred newspapers. Newspapers rated 61 percent among girls, 51 percent among boys.

Magazines rated a total of 16 percent, television 14 percent and radio 9.5 percent.

"I tried to capture a sense of movement, strain and conflict." He did just that in this recent game against Dublin. In getting it, he used a Plux-X film, 1/1500, at f/5.6.

'Tree Of Knowledge' Grows In Schoolyard

By RITA CONARD
West High School

AWARD WINNER
1st Place: Editorial

Knowledge is knowing and being informed. "To acquire success, one must climb a ladder," folks say.

There are many types of trees, but for my illustration I have chosen an apple tree, since there are many hardy types in Ohio, thanks to Johnny Appleseed.

Of course, the one I am referring to happens to be imaginary, but I'm sure you won't mind. Let's say it is growing in our schoolyard.

The parents and teachers have given it good care to rid it of bad apples. Now it's up to us. Shall we just pick the apples that are easy to reach, or do our very best and get the better ones from the top? The picking isn't easy; the ladder often isn't steady.

Some of the rungs may be broken, but others have made it. With more education, we are prepared for a better job. Today it is a must.

Now let's plan our lives. Not everyone will be picking from the top, but let's go up as far as we can. Don't just sit on the ground waiting for the apples to fall.

Are we going to settle for applesauce (plain, boring job), when we could be having pie a la mode (college), apple fritters (satisfactory service to our country), or waldorf salad (own business)?

It may just be an apple tree, but to us it is the Tree of Knowledge.

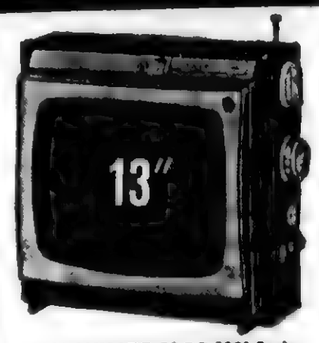
(JUDGES' CRITIQUE: Selection of the editorial writing winner was, perhaps, most difficult. Miss Conard, however, was selected because of the appropriateness of her article on the tree of knowledge to a high school audience. The reader interest, style, ingenuity, originality and enterprise are outstanding in this editorial and it would certainly be an asset to any high school newspaper in the country.)

Teenage Readership Is Higher Than Ever

Newspaper readership among 13 to 20-year-olds is surprisingly high, according to a recent survey by the Edmonton (Ga.) Journal. Taken in conjunction with a regular Starch Readership Study, it found that 83.5 percent of the 351 teenagers queried had read the survey issue of the newspaper.

Questions on other media revealed that 80.3 percent of the teens had watched television in the previous 24 hours; 87.2 percent had listened to the radio. Page one news and the editorial page ranked among the best read portions of the newspaper.

A similar survey taken last year by the Hagerstown (Md.) Herald-Mail found that 95.4 percent of the 10 to 18-year-olds regularly read one of the two Hagerstown newspapers. Among regular readers, page one readership scored 97.7 percent.



Every Teen Is Fighting For Goal

Every teenager has a goal he is fighting for. This goal is what makes him an individual — to go to college, to become a doctor, to become a loving wife and mother.

A great thing about teenagers is that they have the courage, fight and optimism to get to the top. — Nancy Hutchins, Upper Arlington High School.

Story Of Flippo Earns Bexley Girl Spectator Journalist Of Year Award

By MIMI DEATON
Bexley High School

(The Spectator's High School Journalist Of The Year)

Flippo the Clown makes 4:30 p.m. television a veritable children's hour — children of all ages, that is.

When Mike Neal (Bexley '61), who pulls the cords (vocal and otherwise) of Donny Duck, yells "One minute. Quiet!", Bob Marvin as Flippo strides into Studio A, starting an hour and a half of banter with the floor crew and jokes with the studio audience. There are also commercials and a movie, but the audience (including Bexley Dramatics Clubbers) is there primarily for fun and frolic with Flippo.

"Hello, there, group," he says in clipped baby-talk, sounding not unlike Yogi Bear. "This is the floor director. OK, Neal, direct the floor."

However, Cleveland-born Bob Marvin is not bothered by, but rather enchanted with, the upwards of 100,000 letters he has received in the past 15 years from his viewers, who range in age from cradle to pension.

AWARD WINNER
Journalist Of Year

One child's admiring letter, received six years ago, contained money which Flippo would "please give to the Heart Fund." He did. Now, throughout central Ohio, children have neighborhood carnivals, lemonade stands, go caroling, etc., for the Heart Fund. Last year, through Flippo, the Heart Fund benefited by over $1,000, and he has received a five-year service medallion and plaque in appreciation from the Heart Association.

No Pagliacci, Marvin yens not for Shakespeare. But, like true clowns, his buffoonery cloaks a seriousness of purpose. "I try to emanate a philosophy of love, community service, and honesty on my show."

With the growing success of Flippo's Heart Fund, "Everyone had a fund but me. So we started a fund to send me to Florida."

Bexley's Bill Cohen (whom Marvin dubbed "the Mrs. Miller of the Flippo Show") and Mark Masser donated the lower half of a mannequin's leg to house the Florida Fund.

"Last time I looked," said Flippo, "there were beads, Confederate and Japanese money, nails, and hairpins. I'm afraid to count it — I'll have to weigh it!"

Starting at age six as a singer, Marvin has been performing "as long as somebody pays me." As a music major at Ohio State University in 1949, he worked with the Chuck Selby and Ziggy Coyle bands, playing the saxophone and singing, and was "discovered by WBNS."

It took time to work out the make-up and character of Flippo. Ethics dictate no costume copying. "If someone does try," Marvin said, "he can't go to Clown Heaven."

Flippo tells teens, "Be honest — in school — dating — everything. Don't go steady. Develop individuality rather than date constantly. Learn about loneliness now — then it will hurt less later."

Television life is not lonely. Pranks prevail. In these environs one must learn to laugh when his sandwich meat is replaced by rubber bands, his Volkswagen seats are turned fore to aft, or when an on-the-air Santa Claus gets a boot full of eggnog.

"Teen-agers are wonderful," said Flippo. "I love 'em." And why not? They've given him the highest rating in his time period.

"Love you. Don't fight. Bye-bye."

What Her Teacher Has To Say . . .

Sara M. Amos, Bexley High School journalism instructor and advisor to The Spectator's High School Journalist of the Year Mimi Deaton, had these words about her student:

As editor of the "Torch," she is doing an excellent job. A senior, she first took journalism courses as a sophomore and served on the "Torch" staff during her junior year.

She still found time to write the Bexley High news column, "The Lion's Road" for The Spectator.

Each year the "Torch" enters the writing competitions in the workshops conducted by the Journalism Association of Ohio Schools (JAOS) and the High School Press Club of Central Ohio.

At the JAOS workshop she won the Grand Trophy for her story on the press conference. Each school at the workshop sent one writer to the conference; she was, therefore, competing with fifty or more of the top high school journalists in the state.

Mimi also won the trophy for the on-the-spot writing contest at the meeting of the High School Press Club of Central Ohio. Here she competed with the best writers in the Central Ohio area.

Mimi is an excellent student in other subjects also. However, I feel that she has a talent for writing and hope that she will continue her studies in journalism.

Mimi Deaton Sweeps The Field

Mimi Deaton, a Bexley High School senior, has been named The Spectator's first "High School Journalist of the Year" in the Franklin County area.

She was chosen from approximately 50 entries in this first annual competition. Judges included Spectator Publisher Robert Burdock, Managing Editor John Auble, Jr., and News Editor James Bruney.

Mimi was working on her high school paper when she was notified of her honor. "I'm thrilled," she said. ". . . and very, very proud."

First place awards in writing and photo-journalism awards went to the following students:

PHOTOGRAPHY — William Rosser of Columbus Academy High School.

All of the first place winners received a plaque and $10 cash award. Miss Deaton received a $200 check which is to be applied to a journalism scholarship at any accredited college or university in the country.

Honorable mentions include:

Rob Crane of Arlington High School, Shirley Acker of Arlington High School, Silvana Camboni of Whetstone High School, Christy Cahill of Bishop Ready High School and Debbie Clark of Arlington High School.

All winning entries are published in this special Spectator "Tales Out of Schools" section. First place award winners are appropriately marked and contain critiques from the judges so that the edition can serve as a guide to all high school journalists.

Miss Deaton was awarded a plaque for herself and one for her school Saturday morning on WLW-C's "Dance-O-Rama" program.

She is quite active in other school activities besides being editor of the Bexley High newspaper, "The Torch." She participates in Y-Teens, Dramatics Club, Future Teachers of America and French Club.

This year, her major academic subjects include English IV (World Literature), French III, American Civilization II and physics.

She ranks approximately 22nd in a class of 238 and has a cumulative average of about 3.6. Last semester, she earned a 3.75 average.

Teen Journalists Ripe For Picking

The next time you sit behind a typewriter in your high school newsroom feeling like your're wasting your time, review this article reprinted from Publishers' Auxiliary (Jan. 15, 1966). It may give you a new outlook in this lucrative field which is lacking enough talented people . . . .

Mr. Publisher: Don't turn your back on the 1966 class of journalism graduates. They are the disappearing kind. Before you can turn around again, half of them will have bypassed the job market; most of the other 50 percent will be employed elsewhere.

This forecast is made on the strength of 1964 and 1965 nationwide surveys by the Newspaper Fund. Both studies produced this disturbing fact: Every second journalism school graduate is not available for employment.

These non-workers are headed for graduate schools; they enter military service; they spend the summer after graduation in travel; many of the young women get married and remove themselves from the job market; or they have some other reason for not turning to you for a job.

But you will find among those who want jobs some who are interested in weekly newspapers. Weeklies attracted 96 men and women, about three percent of the 1965 class, or six percent of those who went to work. The preceding class sent 84 graduates to weekly newsrooms.

Daily newspapers do better, as expected — but not impressively. Seventeen percent of the 1965 class were snared by the dailies; this was a drop of two percent from the year before.

Statistically and actually, the market favors the jobhunter. In the weekly field there are 9,392 newspapers, more than at any other time in the past eight years. Invitations to partnerships and eventual ownership are not uncommon, a handsome incentive for the young man or woman who wants to be his own boss.

But the odds can improve for the publisher. He can attract more young people, especially boys, to journalism. It will not be an overnight harvest, but it can happen in the foreseeable future if he gets them while they are in high school.

Obviously, that's not a new idea. Many publishers and editors work closely with high school journalism students. Some print school newspapers on their presses. Others have the congenial habit of making regular visits to classrooms.

What's being done isn't enough, however, even in the face of journalism enrollments, which are at an all-time high—19,229 men and women. The competition for graduates is fierce; weekly newspapers attracted one graduate in 28 in 1965. Daily newspapers, aware of the newspaper and its role in the community. Half of the Fund-surveyed students said they read a newspaper at least six days a week; nearly 75 percent read the newspapers at least weekly. Sports captured their first attention—after all they are boys—but world news, national news and local news placed second, third and fourth as topics "most read." Editorials came next. After that, comics.

What can be done to improve the situation? A good deal. Research indicates that young people can be interested in journalism, or can be made to get interested in journalism. It's all a question of the right diet for the "care and feeding of high school journalists."

What are the basic substances of such a diet? A strong high school journalism program provides the meat and potatoes. The vitamins come in the form of a capable, trained teacher. And a satisfying dessert is the daily or weekly newspaper introduced early into the teenager's home and school life.

Not long ago, the Newspaper Fund surveyed the attitudes of 500 male high school journalists toward newspaper reporting as a career.

All were students of teachers who have spent at least part of one summer studying journalism under the Newspaper Fund's fellowship program. All were schoolboy editors or reporters.

Three out of four of the boys were interested in a journalism career. A decade ago such a ratio was unheard of. No other major study of attitudes, performed during the late 40s or the 50s, found more than 29 percent of the high school youngsters in any group interested in journalism.

Why the change? For one thing, students are more

This group was far more interested in important events than most of us were at the same age. Improved newspapers can share the credit for that development, so can better schools and teachers. Why this personal interest in news careers? Part of the answer may be found in student response to the question, "Why did you join the school newspaper?" Most of them said, "I like to write."

What else has influenced these students' attitudes toward journalism?

These schoolboy journalists have looked beyond the role of the newspaper. As best they can, since they have limited contact with professional journalists (more about that later), the students have studied the reporter. They know more about who he is and what he does.

We all remember student opinion polls which put the reporter at the bottom of the heap in terms of prestige he has in the community. I remember one young man who felt the reporter was "subservient."

The Fund-surveyed students described here didn't characterize the reporter as omniscient and omnipotent, but they did understand enough about his job to recognize its importance.

These youngsters regarded only the doctor and the scientist as performing more "service to society" than the reporter. They felt the intellectual challenge of a reporter's job equals that of the businessman, the teacher and the government worker.

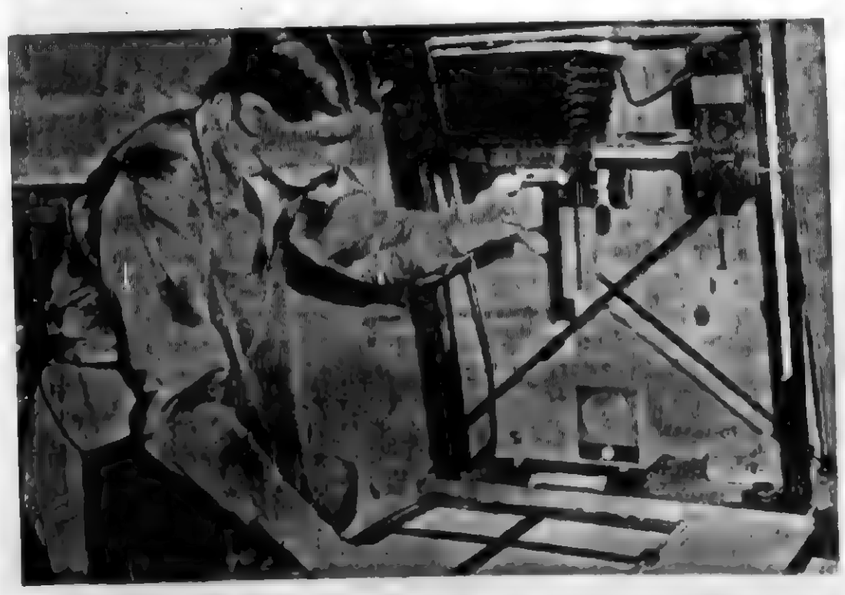
However, the reporter's prestige ranked seventh behind engineers, scientists, doctors, lawyers, bankers and government workers.

This point deserves emphasis.

Only one-third of the young men said someone had encouraged them individually to take up newspaper reporting as a career. Only one in five knew a reporter "well" or "very well."

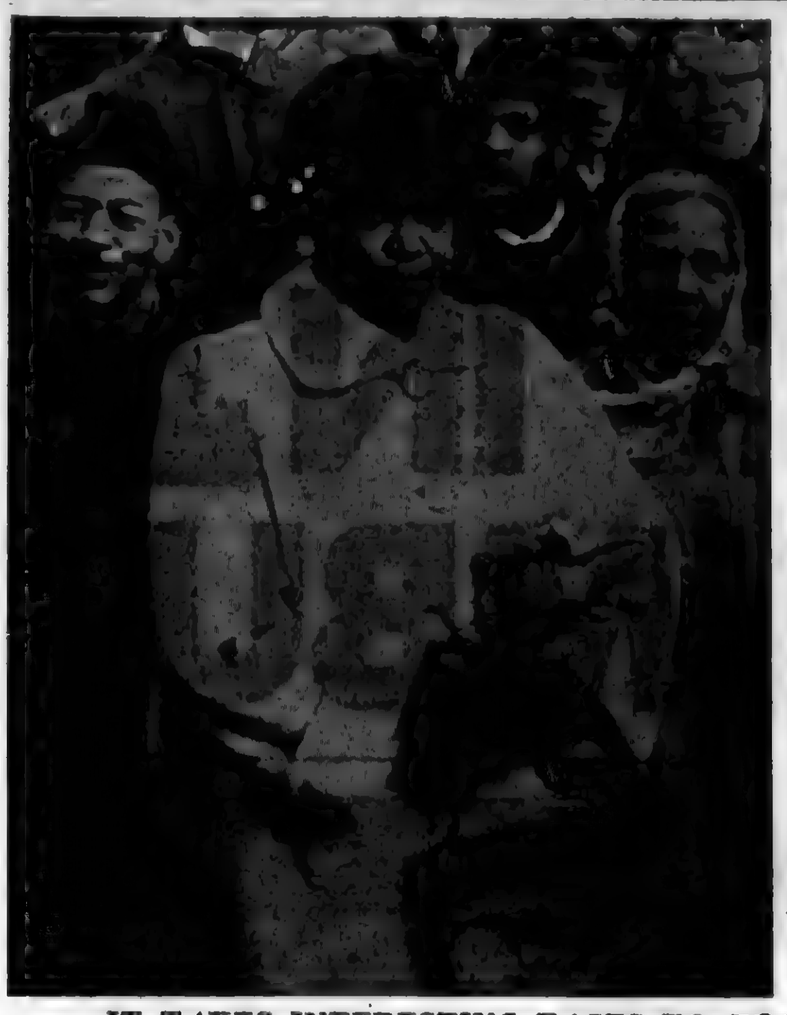
This Newspaper Fund study cannot statistically support the theory that if more student journalists share a friendship with even one reporter, career interest would automatically rise.

Our experience, however, indicates that the personal attention of professionals to the work of youngsters acts as an incentive. More and better work results as the students strive to earn the confidence of reporters, editors and teachers.

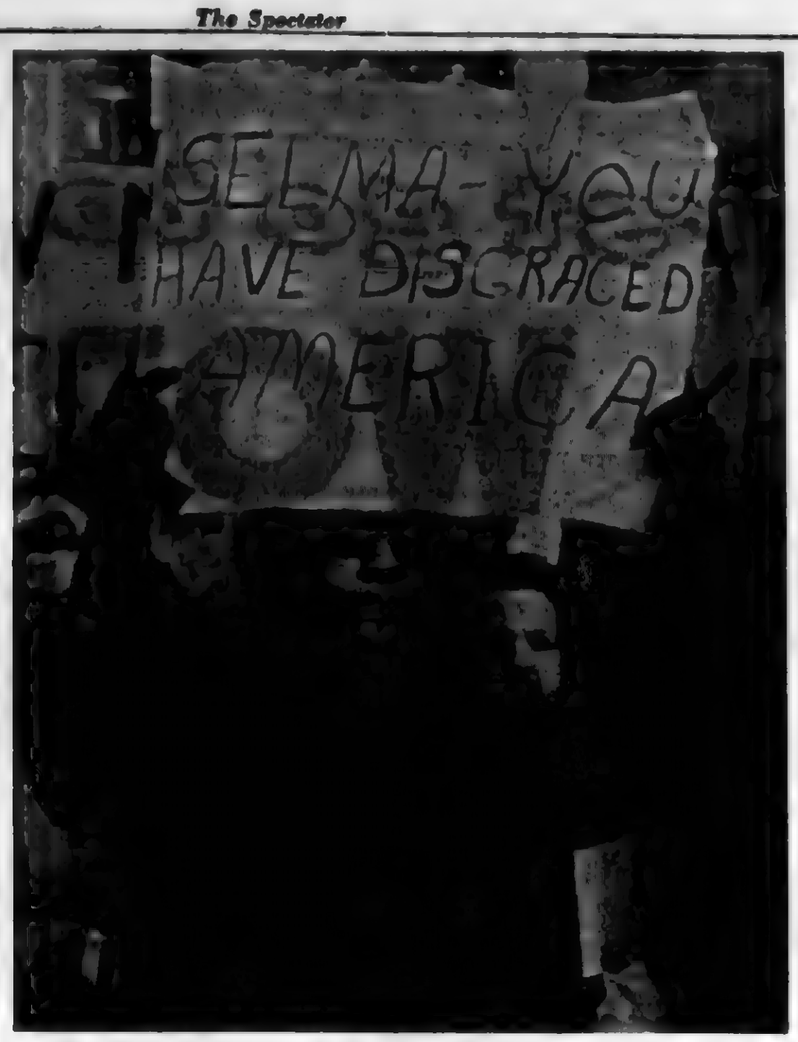


Here at the Newspaper Fund we have initiated a modest program to encourage young writers. Each week we receive 200-300 high school newspapers. Once a month we select two articles to be reprinted and distributed with the Newspaper Fund Newsletter. More than 3,000 teachers receive the reprints. The youngsters know this and it is important to them. Further, the fund telephones the student or the adviser beforehand to request the young reporter's permission to reprint. The effect on the student's morale can be measured by the delighted squeals and the "sincere thank yous."

How much more meaningful would be the effect of a telephone call from the local editor or publisher to praise a student's article? What would community reaction be to a brochure featuring reprints of these hand-picked articles from all area school newspapers?



How many editors would find among these students potential reporters whose interest in community journalism could be nurtured to overcome the often inflated attraction of the metropolitan daily?



Finally, since the high school journalism teacher bucks tremendous odds (the school board, the administration, the PTA, not to mention costs) in the battle to produce a worthwhile high school newspaper, support from the local publisher or editor is received eagerly, yet seldom sought. Teachers recognize that newsrooms are busy places; they often are reluctant to ask for help.

But I don't know one teacher who has ever shunned the friendship and support of an editor willing to share the opportunity to encourage youngsters to consider careers in journalism.

IT TAKES INTERESTING FACES TO PRODUCE INTERESTING PICTURES

Superman Problems Perplex This Senior

What if the crowd in the introduction decided that it was a plane after all? What if Clark Kent lost his job on the "Daily Planet?"

Could Kent ever be a mild-mannered construction worker? Does he wash his Superman suit?

What if a cleaning lady went through Superman's "changing-clothes closet" and decided to take his clothes home for her husband? Perhaps then the world would learn the naked truth at last! — Carolyn Schneider in the Bexley High "Torch."

'To Help Each Person Find His Place . . .'

By MARGARET HEMPHILL
Linden-McKinley High

(JUDGES' CRITIQUE: Miss Hemphill has demonstrated a welcome ability for detail. This is an item too often overlooked in writing a feature about a personality. Lines such as "This small, fragile woman with a round, glowing face, soft blue eyes and short grayish-brown hair . . ." add greatly to the reader's interest in painting a word picture of the subject. The article flows well and paragraph transition is commendable.)

Six students line the narrow, dimly-lit passageway patiently waiting to see the guidance counselor. Already in the office stands a tall, heavy-set young man engaged in serious conversation with her. This small, fragile woman with a round, glowing face, soft blue eyes and short grayish-brown hair is Mary Geist, guidance counselor at Linden-McKinley High School.

Her neat, businesslike office forms part of the administrative complex in the southeast corner of the building. Here Miss Geist sits at her paper-strewn desk near the center of the room and counsels Linden students.

"The stack of permanent records on my desk today has been pulled from the files so that I can re-figure some of the point averages at the end of the seventh semester," she said in referring to some of her work. "I'm holding my breath until I see if any more pupils are eligible for National Honor Society."

The tools of her trade lie in neat piles in the masses of filing cabinets that dominate the office decor or are posted on a large, frosted picture window above her desk. There may be anything from student permanent records to college applications. Beige print curtains hanging at the one window in the room add a feminine touch to the office.

Miss Geist has been a member of the Linden faculty since September, 1941. She first served as a teacher in the Latin and English departments after completing approximately one-and-a-half school terms as a permanent substitute at West High School.

Prior to this, she taught in Wheelersburg, a small town in southern Ohio. During this time she displayed competence in assisting young people.

"The second year I taught in Wheelersburg, I was introduced to the 'behavior problem' of the school," she said. "When he learned that I had a meager knowledge of Spanish, he decided to come into my Latin class for Spanish instruction. I hope that the special interest that I tried to take in him may have been one factor that encouraged him to complete his high school education." Then, she added contentedly, "The last I heard from him he was a dental assistant in the Navy."

Miss Geist completed her education at Ohio State University, earning her Bachelor of Science degree in education at 21 and a Master's degree in Latin at 22.

She has been counseling full-time for a comparatively short while.

"I was drafted," she said kiddingly in explaining how she acquired her position. Linden McKinley lacked sufficient personnel in this field before she came. Miss Geist admitted that she had always wanted something more than straight teaching. Being a student counselor apparently satisfied this desire.

"It affords the most pleasant contacts with students," she said.

Preparing class schedules, providing college information, and assisting students with their personal problems are her main duties. Miss Geist concentrates on placing students in subjects most beneficial to them, such as directing a student who has difficulty with academic subjects into an industrial arts course where he could learn a skill.

"It is terribly important to help each person to find his place where he alone is needed and where he can achieve to the best of his capacity," she said.

Miss Geist readily supplies college information — scholarship applications, entrance forms, test registrations. Mainly she strives to help students make the best decisions concerning college choices. Personal problems she handles would classify as "a student unhappy in his own situation or "a student that would be more of a problem to himself."

"Sometimes all you have to do is listen," Miss Geist said. This is her philosophy for handling student problems. She feels that no matter how small a problem may seem, a counselor must remember that it is important to that student. Therefore, for all counselors, Miss Geist suggests this motto:

"Neither ridicule nor condemn, but try to understand." Such sound reasoning has carried her through three successful years as a full-time counselor.

No Hand Outs

Peace and freedom are not just handed to us. They both require constant work, high intelligence and the most dedicated commitments.

Our common interest in survival in the nuclear age requires us to seek international cooperation. The year 1965 has been designated as International Cooperation year in the United States.

As the future framers of this world's destiny, we will have a grave responsibility to uphold the United Nations. This responsibility begins now, for we must begin to form a positive attitude.

As President Johnson emphasizes, "Our challenge is not to debate the theory or concept, but our challenge is to improve and to perfect and to strengthen the organizations that already exist."

1st Place: Photography

Teen Journalists Ripe For Picking

The next time you sit behind a typewriter in your high school newsroom feeling like your're wasting your time, review this article reprinted from Publishers' Auxiliary (Jan. 15, 1966). It may give you a new outlook in this lucrative field which is lacking enough talented people . . .

Mr. Publisher: Don't turn your back on the 1966 class of journalism graduates. They are the disappearing kind. Before you can turn around again, half of them will have bypassed the job market; most of the other 50 percent will be employed elsewhere.

This forecast is made on the strength of 1964 and 1965 nationwide surveys by the Newspaper Fund. Both studies produced this disturbing fact: Every second journalism school graduate is not available for employment.

These non-workers are headed for graduate schools; they enter military service; they spend the summer after graduation in travel; many of the young women get married and remove themselves from the job market; or they have some other reason for not turning to you for a job.

But you will find among those who want jobs some who are interested in weekly newspapers. Weeklies attracted 96 men and women, about three percent of the 1965 class, or six percent of those who went to work. The preceding class sent 84 graduates to weekly newsrooms.

Daily newspapers do better, as expected — but not impressively. Seventeen percent of the 1965 class were snared by the dailies; this was a drop of two percent from the year before.

Statistically and actually, the market favors the job-hunter. In the weekly field there are 9,392 newspapers, more than at any other time in the past eight years. Invitations to partnerships and eventual ownership are not uncommon, a handsome incentive for the young man or woman who wants to be his own boss.

But the odds can improve for the publisher. He can attract more young people, especially boys, to journalism. It will not be an overnight harvest, but it can happen in the foreseeable future if he gets them while they are in high school.

Obviously, that's not a new idea. Many publishers and editors work closely with high school journalism students. Some print school newspapers on their presses. Others have the congenial habit of making regular visits to classrooms.

What's being done isn't enough, however, even in the face of journalism enrollments, which are at an all-time high—19,229 men and women. The competition for graduates is fierce; weekly newspapers attracted one graduate in 28 in 1965. Daily newspapers, aware of the newspaper and its role in the community. Half of the Fund-surveyed students said they read a newspaper at least six days a week; nearly 75 percent read the newspapers at least weekly. Sports captured their first attention—after all they are boys—but world news, national news and local news placed second, third and fourth as topics "most read." Editorials came next. After that, comics.

This group was far more interested in important events than most of us were at the same age. Improved newspapers can share the credit for that development, so can better schools and teachers. Why this personal interest in news careers? Part of the answer may be found in student response to the question, "Why did you join the school newspaper?" Most of them said, "I like to write."

What else has influenced these students' attitudes toward journalism?

These schoolboy journalists have looked beyond the role of the newspaper. As best they can, since they have limited contact with professional journalists (more about that later), the students have studied the reporter. They know more about who he is and what he does.

We all remember student opinion polls which put the reporter at the bottom of the heap in terms of prestige he has in the community. I remember one young man who felt the reporter was "subservient."

The Fund-surveyed students described here didn't characterize the reporter as omniscient and omnipotent, but they did understand enough about his job to recognize its importance.

These youngsters regarded only the doctor and the scientist as performing more "service to society" than the reporter. They felt the intellectual challenge of a reporter's job equals that of the businessman, the teacher and the government worker.

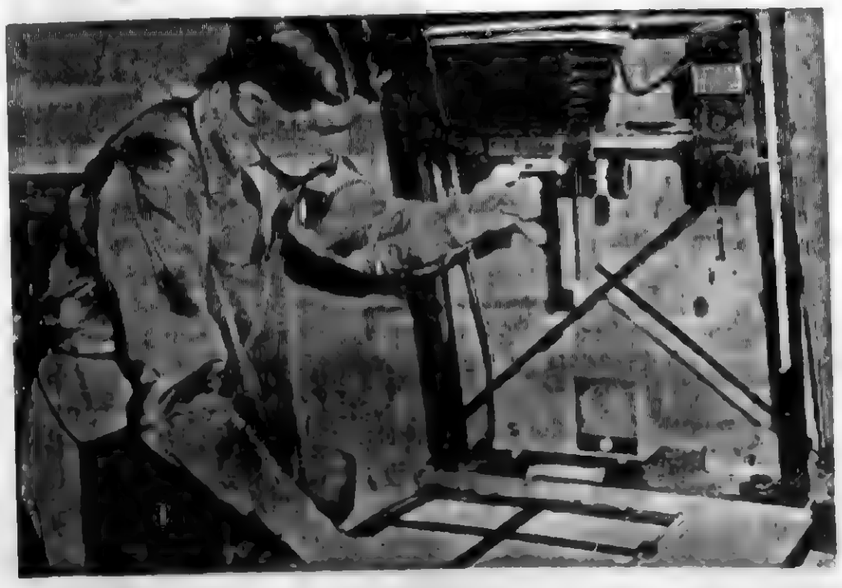
However, the reporter's prestige ranked seventh behind engineers, scientists, doctors, lawyers, bankers and government workers.

This point deserves emphasis.

Only one-third of the young men said someone had encouraged them individually to take up newspaper reporting as a career. Only one in five knew a reporter "well" or "very well."

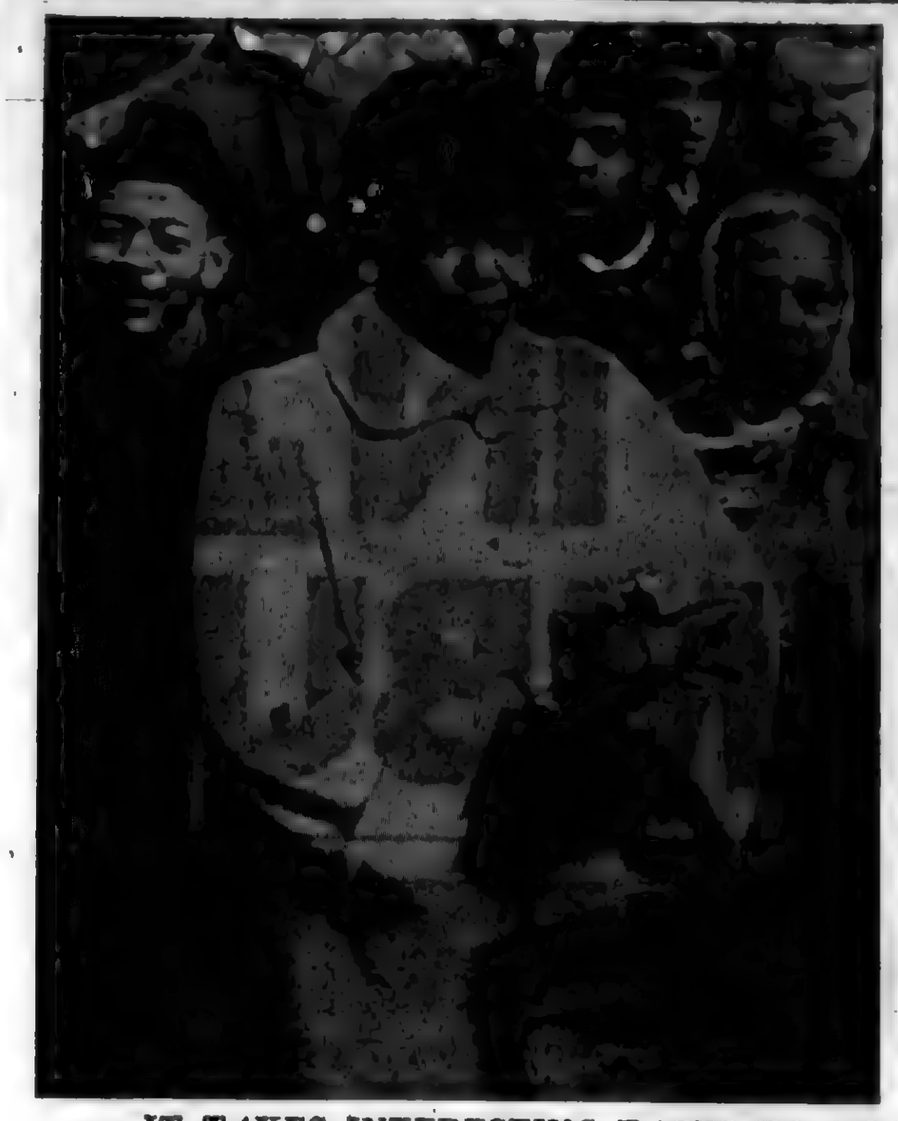
This Newspaper Fund study cannot statistically support the theory that if more student journalists share a friendship with even one reporter, career interest would automatically rise.

Our experience, however, indicates that the personal attention of professionals to the work of youngsters acts as an incentive. More and better work results as the students strive to earn the confidence of reporters, editors and teachers.



Here at the Newspaper Fund we have initiated a modest program to encourage young writers. Each week we receive 200-300 high school newspapers. Once a month we select two articles to be reprinted and distributed with the Newspaper Fund Newsletter. More than 3,000 teachers receive the reprints. The youngsters know this and it is important to them. Further, the fund telephones the student or the adviser beforehand to request the young reporter's permission to reprint. The effect on the student's morale can be measured by the delighted squeals and the "sincere thank yous."

How much more meaningful would be the effect of a telephone call from the local editor or publisher to praise a student's article? What would community reaction be to a brochure featuring reprints of these hand-picked articles from all area school newspapers?



How many editors would find among these students potential reporters whose interest in community journalism could be nurtured to overcome the often inflated attraction of the metropolitan daily?

Finally, since the high school journalism teacher bucks tremendous odds (the school board, the administration, the PTA, not to mention costs) in the battle to produce a worthwhile high school newspaper, support from the local publisher or editor is received eagerly, yet seldom sought. Teachers recognize that newsrooms are busy places; they often are reluctant to ask for help.

But I don't know one teacher who has ever shunned the friendship and support of an editor willing to share the opportunity to encourage youngsters to consider careers in journalism.

Superman Problems Perplex This Senior

What if the crowd in the introduction decided that it was a plane after all? What if Clark Kent lost his job on the "Daily Planet?"

Could Kent ever be a mild-mannered construction worker? Does he wash his Superman suit?

What if a cleaning lady went through Superman's "changing-clothes closet" and decided to take his clothes home for her husband? Perhaps then the world would learn the naked truth at last! — Carolyn Schaebler in the Bexley High "Torch."

Opportunities Unlimited!

Will You Be Ready for Them?

For the majority of young people, age 18 is a crucial turning point. It is the age at which most of them graduate from high school and either go on to further education or training or start to work on a full-time basis.

Whatever the course selected, dynamic changes are going on in our economy. These changes demand a broad foundation of training and education, so that, if a shift in plans becomes necessary, a transition from one occupation or field of work to another may be made more easily.

What can young people anticipate about the kinds of jobs that will be available? In what industries will the jobs be found? Where should they seek these jobs?

A look at yesterday and today focuses on unmistakable signs pointing to a bright future right here in Columbus and Franklin County.

And while planning careers, planning the upbringing of families is in the not too distant future.

Columbus and other Ohio institutions of higher education — public and private — rank with the best in the nation.

Its recreation areas and opportunities are virtually boundless.

Columbus is an "All-America City" — and it is — a wonderful place to work and live.

That's tomorrow. What about today?

These youth minded co-operating Columbus companies caution that without the proper schooling and training today, there won't be much of a tomorrow. Education holds the combination that unlocks the vault in which the opportunities are stored.

First, they urge, finish high school. That's basic whether that is the end of formal education or not. It is the foundation for further schooling or technical training.

1st Place: Human Interest

(JUDGES' CRITIQUE: Keeping interest in a human interest story is not always an easy task. Miss Henry's piece on ship builder John Tilley does just that and she does it, we feel, by consistently putting impact into each and every one of her paragraphs. The story is a credit to Miss Henry's school newspaper, "The Bobcat," and can serve as an outstanding guide to high school writers everywhere.)

Historical Interest Inspires Hobbyist

By JANE HENRY
Grandview High School

While his friends watch Flippo and Superman after school Freshman John Tilley works in his "shipyard," creating surprisingly exact replicas of world famous ships.

He has been building models for 10 years, but his real interest is in naval history. "Making models is just a sideline," John comments.

After completing basic constructions with plastic model kits, he then spends hours in the library researching the heraldry and riggings of the ships, so that each detail may be as authentic as possible. "There's quite a lot of information about naval history, if you know how to find it," says John.

JANE HENRY

Nail clippers, tweezers, and razor blades are essential tools in his work. Each ship costs about four dollars to make, and some take up to 80 hours to complete.

The models range in size from three inches to three feet.

Although he is mainly interested in the historical period 1500-1890, John has constructed Viking ships and a nuclear power cruiser, the "Long Beach."

His display at the 1965 Ohio State Fair won him a blue ribbon and a two-foot trophy. In this exhibit were the "Cutty Sark," "Santa Maria," "U.S.S. Constitution," "H.M.S. Victory," and a Confederate raider, the "C.S.S. Alabama."

John has also displayed his models at the Grandview Library, and has sold three large clipper ships for $20 apiece.

"My ultimate goal is to put a ship in a bottle," he reveals. "Ships are never built in bottles; they are built, collapsed, and fed through the neck of the bottle. Whiskey or vodka bottles are the best to use. John is learning his technique through books.

He hopes to major in history in college, and then perhaps teach.

ROSSER SHINES IN PORTRAIT WORK

THE SPECTATOR'S photo winner William Rosser tries his hand here at portrait work. All we know about the girl is that her name is Karen and, Rosser says, "her beauty and youthfulness fascinated me." For this one, Rosser used Peruta film, 1/5, at f/5.6.

Today's Teen Is No Open Book

By SHIRLEY ACKER
Arlington High School

(Honorable Mention: Editorial Class)

Young adults' actions cannot be predetermined in the same manner that a chemist can predict the results of a chemical reaction. The evolving of a new generation is like the discovery of a new element or a new compound. The parents of today's adults also wondered about the younger generation. Today's teenagers aren't the first to create a perplexing situation for older people.

Parents and adults of today are confused by youngsters. Adults say teenagers are irresponsible and selfish do-nothings, fighting for attention. This is a way of ignoring the problem. Older people visually compare teens to turtles. A turtle plods along; he's always going some place, but he doesn't know where he is going. A turtle pulls itself inside its shell to hide from the unknown dangers of the world, and some parents think that teens are hiding from the problems of the future.

Teens are conformers. They look alike because they need to feel secure. If a person acts too differently, he isn't accepted into the group. When teenagers are considered in a mass, they all look alike and appear to act identically. Snowflakes look identical and they act alike, yet each one is different when examined closely. Fitting-in gives a teen confidence in himself.

Adults will probably never understand each youngster's differences. Parents do think they can predict teens' actions. This may be true for a few years. Even a chemist has to discard an old theory when he discovers a new reaction disproving the theory. Nothing remains unchanged. Adults should realize that the younger generation is becoming the present generation.

Growing Up; A Matter Of Escape

By ROB CRANE
Arlington High School

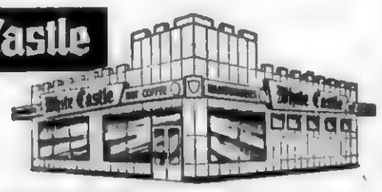
(Honorable Mention, Editorial Class)

Our generation is like a bird's egg which has been dropped into the ocean. For, when the bird pecks his way through the shell of infancy, he finds himself in an alien world. It is a world of starvation, corruption, oppression, prejudice, fear, and hatred. The bird is stifled and choked with charges of conformity, immorality, and cowardice. He has no choice but to fight his way to the surface, to seek his own environment where he can fly in the freedom of the sky and air, not waste and water.

The inhabitants of this watery world, the fish, stare at him with disbelief. They wonder how a being so different could have come into their world. They wonder why he won't accept their ways of life, why he rebels so, and why he can't simply follow their examples.

The bird wonders, too. He cannot understand how the fish can live with themselves in the stench and muck of their society. He wonders if they just close their eyes to all the poverty and injustice of their world. All he knows is that he cannot live there; he must build a society of his own.

And, he does. He rips and tears, claws and kicks himself upward out of this watery waste, until finally he reaches his birthright, the air. He sheds his burden of water; he soars upward, drying his wings and feathers as he sails.



The bird made it. My only hope is that we do, too.

To drop out of school is one of the costliest mistakes a youth can make. Job opportunities for the unskilled are drying up. New knowledge, new skills, more adaptability and greater flexibility are being required by business and industry.

To qualify for the better jobs of tomorrow, you will have to learn the new skills and techniques those jobs demand. Your education will become your most valuable asset. Young people who want a future should stay in school.

(JUDGES' CRITIQUE: Lance showed a commendable amount of news accuracy and depth in his story about the Bexley schools' 5-mill tax levy. As associate editor of his school paper, "The Torch," Lance continues to write on an objective plane seemingly ever-mindful of his responsibility to his fellow classmates who seek hard-core news affecting their everyday school lives.)

Levy Failure Drops Property Values

By LANCE LISLE
Bexley High School

"The 5 mill levy is a turning point for the Bexley schools, whether they decline or improve. Also, if the levy fails, property values in Bexley will go down," said John T. Loehnert, chairman of the "Committee of 100" that is working for the passage of the levy on November 2.

Mr. Loehnert, who is a banker and familiar with problems connected with real estate values, cited several cases in which communities rejected school levies and saw their property values decrease.

Although only 35 percent of Bexley families have children in Bexley schools, the last new levy passed with a 62 percent majority. "This means," Mr. Loehnert explained, "that a plurality of Bexley residents support good schools and desire high property values."

"We have never lost a levy," Mr. Loehnert added.

This levy will not actually increase the taxes five mills on the dollar. Only 4.5 mills will be added to the present real estate taxes. The .5 mill difference is the result of the reduction of interest following bond retirement.

The levy will cost the average Bexley family about $45 a year.

The money produced by the levy will be used for operating costs, including teachers' salaries, maintenance, and teaching equipment.

Mr. Loehnert said that many people have wondered whether the buying of property by Capital University has effected the tax duplicate.

His answer is that Capital University is big industry for Bexley since it returns much more money than it removes from the tax duplicate.

Presently, the "Committee of 100" has been increased to 350 people.

On October 21-24 they contacted every home in Bexley. At that time they polled the residents for their opinions on the levy.

"From the results of this poll," explained Mr. Loehnert, "the workers will be able to tell whether more personal contact with the voters will be needed to insure passage of the levy."

A STUDY IN PATTERNS PROVIDES EFFECT

"NOTICING THE outline of the fence contrasting vividly with the players, I set myself behind the backstop and threw the players out of focus for effect," says William Rosser, the Academy photographer who walked away with first place honors in The Spectator's high school journalist contest. Rosser used Plus-X film for this one, setting his camera at 1/125 at f/3.5.

NHS Recognizes Outstanding Students

By CHRISTY CAHILL
Ready High School

(Honorable Mention, News Feature)

Character, scholarship, leadership, service — these are the attributes of a National Honor Society member.

At present time, there are 30 members of NHS at Ready. Sister M. Albertus, O.S.F., is the moderator of the ever-growing organization, which is planning a March induction of new members.

To become eligible for NHS, seniors must have a cumulative point average of 86 and juniors a cumulative average of 88. Sophomores with an average of 90 are eligible to become probationary members, with permanent membership their junior year.

Candidates fill out service sheets, and faculty members who feel they know the candidate well enough submit a rating sheet on his character and leadership. The candidate's leadership is judged in three parts: initiative, executive ability, aand influence. Character is also judged in parts: morality, dependability, honesty, industry, cooperation, and personality.

In order to be better known, the officers and members of NHS are planning an active year. Their first endeavor was a college seminar at which Mr. Bud Trapp, Ready's guidance counselor, spoke on college admissions and scholarships. In the near future, the NHS is planning to feature a career of the week, a "what's going on in Columbus," publication of the Honor Roll, and the March induction.

CHRISTY CAHILL

The National Honor Society of Secondary Schools was founded in 1921. The local chapter at Ready was established in 1964 and called the Holy Family Chapter in honor of the former West Side school.

One of the advantages of being an NHS member is that its national scope gives it high significance and unusual prestige. Also, a member of the society is a preferred candidate for a college scholarship and admission to college.

Sister Albertus says that "the society is established to recognize students that have already shown high scholarship, good influential leadership, enthusiastic service, and high moral character." She adds, "We hope having the NHS will stimulate enthusiasm for learning and incentive for service to the school and each other," and she would like to see it "better known so that it might encourage students toward these high ideals of the society."

MIMI SWEEPS—

In past years she has served as a Future Teachers of America cabinet member and then vice-president. Last year she was inducted into the National Honor Society and was a Girls' State nominee.

She was also a member of the Laurel Club, a junior high school honorary society.

"Currently," she says, "my main interests are in the field of journalism. It will be my major when I start at Ohio State University."

Mimi has had many exciting experiences since she began working in this field. The highlight of her young career, however, came last summer when she and her sister, Marcy (15), were the Bexley High delegates to the National Y-Teens convention in Washington, D.C.

"It was really wonderful," she recalled. "We toured the government buildings with Mrs. Frank Lausche and even met Vice-President Hubert Humphrey."

Mimi resides at 2612 Fair-av with her mother, sister and a brother, Tommy, who's 21. Her father the late Paul D. Deaton, worked for United Press International and the International News Service before his death in 1954.

Effect, Not Cause, Concerns Students

By LYNNE TWEED
Ready High School

(JUDGES' CRITIQUE: Differenciating between a feature and a news feature is often difficult. Miss Tweed, however, made it easy. The news value of her Viet Nam survey is unquestioned because of the general news value that the Viet Nam conflict has throughout the world. Miss Tweed brought the war a little closer to home with her survey. She, generally speaking, "localized it" with a high-degree of reader interest.)

"Our young people (at home) don't seem to realize why we're here."

These are the words of U.S. Marine Cpl. George Derieg which he wrote to the Oakland (California) Tribune. Cpl. Derieg is stationed in Viet Nam.

Kathy Truxall of Columbus, who will be a junior at Hartley High School next year, disagreed. ". . . . I would assume the majority of us are acutely aware of this situation . . . Our younger generation is going to inherit that whole God-forsaken war and its horrors and troubles. Don't you think that many of us have thought about it?" she asked in her letter to Cpl. Derieg.

Is Kathy being optimistic? Do most young people really know what is going on? Do Ready students measure up?

EXCALIBUR interviewed 20 students, five from each class. They were first asked what the Viet Nam situation means to them.

A senior boy recognized in the war "the U.S. stand for freedom." A sophomore boy said that "this freedom will be sacrificed if we give up in Viet Nam."

One senior girl said, "It's horrible. They're taking away all the boys!" A junior boy said, "I might get drafted."

LYNNE TWEED

The same students were then asked what the President's Viet Nam policy is.

Two seniors, five juniors, three sophomores, and four freshmen couldn't give adequate answers.

A sophomore said the President's policy is, "After midnight, Aug. 27, if you're married you can still get drafted."

Of course these were only 20 students out of 925 in the school. But is this an example of the indifference of some of our teenagers? Are they more interested in avoiding the draft than fighting for the cause of freedom?

Only they themselves can remedy the situation — by reading, studying, listening and thinking.

But will they?

YOU are invited to express your opinion to EXCALIBUR. Do you agree with Cpl. Derieg or Kathy Truxall?

Arlington Swimmers Reach For Bear's Share Of League Laurels In High School Tank Meeting

By DEBBIE CLARK
Arlington High School

(Honorable Mention, Sports Writing)

DEBBIE CLARK

The Golden Bear tankers remain on top of the Central Ohio High School Swimming League, despite strong challenges by Columbus Academy and Worthington.

Academy's Vikings' only loss was by the Cardinals, and Worthington's one defeat was handed out by the Golden Bears.

Arlington hosts Academy Feb. 22 in a meet that promises to be one that either declares the Bears league victor, or makes the crown a three-way tie between Worthington, Academy, and Arlington — if the Bears lose.

Next week the Bears host Bexley at 5:15 in the last scheduled meet. The Fairview Park swimmers are coming from Cleveland for a non-league meet on Saturday, Feb. 19. The District meet will be Mar. 4 and 5, followed by the State competition, Mar. 11 and 12.

Arlington is undefeated in non-league action, as well as the COSL. This is remarkably good, as Arlington started water practice a full month behind other area teams. This was a result of the construction of the natatorium.

Todd Wise, Roger Jones, Tom Hales, and Dave Ezell have set a new pool record of 1:48.8 for the 200 yard medley relay. Todd also holds the team 400 yard freestyle record with a time of 4:17.9.

High Schools Are Widening Their Educational Perspectives

There are two sides to the high school picture that stand out in high relief as the new term approaches this year, challenging the educational system to provide a wider diversity of instruction and guidance for the sharply increasing number of students.

On the one hand is the mounting pressure on preparation of teen agers for admission to college which is sending approximately one half of this year's high school graduates to campuses this fall.

That both the high schools and the ambitious, serious minded teenagers have been doing a good job at this level is indicated by the fact that many institutions of higher learning, hard pressed to make place for all the freshmen, are stepping up their admission requirement to cope with the situation.

On the other hand with vocational training the key to plenty of good job opportunities awaiting teen agers who are not headed for college, measures to provide the necessary training for them must be and are being emphasized.

In fact, some educators feel that the time has come when more thoughtful counsel for students, plus the necessary amplification of facilities for vocational treatment, would work more fruitfully in their interest and that of the nation as well.

In many instances business and industry are coming to the aid of high schools as well as colleges, in this area of specialized and technical training.

Of great significance here —as well as to elementary education — are the provisions for financial assistance in the historic education bill passed by Congress and signed by the President.

Increasing attention to this phase of high school education is considered important to solving the "drop out" problem. The potentials of more than 700,000 teen agers a year, it is estimated, are lost because that many leave high school for lack of interest, or for financial reasons.

Programs including part time on-the-job training, put in effect with cooperation of business, have proven very effective here.

Meanwhile, as in all other areas of education, the secondary schools are beset by a shortage of qualified teachers and also by a shortage of class rooms.

Spreading use of electric devices such as closed circuit television, educational TV, movies, projectors and tape recorders will no doubt be noticeable everywhere in high schools as devices for carrying the skills of master teachers to more students.

Ready Advisor Says 'Thanks' For Contest

Sister Anthony Marie, the journalism instructor at Bishop Ready High School, sent in this note:

"Your contest for high school journalism students is good news, indeed! Ready High and its paper, 'Excalibur,' are happy to participate.

"We look forward to the results and especially to the special section "Tales Out of Schools" in the Feb. 24 Spectator. We thank you sincerely for your interest in the future of your profession and for inviting us to participate."

'Bobcat' Editor Gives Her Views Of Paper

(Editor's Note: Jane Henry, editor of the Grandview "Bobcat," won first place in the human interest category this year. She takes a minute here to explain her views on editing a high school newspaper):

As editor of the Grandview "Bobcat," I have made it my personal responsibility to inject readability into our newspaper by spicing the routine staff-written news with my own articles emphasizing the too-often ignored wholesome activities of my schoolmates.

Often, we high school journalists tend to harp constantly on the faults of teenagers, overlooking the wealth of good they do for the benefit of our community, as well as for the enrichment of their own lives.

Some of the admirable traits I have attempted to forward in the BOBCAT are:

(1) Personal initiative.

(2) Participation in overlooked activities.

(3) Unusual, overlooked talents.

I have also attempted to project the personality of the teen newsmakers and therefore giving readability (humor interest) to the "Bobcat."

Don't Say It . . .

Spirit, spirit, spirit—don't say that word again. Ready is pounding it into the ground.

Rest assured; we've got it. You saw it in the Halloween dance, the Senior Class Play, the Christmas ball; the skating party; Freshman, Sophomore, Junior and Senior Nights. You'll see it in the Prom preparations. You see it at every game in the "Battle Cry" cheer.

Notice anything? Each class goes all out to support its OWN activities. There's nothing wrong with class-competition. But the problem is not competition, it is indifference to the interests of another class.

There were fewer than 20 seniors at the Freshman-sponsored skating party. Yet the seniors were disappointed at their class play turnout.

The Mardi Gras is coming up. This provides one of the school's largest incomes. It will benefit each class, and classes to come.

How about some SCHOOL cooperation for a change? —Reprinted from the Ready High School "Excalibur."

SPEED, GRACE CAPTURED IN THIS PHOTO

THE BEAUTY of track has, for many years, attracted photographers who have tried to capture those qualities on film. The Spectator's first-place photography winner William Rosser of Academy does an excellent job here. "I noticed the start of this runner in a previous event and was determined to capture his gracefulness and determination," Rosser said. He used Tri-X film, 1/500, f/8.

Dance-O-Rama Is 'In' Program For Young

It seems "DANCE-O-RAMA," in color on TV-4 Saturday at 11 a.m., is fast becoming the "in" program for the younger set to view in the Columbus area.

The appearance of The Outsiders, an up-and-coming young group from Cleveland, Ohio, on the Feb. 12 colorcast offers a prime indication of the popularity of the local program.

One-and-a-half hours after the four had presented their new hit disc, "Time Won't Let Me," on the show, all of the local record shops had sold out of the recording, and are still having a difficult time keeping up with the orders.

The easy good humor and honest interest of host Jerry Rasor and his attractive gal Friday, Becky Alkire, put both studio audience and home viewers immediately at ease.

The added attraction of good music, featuring current top recordings, guest artists, and interesting contests has a great deal to do with the success of the colorcast.

A pantomime contest, open to all teenagers in the TV-4 viewing area, is the newest "DANCE-O-RAMA" feature.

Contestants are asked to submit their names, addresses and phone numbers, with the name of the song they plan to pantomime.

Eight finalists will be selected from the entries judged on the basis of originality, stage presence and performance.

The deadline for entering the contest will be midnight, Feb. 23.

One finalist a week will be scheduled for a "DANCE-O-RAMA" appearance, beginning Saturday, Mar. 5.

Midnight, Apr. 26, will be the deadline for voting.

In case of a tie, the contestants will be asked to return for a second appearance, and a final vote from viewers will be tabulated to determine the winner.

About 270 to 280 ticket requests per week pour into the "DANCE-O-RAMA" office.

Only 70 of these requests can be honored each week, so those desiring tickets are asked to select an alternate date for their studio appearance.

Today's Teens Are Not 'Spineless' . . .

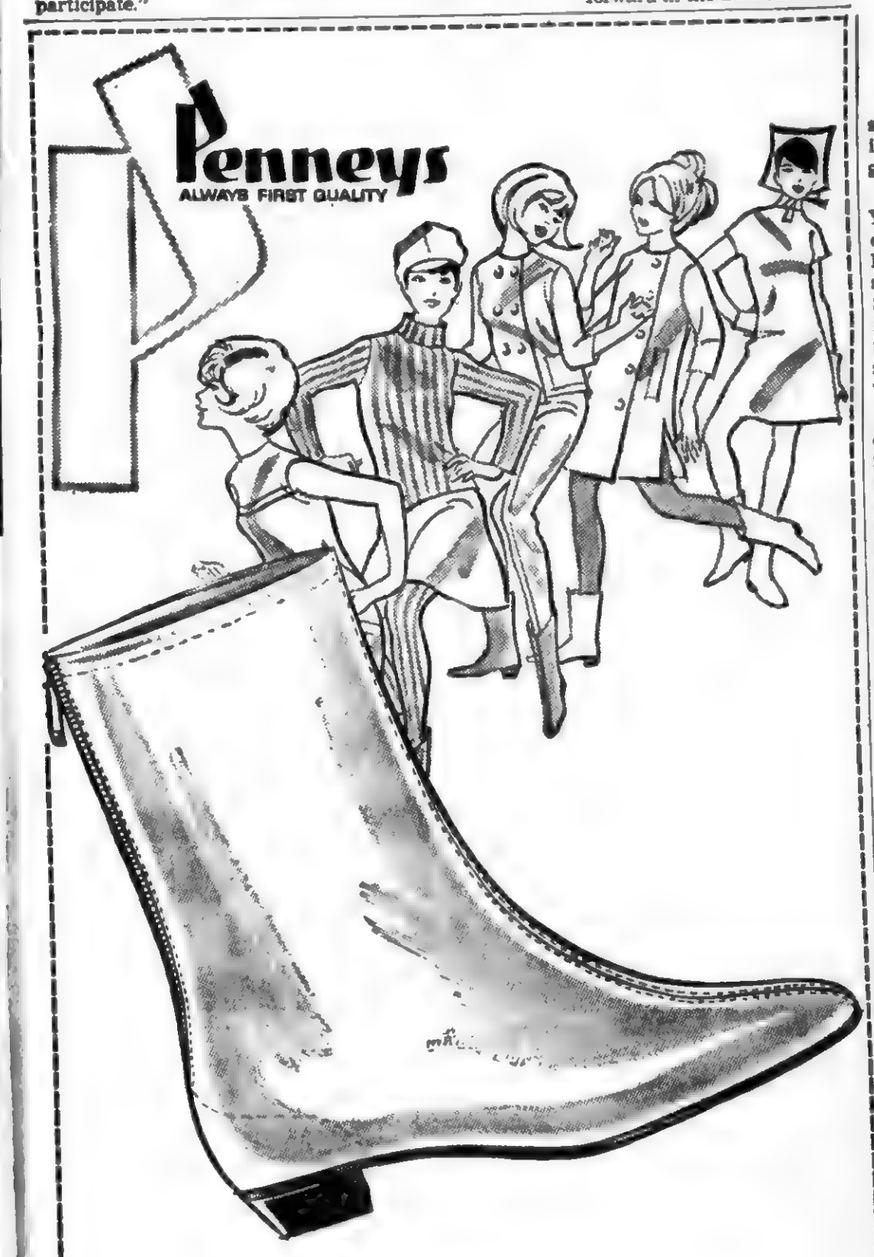
Who is the shaggy-haired boy with the tight pants? And who is that straight-haired girl with the short skirt? Are these tomorrow's leaders? Will they strengthen America? Many adults ask themselves this question each day. They wonder what will happen to this great United States since they leave this earth.

The young people of this time are not the spineless, unimaginative freaks that many fear they are. They have courage and strength to stand and fight for the country in which they were reared.

The people of this generation have goals and ambitions like their fathers before them. They, too, wish to prosper and retain their family heritage in this free land. Yes, these young people must be given great consideration before one may make a derogatory remark about them.

These people will some day grow to be the leaders of the nation. And when they lead our country to further improvement and prosperity, they will truly have been the wronged generation. — Mike Tharp, Upper Arlington High School.

Teens Must Pick Role



If all the world's a stage, and people merely players, teenagers must now decide what part to assume in life, an active or passive role.

Too often, however, teenagers go to extremes and lose sight of the goals of being individualistic. Rebellion, not individualism, is the goal of the more extreme nonconformists. Moreover, it seems that non-conformity has now become conformity.

To assume an active role in life requires individualism. Individualism, however does not imply radicalism. Rather, intelligence and rational thinking should be the foundation of being individualistic. Prudence and respect are today non-conformity!

Individualism is a fine thing, extremism is not.

Whetstone Wrestlers May Be Dark Horses

(JUDGES' CRITIQUE: Ken, a reporter for the Whetstone "Scout," specializes in sports stories. His recap of the recent Brookhaven Invitational wrestling meet is a fine example of his work. In writing this article, he was faced with a difficult task familiar to high school sports scribes. That is, he was covering an event in which his school did not fair well. He handled the assignment with a high-degree of prowess and resisted the urge to use slang words so often familiar in the writings of fledgling sports reporters.)

Whetstone High School

The Whetstone Braves' wrestling team invaded the Brookhaven Invitational Wrestling Tournament recently, only to be beaten back by seven of the area's top wrestling teams.

KEN MARSHALL

The honors in the tournament were sought by more than 80 participating wrestlers representing DeSales, East, Ohio State School for the Blind, Brookhaven, Walnut Ridge, Groveport, Westerville and Whetstone.

The strong East Tigers wrested team honors with 79 points, swamping all competitors. Second place Groveport accumulated 55 points.

Although the Braves' action at Brookhaven seemed anything but spectacular, Whetstone will reach its peak performance in time for the City Wrestling Tournament and the Sectional Tournament, later this month.

Whetstone's sophomore wrestlers, most with little wrestling experience, are now gaining the confidence they need to make a bid for the City League crown. Their performances at Brookhaven show they are gaining stride and momentum.

Three sophomores and two juniors drew first blood for Whetstone with early wins. During further tournament action, two of these early winners were eliminated, only to be replaced by teammates who came back from the losers' brackets.

Captain Sam Graham, after registering a loss in the opening round, fought back to place third for Whetstone in the 106 lb. weight class.

Sophomore Doug Johnson, 115 lbs., garnered an early win only to narrowly lose to National Blind School champion Charles Bartee of OSSB. Johnson also managed to place third for Whetstone, registering three wins to a single loss.

Bartee was to be voted the meet's outstanding wrestler by 37 of the participating coaches.

Junior Mart MacLaughlin worked his way to capture fourth place, losing to a strong wrestler from the Blind School in overtime (2-0). He will seek the city championship at 123 lbs.

Sophomore Kester Rinehart bulled his way past Brookhaven's heavyweight wrestler, 10-8 in overtime, for Whetstone's first win at heavyweight in two years.

Rinehart lost to East's heavyweight, 9-7, in overtime, but pulled down fourth place for Whetstone, narrowly losing to Walnut Ridge in the consolation round.

The Brave grapplers travel to South High, Feb. 18 and 19, to launch their assault on the City League crown.

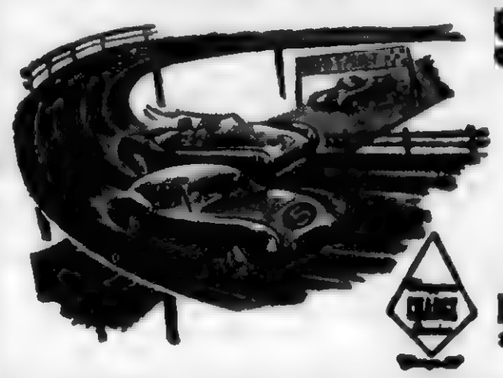
Alcohol: Poor Social Medicine

By SILVANA CAMBONI
Whetstone High School

(Honorable Mention: Editorial Class)

An ounce or two of alcohol can certainly make you feel at ease at a party. It's amazing how a drink can relieve your shyness and make things seem easier for you.

Suddenly, a dull party may seem like a "blast." Has alcohol eliminated your self-consciousness? Has the party become gayer, or has drinking caused your standards of what is fun to drop sharply?



Look at yourself. A drink hasn't turned you into a fluent speaker; it merely makes you believe that your silly remarks, which you wouldn't normally make, are brilliant.

Your friends, however, aren't likely to share your opinion. They may see a silly person who thinks he's cute because he's had too much to drink. You laugh too easily, your hair is sticking, your eyes are glassy, and all in all, you're a pretty unattractive sight.

Alcohol has helped you to make a complete fool out of yourself, although you hoped it would make you suave. Drinking certainly isn't a tonic for social uneasiness.

Self-consciousness is only a normal part of growing up. Only by facing social maturity without artificial aid can a person positively learn the kind of behavior people call "poised."

Will City National loan a high school senior $425 to buy the rest of a car?

Yep—that's why we're the LOANINGest Bank in Town.

A set of wheels in high school is almost as important as owning a guitar and amplifier. As the Loaningest Bank in Town, we've helped buy lots of them. And you don't have to be a senior. We have nothing against being a junior.

Actually, by law, we can make a loan to minors only when an adult signs with them.

But, it's done. Frequently.

That $425 "set of wheels" loan can be paid off for about $15 a month. Some parents find it a great way to teach economics.

So if you're looking at the rest of a car, see the Loaningest Bank in Town. Might help in getting some extra things done around the house.

Come One, Come All

Presentation of an American flag which has flown over the nation's capital will be accepted by Bobby Glick Ashville postmaster, when the village's new Post Office is dedicated at ceremonies beginning at 2 p.m. this Sunday. The program, a joint effort of chairman Frank Hudson of the Ashville Kiwanis, Steve Cook of the Ashville Community Club and Mrs. James Irwin of the Women's Civic Club, will be preceded by a concert by the Teays Valley High School Band. There will be an introduction by Gene Toska emcee, a welcoming speech by Mayor Charles Morrison, and a flag raising by the color guard of the local VFW. Scout groups will sing "The Star Spangled Banner." Representative Roy Hufford and postal officials will speak. Under the direction of Mrs. Selma Gardner and Mrs. Lowell Cooper, refreshments, provided by Civic Club members and wives of the Kiwanis and Community Clubs, will be served.

Just Call Him 'Chief'

Canal Winchester's Police Department will soon boast two full-time men. Kenneth Griffith, now a part-time employe will be named "Chief" as soon as proper legislation is passed this week. Harvey Simons, present police officer, will serve with him. Revised specifications for the proposed municipal garage were okayed and bids will be opened Mar. 31. Action was taken to employ John Kalnins to paint and panel the old former Huntington Bank Building now occupied by the village to ready it for use as a municipal building. Further improvements are planned later.

Alderson Hearing Set

The annexation petition filed with the County Commissioners by Ed Dawson recently may be the forerunner of the squaring-off of Lockbourne Industrial Park. Dawson's request for 4.83 acres of land to become part of Columbus was made as agent of Lonnie and Helen Alderson, 1000 Lockbourne-rd. Their home and surrounding property is an "island" created when the Industrial Park was annexed to the city several years ago and the Aldersons preferred to remain within Hamilton Township. If the application is granted at the hearing slated for May 18, only one other island will exist in the industrial site bound by Lockbourne-rd, Williams and Obetz-rds and the C and O RR tracks. That is the area occupied by the Hamilton Township Fire Department and the lot to the east.

Head-In Parking Out?

Revival of plans by Canal Winchester council to ban angle parking on the east side of High-st has brought a howl of protest from the merchants of the downtown area. An open letter, written by Don Gilcrist, owner of the Canal View Pharmacy, and signed by 16 other business men has been addressed to Mayor Mike Miller and members of the village council. Expressing "deep concern" over the proposed change the letter states that consideration should be given to "our patrons and neighbors" and "your friends and supporters" and condemns changing an "existing and successful" parking pattern. The merchants believe that about one-third of available parking between the old traction line and a point just north of the post office would be sacrificed if lateral parking were introduced, and potential customers lost to shopping centers.

Hamilton's Money Tree

Hamilton Local School District is again ready to tap the federal till to the tune of almost $30,000 for the benefit of its students. Superintendent D'Alan Huff readied proposals last week which will allow the district to employ three reading specialists at a cost of $22,000 under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act and provided under Title II and additional $7,200 in books for four libraries. He explained Obetz Elementary Library is first in line for the books as that library is below the standards of the other schools. The junior and senior high students will share the services of one reading instructor while the other two will divide their time among the three elementaries.

You'll See Us Earlier

Publisher Robert Burdock announced that beginning next week, Mar. 9, The Spectator will begin publication every Wednesday. All eight of the community papers have been published each Thursday. Copy deadlines from outside contributors and correspondents have been moved back to 9 a.m. Monday morning. All photographs must be received by noon on Saturday.

It's A Folksy Thing

The Groveport Folk Music Club is holding a "concert" at the St. Marys Church in Groveport at 8 p.m. this Saturday. But Steve Kalhes, its director, warns not to let the name fool you. It is really just a good old hootenanny, and school-age groups are asked to come, ready and set to join.

Mayor Baer Parks That Badge

Evidently keeping its fingers crossed that former Mayor Bill Minor was "talking through his hat" and denying any intention of turning the village into a speed trap, Groveport Council hired Albert Whipple as a full-time marshal this week.

Minor warned that the police department which is "without visible means of support" may run into trouble if it tries to be self-sustaining.

An "old bone" was dug up when Jim Long, local businessman and builder again requested that Hanstein-pl, a street in Hanstein addition which he developed, be paved.

Leveling charges of "misfeasance and malfeasance and discrimination," at council in general (which has not formally accepted the street) and Frank Smith in particular (who moved to table the matter of its acceptance over four years ago and refuses to bring it back to the floor) Young stated he will resort to the courts if necessary.

Apparently because of the insistence of Smith and Mickey McGuire, the council directed the solicitor, James Thompson, to research the matter. (Other council members seemed to believe the street was village responsibility and the money spent on attorney fees would only serve to prove this.)

Young met a more cooperative attitude in the matter of a request for water mains to be extended to the Big City Garden Center. He stated that he intends to break ground for a proposed shopping center just north of the site, but will not bear the expense of running the lines across the village's water plant property to the south.

Mayor Bob Baer indicated an amicable solution is possible but believes it's of prime importance to obtain from the village's consulting en-

Bishop Says Religion Is Lacking

EIGHTH IN A SERIES

A Columbus religious leader claims that this city has the greatest need for missionary work of any place in the world and he says it's about time somebody told the people that so they can wake up.

Protestant Bishop Herman Hartwell, 82, 282 S. Princeton-av, says that Columbus residents are "bad . . very bad" about going to church. "Most of the people here," he continued, "neglect God entirely."

Bishop Hartwell said he heard the same opinion voiced by church leaders ten years ago at an Ohio Pastors' Convention, but nothing has ever been done to correct the situation.

The Bishop is doing something about it. He's taking his ministry to the people on the streets of Columbus. He's setting up a sort of mobile pulpit down town and in city prison to "bring God to the people."

He hopes to eventually get the display in a grocery cart so that he can move it up and down N. High-st. He usually asks people on the street if they've prayed today and then invites them to do so.

"There are too many Sunday morning church-goers in this city who forget religion the rest of the week," the Bishop commented.

A pastor at the Family Altar League Missionary Church, 842 Sullivant-av, the Bishop received his title in 1923. He's lived in Columbus some 78 years and is an active member of the West Side Ministerial Association.

Being a former member of the Ohio Probation and Parole Association and having done ministry work at the Columbus Workhouse, the Bishop naturally feels that prisons are the best places to spread his messages.

He tries to set up his dis-

Michael V. DiSalle Joins Washington Law Firm

Former Ohio Governor Michael V. DiSalle will become a partner in the Washington, D.C., law firm with which he has been associated, it was learned this week.

The firm, formerly Chapman and Friedman, will be known as Chapman, DiSalle and Friedman.

Other partners are Oscar Chapman, former Secretary of the Interior under President Harry S. Truman, and Martin L. Friedman, another close associate of the former president. Chapman also served as chairman of President Johnson's Citizens Committee before the 1960 National Democratic Convention.

DiSalle, who maintains his home on McNaughten-rd, here, will continue his association with the local firm of DiSalle, Adams and Williams. The former governor will no longer be a regular editorial page columnist for The Spectator Newspapers, but is expected to contribute an occasional "guest" column when his time permits.

DiSalle is chairman of the board of Ohio Radio Corp. which owns The Spectator Printing and Publishing Co. in addition to a number of radio stations and cable television operations.

Besides these and other business ventures, DiSalle is author of a current book on capital punishment, "The Power of Life and Death," and another book to be published this spring titled "Second Choice," dealing with American vice-presidents.

Spectator Joins Dynamic Duo In Fight Against 'Bleacher'

GOTHAM CITY (Special) -- There was a great sigh of relief here last night when Batman and Robin received word that the Columbus, O., Spectator would join the dynamic duo in their fight against crime.

Batman immediately designated The Spectator the official Batman newspaper and urged the citizens of greater Columbus to rally in the cause of freedom.

Target of the current campaign is a criminal called the "Bleacher" who drained all of the color out of the suits of Batman and the Boy Wonder.

A picture of the fearless pair appears inside this issue. Children of all ages are urged to color in the uniforms. There's be a new contest each of the five weeks in March.

Everyone entering must submit a subscription coupon which automatically entitles him to a 45 rpm record of the "Batman Theme" which will be delivered -- in person -- by a Batman representative dressed in authentic costume.

The winner of each week's contest will get a long-playing album featuring the "Batman Theme" and other great Bat tunes.

Names of all entries will be printed each week in the special Batman Honor Roll so that crime-fighters throughout the world will see the support the dynamic duo is getting in the greater Columbus area.

Adelaide's Job "Shines"

"Why it's the 'natural' thing to choose!"

"Nothing breathes like it, shines like it or flexes like it."

Adelaide (Mrs. Marvin Mentser) was talking about leather — "naturally." She's been talking "leather" all over Columbus for the past several months since she took over her new job as Columbus representative for the Leather Industry of America.

In fact Lazarus Downtown is sponsoring "Leather Week," Mar. 13 through 19 when leathers — primarily in shoes and accessories — will be featured.

Mrs. Mentser, a graduate of the Laboratory Institute of Merchandising, New York, formerly modeled in the Tall Girl Fashion shows. She also was a comparison shopper in New York City before her marriage.

MRS. MARVIN MENTSER

Returning to Columbus, to marriage and mothering identical twins, Barry and Garry, aged six-and-one-half years, the lure of the fashion industry was too much to keep her at home full-time.

So it's back to work for Adelaide—at least part-time. Her new job may take her out of the leather business, too once in awhile . . . for it also includes accounts with other fashion industries.

But one thing is sure. She's sold on leather. Other materials, she believes, won't wear as long, shine as well "and besides, they're hot," she exclaimed.

ConventionTo StartMarch 17

"Oh Come, Let Us Sing Unto the Lord" is the theme of the 50th Anniversary Convention of the Ohio Federation of Music Clubs which convenes at the Neil House Thursday to Saturday, Mar. 17-19. Miss Mary G. Heininger of Marion is president. Mrs. Harry A. Combs is general chairman of the convention, and Mrs. Elmer Keller is program chairman.

Official hostesses are the Women's Music Club and the Saturday Music Club of Columbus.

The convention will feature a gala birthday luncheon Thursday, Mar. 17, with Mrs. Clifton J. Muir, president of the National Federation as speaker. There will be workshops, panel discussions, concerts by local artists as well as groups from Otterbein College, OSU, Capital, Dennison, Wittenberg and Ohio Wesleyan Universities; performances of compositions by composers who have won state and national awards in composition from the Federation; and a Choral Festival with a massed choir under the direction of the eminent composer and conductor, Dr. Noble Cain.

Dr. Cain will also be the main speaker at the Golden Melody Banquet on Friday evening. His subject will be "Let Not Your Song End." Following this Mr. Joseph Fennimore will give the principal concert of the convention. He is the 1965 Young Artist Auditions winner of the National Federation of Music Clubs.

Saturday the second annual State Junior Convention will be held with a panel on Careers in Music; a Junior Honors program honoring Junior Festival, Composition and Scholarship winners; an organ demonstration by Dr. Wilbur Held and a Crusade for Strings demonstration featuring a massed orchestra of junior musicians from around the state under the direction of Dr. N. L. Burkhalter.

WED 50 YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Frazee, 2273 Lawndale-av, observed their Golden Wedding Anniversary Sunday, Feb. 27, with a family dinner at Aunt Nettie's Party House.

The couple greeted friends and relatives at Hope Evangelical United Brethren Church from 2 to 5 p.m. that day.

Married on Feb. 26, 1916, in Athens, O., the couple formerly resided in Jacksonville, O.

They are the parents of five sons and three daughters: Charles, James, Melvin, Jack and Richard, and Mrs. Russell (Laura) McCance, Mrs. Edward (Grace) Barnett, all of Columbus; and Mrs. Herbert (Naydeen) Kinion, Monmouth, Iowa.

The couple have 22 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Spoke On Kitchens

Mrs. Shirley Myer, associate of the design department, Ernest G. Fritsche and Co., spoke at the February meeting of the "Women in Construction" group at the Arlington Arms.

A specialist in kitchen design, she talked on "Kitchen Design for Family-Centered Living."

MRS. WALTER DENNEY was installed as president of the Franklin County Democratic Women's Club recently. Seen from left are: Mrs. William L. Simon, treasurer; Mrs. Denney, Mrs. Carl Noble, corresponding secretary. Other officers are Mrs. R. D. Post, first vice-president; Mrs. S. M. Burke, recording secretary; Mrs. Emma Showmaker, financial secretary and Mrs. Max Newhouse, parliamentarian. The club meets monthly every second Monday in the Southern Hotel at 8 p.m. (Foto by Firestone).

LET'S KNIT . . . A RAGLAN SWEATER

By The Spectator's URSULA duBOIS

It can be fashioned at little cost.

Finishing is practically eliminated as there are no sideseams to sew and no sleeves to set in since the garment is knitted in one piece.

URSULA

The front facing is worked in a seed stitch which gives the garment a novelty look.

Also included in the pattern are more than 20 illustrated embroidery stitches in case you wish to further embellish this easy to knit sweater.

We used a worsted yarn, but of course there are many unusual yarns which will lend themselves beautifully to this one needle garment.

Instructions come in sizes 12 through 22. All sizes are included on one pattern.

This sweater is pattern No. 73. If you wish to obtain it, send 50 cents in coin, check or money order to:

Send 15 cents extra for first-class mail and special handling.

THEIR DAY IN COURT

These photographs depict the tense courtroom drama played out recently in Columbus City Council chambers when students from Columbus Business University took over for a day.

The students, largely political science majors of Leo Savage, chose sides and debated the issue of Capital Punishment in a mock Ohio Supreme Court hearing.

In all, 77 students took part in this first-ever endeavor of the business university. Instructor Savage says that the students spent four weeks preparing for the event.

Many times the arguments were heated. They all parted friends, however, after each had his day in court.

Probe Generates Varied Reactions

Recently The Spectator investigated the problem of classroom violence in Franklin County. Teachers and top administrators reacted with opposing views. Administrators termed the problem "isolated."

Several teachers disagreed.

Last week, The Spectator received comments.

Richard C. Sensenbrenner, executive assistant to the mayor, said, "Classroom violence needs immediate attention . . . we are making our pledge of cooperation known to school administrators, educators, the PTA and teacher groups, who might act now through their various responsibilities to cope with a serious situation."

He said efforts in this direction are not to indicate that his position is to be a political platform. Rather, he said The Spectator report "forecloses the need to debate the EXISTENCE of school violence; and safety in the school . . ."

Mrs. H. S. Hill, 1361 Francisco-rd, posed several questions on the "other side of the coin." Students have ceased to be individuals, she said. Schools have become educational machines, grinding out students on the assembly line. "Can we expect courtesy and respect from the ones who are denied this common, decent quality day after day?"

"Originality, imaginative creations and questions are not encouraged but conformity is stressed," she said.

H. M. Shawen, a retired engraver, living at 503 Southwood-av, plans to approach the local teachers' association to get permission for "teachers in the classroom to be the bosses." He calls for the Board of Education, the courts and parents of students to "give elders the power to rule the kids and not allow the kids to rule the elders — the way it is now."

He said several persons have expressed interest in forming a group to promote these ideas. "Soon I'm going to go to neighborhood PTA's and see what cooperation I get," he said. "There has to be jurisdiction over the kids in the classrooms."

NOW THERE'S SOMETHING TO PANIC ABOUT!

Good Neighbors

There have been numerous reports about alarm being raised in Columbus neighborhoods because a property owner is about to sell his home to a Negro family.

Fearful of declining property values, many neighbors protest and a completely unnecessary unpleasantness develops.

We recall one incident some years ago in which a Negro family moved in and almost instant alarm resulted. But calmer heads prevailed.

A little investigation proved the family concerned was a fine couple and when they moved into their own quarters they were welcomed like anyone else. They have since proved good neighbors. Property values did not go down. No one panicked and the situation has remained as before.

It's easy to understand the concern of a family whose home investment represents a substantial portion of their total wealth.

But the fact remains it is the panic of white residents and not that of the occasional non-white neighbor who moves in which causes trouble.

Rule one in such a situation should be that everyone involved remain calm and the new neighbors welcomed as any other neighbor would be.

The Handwriting

Civic leaders in this city are working diligently to rebuild downtown Columbus . . . to centralize major Franklin County activity around Broad and High . . . to form a heart of a kind.

The idea is certainly commendable but recent events in New York City could prompt second thoughts on the idea.

Remember that old Bible story about the handwriting on the wall?

Maybe there was a little handwriting on the wall when in the eastern states the lights went ka-fluey and no one could figure out why.

Then along comes the subway strike in New York City and traffic jammed the streets. Maybe that handwriting on the wall is saying "Decentralize, decentralize."

Wonder what would happen if the filling station operators got together and struck at the same time the subway workers struck?

One Of Those Songs

By The Spectator's
TED BEARDSHEAR

Ever have a tune bug you? Ever had one rolling around inside so that you catch yourself humming it when you're busy doing something else?

There's one out now that goes: Eng-a-land swing like a pendulum do. Bobbies on bicycles two by two. Westminster Abbey, The Tower, Big Ben . . . the rosy red cheeks of the little chil-dren.

That simple lyric and its accompanying tune have been haunting me for days. In the morning during the first cup of coffee, I find myself singing it.

And for the life of me, I can't figure out why I like it. Eng-a-land don't swing like a pendulum do. Eng-a-land is a nation that is noted more for its contribution to colonialism than for "swing." I've never thought of it "swinging" . . . much less like a pendulum. And then how do pendulums really swing? They go back and forth in a little arc . . . they don't really do much. They just go back and forth. Sort of dull.

So if Eng-a-land swing like a pendulum do, is the assumption then that Eng-a-land is a swinging country in the sense of "jumping" or in a sense of just kind of staid and dull?

It's a puzzle. And then there is the bit about the Bobbies on bicycles two by two. I've always thought of Bobbies as being foot patrolmen . . . but then, never having been to Eng-a-land, who knows? The two by two gig sort of makes it sound like an outing on a tandem.

Westminster Abbey, The Tower, Big Ben are landmarks. All these dusty historical places call to mind anything but a swinger. And what in heaven's name do the rosy red cheeks of the little children have to do with anything?

So here we have a conglomeration of words strung together with a catchy tune and what happens? Like an idiot, a grown man goes around humming and singing it.

It's downright humiliating not to be able to shake it. Reminds me of a poem once that got me the same way.

It starts, 'Twas brillig . . .

"To Begin, Students, The Ruling Party Is Divided Into The Viet-Dems And The Viet-Damns"

One Man's Opinion

By The Spectator's
JACK WITTENMEIER

What's A Mom To Do?

It's often easy for us 1966 adults to shake our heads when we hear of or encounter another teenage transgression.

How often have you said, "Kids weren't like that when I was younger?"

It's easy to condemn—especially from that fortified, impregnable castle we call adulthood.

But are the "kids" really guilty?

A teacher bemoans passive parents who ignore notes warning Johnny or Mary will flunk if an immediate about face isn't started.

A policeman working at a large downtown department store questions the justice and example that sends a shabbily - clothed youngster off to Juvenile Court for swiping a pair of gloves and releases a well-to-do woman who has "accidentally" charged $500 worth of merchandise on someone else's charge-a-plate on the written promise "never to do it again."

It was Christ who charged those eager to punish to let fly with the first stone — if they were sinless.

There's a popular TV mother who throws her hands up in frustration and queries, "What's a mother to do?"

Those Moms who have clamped down on more teeth-brushing have more than slightly missed the boat.

Sometimes we fear this generation will become most famous not only for getting to the Moon — but for colonizing it with psychotics.

Action Speaks Louder

It is to the credit not only of the three newly-elected Democratic council men, but to the holdovers as well, that the important business of the public is now being attended to with dignity, instead of the loud-mouthed political brawling which typified last year's council.

In two months, the now Democratic-controlled council has delivered on several major campaign promises, something noteworthy in itself.

The vital sewer capital improvements program has been assured of adequate financing, a matter which the previous council booted into a political football.

The routing of the Olentangy Freeway has been resolved, as far as council itself is concerned. Opponents of the route have forced a referendum in May, but council acted as a responsible legislative body should.

Council sessions are not only quieter and more productive now, but they are better organized and shorter, much of the credit for which goes to City Clerk John T. Gordon and his staff.

Columbus is a growing city. It's encouraging to see its city council growing up with it.

Girl Scout Week

Some of the innumerable "Days" and "Weeks" which we are supposed to celebrate each year in this country are without any notable significance and importance.

Some are unconsciously silly. Some are highly specialized and are of interest only to a few.

But, there are some which have earned and which deserve the recognition and support of us all. One of these is Girl Scout Week which is to be observed this year Mar. 6-12.

The Week's stated purpose is: "To celebrate the birthday of Girl Scouting in the United States." That birthday took place on Mar. 12, 1912, in Savannah, Ga.

This is the enemy of delinquency and the firm friend of the moral standards which are the real strength of any nation and its citizens.

Let all salute them during the forthcoming Week—and, let all help their cause in any way he can.

OUR MAN IN WASHINGTON: Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON — Confounding the prophets and making hash of some of their tidiest theories is the revolution in Asia's third largest country. What has happened in Indonesia casts a long shadow of doubt on the domino theory that is a mainstay of the Rusk doctrine.

CHILDS

Six months ago the professional China watchers had written off Indonesia. The Chinese Reds had all but consolidated their power over this nation of 105,000,000 people. But a coup meant to eliminate the army generals, the last obstacle, brought a violent reaction.

Even in an era marked by one hideous barbarism after another, what followed must be some sort of record. In the space of a few weeks after the Oct. 1 attack on the generals an estimated 100,000 to 150,000 Communists or suspected Communists were hunted down and shot in cold blood. Probably no one will ever know the exact number, particularly since Indonesia is today closed to virtually all outsiders.

Now Radio Jakarta reports the power struggle continuing, with Sukarno firing Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution as Minister of Defense. But whoever wins faces a bankrupt country on the brink of ruin with wild inflation running unchecked. This is the end result of Sukarno's foreign adventurism and the insane arms race that has swamped a desperately poor nation.

What is not realized is the role the Soviet Union played in this arms race. During the past 10 years Moscow has sold Indonesia on credit an estimated $1-billion in arms. That includes complex modern weapons such as MIG-21 planes.

The Russians are reported to have sold India four times as much in arms as the United States, and India faces an economic crisis nearly as grave as that in Indonesia.

Indonesia's external debt is $2.5-billion of which $1-billion is owed to Moscow for arms. The annual value of the country's exports is roughly the amount of the interest due on this debt. That is a measure of the bankruptcy that the dubious victor in the current struggle confronts.

Sukarno, with his posturing and his wild statements, never came to grips with the troubles besetting his country. As has so often been said, it is a rich land but to exploit those riches means disciplined effort directed from the top. That has not been forthcoming.

China's influence has been weakened or eliminated not only in Asia but in several new African nations where Peking by investing men and money thought to gain control. Nationalism is an overriding force working against the domino theory which assumes that Peking or Moscow must take over in neighboring nations if one nation falls.

So, too, are the economic forces that produce runaway inflation, hunger and unrest. These forces are stronger than ideology, and as we are now seeing they can topple the cleverest demagogues.

Letters To The Editor

Slams Medicare

To The Spectator:

A Civil Service Release dated Monday, Jan. 17, 1966, says that civil service employes who retired prior to July 1, 1960, and those collecting Social Security are eligible for both parts of Medicare.

But those who retired after that date, or who do not receive either Social Security or Railroad Retirement benefits, are not eligible for part one (hospitalization). They (may be) eligible for part two (supplementary medical) for $3 per person.

This is rank discrimination for many persons 65 and over who have never worked under Social Security and do not qualify for its benefits. There are thousands who did work for a time under Social Security who have been denied all Social Security benefits and have been denied a refund plus compound interest from date of payments.

Checks The Record

To The Spectator:

Does a review of his official record entitle Governor Rhodes to re-election? As mayor of Columbus, he imposed the city income tax without revealing his intention to the voters before his election.

As state auditor his tenure was the most expensive due to record-breaking high salaries for officials which he continues and encourages as Governor while the rank and file state employes were given a mere pittance of an increase.

As Governor, with the help of deluded taxpayers and a rubber-stamp legislature, he has burdened taxpayers with $1,500,000,000 in bonded indebtedness at the high rate of interest of 50 cents on the dollar.

Profit was never a dirty word in Ohio. Likewise, deception is not a dirty word as most of the communications media assist the Governor's vast publicity staff to lull taxpayers into false security while they are being overwhelmed by debt.

Likes Sun Vali

To The Spectator:

I, for one, was very unhappy with your "Columbus in Crisis" article which pin-pointed Sun Vali (Spectator, Feb. 3-10). I don't feel you should have named any one housing development as you will find dissatisfaction and vacant houses in any division.

I live in Sun Vali and like it. True, I'm not happy with the high water rates and half-day sessions at school . . . nor do I appreciate the people who keep their yards and houses looking like junkyards. But, you show me a place in any town and I'll show you the "bad apples" living there.

I think something ought to be said for the people in Sun Vali who are really trying, instead of having everyone believe that nothing but "irresponsible young couples" live out here.

She Pleads For Unity

To The Spectator:

I believe that God's ultimate goal is for all races, countries, states, religions, classes and parties to work for one cause, that being the betterment of all mankind . . . to make a more relaxing and pleasurable life for all men.

I believe the two parties should combine to make one great party, picking the most qualified men to run and then vote for the man . . . not the party.

Since I don't want people to think I have selfish motives for writing this, don't print my name.

A guide to performers and performances in the Columbus area this week

Poolside Paradise Hosts One-Man Band

Steve Burns, the "One Man Band," is now entertaining nightly at Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge East, 5000 E. Main-st, in their famous Poolside Paradise. A long time favorite of mid-Ohioans, he's making his first appearance at the popular east side Motor Lodge after many engagements throughout the country. Steve has played in Las Vegas, Reno and throughout Florida. A graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music, Burns was featured pianist with Vaughn Monroe Orchestra for five years.

Mighty Oak Beautifies Downtown Scene

I recently spent an enjoyable evening at the Oak Room. This is a major addition to Kuenning's Downtown Restaurant, which opened at 19 N. High-st. It is part of a $250,000 modernization program for this famous dining institution. The Oak Room has a warm, cozy decor, is richly carpeted and features oak paneling and a 45-foot oak bar, one of the longest in the Midwest. A coat of arms behind the bar portrays the British lion, the Scottish unicorn and the Irish harp as well as mottoes and inscriptions dating back to the House of Stuart in 1605.

Another feature is the Oak Room's Beefeater Buffet, from which sandwiches, snacks and short order delicacies are served. The Kuenning's mixologists bring nearly a half century of experience to the Oak Room. There is a very novel approach to entertainment in the Oak Room. Stop in and see for yourself. Proprietor Ralph H. Kuenning, Sr., announced that patrons are offered unlimited parking at no cost during their visit. A uniformed doorman will park and deliver your car, or guests may park themselves at Tower Parking Garage.

Comedy At Red Checker Room

Pat Malone, the smiling Irishman of the Old Tavern Red Checker Room, recently announced the booking of hilarious comedian, Clem Paducah. Doing a Johnny Carson type show, he establishes quite a rapport with his audience. Much of the comedy is achieved by Paducah's conducting humorous interviews. With audience participation, it's a sure bet everybody gets in the act. On the same bill is a real yummy singer, Pauline Paul. She is talented and beautiful. Don't miss her.

Victor Borge At Vets'

Victor Borge, the celebrated concert pianist-comedian, will appear in "Comedy In Music" at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, Mar. 12, at Veterans Memorial. The show also boasts the presence of concert pianist Leonid Hambro, formerly official pianist with the New York Philharmonic, who accompanies Borge in what the press has aptly dubbed "hilarious piano duels." Tickets for the performance are on sale at Central Ticket Office (Richman's), 37 N. High, Sears Northland and Town and Country, and Discount Records, Inc., 1956 N. High-st.

Muggsie's Books Player Piano

Muggsie's, the fun spot on the West Side, just five minutes from Broad and High, has added another new feature. Now, anyone can be a professional pianist when he sits down to the player piano with all of the old favorite songs on the rolls. You'll be surprised how much fun and gaiety abounds when you gather around and join in som good old-fashioned singing.

Johnny Wright, the friendly host of Muggsie's, proclaims the player piano has advantages too. Besides good music and laughter, the player piano serves as a reducing machine. So Johnny invites all of his friends in for song and exercises.

There's A Jinks At The Golden Horseshoe

JUDY JINKS

Dynamite—110 pounds of it — is planted at the Golden Horseshoe. In a shapely package, about 5'2", considered highly explosive only when moving, this material is labeled Judy Jinks, go-go girl supreme. The discotheque dancer is seen nightly at the Golden Horseshoe, beginning at 9 p.m. Having studied dancing, ballet and modern jazz since the age of five, Judy is considered one of the best in the business. She likes being a go-go girl and her dancing proves it. Host Ron Uhl invites everyone to drop by for a real good time. Open from 11 a.m. to 2:30 a.m., the Golden Horseshoe is a guaranteed fun spot.

British Honduras has a population of only 95,000, but resources are so limited one-third of the people must depend on CARE food aid. Contributions to the CARE Food Crusade, Columbus, O., 43215, help make this assistance possible.

Have Comedy Plus Personality

The Colleagues, currently appearing at the Bowery, have a fresh appearance with a fresh approach to music and entertainment. This is an extremely versatile group with a sound somewhere between Ramsey Lewis and Peter Nero. Vocally, they are comparable to the Four Freshmen.

The leader, Jack Smith, has worked with many well-known artists. Their music ranges from commercial jazz to the "old standards." An added attraction of this outfit is their comedy. It is not slapstick, but very funny and often sophisticated material. There is just enough humor included to cause one to "sit on the edge of the seat."

ON 'TELEPHONE HOUR'

BELLRINGER—Robert Merrill, baritone of the Metropolitan Opera, will be a guest artist on the "Bell Telephone Hour" colorcast of the NBC Television Network, Sunday, Mar. 13, 6:30 p.m. when Judi Rolin (left) and Constance Towers will also sing. The show is seen on TV-4

What Makes Go-Go Go?

What is a Go-Go Girl and why the Go-Go fad? This question has been asked of me many times the last few weeks due to the growing trend of this type of entertainment. To describe them in a few words: a Go-Go Girl is one who performs to fast, rhythmic music, gyrating much like a striptease dancer without removing any wearing apparel. The normal costume consists of boots, net hose, with a skin tight outfit that leaves little to the imagination. Go-Go Girls are often referred to as "discotheque" dancers. Discotheque is a French word meaning "record library." As used in our present day language, Discotheque means a night club where one dances to records. Many of the performers dance in cages. Most do not. The reason for the cage is sometimes the dance gets so frenzied, the girls become dizzy and fall off the stage. Hence the cage serves as a protection.

More and more clubs and lounges are booking go-go girls purely because of economics. They draw good crowds, everywhere. Many entertainment spas which previously were dying on the vine with singers and combos now have a shot in the arm with discotheque. Also, a club pays a lot less for go-go entertainers than for musicians. An average piano player appearing in a lounge earns $150 a week. Whereas a discotheque dancer receives $75-85 a week and probably draws more business. Go-go dancers have become popular in Columbus within the past year and a half. However, East and West Coast cities began this type of entertainment two and a half to three years ago. In some of the larger towns, a girl can earn up to $150 a week.

There is no special training needed to break into the business. Most of the girls love to dance and just apply for a job on their own. Seldom are threatrical agents involved. The girls are not required to join a theatrical union as are most professional show people.

How long discotheque dancing will remain a top drawing card is anyone's guess. When rock and roll music first came to our attention via the airways, I personally gave the "fad" one year of success. That was ten years ago. Who knows, discotheque entertainment may become just as great a part of Americana as apple pie and ice cream . . .

LEAGUE TO MEET

Columbus Federation, Child Conservation League's Executive Board will meet Mar. 16, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at Buckeye Federal Savings and Loan, 1330 Morse-rd. All leagues should be represented.

Youth Art Study Planned At OSU

The OSU School of Art will conduct an art course for children starting Apr. 9 and ending June 4.

Classes—in two sessions—will be held on consecutive Saturdays from 9-10:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Any child aged six through 15 can attend, but classes will be grouped according to age.

Feed, Seed And Fertilizer Vietnamese Farmers' Hope

A local survey taken some years ago showed that various FFA farm projects had made capitalists of a lot of boys before they were out of high school.

The idea of mere youngsters owning several thousand dollars worth of stock and farm machinery (with a healthy bank account to boot) raised few eyebrows.

But it is doubtful whether Kenneth Naden could have sold such a story to the farmers he talked with recently.

Most of them had farmed their entire lives without seeing a penny of cash income.

The report he gave would make the poorest "dirt farmer" feel as if he owned Malibar.

In a country where farm labor is either manual or buffalo, where fertilizer (or fresh milk or beef) is unknown, where a middle-class is virtually nonexistent, where the "stock" usually consists of one underfed hog, the farmer considers himself fortunate if he is able to feed himself and his family from the produce of his few hectares of land.

And most of the few who previously had been able to spare a meager surplus for the Saigon market are now cut off by Communists and by war.

However, in spite of the gloomy picture he painted, Naden saw hope for the future of agriculture in Viet Nam.

This hope comes from the farmers themselves.

"These farmers are like farmers all over the world," he stated. "They are eager to learn a better way."

He told of how the few tractors in the country are treasured, how willingly fertilizer programs are adopted and of how quickly a co-op was set up to sell vegetables to a brand new market — the United States Navy.

Recognizing that improving the lot of the Viet Nam farmer is bound to be a "long, hard pull," he sees "feed, seed and fertilizer" as the first step.

But to the entire delegation, that "first step of the long journey" is critical.

They detected the "first faint stirring" of a free economy and in a nation (until recently feudalistic) where 80 percent of the people are farmers, the success of democracy can depend upon the vitality of agriculture.

Communism and full bellies have never proved good bedfellows.

Saturday Night C-W Game Night

Something new has been added in Canal Winchester—Saturday night euchre party.

Sponsored by the American Legion Post, the first will begin at 8 p.m. this Saturday, Mar. 5. Everyone is welcome.

Mayor—

gineers recommendation on the size of the main.

News of another engineering study under way was regarded as a possible "Trojan Horse."

In an effort to reduce costs to the villagers, council had asked the county who owns Groveport's sewer system to make a rate-study. The selection of Burgess and Niple, who regularly does business with the county, gave council less than a rosy-colored view of the chances for rates to be cut.

Another utility problem was met when Paul Bartch and other members of the Board of Public Affairs attributed numerous and expensive plant breakdowns to the employment of unqualified personnel.

As a reesult, salary for the part-time job was boosted to $250 a month and John Wyatt will fill the position.

Thompson reported that the chances for getting the $17,000 once assessed water users for a sewer plant that never materialized, "unfrozen," look slim.

Looking at the fund as a partial answer to its street problems, the council refuses to give up and may even try to get action from the state legislature.

The somewhat controversial Board of Cemetery Trustees was filled out with the appointment of Louis Haines and George Claar to two and four-year terms respectively and the reappointment of Orin Hamler to a six-year term.

Baer also reappointed William McCracken to the Board of Zoning Appeals and named William Hamler to fill the vacancy created by William Leach's resignation.

Other business included okay of a rezoning application by Young for two lots on Elm to allow twin-singles, appointment of Pete Franks to the steering committee of the Little Walnut Water Shed District and directing Thompson to prepare an ordinance requiring registration of "transient peddlers."

CANINE CRIME IN C-W

There's trouble afoot in Canal Winchester.

On four feet—that is.

It has apparently slipped the minds of local residents that man's best friend may have the freedom of the parlor, but not of the streets.

Several mothers whose children have been frightened are up in arms.

One cried "help" to the local authorities and one roving Rover's "mother" is chagrined that her pet now has a police record to carry the rest of his life.

Too bad, Rover.

It won't do you any good to cry "discrimination" and cast an accusing paw at the felines sitting on the back fence.

The law's the law, even though it makes you lead a dog's life.

Night Club In Offing For Village

Groveport may have a supper club before many moons.

Charles H. Burkhart, Columbus realtor, has applied to the Ohio Department of Liquor Control for a D-5 permit to allow the operation of a cocktail lounge at 296 Main-st.

As a preliminary to the hearing on the granting or refusal of the license, the state asked the local council whether it objected to the proposal.

After the vote was split with Mayor Bob Baer breaking the tie, the clerk was instructed to certify that the council did not object.

The dissenting votes came from Frank Smith, Pete Franks and William Boyer. They were apparently based more on the precise location of the club than its coming into the village.

COLUMBUS IN CRISIS—

play in the mornings at city prison and then he moves out on the streets in the afternoons when the offices let out.

"You see the need for religion here every day," he adds. "I sincerely feel that for every missionary we send overseas, we ought to have ten here in Columbus."

Bishop Hartwell was emphatic when he said he was not condemning ministers in this city for the lack of religious interest. But, he went on, "very few ministers here take their message out in the streets.

"They preach for 20-25 minutes 52 times a year. I know what you can do in that amount of time. You surely can't get the gospel to the people the way you should."

The response to the pastor's "on-the-street-church" has been favorable. He says there's only been one woman that laughed at him and when he gave her the book to John to read she stopped laughing and started reading.

And now Bishop Hartwell is facing his biggest challenge. He's making a desperate attempt to get Columbus School Superintendent Harold Eibling to take the Bible to the classroom.

"The average boy or girl in this city doesn't have the opportunity to study the word of God in his home," he says. "We've got to give him that opportunity in our schools."

Will the Columbus School Board accept the proposal?

"I don't know," Bishop Hartwell says. "But, if they don't they'll hear from me. And I can make a lot of noise when I want to . . . even at 82."

If the Colombian town of Alexandria, State of Antioquia, 200 farmers are paid in CARE food gifts while they build farm-to-market roads. The 10-month project "payroll" will total 4,000 CARE Food Crusade packages, subscribed by Americans at a dollar per package.

NOW THEY KNOW

AFTER PLANNING and carrying out a mock wedding and reception, the seniors in the Canal Winchester Home Economics Department learned not only the Emily Post way of doing such things, but the dent dear old Dad can expect in his wallet for this one-in-a-lifetime fling. Sharing the cake decorated by Margaret Lyons, are Janie Martin who played bride, to Linda Schuler's role of bridegroom. The project was supervised by Miss Rita Higgins of the faculty.

Speedster Irks Hamler

The teenage driver who has been regularly using Main-st in Groveport as his favorite speedway is facing the necessity of mending his ways or legal action.

Dick Hamler is glad that he was on the spot this week to pull a five-year-old out of the way of the racing car, but he is plenty upset about the deal.

He has received assurance from local authorities that the next lap through the village will be the preliminary to a longer lap to jail. A description of the car is on file.

Average per capita income in Haiti is $65 per year. For 60,200 hungry Haitians, mostly children, CARE's Food Crusade guarantees one full meal a day. Every dollar sent to CARE, Columbus, O., 43215, gives a Haitian child three months of daily lunches.

T-V, Groveport Alive; C-W Five Eliminated

By BOB WHITMAN

Teays Valley won its first overtime game in three tries this season, and as Viking Coach Russ Gregg put it, "It couldn't have come at a better time."

The 69-63 victory over Whitehall set the Pickway Countians in the quarter-final round of the Central District Class AA Basketball Tournament against smooth Newark (13-6) Monday night at 5.

The other area survivor Groveport (2-15) runs into strong Columbus East, a deceptive 12-5 outfit, Friday night at 6 o'clock.

EAST BUSTED Buckeye Valley 73-52 in the opening round on Gil Mathews' 27 points while Groveport dropped Olentangy 65-45 on John Hilbert's 25 markers.

Teays Valley watched a 19-4 first period lead melt to a slim 33-29 halftime lead Saturday as a sticky Whitehall press caused complications.

"The press hurt us in the first half," Gregg said, "but I feel we made the adjustment and made it hurt them in the second half."

A PAIR OF free throws with 2:04 left in the overtime round by Rod Teets put Teays in the driver's seat 62-61 and they were never headed after that.

"They play about like we do," he added, "and they won't make many mistakes."

CANAL WINCHESTER closed its season with a 13-6 mark following a 79-68 loss to rugged Madison South from Madison County.

South blistered the nets with a 29 of 55 shooting night and grabbed a 48-38 rebound edge in ousting the Indians.

Steve Smith paced Canal with 19 points, Vic Argobright netted 14, Bill Miles and Dick Whitmer had 10 each while usual point ace Jim Burke was held to eight.

Lynn Stoughton's 21 points and Phil Eades' 17 led the 15-4 Lions into the final sectional round against FCL member University.

Winchester coach Bob Miller offered that his group "just couldn't turn off their fast break, and that was the story."

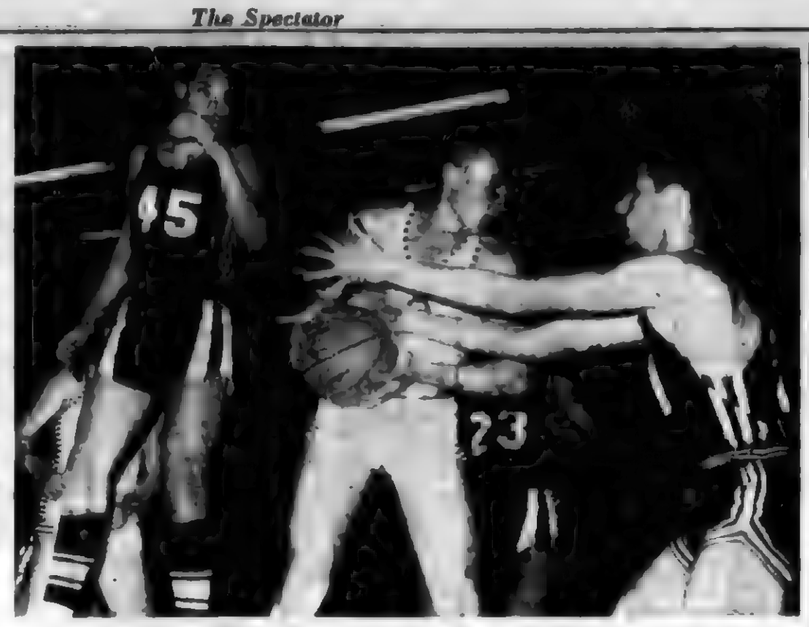
T-V League To Register

Boys 7 - 15 years of age in the Teays Valley School District who are interested in playing baseball this summer are urged to register at the Ashville Elementary school Saturday, at 1 p.m. or 7 p.m.

In order to be eligible a boy must be seven years of age by June 1. He cannot be 16 on or before Aug. 1. If registration forms are not available from your teacher they can be obtained at the time of registration.

Girls 11-15 years of age (both inclusive) who are interested in playing softball this summer are also urged to register at this time.



A registration fee of $3 applies to all participants. This fee covers the cost of insurance and a cap.

Anyone who has uniforms from last year should turn them in at this time. Caps need not be turned in.

Skyhawks TAC Champ

Crafty Harry Gilmore bagged 32 points to spearhead the Lockbourne AFB Skyhawks to the Tactical Air Command cage championship recently at Seymour-Johnson AFB, Goldsboro, N.C.

By JACK WITTENMEIER

Chuck Deyo's City League champion East Tigers and Bob McMahan's Worthington Cardinals climbed into co-favorite roles for tomorrow's District wrestling meet last weekend by qualifying seven individuals each in Sectional competition.

THE DISTRICT battle—a prelim to next weekend's big State Meet at St. John Arena — is scheduled for Walnut Ridge tomorrow evening (7 p.m.) and Saturday afternoon (1 p.m.)

Whitehall, Groveport and Walnut Ridge will carry four qualifiers into the fray tomorrow while Central, Whetstone, Hartley, Watterson and Jonathan Alder have three entries each.

Nine other schools have two candidates and four more qualified one each. Eleven Central District schools failed to qualify.

Also hit were West (Darnell Thomas 17-1-1, and Benny King, City League champ at 154) and Central (Tom Terry, Leonard Smith and Dave Sherman, latter failed to make weight).

Village Store Is Selected Fish Awards Station

Sports Afield magazine has announced the selection of The Village Bait Store, 188 E. Whittier-st, as an official state fishing awards station.

Qualifying anglers who record their catches at the store receive a parchment certificate and a special pin should their catch be found to be "best in Ohio" in its species.

Eligible species and their qualifying weights will be posted in the store. Fishermen may qualify by recording their fish within 30 days of the catch.

There is no charge for registering but fish must be caught on sporting tackle in the state's public waters.

Kegler's Korner

By NORMA KIRKENDALL

It seems 279 is a popular score! Nita Ditrick has now tied this woman's high—as a sub for Amherst Florists in the Clintonville League at Olentangy.

The Secretaries Tournament has now been announced for Apr. 23-24, 30-May 1. Men will bowl at Holiday, women at CCC, May 9-13 at Olentangy and May 16-21 at Hillcrest.

THEN ON May 23-29 the Champ of Champs will see men at Northern Lights and gals at Rainbow.

Have you joined and enjoyed the Saturday "Date Night" bowling at Grove City's Stardust? Walt Buchanan, free lance artist and consistent bowler, says Stardust is one of the friendliest in the area.

Remember—a bowler may not roll the ball both right-handed and lefthanded in the same game or series.

ALSO REMEMBER—you have to bowl to learn to bowl. This shows up when you see lane managers who also bowl well. Remember former Hillcrester Chris Bucci—who rolls consistent 600's?

This keeps popping up—some bowler who does a James Bond — rolls a non-strike and says, "oh, oh, seven!"

There are those who feel the extra exercise at a health club helps their bowling. For instance — we ran into Lee Harlow and Sarah Westlake using the exercycles and "smart belles"—wouldn't call them "dumb" bells for anything!

PROFILE — Columbus' only pro-bowler:

Joe Kistof, age 44, born in Toledo, O., six foot, 173 pounds Pro-shop owner, married to June, three children, started bowling in 1934, has two sanctioned 300 games, bowled in three PBA Tournaments in 1965 with an average of 197.167, earned $250.00 in 1965 PBA Tournaments.

Two ways to look at:

The Stance: A proper stance is essential to effective display of a chic new bowling ensemble. Since bowling centers have been recognized as the showcase for sportswear, nothing must be left to chance, especially the stance.

The Stance: A proper stance is a must in bowling because it incorporates several factors which help the bowler in his approach to the foul line.

For example, the feet. The left foot should be slightly forward and bear most of the weight. Knees slightly bent — the right knee, the left knee, or both.

The ball is held about waist high, and in line with the right shoulder, enabling the bowler to have a straight swing.

MAVERICK

With Muddy Shoes

By RICHARD L. PAUGH

The amazing increase of Ohio's people taking to the woods to eat and sleep under the skies is quite natural. Many of today's adults have pleasant memories of 'back home on the farm' or at least recollections of visits to the homestead of a farm relative.

With the curb-bound, high-pressure living of our space age, the natural release is Ohio's great outdoors.

TO GO TO sleep with a pouch full of beans from a bean-hole and boiled coffee, as the crickets furnish a lullabye and waken with the first calls of a raunchy jay is so darned relaxing, it's almost narcotic.

To sit the morning out, watching a May apple unfurl or trying to count the shiners in a bubbling stream is indeed a noble goal to contemplate.

The preparation for such a vacation is as little or great as you wish to make it. You may spend the entire winter shopping for just the right camp trailer or you may, in half an hour's time, throw your duffle in the trunk of your car and be gone.

THE DEGREE of communion with nature you wish to attain is up to you. No matter what you decide to buy for comfort, you may get solace and solitude as you wish.

The barest necessities at certain times get you closer to nature than the elaborate diggins of the gadget-happy. A sleeping bag, change of clothes and a thermos of soup and coffee are the essentials for a single night out in the forests.

On the other end of the scale are the complete self-contained travel trailers that can put you in touch with any part of the world, self-sufficient from all outside influences.

BETWEEN these two extremes, there are two-man pup tents — back-packable [illegible] erected in minutes, larger, more exotic tents, fold-out trailer-tents, pick-up campers that are complete with stove, refrigerator and sanitary fixin's or self-propelled bus-like mobile homes.

To be quite frank, most families start out with the simple tents and portable stoves, coolers and cots. Families with children seldom start out with less than those meager trappings.

Youngsters need the comfort of a warm meal and protected sleeping quarters. Men on a summer fishing jaunt or early fall hunting trip find lesser accommodations will fill the bill.

WHERE YOU put down also has a lot to do with the equipment needed. I have left camp before dawn with only a sandwich and a thermos of coffee to maintain me until I got back that night, never missing what I didn't take along.

I believe the joy and suspense of the hunt or fishing took my mind clear off my stomach whereas, at home I can't leave a constant snack alone.

In this enlightened day of alert camping dealers, you need not invest in a rig before you buy, they are quite willing to rent you the trailer or tent of your choice. After a trip or two, you will come to understand what your own personal needs are and invest more or less accordingly.

'MAVERICK' WINS IT

SPECTATOR OUTDOOR writer Richard Paugh (left) whose column entitled "Maverick With Muddy Shoes" is a regular feature of this newspaper, was named the Outdoor Writers of Ohio's "Man Of The Year" recently. Paugh is out-going president of the OWO and has been active in promoting high standards of outdoor and travel writing throughout the state. Presenting the award here is Edward Blume who was chairman of this year's awards committee.

AMPUTATION ENDS CAREER BUT . . .

'God Has Reason'–Cap's Click

It's difficult to get into Room 879, University Hospital, because of the many floral arrangements, letters, candy, and fruit arranged around the room.

But once a person gets to the far bed by the window and wades through the visitors surrounding it, he hears and sees a young man with a happy-go-lucky tone of voice and a beaming smile sitting up in bed.

THE YOUNG man is Jerry Click, Capital University freshman quarterback, who recently had his leg amputated after a series of tests revealed that the 19-year-old gridder had a cancerous growth on his leg.

Hundreds of letters and gifts have poured in from well-wishers throughout the state, but the latest morale booster for Click is the "Jerry Click Fund" which has been started by members of the Chimes, Capital's campus newspaper, and Varsity "C" Athletic Honorary.

THE MONEY raised by the fund drive will be given to Click to help meet medical expenses and the expenses involved in buying an artificial leg.

Says Click in referring to the Fund and all of the letters he has received, "I can't express how grateful I am, and how wonderful it is to have so many people behind me. I have received letters from people everywhere—people I don't even know. It really restores a person's faith in humanity."

In expressing his feelings toward the operation, Click said, "This whole thing has made a better man of me, for being in the hospital has made me see that there are persons a lot worse off than I am.

"I KNOW that God has a reason for this even if I can't see it now or may never see it, but there 'is' a reason."

Any persons willing to donate to the fund are invited to do so by sending a check in care of Jerry Click, To The Chimes, Capital University, Columbus, Ohio, 43209.

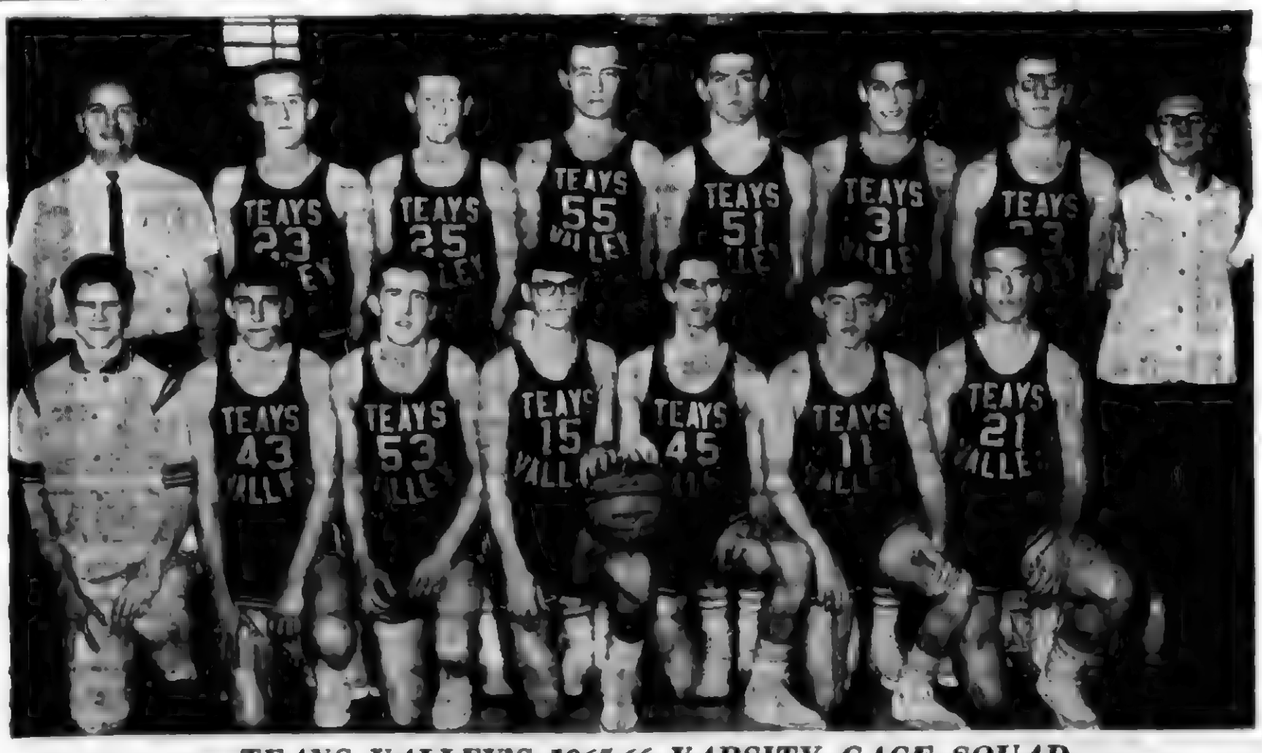
Spectator Balloting Begins For All-Star Mat Squad

Area wrestling coaches will be contacted next week for nominations for the third annual Spectator All-Star Wrestling Team, to be announced later this month.

The Spectator annually pays tribute to area grapplers by naming both a first and second team and announcing a "Coach of the Year" as selected by his fellow mat mentors.

Selection to the team is based on coaches' nominations and a point system which grants a designated amount of points for State and District advancement plus regular season achievement.

Only four first-team repeaters will be possible this year since seven 1965 All-Star wrestlers have since graduated.



First and second team members will receive certificates from The Spectator heralding their selection to the 1966 All-Star squad.

New Sports Deadline

Since your Spectator will be delivered on Wednesday instead of Thursday beginning next week, new sports deadlines will come into effect with next week's edition.

All copy must be received by the sports department no later than Monday noon to be included in that Wednesday's newspaper.

Late information (by telephone) will be accepted up to 5 p.m. Monday.

TEAYS VALLEY'S 1965-66 VARSITY CAGE SQUAD

Din Of Union Station Now No More Than An Echo

THE DIMLY-LIT UNION STATION
. . . Cavernous In Size, But Usually Empty

PLATFORMS ONCE BUSTLED WITH PEOPLE
. . . Freight Is Big Item Now

A Part Of America Is Slipping Away

"The plain fact is" an old timer at Union Station said, "that people aren't riding trains anymore. It's sad but people want to go places faster these days."

He talked and his voice echoed in the cavernous train station. An elementary school class on a tour made the only noise and even they were lost in one corner of the huge and ancient building off N. High-st.

★

The conductor's face reflected years past when everyone rode trains. They rode trains and they wrote songs about trains. "Dinner on the diner, nothing could be finer."

But times change.

Facts Show Columbus Growth Is 'Phenomenal'

Experts Agree: One Bad Spot Shows

In case you haven't noticed, the growth of Columbus and surrounding areas this past year has been phenomenal. Armed with facts and figures to back this spiraling expansion were those in a position to know . . . James Foley, director of Nationwide Development Co., Larry Chambers, executive vice president of Columbus Board of Realtors, Mrs. Rosemary Martin, director of Development, Columbus Chamber of Commerce, William Moore, director of Development Committee of Columbus, and Bud Savage of John W. Galbreath and Co.

They spoke to a group of real estate brokers at Lincoln Lodge recently on the availability of commercial and industrial sites in Columbus and surrounding areas.

The speakers all but beamed as they ticked off recent figures and statistics with all the efficency of a well-oiled computer. The businessmen and other officials were told the "future is a place, not a time." Emphasis was stressed on "planning ahead" for maximum execution of money, ideas and projects.

Bill Moore explained his position as development director this way: "We try to take a long view of the problem. We serve as a sort of 'troubleshooter' for brokers. Seeing that a potential development has adequate parks, utilities, transportation facilities, water supply etc. is our main concern." The committee is sponsored by a non-profit civic organization composed of over 200 businessmen.

Further elaborating on the building boom was Jim Foley, who predicted a potent "shot in the arm" for the North End. "Soon you'll see a whole new dimension North," he said. Partly responsible for this is a nine-acre lake and 350 acres of residential housing in the $25,000 - $37,000 bracket blueprinted for the Westerville area. Easy access to the outerbelt and freeway will ease any transportation bottlenecks.

Plans for a shopping center "larger than Northland" with frontage on Georgesville-rd, will make a "Broad and High" of the West Side, Foley revealed. He further emphasized that "this growth affects not only your pride but your pocketbook."

Bud Savage, spokesman for the Galbreath Co., said several new commercial businesses are planned for Town-st. He discussed the Urban-Renewal program generally and the Market - Mohawk area specifically. Savage asked: "What do you do with the people when the buildings are gone? We can take the man out of the slums but it's not so easy to take the slums out of the man." A shining example of what can be done in areas where slums are razed is the Thurber Village project. This area, once known as "Flytown," has created a bright market for businessmen.

Larry Chambers, associated with the Columbus Board of Realtors, revealed some startling facts about the escalation. New figures reveal that 69.5 persons per day are moving into Columbus (total population is now 828,826); our unemployment rate is the lowest ever with six tenths of one percent out of work; Columbus' average individual income is $8,214 per year (Ohio's average is $7,628, and the national, $7,542); five to six thousand new single residences are being constructed each year; apartment vacancies are on the decrease (this was met with less than enthusiasm from the housing-conscious brokers).

However, the picture is not entirely rosy. Chambers reported a "serious" shortage of industrial sites in and around Franklin County but the overall business climate is "very healthy."

Attention, Citizens Of Columbus!

This is Batman speaking . . .

The dreadful and dastardly "Bleacher" has washed all of the color out of the suits of Batman and Robin, the Boy Wonder.

Won't you, fighters of crime everywhere, help us?

Zap! Pow! Biff! Bam!

Luckily for us, the official Batman newspaper — the dynamic Spectator — is marching this entire month of March against the evil forces of crime.

Here's how you can help.

A plan has been set-up with the dynamic Spectator to get the color back in our uniforms! Take your crayons, children of all ages, and color the famous Batman and Robin suits! Submit your entry with the subscription coupon below.

Each week, during March, we'll award a big, long-playing album featuring the "Batman Theme" plus many other Bat-tunes to the winner each of the five weeks in March.

Now, hear this!!!

Everyone entering the contest and submitting the official Batman subscription blank printed below will receive — as a thank-you to you fine, freedom-loving citizens — a 45 rpm record of the "Batman Theme" delivered — IN PERSON — by Batman's official crime fighter in the greater Columbus area!

He'll roar up to your house, complete with the official Batman uniform, and deliver your copy of the "Batman Theme" in person!

Plus, everyone entering the Batman contest will get his or her name printed in the special Batman honor roll each week so that the entire world will know that fighters of crime live everywhere!

Don't delay. Get your subscription (or renewal) to the official Batman newspaper right now and color our uniforms so that we can triumph over crime.

This week's contest ends at midnight, Mar. 9. Mail the subscription blank and your coloring entry to: The Batman Spectator, 2465 W. Broad-st, Columbus, O.

Zap! Pow! Biff! Bam!

THIS WAS THE SCENE MONDAY NIGHT AT THE NATIONWIDE INN

200 Guests Flee In Nationwide Inn Fire

By The Spectator's
JOHN AUBLE, JR.

"He saved my life," Mae Taylor was saying. She talked in short, clipped sentences and ran a shaking hand through her gray hair as she looked up at Karl Appel, who's a big man in the novelty business on New York City's Park-av.

And there was Karl Appel with an ice cube wrapped in a handkerchief and he dabbed it periodically to his forehead trying to keep down the swelling. A fire estimated at $30,000 forced them and some 200 other guests from their Nationwide Inn rooms late Monday night.

Mae Taylor is Appel's assistant and they were in their first floor room getting a display ready for the annual Ohio Gift Show. And at 9:20 p.m. Mae noticed a whisper of smoke and said, "Look at that, Karl."

"Get your coat," Karl Appel told her. "Get your coat fast and don't panic." But Mae isn't the type that doesn't panic and she blurted out with "What will we do?" and she started pacing around the room. She felt the walls closing in on her and her eyes stared.

"Get down, Mae. Get down on the floor." Appel threw his coat over Mae's head and Mae was scared. She lay there on the floor and she was frozen. Karl grabbed her arm and pulled her and they were both on the floor now, crawling out the door.

That whisper of smoke burst. It was now thick. It choked them but Karl kept crawling, pulling Mae Taylor by the arm out into the corridor.

Karl Appel lunged at a fire door . . . a door he thought for sure was open but it was closed. His head cracked against it. He lay there on the floor for a moment and his head reeled and he thought for sure they were locked in.

He felt the heat of the fire and fumbled for the door knob. It turned. He crawled through, pulling Mae Taylor by the arm and saying, "it's all right now, Mae. It's all right now."

And as Karl Appel and Mae Taylor were crawling to safety, exhibitor Murray Robison from Detroit was emptying fire extinguishers into room 131 where the fire apparently started. The room was occupied by a man named Gunther Flagenheimer who is from Cleveland and his room was full of candles and paper napkins.

Flames were shooting out of Flagenheimer's window. He was out to dinner and Robison felt glad because he knew no one could have lived in that room with the speed that the blaze started. The fire was so intense now that Robison gave up after emptying five fire extinguishers that did nothing to beat back the flames.

A Worthington man, L. "Lucky" Nagich, was asleep in the room directly above 131. People were running up and down the halls pounding on the doors and Lucky Nagich grabbed for his coat and fled.

And an old man named Christy who's 70 and who has already had a heart attack was sitting in an emergency squad getting oxygen because the smoke chocked his breathing.

All of the guests, some with displays in their rooms totaling $3000, paced aimlessly in front of the motel's ballroom. They paced and talked in a tense, nervous chatter and all you could hear were voices saying "my hair looks terrible" from a woman in her night clothes and "Novak says we can sue" from a man from Brooklyn they called Artie.

Around midnight, as Franklin and Prairie Township firefighters were cleaning up the mess, the motel's cocktail lounge did one of its biggest Monday night businesses ever and the Go-Go girl danced and a waitress looked at one of the customers and smiled and said maybe they should have a fire every night.

Citizenship Project Date Is Mar. 10

The YMCA Citizenship program which started the first week in February will continue until Mar. 10, when the elected student officers will participate in helping to run the government of the county for a day.

The project is planned to develop an interest in the processes of local government and to study the county as a functional unit in the governmental structure.

It is being sponsored by the Citizenship Committee of the Franklin County Branch YMCA. The Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y Clubs of the county will have a major responsibility in carrying on this program as a service project in 14 high schools in cooperation with school administrators.

Registration Now Under Way

Columbus Public Schools began Mar. 1 the annual registration of pupils who will be entering school next fall. Registration will continue during the spring months.

Children born between Jan. 1, 1960, and Oct. 31, 1961, may be registered for kindergarten. Those born between Nov. 30, 1960, and Oct. 31, 1961, should be registered for the first grade. No registration is required if the child has been attending a Columbus public school kindergarten or pre-kindergarten program.

Parents who have children to register for school should contact the school nearest their home and arrange an appointment for registration and a conference with the school nurse.

Pupils registering for school must have: (1) a birth certificate; (2) a record of immunizations, and (3) an examination by the family physician and dentist.

If parents have doubts as to what school they should call to register, telephone the Board of Education (228-3821) and ask for "public information office."

SS. Medicare To Be Discussed

On Friday, Mar. 4, at 2:30 p.m., the Senior Citizens Recreation Center, 275 McDowell-st, will present a program on "Social Security Benefits and Medicare Provisions." This meeting is open to all senior citizens, especially those having questions about Medicare. Program personalities include Rose Forquer, field representative, Social Security Administration; James Dorn, director of Hospital Service, Blue Cross; Mable Grover, director, Columbus Public Health Nursing Service, and F. J. Eckfeld, administrator, Riverside Methodist Hospital.

Following the presentation, a question and answer period will be held. For further information, call the center, 469-6168.

SPEAKER SLATED

Prof. Keith Tyler from the School of Education at Ohio State University will be the guest speaker for advisors' night-OSU Dames. The meeting will be held Tuesday, Mar. 8, at 8 p.m., at Industrial Nucleonics Corp., 340 Ackerman-rd.

From Spectator Area News Sources

Goldwater's Coming

Beginning next week (Mar. 16), The Spectator Newspapers will publish a weekly column by Barry M. Goldwater. The Spectator has negotiated with the Los Angeles Times syndicate for exclusive rights to the Goldwater column in the Columbus area. Publication of the writings of the conservative Republican spokesman is another in the continuing efforts by The Spectator to bring to its readers opinions from the full range of the political spectrum, from which they can form their own conclusions. The 1965 Presidential contender and former U.S. Senator from Arizona will join such other nationally-syndicated weekly contributors to the Spectator as Herblock, Marquis Childs and former Democratic Ohio Governor Michael V. DiSalle (who will contribute an occasional guest column). "It is hoped that the Goldwater column will be well-received by his many supporters in Franklin County area and that it will stimulate readership in The Spectator," Publisher Robert Burdock commented in making the announcement. "Senator Goldwater's views are, of course, his own."

Batman Overwhelmed

GOTHAM CITY (Special) — Batman here has notified the official Bat Newspaper, The Spectator of Columbus, O., that he is really overwhelmed at the response to the appeal printed in last week's edition. "Columbus is showing great willingness to [illegible] combat the 'Bleacher'," the man said. And to keep the bats flying, The Spectator is starting its second week of a "March Against Crime." Once again the "Bleacher" has washed out all the color of the suits of Batman and Robin. Color them in and enter this week's contest which ends Mar. 16. Find the subscription blank printed inside. Win a 45-rpm record of "Batman Theme" delivered—in person—by Batman's official crime-fighter in the greater Columbus area.

Mike's Doing Fine

Former Ohio Governor Michael V. DiSalle, 58, who collapsed last Friday in a downtown barber shop, was to have been discharged from Grant Hospital today, a spokesman there said. DiSalle reportedly suffered a mild case of internal bleeding, according to his personal physician Dr. Perry Ayers. His condition was originally diagnosed as "serious" but, the hospital says, "he improved rapidly." The Columbus attorney recently announced his plans to join the Washington, D.C. law firm of Chapman and Friedman.

Employe To Be Picked

Officials of the Central Ohio Federal Personnel Council are making final plans for the Outstanding Federal Employes Awards Banquet, to be held at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Mar. 12 in the Officers Club at Lockbourne AFB. Selection of outstanding employes for 1966 will be announced at the dinner.

Clint Cooper Hired

The duties of night constable in Hamilton Township have been assumed by Clinton Cooper of Obetz. At one time police chief of the village, Cooper is currently employed as a security officer at Orient State Hospital. His 10 years of police experience includes service as a military policeman with the C and O RR.

He'll Hear The Alarm

Carl Hayes has been appointed a fulltime day shift employe of the Hamilton Township Fire Department. Hayes, formerly with Ohio Auto Parts and a volunteer of long-standing, mans the station with at least two firemen, day and night. Hayes and his family live at 260 Lyle-av.

It's A Taste Treat

Homemade noodles and pies fresh from the kitchens of Hamilton Township Garden Club members will highlight the annual fried chicken and baked ham dinner planned by the women Saturday, March. 19. Serving will begin in the Hamilton Township High School Cafeteria at 4:30 p.m. Mrs. Lorna Shoaf, Mrs. Mae Carpenter and Mrs. Isabel Prushing head up the committee. Mrs. Les Badders is dinning room chairman and Mrs. Norene Foreman and Mrs. Clara Miller are in charge of the bazaar table. Mrs. Aiveta Egbert is sales chairman for tickets which can be obtained from any Garden Club member or at the door.

COLUMBUS IN CRISIS:

Liquor Department officials, school administrators and police officers are concerned over the growing rate of teen-age arrests for intoxication. No one, however, seems to know where the answer lies.

Teen Age Drinking: Arrest Rate Rising

NINTH IN A SERIES

SPECIAL REPORT

The number of Franklin County youth arrested for purchasing intoxicating beverages has more than doubled in the last five years, despite the fact that liquor control agents have tightened restrictions for minors.

A spokesman for the Ohio Department of Liquor Control says that a mere 19 minors were arrested in this county in 1960, compared with a record 40 arrests in 1965.

Edward Churchill, chairman of the Governor's Committee on teen-age drinking, tells The Spectator he is "very much alarmed" at the rise in arrests of minors.

Liquor department officials feel certain that derelicts (who'll buy a kid a bottle for a small fee) and neighborhood grocery stores are the two primary sources of liquor for teenagers. Other sources are older friends and raids on the family liquor cabinet.

The law is specific on minors drinking. No Columbus minor (a person under 21) may drink intoxicating liquor or have it in his possession or handle it and no adult may provide it for a minor.

Persons between the ages of 18 and 21 may purchase "low - power" beer (3.2 percent alcohol content). These persons are not, however, considered juveniles and are taken to City Prison if found intoxicated.

A lieutenant in the Columbus Police's Juvenile Bureau says that juveniles (under the age of 18) found intoxicated are taken to the juvenile detention home for a court hearing.

The lieutenant emphasized that there seems to be no trend toward heavy drinking among persons under 18 years of age, although he did indicate that such cases are not unusual.

Despite the fact that a tennager will face a judge for his drinking, minors continue to violate state liquor laws in this county.

For instance, there were 33 arrests last year of minors consuming alcohol. There were no arrests in 1960.

Eleven minors were arrest-

'Sometimes It's Easier To Conform Than Not To Drink'

Many teens today drink because, they feel, "It's just easier to conform," The Spectator learned.

"Some kids can make the ones who don't smoke or drink pretty miserable," a 16-year-old blonde said. "The only reason a teenager drinks is because he wants to feel 'in.' Most of them don't even like the taste of alcohol but they have to put on a show."

This matter of conformity showed up mostly in the suburbs. As one high schooler put it, "There's a lot of pressure living in a suburb like this where parents do a lot of social drinking."

A 15-year-old Columbus boy, dressed casually in a sweat shirt, opined that he doesn't feel that teenagers want to drink in moderation.

"Teenagers drink to get drunk," he said. "Not just to have a drink. They want to feel good, or see what it's like, or to do something they're not supposed to do."

Most of the youths interviewed said their parents do not know they drink and would not approve if they did.

"Some parents do know, though, and don't care," one boy said. "I know a kid in school whose mother gave him a six-pack of beer and a package of cigarettes as

ARREST RECORD

These figures of arrests for liquor violations involving minors shows an alarming increase. Compared with five years ago, the arrest record has nearly doubled in many cases in Franklin County, according to the Ohio Department of Liquor Control:

	1960	1965
Minors Purchasing Liquor	24	40
Minors Handling Liquor	6	5
Minors Consuming Liquor	0	33
Using False Identification	0	11
Furnishing Minors Liquor	14	24

Thoreau's Got Nothing On Him

By The Spectator's
JANE ROBINSON

Bill Sherman doesn't need the Great Society.

He has it made on his own.

His worldly goods may be less than most consider their just dessert, but he has something else — peace of mind.

He believes his serenity comes from beating his own worst enemy — envy of his fellow man.

The tall, erect man, bearded and with his appearance testifying the absence of any nagging wife to urge, "Bill, do something about yourself," has a quiet dignity, carrying himself as proudly as a brand new shavetail.

Born just before the turn of the century in what was once a Madison Township one-room school, Bill has followed a somewhat rocky trail that has brought him "back home."

It took him overseas to France as a young man, and brought him back a disabled veteran.

It took him through the tin shops and meat-packing plants of the Midwest until he was outpaced.

It put him on his own stock farm in Hocking County until prolonged illness took everything from him but the will to live, and a resignation to accept life as it came to him.

He'd been lucky to escape when, in 1942, the stove he tried to unclog so his sister could cook their Christmas goose exploded, gutting the house.

He tried trailer living in the yard for a while but decided that was for someone else when he found his firearms and fishing tackle rusted.

His next abode, and probably last unless a long delayed ship sails in, is a war-vintage structure a neighbor had used for a utility building.

(He talks of his cooking with the same casualness, adding no one else is inflicted with it, and he wouldn't know to whom to complain).

In these humble surroundings Sherman lives

Pastor Faces Challenge

Stepping on the toes of time-honored traditions is not the surest way of winning friends and influencing people.

But it works for Leopold Bernhard, pastor of the First English Lutheran Church.

Bernhard is the father of ECCO, the local attack on poverty which puts the reins of the program in the hands of those to be helped rather than the professional social worker and lay boards of charitable institutions.

And his salesmanship was evident when he was selected by the Central Ohio Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers as "Layman of the Year." The award was scheduled for the annual banquet meeting at the Christopher Inn Wednesday.

What kind of a man is this pastor who can get away with telling social workers they should be hired and fired by the poor?

Primarily he is one who not only recognizes a challenge but will meet it head-on.

As a district church worker stated when Bernhard tried to turn aside her compliments by pointing out the great need, "But only you met that need."

When racial intolerance drove him from his native Germany prior to World War II he came to the United States in 1938, eventually accepted the pastorate of the First English Lutheran Church at 22nd and Main-st.

Seeing the congregation, now mainly a suburban one, failing in its responsibilities to the surrounding neighborhood, he begged and borrowed to raise the funds to support a full-scale social center.

But he soon realized one small church, even with the aid of its mission board and volunteer workers, could not meet the challenges of a neighborhood, 70 percent Negro, saddled with despair, unemployment and delinquency that even the altar could not turn back.

From this situation, Bernhard fathered the East Central Citizen Organization, secured $185,000 from the Office of Economic Opportunity as a two-year kitty, and put into action a program unique in the nation.

For the first time it has been said, "The poor live with their problems—let us listen to how they wish to solve them."

In a recent sermon, Bernhard stated, ". . . We don't have to ask what the Cross is like in the 20th Century of this corner in the City of Columbus.

"We don't have to look for projects of social action in which to engage for a few hours a week only to retreat again to the comforts, the securities, the privileges of isolation which end in death

"We can only accept or reject them; we can only in-

Ordinance Passes

Glue sniffing by minors (anyone under 21) is now illegal in Whitehall and is subject to fines ranging from $50 for the first offense to $500 for a second violation and/or imprisonment of 90 days. The unanimous decision was passed by the seven-member Whitehall Council Mar. 1 and approved by the mayor the following day. The ordinance was introduced by Robert Strickling, director of Public Safety, and James M. Tooney, city solicitor. A similar ordinance passed recently in Reynoldsburg. Copies of the ordinance — No. 23-66, may be picked up at the Whitehall Police Department, which is open 24 hours a day. Following on the heels of this action is a similar ordinance (pending) which involves the purchase of and sale to minors of cough syrup containing narcotics. Some Whitehall youths recently figured in stories relating to the drinking of habit-forming narcotic medicines.

SKYSCRAPERS—Things were largely "up in the air" Friday in AA Tourney play at the Coliseum as East's Gil Mathews (44) and Groveport's John Cundiff (45) scrapped for possession of this rebound. Tigers' Randy Smith takes a belated swipe while Cruisers' Mark Raynes (41), John Hilbert (13) and Ross Worch (far right) await developments. East advanced, Groveport was eliminated via 74-35 Tiger victory. (Staff photo by W. Harley Groom)

East-Newark, DeSales-South Matched In 'AA' Upper Bracket Semi-Finals

By BOB WHITMAN

The Central District Class AA upper bracket semi-final round is on tap Thursday night with a pair of rugged tourney powers. . .Columbus East (14-5) and Newark (14-6) matching baskets at 7. . . and a couple of dark horses . . . defending king Columbus South (12-7) and Catholic Leaguer DeSales (13-7) meeting in the 8:30 nightcap.

The winners come back Saturday at 2 to vie for the Upper Bracket championship and a "trip" to the Columbus Regional.

The Lower Bracket championship will be played at the Coliseum at 8 between Tuesday night's Hartley-Linden winner and Arlington-Pleasant View survivor for a Columbus Regional berth.

THE EAST - NEWARK rumble will be the second meeting between the two this season. East dropped the Wildcats at Newark, 66-57 on January 15.

But Newark will toss a slightly different lineup the Tigers way with the addition of 6-5 forward Larry Barch (51-5.1) and hot shot guard Mike Foote (123-6.8). Barch has started the last four Cat games while Foote has been a Newark regular since the East game.

"The change had to improve them," East coach Bob Hart said, "but the added height hurt their speed somewhat."

The height does give Newark a board boost and the rebounding factor has been tabbed by both coaches as a 'must' in advancing to the final round.

NEWARK COACH Dick Schenk also hailed East's team speed and sticky press as items to overcome in order to guide his Newark team to their 11th District title.

Rematch mus. be the key word as the combatants in the 8:30 game also faced each other during their regular season. South took a four point advantage over Jerry Connor's DeSales outfit on Feb. 19.

Everytime Connor thinks of South, he thinks of Joe Hayes, the nifty all-league performer who was the "sixth man" on the State Championship squad last season.

HAYES HAS been having some help during the tournament from hot shot guard Howard Wilson and a pair of alternating centers in Harold Russell and James Adams.

Not to be overlooked was John Cordell's defensive job on West's star Jerry Francis. Cordell stapled himself to Francis as he limited the 6-2 all-stater to 15 points (11 below his average).

SOUTH WILL have to cut off DeSales' hot shooting guard — Kevin O'Brien and Steve Dorsch — plus handle the scoring threat of Jack Diedalis (17.2) to move into the final round for a chance at its sixth District crown.

East District Wrestling King; Beery, DeAscentis Repeaters

By JACK WITTENMEIER

Pre-meet favorite East played its role superbly Saturday at Walnut Ridge as Chuck Deyo's Tigers replaced DeSales at the top of the District wrestling heap.

The Bengal matmen compiled 55 points to outdistance the runnerup Stallions (43). Completing the top five were Worthington (34), Upper Arlington (32) and West (22).

Two other defending champs — Arlington's Mike Saunders and Franklin Heights' undefeated Dick Grambo — lost out in finals verdicts to Worthington's Chrystal and the Ohio Blind School's Charles Bartee respectively.

Moving up from runnerup spots last year were East's Jake Holloway (127) and Worthington's Frank Lowery (175).

EAST, WHO sent four qualifiers into the finals, got three big wins — Ralph Cox at 103, Holloway at 127 and Willie Jackson at heavyweight. The Tigers also added consolation points at 145 (Bob Taylor).

Other schools scoring in the top ten included: Eastmoor (sixth with 21 pts.), Franklin Heights (20), Watterson (13), Whitehall and Ohio Blind School (12) and Walnut Ridge, Westerville and Jonathan Alder (tied for tenth, 11 pts. each).

The District champs and runnerups—22 in all—now advance to the state meet, scheduled Friday and Saturday at St. John Arena.

PRELIMS ARE clocked for 1 and 7 p.m. Friday with semi-finals set Saturday at 1:30 p.m. Finals get under way that evening at 7:30.

Here are the qualifiers (District champs listed first): 103—Cox (East) and Roger Branham (F-H); 112—Bartee (OSB) and Grambo (F-H); 120—Beery (Whitehall) and Steve Arnold (DeSales); 127—Holloway (East) and Paul Clymer (Westerville); 133—John Holley (West) and Bill Hartman (UA); 138—Mike Mahoney (DeSales) and Clarence Bennett (East); 145—Terry Barnhill (UA) and Bill Nelle (Groveport); 154—Chrystal (Worthington) and Saunders (UA); 165—DeAscentis (DeSales) and Lee Rogers (West); 175—Lowery (Worthington) and Ron Thomas (Jonathan Alder); HWT—Jackson (East) and Steve Gutridge (Eastmoor).

WIBC Needs 1916 Ladies Clothing, Old Bowling Balls

In keeping with the celebration of its fiftieth anniversary, the Women's International Bowling Congress Inc. (headquarters on Dublin-rd, Columbus) is looking for 1916 clothing to be used in a tableau display representing women who bowled in that era.

The WIBC asks the cooperation of Spectator readers who might have access to such apparel, wishing to borrow the clothing for the display with suitable credit given for those who might comply with the request.

If any bowler might still have an old bowling ball, the WIBC would like to borrow it for the display.

Anyone who could help make the display a success through loan of the above articles is asked to call Norma Kirkendall, Monday through Friday, at the WIBC office (HU. 6-5238).

SILL Hosts Pin Tourney

The Southern Independent Little League Inc. (SILL) will sponsor a Headpin Tourney at Rainbow Lanes, Mar. 12-13, 19-20 and 26-27.

Bowling ($1 per game) will go from noon till 6:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday and also from 9 p.m. till midnight on Saturday.

Eligible men cannot carry more than a 190 average (1965 season) and eligible women cannot carry more than a 180 average ('65).

First prize in Men's Division will be $100, (second $50, third, $25). Top woman bowler will win $75 with $35 and $15 going to runnerup and third-place gal keglers.

Trophies will go to both boy and girl winners in two, Junior Divisions (13 and under and 14-17). Juniors may bowl for 50 a game.

T-V Loop Meets

The Teays Valley Youth Baseball League will meet at Ashville Council House tomorrow at 7 p.m. All persons interested in helping in any way are urged to attend. Managers for both boys and girls teams are needed.

Support New Freeway

It's only natural for people to tend to act in what they consider their own best interests.

And this is apparently the case with those citizens who have succeeded in placing on the May primary ballot a referendum on the routing of the proposed Olentangy Freeway.

However, there are larger and overriding principles involved in this test before the voters.

First of all, it is folly to spend thousands of dollars to get the best engineering advice possible and then ignore it.

Secondly, the Olentangy Freeway will serve far more people than those few who may be adversely affected by its location.

Thirdly, tactics such as the referendum delay improvements already long overdue.

Fourthly, should the voters, through confusion or lethargy, allow the official route to be disapproved, financing of the project would be in jeopardy.

Finally, if governmental actions are constantly to be subjected to referendum such practice will erode the very basis of representational government as we know it. Displeasure or pleasure with the acts of elected officials can easily be demonstrated when they seek re-election.

The Spectator Newspapers urge responsible voters to vote "For" the ordinance, upholding council's action in approving the new route for the freeway. Don't be confused. A vote "For" is in support of the new freeway.

Bob And The Barbs

There is definite reason for concern at the sudden unfavorable shift of opinion in Congress on Defense Secretary Robert McNamara.

Even 12th district Congressman Samuel L. Devine has jumped on the bandwagon, saying, "Unfortunately, the Johnson-McNamara team has a badly confused, if not a complete absence of, foreign policy."

Another congressman has been quoted as saying "Bob McNamara used to come up to the Hill and give us a razzle-dazzle about his 'economies' and his 'business approach' to the problems of defense. This time we're not buying it."

Newspaper reports here tell of the defense secretary finally getting fed up with overbearing critics. He blasted one columnist a few days ago.

All this is bad news for Secretary McNamara, but we argue that the effect of the probing questions he will have to face—and will face capably—can only benefit the country.

Let's remember that Robert McNamara left a lucrative job to serve his country. He wanted to serve and he's capable of serving.

He believes in our form of government. It's the best form of government under God's shining sun. If you want freedom, you must fight to keep it . . . it is a precious thing that must be earned every day.

McNamara realizes this. He doesn't need spear-throwing antagonists at a time like this. He has enough problems with the defense of this country without having to defend himself every few steps along the way.

The Waiting Room

By The Spectator's
TED BEARDSHEAR

The steel door swung open to reveal a long corridor with a terrazzo floor.

Off the corridor were elongated arches which led into rooms. Beds were in the rooms. Bars were in the windows.

One man was sitting on a chair. His eyes were so vacant one might assume he had stopped thinking.

It is Columbus. It is a state hospital. Someone I know stays there.

"How do they treat you?"

"All right, I guess."

A vicious looking young man came up to where we were sitting and stared menacingly at us.

"He wants a cigarette," my friend informed me.

I gave him a cigarette. He didn't thank me. He just walked away.

"How's the food?" I asked.

"All right, I guess."

"Do they treat you all right?"

"When I'm good."

"And if you're bad?"

"They lock me up . . . alone."

"Do you see a doctor very often?"

"No."

"Do you have recreational activities?"

"Seldom."

"Do you make wallets and rugs?"

"Never."

"What do you do? Do you read?"

"No, I just wait."

"What are you waiting for?"

"For them to tell me I can go home."

After two weeks I managed to talk to the man's doctor. He said my friend was doing all right but that progress was slow.

I asked him about the recreational activities. He shrugged. It was out of his department.

I asked him about the occupational activities. He shrugged there too.

My friend waits. He's been there for months.

The doctor talked like he'll be there for years . . . waiting.

They Said It

"Regardless of our party affiliations, our loyalties and our apprehensions, government is a major concern of the people. We are the people. Therefore, government is our concern. We must be involved to have a truly good governmental organization. Otherwise, government will be above us or remote to us. Under ruling such as this, we, the people, would be reduced to utter socialism . . . We must not only show that we are interested, we must produce an extra measure of care, or it will be too late to salvage any type of government that really belongs to the people." — Star City (Ark.) Lincoln Ledger.

"I Want To Have Everything Put In My Wife's Name"

Ohio And Its Pocketbook

The executive manager of the Ohio Bankers Association, headquartered in Columbus, says that this state ranks second among all states in personal bankruptcies and things don't look much better for future pocketbooks.

The executive manager, O. E. Anderson, tells The Spectator that "the attempt by the Ohio General Assembly in 1965 to regulate and control a vicious second mortgage lending racket is backfiring into an even greater problem for Ohioans, thanks to a 'loophole' in the law being used by some representatives of the small loan industry."

Anderson claims that the result may well be so much high cost over-lending to persons already overburdened with debt as to bring on an "unparalleled wave of personal bankruptcies" in Ohio.

Anderson's remarks followed the issuance of an opinion by Attorney General William Saxbe that admits that the new law appears to go beyond the intent of the legislature.

The law seemingly now permits corporations affiliated with small loan companies to make loans on personal property for periods of up to five years, at total interest and service charges and in amounts well above those permitted under the small loan law itself.

Bankruptcy Rate Soars

"This interpretation has permitted many affiliates of small loan companies to obtain certificates to operate under the so-called second mortgage act," Anderson added. These certificates have been issued by a new division in the State Department of Commerce.

The Spectator has learned that instead of only 25 or 30 so-called second mortgage lenders operating in Ohio prior to 1965, now hundreds of "new" lenders, in practically all instances operating out of the same offices and with the same employes as their affiliated small loan companies, are making loans far in excess of the legal limit set for small loan companies themselves. Yet, both are frequently using the same kind of collateral.

"Hundreds of persons already overburdened with debt are now being encouraged to take out larger, longer term loans at much higher rates, a fact that could lead many of them into bankruptcy," Anderson concluded.

Gold In Them Thar Stills

Denouncers of the "demon rum" would do well to scan a report recently issued by Norman Parr, executive secretary of the Buckeye Retail Licensed Beverage and Food Dealers Association of Columbus.

Parr's paragraphs say that contributions of the alcoholic beverage industry to the public treasuries in the form of taxes on its products is now equivalent to $30 a year for every American citizen.

A total of nearly $5.5 billion was paid into Federal, state and local treasuries during the past year. Of this amount, $111.2 million went to the State of Ohio.

These contributions, the report says, assisted the state government in meeting expenses incurred in education, public welfare programs, parks and conservation, law enforcement and other vital public services.

The report points out that there is not a single resident of Ohio who did not benefit from the taxes received from the sale of distilled spirits.

Besides this, employes of the alcoholic beverage industry (there are about 120,739 in Ohio alone) spent $3,405,000 for private education and research and donated $3,706,000 to religious and charitable organizations.

Letters To The Editor

Let George Do It?

To The Spectator:

Former Governor of Ohio Michael V. DiSalle began his weekly column, "Calling Ohioans," in last week's Spectator (Feb. 24) with the following remark: "The threat of a world controlled by a Communist atheistic philosophy is real and growing each day."

While the entire article was very meaningful and accurate, this opening statement caught my attention as one which I have heard many times in the past.

In almost every instance, however, these words of alarm over the Communist advance are effectively washed away by attributing them to an alleged "right wing extremist," "fanatic," "Bircher," or "fearmonger." I do not believe that any of these identities fit Mr. DiSalle. His remark therefore means to me that our Government's program (?) to stem the tide of Communism during the past 20 years has failed and, as of today, "the threat of a world controlled by a Communist atheistic philosophy is real and growing each day."

Oh, well. Perhaps if we continue to concentrate on our golfing, bowling, boating, square dancing, comic and sports page reading and other similar tried and true anti-Communist tactics, this "threat" will be overcome.

Eliminate The Negative

To The Spectator:

How happy all of us were to read the Feb. 24 Spectator. This issue contained many words of praise for some of our fine young people (Special "Tales Out of Schools" section).

It has been my experience over more than a quarter of a century as a school principal that the overwhelming majority of children are fine, worthwhile citizens. They contribute many vital ingredients to the present and offer hope for the future. When we lack the energy, they supply it.

Hats off to The Spectator for "accentuating the positive."

Letters for publication must bear the writer's name and address. The editors, at their discretion, may permit use of initials or pseudonyms if this is requested for a good reason. In general, preference will be given to writers willing to take responsibility for their views. Letters should be kept as short as possible. All letters are subject to editing.

Believes In Hard Work

To The Spectator:

I thought your viewpoint in the article "The Value of Exile" (Feb. 24 Spectator) well taken. If offenders were required to pay for their misdeeds by working, it might indeed be of great benefit to them and to the community. Responsibility would be established.

Praises Editorial

To The Spectator:

I live in a neighborhood where a Negro family moved in and everyone around me started to panic. I wish I had had your editorial, "Good Neighbor," Mar. 3 Spectator) to show them then.

It's disgraceful to think that human relations can break down to such low levels.

Agrees With Bishop

To The Spectator:

It's about time somebody in this city has the guts to stand up and tell the people here that they are not going to church and that they should go to church ("Columbus in Crisis," Mar. 3 Spectator).

There's an over abundance of Easter morning church-goers in Columbus who forget about God the other six days of the week.

I thank The Spectator for having the courage to print Bishop Herman Hartwell's views.

OUR MAN IN WASHINGTON: Marquis Childs

CHICAGO — Something new has been added to the yeasty mixture of races and creeds, kinds and conditions that is the second city. The Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr., has established a Northern base for his Southern Christian Leadership Conference in one of Chicago's Negro slums and a procession of visitors is finding the way up three flights to the flat that is his office and temporary home.

CHILDS

What King can accomplish in this Northern city with its complex rivalries in uncertain balance is far from clear. The powers that be fear he will increase tensions to no constructive purpose. They see his nonviolent tactic — sit-ins, picketing — as merely aggravating the problem of the slums, which, if you take their word, is moving as rapidly as can be expected toward solution.

But as King talks in his soft, persistent voice, you hear the crusader who cannot stand still. He is convinced the methods he initiated in Birmingham will work here. He speaks with fervor of the need to resist any cutbacks in the war on poverty since, with hopes raised in the Negro ghettos of the North by the Johnson programs, any failure now to carry through will breed disillusion erupting in hatred and violence.

King and his organization are not so militant on the Viet Nam War as the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee. But he is a member of the Steering Committee of the Clergymen's Emergency Committee to try to end the war. And the spreading conflict as it cuts across domestic programs and the civil rights movement is a deep concern.

Mayor Richard J. Daley is much too shrewd a politician to give away any worry he may feel over the King invasion. The mayor has felt the sting of Negro anger.

One thing almost everyone agrees on — the task King has set himself here is far more difficult than anything undertaken in the South. In Alabama the goals of voting rights and lunch counters were comparatively simple and the Negro community could be united behind them. In the Northern ghettos the conflict cuts a dozen different ways with the rising tide of black nationalism — alienation, rejection of anything and everything related to the white power structure — a perilous element.

In his opening statement in Chicago, King spoke of the need to organize unemployed Negroes between the ages of 16 and 25. "Many of these," he said, "are in gangs or are drifting idly from corner to corner."

The violent uprising in Watts, King is frank to say, had not a little to do with his coming to Chicago.

In his handsome office as devoid of clutter as that of any big business executive, Mayor Daley talks of how Chicago has organized at $30,000,000 anti-poverty program with the personnel in the paying jobs all selected through a private management consultant firm. Why, he says in effect, doesn't King come and help us with this program? But given the stresses and strains of race relations, life is not that simple.

IN & AROUND TOWN

EDITED BY ROLAND SUNKER

A guide to performers and performances in the Columbus area this week

Opening Wednesday night at Cinema-East is a super spy movie, "The Spy Who Came In From The Cold." It stars Richard Burton as a cynical British intelligence agent and Claire Bloom, a London working girl who is involved in a deadly espionage plot.

This is no ordinary run-of-the mill spy thriller. "The Spy Who Came In From The Cold" is well done. In fact, I think it is one of the best movies to open in Columbus this year. It has the feeling of absolute realism. The whole story of the East-West cold war, with its espionage and counter-espionage tactics, is vividly told.

Richard Burton does an excellent job. It's the first time he plays an anti-hero and he revels in the taut dialogue and economy of mood. An admirable job is turned in by the rest of the cast.

"The Spy" is not a slow-starter. Your attention is drawn to the screen immediately. This is partially due to the photography. Some of the shots, to steal an old Hollywood cliche, are absolutely breath-taking.

There is hard-hitting excitement, intrigue and suspense. You'll watch every minute of this one.

Virginia Graham Visits 'Family'

Virginia Graham, star of "Girl Talk," seen locally on channel 10, was in town for a few hours last week to meet her many local "relatives" of the family of "Girl Talk." She feels that by the nature of the program her audience becomes related to one another and to the members of the show, to form one big happy family.

VIRGINIA

Having had a serious bout with cancer, and being told she had only six months to live, Miss Graham was completely cured by a successful operation. She feels being given a new lease on life has made her a better person and much more aware of the meaning of life. Miss Graham believes being in the broadcasting business "has made the last 15 years the most wonderful years of my life." Her TV show, "Girl Talk," has been on the air four years. She feels the secret of the show is due to the methods used in selecting the guests and having people with varied backgrounds on the same program. Guests are chosen after many months of screening, including lengthy questionnaires and personal interviews.

For her work, Virginia Graham has received countless honors, including the 1964-65 TV-Radio Mirror award for outstanding programing. She has written a book, "There Goes What's-Her-Name?," a moving, true story about her life.

Lincoln Lodge Has Chanteuse

A ravishing chanteuse, Desiree, with sophistication and continental charm, is offering a stimulating experience in song, this week in the cocktail lounge at Lincoln Lodge. She has a beautiful blend of musical moods, highlighted by clever, dynamic styling and phrasing. This gal knows how to sell a song. Desiree is a rare presentation of talent and stunning glamour. Heart and soul are in her music. —not true of many singers. The lyrics in every song tell some kind of story, and in order to convey the message set down to music, a good singer sings every word and phrase with deep, profound feeling. This is a Desiree forte.

DESIREE

Singing in six languages, Desiree has fun performing. She enjoys her work and you will, too.

Born in Switzerland, of French-Swiss parents, Desiree easily learned several languages. Her real name is Desiree, which in French means "desired." When you see and hear her, you will agree her name is appropriate.

She is ably backed on piano by George Sterney, who is a talented man in his own right. He does the arranging for the act, which adds to the entire effect.

'This Was Burlesque'

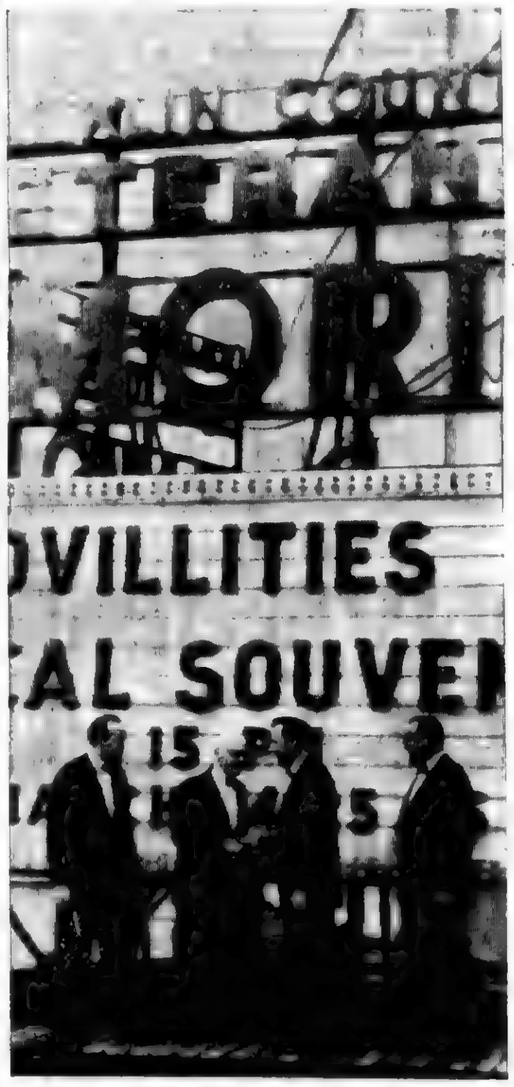
A bit of Americana will open at the Hartman Mar. 14 for one week. Ann Corio stars in the hilarious musical revue, "This Was Burlesque."

To some, burlesque may cause raised eyebrows. To others, it is the mother of many of the great comedians of our time — men like Milton Berle, Danny Thomas and Red Skelton.

I saw the show in New York, where it played for several years, and it's a riot. There are many comedy sketches with traditional baggy-pants funny men. It's just plain, humorous, knee-slapping material that sets off a bomb of laughing gas.

Is there a story line? You bet there is. The show tells of the evolution of entertainment in America. This is not the cheap burlesque show one might see in theatres today. Classic comedy and sophisticated pulchritude are used to illustrate the good ole days when "This Was Burlesque."

YOUR HOST



GEORGE ROBERTS is host of the newly re-decorated and carpeted Explorers. Located at 1080 Dublin-rd, the Explorers is known as one of Ohio's finest family restaurants. It's open seven days a week, with a special menu for children.

Civic Ballet Program Sunday

The Columbus Civic Ballet is currently in rehearsal for a spring performance scheduled for Sunday, Mar. 20, 3 p.m. at Cowan Hall auditorium, Otterbein College.

The program will feature a classical treatment of the Tschaikovsky score of "The Sleeping Beauty Ballet" including the variations and the well-known "Sleeping Beauty Waltz," "Night Soliloquy," an expressionistic pas de deux to the music of Bernard Rogers and "Looking at Ballet," a lecture-demonstration presenting the rudiments of classical ballet with their relationship to music as utilized by the choreographer.

The all-ballet program has been choreographed and directed by David McClain, artistic director for the company this season. McClain will also serve as commentator for the lecture-demonstration. Costumes have been designed by Jon Rodriques of Dayton and executed by Velma Brenizer.

PLAN VAUD-VILLITIES

CAC Hears Mayor Ask For County-Wide Cooperation

By The Spectator's
BETTY DAFT

"A single health department . . . school district . . . and police force."

These are the goals Columbus Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner set for Ohio's capital city at the recent annual meeting of the Citizens Advisory Council for Community Improvement, as he asked for cooperative services and government among the municipalities in Franklin County.

The mayor, discussing ways to eliminate duplication of services, said:

"We should have the best health department, schools and police force, and make it applicable to all," as an important facet of progress.

The Citizens Advisory Council, distinguishing itself in its first two years of operation for its advisory and force work with neighborhood improvement organizations, was also charged with a new responsibility.

The group will be a clearing house for all worthwhile community action projects instituted by the city, including urban renewal, planning, housing, parks, recreation, capital improvements, riverfront development, and many others in areas of city progress.

The mayor will appoint subcommittees from CAC to work with such established commissions as urban renewal, parks and recreation.

The council won national recognition for its work last year, with an honorable mention in competition among community betterment organizations.

In discussing the move towards establishing county-wide systems of services and government, as a means of removing glaring obstacles to progress, the mayor pointed to inequities in tax support of schools.

Under the proposal to establish one, county-wide school district, the entire tax base would be equally apportioned among all students.

As it is now, property tax from rich industrial sites annexed to Columbus, sometimes remains in the original school districts.

For example, property tax from the recently annexed 2300-acre site of Anheuser-Busch and surrounding land will go to Worthington Schools, nearly doubling their tax support, while Columbus' tax per pupil is steadily decreasing.

Wants New Narcotics Legislation

"A strong state law . . . to strengthen the hands of parents, enforcement officials, school authorities and druggists in protecting the health of Ohio families," is declared necessary by Richard C. Sensenbrenner, Ohio House candidate from the new 61st District.

Sensenbrenner expressed his concern over the system that permits persons of any age to obtain exempt narcotics simply by signing a name and address on the druggist's registrar, and added Ohio has no minimum age requirement for purchasing the drugs.

The state, he noted, must help stop illegal purchase of exempt narcotics through name falsification and must plug the gap permitting a person, regardless of age, to purchase exempt drugs.

"I would propose legislation setting an age limit on purchasers of these exempt drugs such as Ohio has for buying cigarettes, if elected," Sensenbrenner said.

"The statute should include a requirement that the purchaser show identification to verify the name signed in the drug book, and his age and address," he concluded.

Drinking—

ed for showing false identification to purchase liquor last year. There were no arrests in 1960.

The number of adult contributors to the teenage drinking problem is rising, too. There were 40 arrests last year for selling liquor to minors compared with 24 five years ago.

Educators in Franklin County are taking a closer look at the growing problem. They claim that "teenagers take special risks when they drink."

One school administrator claims that alcohol has a stronger effect on the younger, less developed person. "Inexperience and the 'rob psychology' of group drinking can increase the hazards," he said.

School officials close to the problem theorize that teenage boys start drinking sooner that the girls. Usually, by age 14 to 15, boys are drinking beer in their cars on Friday and Saturday nights in groups of five or six.

The sad fact is, as one pretty 16-year-old put it, "About age 16 or 17, if a girl wants a date, she is often pressured to stop being 'simple' and start drinking."

And, as a school principal said, "how do you fight logic like that?"

Conform—

Christmas presents this year."

How do teens get liquor? Different ways, of course. But one of the most frequent is robbing the home liquor cabinet.

"We used to be able to sneak some out of the liquor cabinet at one kid's house. But his Dad started missing it and set a whole bunch of booby traps — toothpick bridges between the bottles — to try to catch us."

Columbus teens estimate that from 50 to 60 percent of their high school friends drink.

HOG BUILDING

Here is a building arranged to cut man hours of work needed, yet maintain top animal health . . . a building that costs the least amount per animal to build . . . engineered to allow for top feed conversion. Not just a "show case" building, but a specially designed money-maker, too!

It's one package — building and equipment — at one package price. Your outlay per hog is the lowest for such construction you'll find anywhere.

Illustration shows our pole building with 30 by 40 ft. feeding floor for 100 pigs. Package includes all construction materials, feeders and fountains, reinforced concrete floor and 4 ft. wide steel slat covered gutter. Climate controlled, pig saving farrowing house and fully mechanized "controlled feeding" package also available. Liberal financing terms.

Pastor—

clude them or drive them out. We can only flee from them in bitterness and hostility or join them in their efforts."

To Bernhard, the ECCO represents an opportunity to establish a society based on justice for all members of the community.

Perhaps these ideals are why the NASW can meet him with respect in spite of his credo that "looking from the outside in" doesn't qualify a social worker as a messiah.

SHOW IS TOMORROW

HIGHLIGHTING THE "Spring Fantasy of Fashion," Thursday, Mar. 10, at 8 p.m. in Teays Valley High School auditorium, is the showing of a wedding dress. The annual show is sponsored by Ashville Women's Civic Club and fashions will be modeled by club members, high school students and professional models from the B. Goodman Stores in Columbus. TV and radio personality Jerry Rasor, will be M.C. Tickets may be purchased at Featherington's Gift Shop, Lou Deal's Flower Shop or at the door.

Thoreau—

contentedly, at last secure from a world breathing down his back in which "every night while I slept, my debts were awake and growing."

Although he keeps a few chickens and geese ("I like living things around"), his real companion is his dog.

Unable to open the gate when I went to see Sherman, a neighbor called for me to stand where the dog could see me, explaining "He'll call Bill."

It seems Bill and his best friend understand each other, and Bill will emerge if the signal indicates a visitor.

The camaraderie between Sherman and his neighbors, (all fettered by the problems of taxes and keeping up with the Joneses that come to the more prosperous) proves his wisdom of "making friends by minding my own business."

When his own television "deadheaded" a borrowed one was easy to come by so he can still watch Lawrence Welk, Gunsmoke and the Tuesday night movies and any travelogue that comes along.

And Bill accepts the occasional ice cream, homemade pie or maybe an extra bottle of beer from the local "speakeasy," (carryout to this generation) with the easy grace of one who's had his day at playing host.

What he doesn't have, he gets along without, and doesn't "sweat it."

When local cesspools contaminated his well, he bought a rain barrel and forgot about it.

When a favorite automobile became a traffic statistic, he shopped for a duplicate so that the remains could serve as a parts shelf for its successor.

And when he got his "walking papers" from his wife years ago, he was faithful to his Catholic religion and turned even closer to God to fight a lifetime of loneliness.

Bill reads the papers regularly and doesn't think much of what is going on in the world.

He feels that the freedom known in the United States when he was a young man is stifled and resents the bureaucracy that governs farm subsidies.

And as a veteran he looks at the prolonged fighting in Viet Nam and asks, "What are our atom bombs for anyway, to fry eggs?"

But there's one sheet that he reads with pure and adulterated pleasure.

That's the racing form.

When the bugle blows at Beulah, he's usually there.

He's a familiar figure, with his carpenter's apron to keep his tickets straight, at Scioto Downs, too.

With a semi-scientific system (the horses' past performance for regular bets and hunches for long-shots) his programs from last summer show his afternoons with the ponies are a pretty good investment.

No piker, he usually plays across the board on at least two horses every race and buys daily double tickets like they were going out of style.

If you're at the races this spring don't look for Sherman to be sporting his beard — it's only a winter-time gimmick to keep the wind at bay.

Batman's Ready To Visit Your House!

This is Batman speaking . . .

Holy Jumpin' Spectator . . . we knew there were a lot of right-thinking people in the Columbus, O., area and you proved it! The official Batman newspaper was flooded with entries in the first week of the five-week March Against Crime In March contest.

As you know, without the color in our powerful Bat uniforms, enemies of justice can run amuck. Look at that picture above. I'm facing a death worse than fate. The fiendish Falseface has glued me to the subway tracks in the path of a speeding downtown express.

What a super rat the Falseface is. Robin (the Boy Wonder) and myself have enough trouble combating the dreaded Bleacher who drained the color from our suits.

Quick, get your crayons and color my suit (Psst! Color the fiendish Falseface with an evil black crayon!)

Then send in your entry to this second big contest along with the subscription blank below to the official Bat Spectator.

Your entry automatically entitles you to a visit from my official Batman representative who'll roar up to your front door in his Batmobile complete with the Batman costume and present you with a 45 rpm record of the "Batman Theme."

The winner of this week's contest gets a long-playing record album delivered by Batman to your door. The album features the "Batman Theme" and other great Bat-tunes.

This second contest ends at midnight, Mar. 15, so hurry.

Again . . . thank you, good people of Columbus. And Robin, the Boy Wonder, thanks you, too.

Names of all entries will be printed in Apr. 6 issue so that everyone will know the many friends that Batman has in his fight against evil.

OFFICIAL BATMAN CRIME-FIGHTING SPECTATOR SUBSCRIPTION

Please enter my entry in the Batman coloring contest and begin a one-year subscription to the official Batman newspaper, the dynamic Spectator. This entry blank entitles me to a 45 rpm "Batman Theme" record delivered, in person, by Batman's official representative.

Young Housewives — earn extra money
We offer you a chance to enter our nationally famous Stouffer Girl training program. You ask . .

"What is a STOUFFER GIRL?"
Some people think she is just a waitress, but we know she is much more.

STOUFFER GIRLS are instructed in the finest quality dining room service, helped with development of charm, poise and graciousness. They are paid while they learn and once trained, their earnings compare favorably with top office jobs.

STOUFFER GIRLS enjoy excellent working conditions, daily contact with friendly, pleasant people, and meals furnished from the guest menu. Attractive uniforms are provided and laundered. Full time and part time day or evening schedules are available. No experience necessary. Prefer age over 21.

HERE'S 'HAZEL'S' LYNN BORDEN . . . Wearing Elegant Three-Piece Suit

LET'S KNIT: A THREE-PIECE SUIT

By The Spectator's URSULA duBOIS

This three-piece outfit with the unmistakable look of elegance is made by using three patterns.

Large needles and bulky yarn were used for this 5/8 coat jacket which features raglan sleeves. It is pattern No. 113. The garment may be knitted in a stockinette stitch technique although the pattern also includes an interesting pattern stitch.

URSULA

The skirt was matched by using the same type of yarn and also large needles. It is straight skirt pattern No. 90. The skirt pattern features instructions not only in sizes matching this garment but many more. The pattern is also adaptable for many other types of yarns.

A silhouette look is achieved with this sleeveless shell, which is pattern No. 114. The shell features an unusual long ribbed waistband. The upper part is adorned with an extremely simple lace stitch.

To obtain pattern 113, 90 or 114, send 50 cents for EACH pattern in coin, check or money order to:

Ursula duBois, Spectator Patterns Department, Box 3307, Van Nuys, Calif., 91407. Send 15 cents extra for first class mail and special handling. Please print plainly your name, address, zip code and pattern number.

Scioto View Memory Gardens Preliminary Planning Done

Preliminary planning is complete and construction work will soon begin on Scioto View Memory Gardens — the first new cemetery in northern Franklin County in the last 100 years.

It is located on a 100-acre plot between Riverside-dr and Sawmill-rd, approximately two miles north of Dublin.

Jack Claxton, 44-year-old president of Scioto View Memory Gardens, said an additional 37 acres on the southern edge of the new Gardens will be held for possible residential development.

The first phase of construction on the Gardens will involve the expenditure of approximately $60,000 for landscaping, access roads and other developments.

Offices for the new cemetery have been set up at 1480 W. Lane-av.

A nation's welfare depends on its ability to master the world; that on its power of work; and that on its power of thought.—Theodore Parker.

16 Juniors Make It

Three seniors and 16 juniors were tapped for membership in the Groveport-Madison chapter of National Honor Society recently. In addition, six sophomores were named as probationers with a grade point average of 3.8. The seniors are Caroline Seymour, Jean Sommer and Barbara Stanley, each of whom hold at least a 3.0 average. The juniors, with a 3.35 or better average, include Bruce Bartsch, Elaine Chappell, Theresa Clark, Russell Fridley, Joyce Goodman, Charles Grebus, Charles Hamilton, Ruth Ish, Thomas Knode, Lana Moisey, Linda Morris, Thomas Page, Molly Palsgrove, Carol Riggsby, David Stokes and James McConaha. All were selected on the basis of scholarship, citizenship, character and service.

C-W Ups Salaries

In an effort to "retain the competent and experienced teachers and attract new ones," Canal Winchester School Board has boosted its salary schedule by $300 a year for beginning teachers with a degree. This, plus the $200 increase made mandatory for two years by the State, brings the teacher just out of college $5100. At the March meeting, board members learned the bicycle racks donated by the Lions Club and the Whirl-O-Round, a gift from the PTO will soon be installed and that the $1,800 in Federal Funds will be used to upgrade the library services for grades one through eight. A special meeting has been set for Friday, Apr. 1, to discuss a proposed building program which will probably be balloted this fall, also, 1966-67 teaching contracts.

Science To The Front

Ten students or teams were given superior ratings for their displays in the Canal Winchester Junior-Senior High School Fair. Winners in the senior division, under the direction of Dr. Jud Wynkoop, were Linda Taylor, John Dawson, David Butsko, Linda Lamb and Kathleen Coe. Junior high students earning top ratings for their projects, supervised by Mrs. Mabel Gale, include Marilyn Schacht and Carol Donaldson, Deborah Alexander and Debra Morehart, Terry Duffy and Larry Roberts, Gwen Heffner and Millie Windsor and Jim Sayre and Mark Hanna.

'Rose Maiden' Sought

The tenth annual maiden of roses competition and pageant will be held on Fathers Day, Sunday, June 19, 3 p.m. at the Park of Roses, Whetstone Park. Entrants are being sought from the 40 county and city high schools, and the event will be televised, live in color, by WLW-C. The event is sponsored by the Rose Commission, headed by Don C. Hollenback, and Diane Courtright, Miss Ohio, will be one of the judges. Prizes include a $300 scholarship, school of charm scholarships, wristwatch, $50 savings bonds, and a floral certificate.

White Joins Staff

Noted newspaperman, war correspondent, political correspondent and author William S. White debuts this week on the Editorial Page along with Barry Goldwater. White served as chief Congressional correspondent for the New York Times and won a Pulitzer Prize for his biography "The Taft Story" in 1955. He authored the best-selling "The Professional: Lyndon B. Johnson" and has been termed "the ablest member" of the Washington press corps. He joins The Spectator on an exclusive basis in this area. Look for his clear, concise column, reporting and analyzing the important news developments, direct from Washington each week in The Spectator.

Election Board Ready

The Franklin County Board of Elections, 410 S. High-st, will be open daily from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. and each Saturday from 8:30 until 12 noon. The board office will maintain extra hours Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Mar. 21, 22 and 23, until 9 p.m. Transfers (change of address within Franklin County) may be made in person or by mailing the information by postal card. Voters must be registered from the address where they reside Mar. 23 in order to be eligible to vote on May 3. Hamilton Loses Veteran Clerk

Gibbs' Resignation Apparently 'Wolf Cry'

The half hour spent before Hamilton Local School Board adjourned to one of its famous executive sessions was highlighted by the resignation of Mrs. Mildred Hardraker, clerk for the past seven years.

When the members returned that resignation was accepted, South Elementary Principal Ed Nordin was employed for three years as executive principal at an annual salary of $12,500 and nine motions were made involving contracts for present teachers.

Nordin's three-year contract came on the heels of the recommendation read from Superintenoent D'Alan Huff that this post, authorized three years ago but kept vacant for economical reasons, be filled.

The teachers' contracts indicated that even with extensive "undercover work" of the executive session the honeymoon is over for the new board and they don't always agree.

After it was voted to offer contracts to most of the current certificated staff on a single resolution contracts were considered on an individual basis for eight teachers.

It became evident that Hubert Gibbs (who apparently has chosen to forget last month's outburst in which he stated he was resigning) did not want these teachers rehired.

He was overruled in six cases but succeeded in gaining sufficient support to oust two. He suffered another defeat when, against the recommendation of the principal, he attempted to secure a three-year instead of one-year contract for a teacher.

For the first time in recent history, the board declined the opportunity to go into partnership with Uncle Sam.

The resolution to submit the proposal, already prepared, for a summer Head Start program for 60 children was turned down, with only President Jim Strouse and Robert Hufford backing it.

The opinion seems to be that Hamilton Township children do not require special preparation for school and that the Head Start program just gives parents a chance to park their pre-schoolers with the Board of Education.

Gibbs' proposals concerning married students in the school system were quieted by Strouse who pointed out that it is the statutory obligation of the school to educate students under 18 without regard to their marital status.

However, it was agreed that the board would attempt to establish a policy on the matter for future guidance.

It is doubtful that it will follow Gibbs' motion (certainly made facetiously, although seconded) that a maternity ward be established. He made this remark when Strouse turned aside his request that married students automatically be dropped from school.

The board plans to meet with Tom Quick to screen applicaticns for the superintendency of the district Thursday, Mar. 31. Hope was expressed that the position can be filled at the April meeting.

(The letter read from Huff stated that interruptions of his leave of absence have delayed his return for two weeks.)

OH, GRANNY!

DON'T LET the demure garb of Barbara Stevenson fool you. The vice-president of the Groveport FHA is "out to get her man" at the Golddiggers Dance to be held this Friday, Mar. 18, from 8 to 11:30 p.m. A half dollar will get any senior high student in to square dance and to compete for the awards for the best "granny" dress, most original corsage worn by the girls' escorts and in the talent contest.

Board Sets Starting Salary At $5,000

With the $200 hike mandatory by the state, the beginning teacher in the Madison School District with a bachelor's degree will receive $5,000 a year.

This action is part of the new teacher's salary schedule which was adopted by the Madison Local School Board this week.

The schedule allows certificated personnel at all levels a raise of approximately six and two-thirds percent.

Although reemployment of regular faculty will not be acted upon until next month four principals were employed for the coming school year.

Charles Bishop was offered a three-year contract as high school principal; Steve Drummond a like contract at Asbury Elementary; Joe Gerlach a one-year contract as teaching principal at Edwards, and Mrs. Isabel Miller a one-year's assignment as teaching-principal at Brice.

Approval of the application for matching funds from the federal government paved the way for both the junior and senior high school libraries to be brought up to minimum state standards.

Other action included the okay for advertising of bids for school room equipment and for bus repairs (a contract held in recent years by the local Chevrolet garage), a change in policy which will allow a student to enroll in both vocal and instrumental music and the go-ahead to the FFA members to farm a part of the junior high site and all the Herderick site this summer.

(A like agreement on a 50-50 basis in 1965 earned the chapter and the Board of Education about $600 apiece.)

A special meeting is slated for Monday, Mar. 21, to allow the architects to present their up-dated enrollment forecasts.

OH, THAT NEEDLE

IT'S A BRAWL, but it's fun when the cast of the Hamilton Township Junior Class go looking for "Gammer Gurton's Needle" in one of the oldest of English language plays this Friday and Saturday evenings. Appearing in one of the scenes where action is the byword, are, from left, Don Watkins, Annie Osborne and Doug Walker.

You hear a lot of people say that a war will decrease our unemployment problem. Well, we're in a war now and is our unemployment decreasing? — Sally, Franklin Park, S.

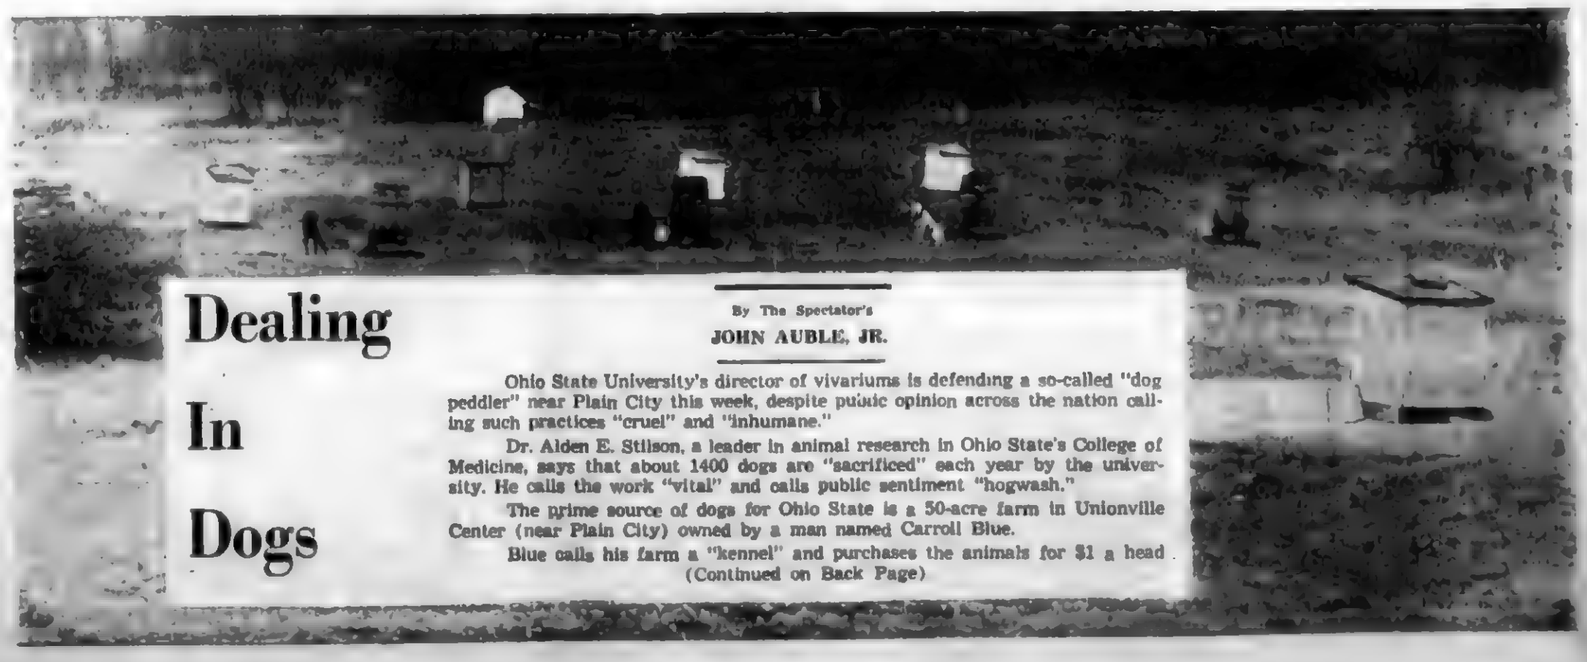
The United States unemployment rate dropped sharply in February, according to the LIVE WIRE figures from the Labor Department. Only 3.7 percent of the labor force was unemployed. This was the first time in almost nine years that the figure had dropped below 4 percent.

It seems that all you read anymore is fires striking homes. I'm sure the problem is a national one. How does Columbus stack up in fire prevention? — Just Curious, Nelson-rd.

A LIVE WIRE check with the Columbus Fire Department says that this city ranked first in all cities in the state for fire prevention activities. Of all the cities in the nation in the 500,000 population class, Columbus was ranked seventh.

I think I've heard everything now! Someone told me that they now have birth control shots for dogs! Is it true, or are these "planned puppyhood" friends of mine just barking up the wrong tree? — Dog's Best Friend, Grove City.

Your friends are right. East side veterinarian Dr. H. Platt confirms that dogs are being given injections of Promone. The serum works for Fido — er, Lassie — much like the present birth control methods now being used by human females.



There's a boy in my class whom I like very much but he doesn't even know I'm alive. What should I do? — Miss R. S., Whitehall.

Stop calling LIVE WIRE and get on his telephone line. Carry his books home from school. Maybe that would help.

There is talk about a new Franklin County court house. What's the history of the old one?—Interested, Grandview.

The South High-st courthouse was completed in 1887 at a cost of $400,000. Henry Howe described the structure as "one of the most magnificent buildings of its kind in the state," according to a LIVE WIRE call to the Ohio Historical Society.

Dealing In Dogs

By The Spectator's
JOHN AUBLE, JR.

Ohio State University's director of vivariums is defending a so-called "dog peddler" near Plain City this week, despite public opinion across the nation calling such practices "cruel" and "inhumane."

Dr. Alden E. Stilson, a leader in animal research in Ohio State's College of Medicine, says that about 1400 dogs are "sacrificed" each year by the university. He calls the work "vital" and calls public sentiment "hogwash."

WILLIAM S. WHITE: Bedrock May Become Bedlam

WHITE

WASHINGTON — The British political campaign, in which Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor party is seeking the equivalent of re-election on Mar. 31, is developing a kind of infighting that is disturbing on this side of the water.

There is cause for concern here just as there would be in London should high-placed members of the Republican opposition in this country begin to attack the great, historic bedrock that is the American-British alliance.

Some prominent members of Britain's Conservative party are accusing Wilson of being too close to "Mother U.S."—Wilson of all people, considering that the Conservatives for half a lifetime have made total comradeship with the United States the very underpinning of their high policy.

But what makes the present situation troubling here is that Yankee-baiting has long been mainly a Labor party indulgence. The Conservatives, except occasionally for a right-wing and outdated Rudyard Kipling kind of splinter, have never gone in for this sort of thing.

Indeed, the old Harold Wilson — the out-of-power Wilson who could afford the option of irresponsibility open to politicians holding no responsibility — was a pretty good Yankee-baiter himself. He was also once a ban-the-bomber, something approaching a neutralist, and, in general, a hip-shooting sort of politico.

But the Wilson in office has been a different man altogether. He has faithfully supported the United States at very critical points — notably the war in Viet Nam — against bitterly antagonistic pressures from his own left wing.

He has, once he reached the high and lonely plateau of national leadership with all its burdens, been a first-rate ally on the whole. And it is bound to be perfectly clear to the Conservatives in England —who are at heart far more in favor of the war of resistance in Viet Nam than is most of Labor and far more aware of its absolute necessity — that they are setting foot here on a road of dangerous irresponsibility.

Should the Conservatives come to power at the end of this month — though they appear most unlikely to do so — their whole party history and basic convictions would compel them to sustain and maybe to broaden the close association with "Mother U.S." for which some are now deriding Wilson. When they damage him in this matter, inevitably, if unwittingly, they damage as well the profoundly Conservative duty to halt Communist aggression in Asia.

If any appreciable number of British Conservatives are going to accept nit-picking irresponsibility as a tolerable campaign method, then the world is indeed turned upside down. — Copyright 1966 by United Feature.

BARRY GOLDWATER: Hubert Should've Stayed Here

GOLDWATER

An old political axiom says that when you award one patronage job you automatically make one ingrate and 1,000 enemies.

The same thing applies to a large extent to our foreign aid program.

And this brings us to Vice-President Hubert Humphrey who has recently been romping through the Far East smiling, cajoling, posing, promising and otherwise performing like a ward heeler running for the office of alderman.

He appeared on television and in newspaper photographs patting children, kissing babies, shedding his coat, laughing with the natives and comporting himself generally as everybody's chum.

But winning friends and influencing people through personal charm alone is not the vice-president's long suit — at least not in the United States, if we can believe reliable public opinion polls. And apparently nobody knows this better than President Johnson. So before the vice-president took off for the Far East, the White House packed his traveling bag with "goodies" to pass out along the way.

As a result, when Humphrey wasn't smiling for the cameras he was playing Santa Claus with the taxpayers' money. In Thailand he reached in his bag and drew out some promises of heavy American financial aid for that country.

On Feb. 15 he travelled through Pakistan strewing $50-million in U.S. economic loan promises. Two days later he got to India and made a ringing announcement of a projected $100-million American loan program in that area.

In some cynical quarters it was hinted that the foreign aid commitments were Humphrey's official hedge against the possibility of mob action, egg-throwing and similar anti-U.S. demonstrations.

But this is quite a high price to pay for the personal poise of an American official who really didn't have to take the trip. It also seems high for the maintenance of U.S. prestige in Asia which didn't have to be risked in this particular way.

All of this assumes that the vice-president was not on a diplomatic mission designed to hasten the end of the Viet Nam war. It is understandable, therefore, that Humphrey's Far Eastern safari has riled a number of persons in the Congress.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee was especially uphappy over the trip. Chairman J. William Fulbright, for example, asked foreign aid boss David E. Bell if there was "any precedent for delegating to the vice-president authority to make commitments." Bell said he would have to check the records, but he insisted that both he and the President had authorized Humphrey to make the aid announcements.

The ambassadorial set is more than a little disturbed at having their historic prerogatives of representing American policy usurped by fast-moving Presidential emissaries from Washington.

As one ambassador put it privately: "It's a lousy way to run a ball game." — Copyright 1966, Los Angeles Times.

The Big Exchange

Long after we've walked through the Valley of the Shadow, the harvest of what a man named M. E. Sensenbrenner is sowing today will be reaped.

The Columbus mayor, along with mayors of other cities, has written a letter to G. Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange requesting that the ticker-tape crowd re-locate headquarters in Columbus.

The mayor has made arrangements to make available 17 acres of ground a short distance from the state capitol building and is welcoming the opportunity to work with the Stock Exchange for re-location.

"We are located in the heart of one of America's richest and most diversified industrial and agricultural states," the mayor says.

The mayor told Funston that Columbus is "within a 500-mile radius of 67 percent of the nation's consuming public" and one hour from New York City by air, via the recently-designated international airport at Port Columbus (another of the mayor's visions).

The mayor pointed out that Columbus has two of the world's outstanding privately-financed research institutions in Battelle and the Chemical Abstracts Society.

Total financial assets of banks in the area are over $1.3 billion and 50 branch facilities of Fortune magazine's 500 largest corporations find business profitable in the Columbus metropolitan area.

Is Columbus ready to replace New York in giving the Stock Exchange a new home? The mayor thinks so, and nobody yet has offered him glasses for his foresight.

The Mother Of Invention

Taxpayers of Ohio will take note that Tax Commissioner Gerald Donahue has been reassigned by Governor Rhodes to his old post as First Assistant Attorney General.

Mr. Donahue, Attorney General William Saxbe explained before he left the country on vacation, is vitally needed to try a pending tax case and help build Interstate 71.

Mr. Donahue is a very capable tax lawyer and highway expediter, and there are those who will recall he also has been an invaluable political campaign aide to Saxbe in the past. He will return, the governor said, to his tax post as soon as these other matters are squared away.

The Spectator hopes that Candidate Saxbe's upcoming campaign for re-election will not interfere with Mr. Donahue's tax and highway duties, and that he can return to his desk as tax commissioner soon.

Maybe even right after the elections.

Breakfast Of Champions

By The Spectator's
TED BEARDSHEAR

Generations of mothers have instilled in their daughters a horror of the man who takes a morning drink.

"It's a sign he's an alcoholic," they cluck.

A friend of mine claims there is no better time to drink than in the morning. He says the body is relaxed and receptive; the mind is clear; the organs are priming themselves for another day's work. It's the ideal time, he says.

He claims the man who drinks in the morning is an individual with sense, clarity and good breeding. He says that man is showing selection and judgment.

I asked him about these generations of mothers. He said there has always been some sort of taboo about the morning drink . . . some ritualistic holdover that has robbed the populace of one of the great pleasures of existence. And he thinks it is wrong. He thinks it should be dispelled. He thinks most nonsensical taboos should be erased.

I began to picture some of those little old ladies (who sometimes sip a short glass of sherry to help them with their sleeping) waking up with a hooker of gin in the morning.

And I thought of the many men who overindulged the night before who have claimed a little bit of the "hair of the dog that bit them," was just what the doctor ordered.

I suppose Mrs. Average Housewife would find the drudgery of housecleaning a little bit better when a sunbreak belt of booze.

And Mr. Average Husband could probably get to work easier and with less strain and tension if he got a little laced up for breakfast.

So I guess my friend was right. The morning drink has fallen in disrepute when actually there is not a single thing that can be said against it.

Convinced, I tried it. And it was great. It was so great, I thought if one could do so much then two could do that much more.

Consequently, at 10:30 a.m. I wasn't fit to go to work.

There's some sort of moral there if one had the ability to find it . . .

They Said It

"Every American will be happier, wealthier and wiser when all Americans are well educated, are free to exercise the right to vote, and have reached the point where they use their education and their franchise wisely and responsibly. This will not happen overnight. But the United States must see that it happens as soon as possible." — The Christian Science Monitor.

"Dearest, I Think You Might Be Just A Teensy-Weensy Bit Mistaken"

Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON — The housewife discovering that her food bill is inching up week after week can scarcely know how far in advance this continuing rise was heralded. An incident of last August throws light on how inflationary pressures were building up to send bacon over $1 a pound and eggs at about that level a dozen.

In the course of visiting the 12 Federal Reserve banks under his jurisdiction William McChesney Martin Jr., chairman of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, stopped in Atlanta. There he was told by Jack Tarver, chairman of the Atlanta bank, of a recent session with Georgia's Sen. Richard Russell, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee and a potent force in Washington.

CHILDS

Hardly a glowing optimist by temperament, Russell warned that the war in Viet Nam would certainly expand in 1966 with the commitment of up to 400,000 American troops. This would require supplemental appropriations in billions of dollars and a defense budget for the next fiscal year perhaps as high as $60 billion.

To a banker it meant a growing squeeze on credit along with strong upward pressure on prices. Martin had already heard from more than half of the 12 Federal Reserve banks urging that the brake of a rise in the discount rate—a higher interest rate—be applied. He became convinced that in view of threatening inflation this was essential. For the next four months a fascinating debate went on with the White House over the wisdom of a move that might slow down not merely the price rise but prosperity as well.

As the weeks passed, the White House and the Treasury argued at least for delay—wait until the new budget is announced. Let's get some coordination, a consensus, so the argument ran. To Martin and his allies on the board this seemed to suggest a hedge on the jealously guarded independence of the Fed.

On Dec. 5 the Fed announced a rise of half of one percent in the discount rate. Loud denunciation on Capitol Hill followed, with Sen. Russell B. Long, majority whip, and Chairman Wright Patman of the House Banking and Currency Committee leading the pack. To say the move made the Administration unhappy would rate high as the understatement of the year.

But from that low point out of hours of discussion between the President and the chairman of the Fed what might be described as a friendly standoff has come about. Although on the basis of rising rates for money in the market and a credit squeeze on small business another jump in the discount rate might be justified, Martin does not intend to initiate it.

Discussing a new board member to replace his ally, C. Canby Balderston, whose term expired, Martin argued for a businessman to give the Fed a better balance as between various elements of the economy. His only objection to the President's choice, Andrew F. Brimmer, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, was that he would be the fourth economist on the board.

Martin had a favorable impression of Brimmer during the three years he was an economist with the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

The housewife at the checkout counter has, along with most of us, little knowledge of discount rates and certificates of deposit and 90-day bills. But she knows when the food bill goes steadily up as it has done for five successive months.

Already the Republicans are hitting the high-price theme, which is a good sign they're hearing from the grass roots. Whether the Administration will bite the bullet of higher taxes in an election year is a question. The debate between the White House and the Fed may be suspended but it is by no means concluded— Copyright 1966, United Features.

Letters To The Editor

Is Brown Fearful?

To The Spectator:

In 1964, Ted W. Brown stubbornly refused to abandon a three-cornered donnybrook for the GOP nod to the U.S. Senate. During the height of the brawl he blistered Taft as a fake conservative while asserting that his entry was patently illegal. Brown was overruled by the Ohio high tribunal and the ensuing contest saw him wage a surprisingly stiff battle. However, Taft won while White easily outpaced Brown.

Today, Secretary of State Brown invalidates White's petition to oppose Rhodes in the Republican primary. It is evident that Rhodes has the edge for he has obligated Ohio to the international money lenders.

Brown's attitude seems strange for if White did write in the addresses of his supporters, why hasn't Brown denounced that common practice before? Is he fearful of another smear job such as was attempted against former Governor and now state Supreme Court Justice C. William O'Neill?

Mr. Robert Fan

To The Spectator:

It's about time somebody came to the aid of Bobby McNamara ("Bob And The Barbs," Mar. 9 Spectator) who has been on the firing line too long by so-called citizens of this country.

McNamara is doing as good a job as anyone could in this time of trouble and, as your editorial points out, "he has enough problems with the defense of this country without having to defend himself every few steps along the way."

How can anyone expect results from a man who is consistently being criticized for every move he makes?

HAROLD WALLACE

The Voice

To The Spectator:

I got a little sick to my stomach reading the syrupy stories on how the Spectator was siding with the teen-agers. I'm not denouncing them, but there are a few rotten apples that are really rotten.

Then, last week (Mar. 9, Spectator), I read your special report on teen-age drinking.

You have confirmed my belief that The Spectator has no gods to answer to . . . that The Spectator will, indeed, cite injustices no matter where or when they occur . . . that The Spectator is, in fact, THE voice of the people in Franklin County.

East, DeSales, Worthington Capture 7 Of 11 Berths

East, DeSales and Worthington, who finished 1-2-3 at the '66 District wrestling meet, fill seven of 11 first team berths on The Spectator's third annual All-Star Wrestling Team this season.

Only repeaters from the '65 first-team were Whitehall's 120-pounder Steve Beery, who has been named to the first team for three years in a row now, DeSales' 165-pounder Mike DeAscentis and Franklin Heights Dick Grambo.

Other repeaters on the first 22 from the '65 squad were East's Jake Holloway, Worthington's Frank Lowery and Arlington's Mike Saunders.

Worthington's John Chrystal, the District's lone State champion, was selected honorary captain of the 1966 All-Star squad.

The first 22 contained 15 seniors and seven juniors with the first 11 showing a combined won-loss mark of 238-7.

A total of 30 mat coaches were contacted for nominations to the squad which represents Franklin County and surrounding areas where The Spectator circulates.

THE SQUAD was determined by coaches' nominations and guided by a point system which allowed: ten points for District win, five points for runnerup, three points for third and two points for fourth.

Five additional points were granted for advancement in state competition and one point added for each win (both dual and tourney) gained during the 1965-66 season.

The top 22 wrestlers will receive certificates from The Spectator in recognition of their achievements. The certificates will be mailed to the respective coaches for distribution to the All-Star wrestlers.

Deyo Coach

CHUCK DEYO

Chuck Deyo, coach of East's 1966 District champion wrestling squad, was selected as The Spectator's second annual "Coach of the Year" this week.

Deyo was thus honored after polling the most votes from 30 Central District wrestling coaches who select the District's number one mentor as honorary coach for The Spectator's All-Star wrestling team.

RUNNERUP in the coaches' balloting was veteran West mentor John Butler, who developed a so-so '65 Cowboy squad into a strong District contender this season.

Other coaches garnering votes in the balloting were Worthington's Bob McMahan ('65 "Coach of Year"), Franklin Heights' Bob Twiss, DeSales' Bob Triano, Watterson's Dick Bliss, Groveport's Pete Nix and Jonathan Alder's Jack O'Rourke.

Deyo, who took over at East this season following the departure of Jim Porter, turned out an East squad which won both District and City League Meet titles.

Sporting Chances

COLUMBUS - AREA keglers have moved into a pair of spots in the WIBC's national '65-'66 season tally sheet. Gahanna's Barbara Hern ranks fourth nationally on the high individual three-game list with her 743.

The local Seafood Bay team now holds tenth place in the High Team, three games category with its 3012.

FCL Track Champs Pin Hopes On Six Vets

By JACK WITTENMEIER

And Indian cinder mentor Bob Blais is busy again trying to get the C-W express on the right track before May 4 when Winchester defends it's Franklin County League track title.

BLAIS HAS at least six lettermen back to double up on the FCL cinder crown but six other stalwarts on that '65 unit are missing.

Beaty led the FCL field in the 100 last spring and was clocked in 10.1 in that event during the season.

BURKE, FCL 440 champ, will attempt to better his 51.7 effort in that event this time around.

Other top returnees include senior hurdler Jim Woodward, sophomore Dave Cook (pole vault, low hurdles, relays) and senior Chris Hartman, a Johnny-come-lately shot man who looked good in the Sectionals last spring, flinging up to 47 feet.

But Blais, whose Indians finished third at the Sectionals last spring, will be without Wendell Bond (hurdles, relays), Larry Calvert (broad, high jumps, relays), Nick Burgess (discus), Dave Haffey (880, mile), Terry Wynkoop (880, mile) and Scott Guiler (pole vault) this season.

THINGS COULD be brighter if Junior hurdler Jerry Shackelford, a letterman, recovers, from an ankle injury in time to help.

The C-W thin mentor is hopeful that a quartet of frosh prospects might blossom. This foursome includes Doug Beaty (pole vault, hurdles, high and broad jump), Chuck Carpenter (440, high jump) and a pair of sprint and relay prospects —Ronnie Carpenter and Eugene Haines.

Also likely to help considerably are soph distance men John Basbagill and Mark Craig, senior Bob Fisher (high jump), hurdles) and soph high jumper John McClain.

DESPITE heavy losses from his championship squad, Blais looks for his Indians to be strong in sprint and weight events and "to gain some ground in the hurdles."

Blais sees Reynoldsburg and St. Mary as prime FCL contenders but added, "You might say anybody will be tough as far as we're concerned."

STEVE SCOOTS — Carroll's Steve Fridley whisks across the finish line in :06.6 to take first place Saturday at the Indoor Track Meet in the "A" 60-yard dash. Fridley later added a first in the 300-yard run (:33.5) as the Bulldogs tied for second in the final standings behind winner St. Mary.

Fridley Paces Carroll To 2nd

Carroll's cindermen displayed notions of another fine track season Saturday at the Indoor Track Meet by placing second to St. Mary (40 pts.) in the "A" competition with 37 points.

The Bulldogs' Steve Fridley was the big noise, taking firsts in both the 300-yd. run (33.5) and 60-yd. dash (6.6).

Gary Glendenning's 2:34.6 clocking in the 1000-yd. run was good for another Carroll first with the Bulldogs' two - mile relay quartet garnered a second.

Canal Winchester, which placed sixth in the "A" section with 18½ points, got a first on Jim Burke's :53.9 in the 440, a second (Burke) in the 300-yd. run and a third (Randy Beaty) in the 60-yd. dash.

Bob Rinehart, competing for Hamilton Township in the "AA" section, turned in the Rangers' best effort with a third in the broad jump.

A CUTIE AND THE COMICS

'Here She Is . . . Ann Corio!'

There is a touch of nostalgia at the Hartman Theater this week. Ann Corio (to the uneducated, she is to burlesque what Ethel Merman is to musical comedy) presents and stars in "This Was Burlesque" — best reviewed Monday night by a middle-aged customer smiling on his his way out saying "ahh . . . memories, memories."

This is the goal of the review, as Ann sees it . . . to re-create the early days of burlesque. The old-fashioned burlesque with baggy-pants comics, lots of laughter and sophisticated bits of "look Ma, I'm dancing" by a gum-chewing chorus girl.

"This Was Burlesque" is an array of girls, girls, girls, collected by Miss Corio to show what burlesque was like before the comics became too broad and the girls stopped being "strippers" and became "exotics." The show is based on Ann Corio's recollections of the days when she was the top attraction throughout the country . . .the days when she was called the darling of college students and diplomats.

The production is a "fun show." Go to laugh and be entertained. Some of the old-timers are risque, but it is basically a fast-paced, clean show.

Top Bananas ("My father's name is Ben and my mother's name is Anna . . . that's why they call me Banana) such as Steve Milis, Dick Bernie and Dexter Maitland throw out one-liners like a rapid-fire machine gun ("I've got a set of Liz Taylor 'his' and 'her' towels . . . one says 'His,' the other says 'Hers' and another says 'Next.' ") Risque? Maybe, but not obscene or lewd.

One girl loaded with talent that can't be overlooked is Nicole Jaffe who plays a dumb blonde. She is a comedienne that prospective gals interested in comedy should engage as a teacher. She almost steals the show.

The show is a rare treat for theater-goers in Columbus. The wardrobe and sets are extremely striking. The orchestra has the brassy, reminiscent sound of early burlesque. The audience was extremely enthusiastic and receptive. The dance routines grabbed warm and hearty applause and the comedy produced fountains of laughter.

If you're past 35 (you've probably got your ticket already) let the show take you back to the good old days. If you're under 35 . . . well, see it anyway for a new experience you'll never forget.

Max's Has Lynn Merrill

Lovely Lynn Merrill is currently appearing at Max's Steak House. Radiating with charm and personality, this talented singer of song captures your musical moods in a tasteful and discriminating style. Lynn, no new-comer to Columbus audiences, is backed by Tom O'Keefe, maestro of the 88's Together, they are an entertaining, enjoyable duo. For an evening of good food and entertainment is a speciality on the menu at Max's.

LYNN

Dante's Win 'Battle'

The other Sunday at the Frank J. Lausche Building at the Ohio Exposition Center, there was one of the biggest, most enthusiastic election campaigns ever held in good old Columbus town. The balloting was to select the best, most popular band in the area. It was the Battle of the Bands Contest, conducted by Jerry Rasor of TV 4's Dance-O-Rama, in which two groups, the Dante's and Rebounds were battling for top prize money of $300 and an opportunity to audition for a major recording firm in New York.

These two bands were the winners in several elimination contests held at the regular Sunday Dance-O-Rama dances at Valley Dale. Each group performed for two thirty minutes sets, then the audiences were given a ballot to mark their choice as the best rock and roll band in the city. The Dante's were elected to rule as the top Rock and Roll Band in Central Ohio.

While the Dante's were voted the top rock and roll artists, Jerry Rasor must be acclaimed one of the most popular M C's of rock and roll dances in America. Because of Jerry's personality and the magic of rock and roll, over 6,000 teenagers turned out for the battle of the bands contest. This combination would make any night club owner or theatrical promoter envious. It was the largest gathering of teenagers for any type of entertainment ever held in the city.

Keyboard Magic At Shel

Louise Smith presents keyboard magic on the Hammond Organ at the beautiful Shel Steak House. Appearing nightly for over three months, Louise's soft, romantic music blends in well with the decor and atmosphere of the Shel. Her music definitely appeals to us "older" individuals. With a repertoire of old standards, mixed with some of the better tunes of today, Louise has a distinctive style that is pleasant and pleasing.

Her rendition of "Ebb Tide" is the best ever on an electric organ. In fact, it is so authentic, one can almost feel the spray. Another tune requested frequently is "Spanish Eyes." This one is a Louise Smith special.

If you have out-grown the rock and roll beat, take my advice and drop in the Shel Steak House, 3024 Sullivant-av and hear melodious music with the bright and happy styling of Louise Smith. I could listen all night.

'Musical Souvenirs' At Veterans

On opening night Mar. 24, when the house lights dim, Lowell Riley will step into the spotlight to give the downbeat for "Hi Neighbor" and the 24th annual Vaud-Villities will be under way. Young in heart and high in enthusiasm, the 300-member cast of America's oldest and largest musicale will give its finest performance to date in "Musical Souvenirs," Mar. 24-25-26 at Veterans Memorial. The varied moods and sounds of Cole Porter will be featured as well as Western ballads and songs from Broadway revues and operettas. Many other surprises will show the talents of the Vaud-Villities singers, dancers and comedians. There are over 1,000 years of cumulative experience represented by cast members who have played to well over 82,000 people. Vaud-Villities is the only show designed specifically for the Veterans Memorial stage.

Clarmont Is Gourmet Delight

Dining out is almost always fun and enjoyable, but when you visit the Clarmont Steak House be prepared for a real gourmet experience. Frank Kondos and his staff make certain that your tastes and appetite are deliciously satisfied. Serving the finest in steaks and other delectable foods, the Clarmont has built a reputation as one of the best restaurants in the city. The atmosphere is friendly and sophisticated. Playing nightly at the Clarmont is Vivian at the Hammond organ. Her musical menu is as tasteful and pleasing as the dinner. Dispensing all legal beverages, the Clarmont is a must for that next anniversary, birthday celebration or for just plain good eating.

Jet Ticket Book Offers Savings

The Columbus Baseball Club's annual pre-season Book Ticket Drive opened Tuesday. The books contain 10 tickets and will sell for $10, the same as 1965. This pre-season price gives the buyer a savings of $5 on each book.

Books may be obtained at any luncheon, fraternal or social club, government agencies, industrial plants, most companies, shopping centers or at Jet Stadium.

Dems Form Glee Club

Michael J. Darrian, president of the Franklin County Young Democratic Club, this week announced plans to organize a men's glee club. All young Democrats are invited. A director and pianist are needed. Anyone wishing to participate may contact James D. Emmitt, chairman, 1609 Westwood-av. Next monthly meeting will be held Mar. 17 at Moose Lodge, 36 W. Sycamore-st.

CIRCUS COMING MARCH 31

The 16th annual Shrine Circus will be held in the Fairgrounds Coliseum Mar. 31 through Apr. 9. There are 27 acts, including three separate elephant acts in the spectacular circus.

The first of 20 performances will be closed to the public. Only handicapped and needy children, accompanied by their Shriner hosts, are to be admitted to the matinee on opening day. Thereafter, at 19 shows, the finest stunts of the sawdust arena will be presented to an expected 60,000 paying customers. Show times are 4 p.m. and 8 p.m. daily and 10 a.m., 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. on Saturdays.

Tickets may be purchased at the door or at the Masonic Temple. Prices are the same as they were 16 years ago, $1.25 for general admission, reserve seats, $2.25 and $3 for box seats.

If you have sent in your $3.50 subscription to the Batman Spectator, then you will be visited this weekend by the caped crusader himself who'll bring you a 45 rpm record.

If you haven't sent in your subscription money, do so immediately so Batman can set-up a time to visit your house. (If you already subscribe, a $3.50 subscription is required which takes effect as soon as your present subscription expires).

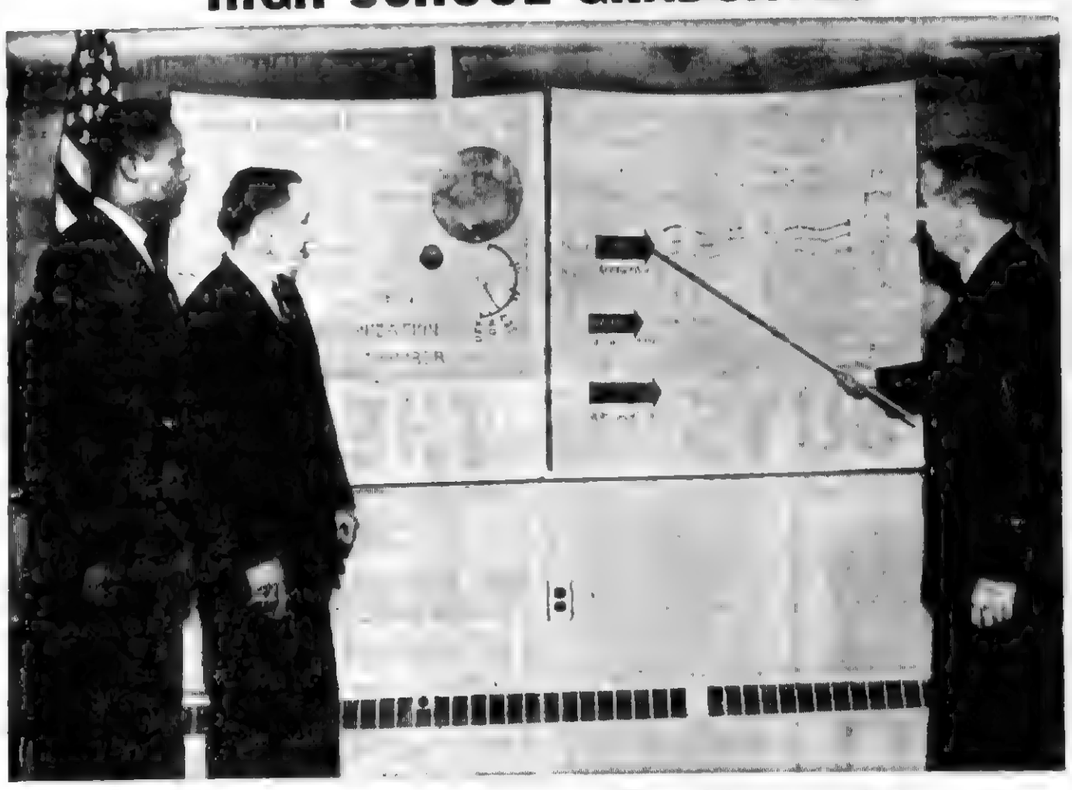
See you next week, kids!

The Bat Column

ADA Chapter Schedules First Annual Dinner

The first annual Roosevelt Day Dinner will be held in Columbus on Friday, Mar. 25, at 8 p.m. at the Southern Hotel. Sponsored by the Central Ohio Chapter of Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) to honor the late President Franklin D Roosevelt, it is hoped to make this a traditional affair like most large cities across the United States.

KAUH



The guest speaker will be Joseph L. Rauh, Jr., Washington, D.C. As a founder and now national vice president of ADA, Rauh is also chaiman of the Democratic Central Committee for the District of Columbia, and chief legal counsel for the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party. He will speak on "Civil Rights and Civil Liberties in the Great Society."

Chairman of the dinner is John Droege of Battelle. David Clayman, attorney, will be master of ceremonies, and the introduction of the speaker will be made by Rankin Gibson, former Supreme Court Justice.

Assisting with the arrangements are Mrs. Ralph Kehr, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Davis, Irwin Barkan, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Silver, Wayne Erlandson, Richard Bing, Mrs. G. Acosta, Martin Seltzer and Mrs. Art Robson.

Reservations can be made by calling Mrs. William Davis, 258-4828. Tickets are $5 per person.

TV ACTRESS JUDY CARNE shows off lacy effect . . .

LET'S KNIT
A ONE-NEEDLE SWEATER

By The Spectator's URSULA duBOIS

Knitters are constantly asking for more one-needle sweaters which can be knitted from the neck down. This particular sweater uses large needles and is quite fast to fashion. It is started at the neck and knitted down which eliminates finishing of sides seams. The lacy effect for that extra touch of femininity is achievbe by making a dropped stitch. Illustrations on the patterns show you how to do it.

URSULA

This sweater is excellent as a casual, yet dressy throw-over and suitable for any time of the day. It can be fashioned by using either a smooth or a nubby yarn, and of course it is quite dressy when knitted in a mohair yarn. Instructions are easy to follow, even for the beginner.

MOM GOT TIRED OF THAT SAME OLD LINE
AND GOT A NEW FLAME

Mom finally came to the end of her rope and got a new flame—a modern flame-heated Gas clothes dryer. Mom doesn't hang around any more, because an easy turn of a dial dries a heaping load of laundry in minutes . . . soft, fluffy, and fresh as sunshine.

And her Gas dryer saves money every time she uses it. Gas dries up to five whopping loads for what one load costs in a flameless dryer. And if her Gas dryer ever needs fixing, our trained servicemen will find the trouble quickly. Most services are free; all service is fast, courteous and dependable.

If you're tired of the same old line, get yourself a new flame—a money-saving Gas clothes dryer. Think of all the things you can do with the money you save with Gas.

DEALING IN DOGS—

from dog pounds in about four surrounding counties—many times under letters of agreement from county commissioners. He sells about 80 percent of his animals to OSU for $9 each.

He buys them for $1 a head under a kennel license, instead of the usual $3 fee for a license tag.

The Ohio Humane Federation in Cleveland, however, says that, according to the Ohio Code, Blue's operation is not a kennel, and there is a move under way in this state to abolish farms such as Blue's on tax charges.

"The Ohio Code (Sec. 955.02) defines a kennel owner as 'a person, partnership, company, corporation or professional engaged in the business of breeding dogs for hunting or for sale.' There is no breeding being done at the Blue farm and others like it," says William Green, office manager of the Humane Federation.

The Federation has filed a suit in Champaign County, against a dog dealer in Dayton. "If we win there," Green commented, "we'll go into district court of appeals in the Columbus area and demand that county auditors revoke kennel licenses from those who operate kennels under false pretenses."

"Blue is our prime source of dogs," Dr. Stilson says. Onio State officials have revealed plans to eventually build a $400,000 animal farm building on Don Scott field so that the university can raise its own animals for experimentation.

Right now, dogs purchased from Blue are kept in four-unit cages (which cost some $1200 each) in Wiseman Hall behind University Hospital. About $1.40 is spent each day on each dog for upkeep.

Most of the animals are used for "acute experiments," which means that their life-span is "about 24 hours," Dr. Stilson said.

Prior to purchasing dogs from Blue, the university sends a team of three veterinarians, headed by Hilliard veterinarian Dr. George Kukor, to the Blue farm where they select "only the healthy dogs" for research work.

The dogs are visited twice a week by the vets and live in about 60 kennels built there by the university. The kennels are two feet square with a crushed stone bed 14 feet in diameter around them. There is one dog to a kennel, each on a seven-foot chain.

A stone's throw from the kennels, Blue keeps his other animals chained to barrels converted into dog houses. The chains on these animals are considerably shorter. There is one hired hand employed by Blue to feed and water animals which, at times, have totalled as high as 150.

Sickly animals, of no use to the university, that can't be sold by Blue, are destroyed with a .22-rifle, a practice Dr. Stilson calls "more humane than any gas chamber I've ever seen."

"I realize the Blue farm is not a fancy establishment," Dr. Stilson said. "But we aren't participating in a beautification program. We are in the business of research."

The doctor said he feels Blue is "performing a real service for mankind" and he wishes the people shouting inhumane charges would "get realistic."

He has heard and read the jabs at animal research on dogs which have reached national proportions, "Anybody who puts a higher value on an aminal's life than he does on a human life needs psychiatric attention," he said.

He cited advances in medicine which, he says, "could not have been possible without sacrificing animals." Among these advances, he continued, is the development of a diet for persons who have had up to 70 percent of their intestinal tracts removed in a fight against cancer.

Most of the dogs used in OSU experiments are short-haired coon dogs. "We can't use such animals as collies, for example. They get too depressed after an operation."

Employers Are Asked To Help With Survey

All employers are being asked to cooperate in a manpower survey.

The project, under the supervision of the Manpower Advisory Committee, will serve as the initial step of a plan to select and train applicants who will be qualified to fill job openings.

The advisory committee is composed of representatives of management, educational and training facilities and the state and federal labor market and employment services. The group has formulated a training and procurement program that begins with getting data on labor needs.

On Mar. 22, employers will be mailed a letter outlining the need for cooperation with this survey. About a week later, the confidential report on manpower needs form is to be sent which will ask for current personnel needs on all job categories commonly used by the employer.

All data will be held in strictest confidence and will be used solely to compile the statistical material needed to guide the manpower development program.

The next step for the project will be to evaluate the information. On the basis of the most needed occupations, training programs will be planned and priority given.

The net result will be to provide a supply of trained workers to fill job openings.

Methods of selecting candidates will be set up. Major sources of trainees would be the young, untrained people who are entering the labor market and persons whose training no longer qualifies them for present jobs and who must be retrained. Other sources such as high school dropouts will also be utilized.

It is hoped all employers will cooperate. In the event the form is not returned or is incomplete, a representative of the Ohio State Employment Service will call.

Sewer Survey Awaited

Obetz Council will postpone any decisions on major street repairs until the engineering survey to determine the route of sanitary sewer lines is completed in the next 20 days. However, with $3,000 transferred to the street funds, the village can anticipate street improvements this summer. Steps were also taken to aid traffic conditions through the designation of through streets, an overhaul of the traffic ordinance and the purchase of 50 stop and six yield signs. Other action included authorization of advertising for bids on a new police cruiser and permission for a Memorial Day parade forming at Jermoore and proceeding to Lancaster-av where a proposed playground and park will be dedicated.

Poenisch Lone Bidder

The bid of $23,464 made by the Ray Poenisch Construction Co. on the proposed municipal garage was referred to committee by Canal Winchester Council this week. It was the only bid received and not regarded as much more of a bargain than earlier bids that had been rejected. Other business discussed without official action includes house numbering for outlying districts, possible changes in building permit fees, furniture needed for the new municipal building, swimming pool progress and a blanket insurance policy for village property appraised at $404,200. Council will meet with residents of Elizabeth and Franklin-sts next Monday to determine their interest in installation of curbs and gutters at their expense. Recommendations for other street repairs will be heard at that time as well as a report on Mayor Mike Miller's request for a survey on the advisability of making Trine-st one way north between Hocking and Waterloo.

EXECUTIVE SESSION VEILS ACTIONS

Hamilton Re-Examines Contracts

Several facts were known after the Hamilton Local School Board met in special session this week.

Resignation is now compulsory at the end of the school year in which a teacher reaches 70.

Boardman Bob Hufford will serve as acting clerk until a replacement is found for the vacancy created by the resignation of Mrs. Mildred Harkrader.

Mrs. Harkrader will be extended a vote of thanks for past services, Mrs. Barbara Cunard, Central sixth grade teacher, a vote of confidence with the offer of a three-year contract in place of the one-year extension voted last week; and Evan Evans was reassigned for the coming year to South from Central, where he has been principal.

And the board is unhappy with the "conduct of the press."

It is impossible to accurately report other action.

This is because the secrecy shrouding the "executive session" was brought back to the board room to veil official action.

When the board resumed its regular session most business was conducted sotto voce and the effect of several motions further concealed by referring to them by resolution number rather than by title.

In this manner it was moved to table reconsideration until the April meeting on five motions made last week and to rescind another.

With one of the two purposes of Monday's meeting stated to be that of reconsideration of action taken last week on contracts for certificated personnel, the mystery resolutions obviously referred to these contracts.

In conversation prior to the board meeting, County Superintendent Tom Quick declined to speculate on the legality of such "reconsideration" which had been rumored.

The board was quite audible on the action taken on the second purpose of the meeting — that of press conduct. A motion was made to write a letter to The Spectator critical of its reporter.

According to Quick, the displeasure was the result of a faculty member reading in The Spectator that his contract was not to be renewed before he had received official notice.

PENTA-COUNTY PIONEER IN VOCATIONAL FIELD

By The Spectator's
JANE ROBINSON

Toledo, O.

Many of the Franklin County business and civic leaders who accompanied school officials on a tour of the Penta-County Vocational School near here came as doubting Thomases.

They recognized their school systems are failing in their responsibilities to the student who is not college-bound.

Yet they were not sold on the joint vocational school proposed by the local boards of education of Canal Winchester, Madison, Jefferson, Whitehall and Reynoldsburg as the answer to the problem.

After the Penta-County tour, they were believers, ready to return home "to spread the gospel."

The school at Perrysburg is the product of the cooperative efforts of 17 school districts in five northwestern counties.

"Admittedly a strange animal — a new breed to Ohio and to most of the nation," the school is located in the converted facilities of what was once Rossford Army Depot.

The 1100 students, all either juniors or seniors (next year's projected enrollment is 1,700) are offered training in six fields—those of agriculture, business education, distributive education, home economics, trade and industrial education and occupational work experience.

The tour presented clearly the answers to the two questions most often asked.

"Why can't these programs be offered by the individual schools?"

"Just what kinds of teenagers

Eibling's Plan Branded 'Presumptuous'

By The Spectator's
JANE ROBINSON

"Legislation without joint consideration of school standards, district reorganization and annexation can only bring confusion. These factors cannot be divorced."

"It can only be termed 'presumptuous' to inject the question of annexation while, by direction of the State Legislature, an overall school study is under way."

The first statement was made by William Grizzell, and the second by D'Alan Huff, superintendents of Washington and Hamilton Local School Districts.

Their comments are typical of the reaction to recent remarks by Supt. Harold Eibling of the Columbus Public Schools.

Eibling is objecting to the State Board of Education's action, more often than not, denying the transfer of outlying school districts to Columbus when the area involved is annexed to the city.

He has stated that he will take the matter to the Legislature in January, asking that school district and municipal boundaries be made one and the same.

This would revive the "sudden death" policy followed before 1955 when the law was modifed to put the question of annexation of school districts up to the discretion of the State Board of Education.

The general rule followed is that an existing school district shall not be deprived of tax-producing property unless it is relieved of the responsibility of educating a compensating number of students.

Local superintendents are already girding to fight a change in this law. They forecast tax duplicates being "emasculated" to the point it would be financially impossible to provide effective education for the children remaining in the district.

Calvin Leader, superintendent of Jefferson Local, refutes Eibling's contention the outlying districts are "taking away our wealth." He cites OEA statistics on tax valuation per pupil.

Columbus, with $13,585 behind each student, is [illegible]

It's No Pipe Dream

The architects for the Madison Local School District reported to the School Board this week that they are "seeing double." The up-date enrollment prediction sfor the next decade indicate student population will jump from the present 3,100 to 6,000 in five years, with 500 of the additional pupils to show up next year. With variable factors of growth, annexation and economic conditions difficult to forecast accurately 10 years in advance, the report concedes the 1975-76 prediction of 10,950 represents, at best, an educated guess. In other business the board employed Dave Dykes, Ohio University graduate, as high school English teacher, to replace Rita Castel who resigned with plans of moving out of the state. Decisions were made concerning color selection in the junior high school and authorization made to advertise for bids on two new buses.

They'll Be Knocking

Mrs. Harold Eibling, chairman of the 1966 Easter Seal Parade, has appointed Mrs. R. H. Gillespie, 81 Kessler-st, Groveport, as area chairmen in the South East. With her captains, Mrs. Arthur Swartz, 30 W. Mound-st, Canal Winchester, and Mrs. Bonnie Pennel, 205 College-st, Groveport, Mrs. Gillespie will conduct the door-to-door drive for crippled children Sunday, Mar. 27.

Couple Exchange Vows In Lutheran Church

Miss Karen Sue Poenisch and Mr. Hans Werner Nemes exchanged marriage vows Saturday, Feb. 19 at 7:30 p.m. before the altar in St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

The Rev. John O. Lang officiated at the double-ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard O. Poenisch, 1554 S. Fourth-st, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Nemes, 707 Manford-st.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor-length gown of white slipper satin styled with a scooped neckline and appliqued with lace and seed pearls.

The lace-embellished skirt featured a detachable chapel train and a veil of silk illusion was held by a pearl-embroidered crown. She carried a floral arrangement of feathered carnations, white orchids, stephanotis and cascading antique ivy.

Mrs. Clarence Naynes was matron of honor. Miss Jean Cox, the bride's cousin, and Miss Kristen Poenisch, the bride's sister, were bridesmaids.

They wore identical empire floor-length gowns of peacock blue satin accented with matching band and seed pearl embroidered roses. Matching pillboxes of satin leaves and roses with theater veils completed their ensembles. They carried colonial bouquets of blue feathered carnations with cascades of antiqued ivy.

A reception followed in St. Paul's educational unit with Miss Joyce Talbott, Miss Martha Branso, , Mrs. Stephen Brown and Miss Cheryl Raith as hostesses.

MRS. HANS WERNER NEMES

The couple honeymooned at Atwood Lake Lodge, New Philadelphia. Both Mr. and Mrs. Nemes graduated from South High School and are employed by the Capital Rug Cleaning Co.

Ad Agency President Speaks Here April 15

MYRA JANCO, president of Draper Daniels, Inc. Advertising, Chicago, will speak at the annual Ad Club Ladies' Day luncheon Friday, Apr. 15, at 12 noon in the Neil House.

Miss Janco, the only woman in the United States who is president of a multi-million dollar general advertising agency, was named the 1965 Advertising Woman of the Year by the Advertising Federation of America.

For her Columbus appearance, Miss Janco has chosen "The Wooing of Women" as the subject to explore with the audience of advertising men and women.

Ladies' Day is the outstanding event among the year's activities planned by the Ad Club women. Mrs. Virginia Benton, public relations director, United Appeal, is chairman of the committee on women's activities.

Members of the planning committee serving with Mrs. Benton are: Miss Mary Louise Bailey, The Union; Miss Louise Baird, North American Aviation; Mrs. Gladys Lamb, Kelly and Lamb Advertising; Miss Ruth Marlatt, Burkholder Advertising, Inc.; Mrs. Julia Martyn, Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co.; Miss Marie Nerny, Franklin Candy Co., Mrs. Evelyn Osgood, Osgood Rental Agency, Inc.; Mrs. Janet Peabody, Central Ohio Heart Association; Miss Fay Sands, Columbus Dispatch; Miss Martha Sullivan, Byer and Bowman Advertising Agency, Inc.; and Mrs. Ivy F. Wilson, Ivy Farley and Associates.

Chair Aids Vessel Study

There's a new electric chair in Columbus which is designed for comfort and the acquisition of scientific knowledge.

It is located in the special procedures section, department of radiology, in the Ohio State University Medical Center.

"This chair is ideal for studying the vessels of the brain," Dr. William Molnar, professor of radiology, said.

Mrs. Joe J. Bryant Is Honored Again

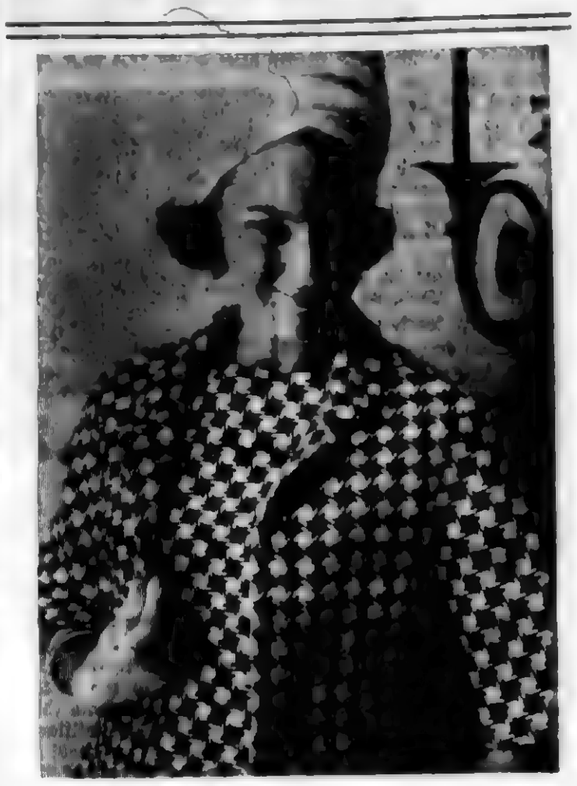
Mrs. Joe J. Bryant was presented a letter of appreciation recently from Gen. G. P. Disosway, Tactical Air Command commander, for her outstanding work in the Lockbourne AFB Family Services Program.

The letter and a silver pendant with the Family Services crest was given Mrs. Bryant by Lt. Col. Harris L. Jenson, base director of personnel, at the organization's coffee program in the Noncommissioned Officers' Open Mess.

Mrs. Bryant, wife of Tech. Sgt. Bryant of the 840th Civil Engineering Squadron, was named last January as Lockbourne "Volunteer of the Year for 1965." She has accumulated 1,530 hours as a Family Services volunteer at various military bases.

Meet Monday

"Changing Times with Minority Groups" will be the theme of the Lockbourne AFB Airess Toastmistress Club's noon meeting Monday, Mar. 28, in the Mediterranean Room of the Officers' Open Mess.



Topic for the club's last meeting held Monday, Mar. 14, was "Changing Times in Religion."

Lenten Service Set

A Good Friday service is set for Apr. 8 sponsored by the East Side Lutheran churches. The service will be in three parts at 12:30, 1 and 1:30 p.m. at Hope Lutheran, Lilley and Livingston. Participating Lutheran churches include: Christ, Faith, First English, Grace, Hope, Good Shepherd, Peace, Redeemer, Reformation and St. Philips.

WILLIAM S. WHITE: This Seadog Runs A Taut Ship

WHITE

WASHINGTON — The highly secret Central Intelligence Agency is broadening its communication with Congress, with private American scientists and with American industry.

Almost, indeed, it might be said that CIA is for the first time gingerly entering ordinary American life — or as much of that ordinary life as its unavoidably clandestine basic cast can possibly permit.

This most-sensitive instrumentality of the American government in the cold war has not, of course, dropped and cannot drop its inherent cloak-and-dagger covering from some operations.

Within the limits of bedrock and unalterable security precautions, however, Admiral W. F. Raborn, its director, has reorganized its whole inner structure and approach to make use of outside skills and talents — and information — never before so widely available to CIA.

That Raborn, though a professional admiral, has become the chief of the CIA in order to liquidate some of its old passion for extreme apartness is not without its irony. When he took over "the agency" there was much expressed fear that with a "military mind" at its head it would more and more tend to operate in darker and darker alleys.

The simple truth is that this has not happened.

The intelligence community is a small and at heart a closed community, and the introduction into CIA of a seadog outsider undoubtedly did not sit well at first within the ranks. But the best information available now is that professional morale is high. This at any rate, is the estimate of men not involved in the agency but who have certain supervisory powers over it.

The admiral seems to have found a way of running a taut ship without making it also a martial one — and a ship, moreover, which can take on purely civilian passengers occasionally with no harm to them or to the professional crew.

One other fact is perhaps worth noting: Not once in Raborn's regime has CIA been caught napping in any major outbreak of trouble for us around the world.

Still, nobody is so naive as to suppose that the best possible work will totally free CIA of the instinctive skepticism and sometimes outright hostility of a public which has a healthy suspicion of secret establishments and an immense appetite for melodramatic spy fiction.

One of Raborn's central efforts is to reduce this skepticicism, this hostility, by what in CIA language would be called the optimum possible.—Copyright 1966 by United Features.

BARRY GOLDWATER: His Middle Name Is 'Strange'

GOLDWATER

Robert McNamara's army of press agents and apologists denies that any shortages exist in our defense supplies as a result of the Viet Nam war.

Under the rules of the Pentagon, as ruled high-handedly and absolutely by McNamara, it is never permissible to admit that the great leader has made a mistake. His middle name is Strange, but his press agents insist that it is Infallible.

But there are shortages. They have been inevitable since the first day McNamara took office as secretary of defense because of the nature of his character and the nature of his policies.

His policies center upon twin hubs: disarmament and double-entry bookkeeping. His apparent devotion to one-sided disarmament as a solution to the world's problems has led him to decree that development of new strategic weapon systems will be either halted outright or so slowed down as to be meaningless.

There are two ways to disarm. The noisy way is to destroy existing arms — he couldn't get away with that. The quiet way is just not to build any new ones —he is doing that successfully.

His double-entry bookkeeping raises other problems. To keep his budget pared down and to justify his public relations claims that he is the greatest economizer in history, the secretary has regularly cut into military stockpiles and reserves.

Ample evidence of how badly the secretary has stocked our defense pantry came out in the recent hearings on a special appropriations to finance the war in Viet Nam. Substantial sums were needed to buy altogether conventional arms, the sort that a prudent administrator would have on hand, the sort the military has wanted and needed all along.

Far deeper evidence exists in other hearings of the Congress. Despite McNamara's chorus of denial that he has permitted our stocks to dwindle dangerously, congressional probers have received detailed statements to the contrary.

The situation is one of long standing. As a horrible example, there was an instance last year in which our units in Europe could get only about one-fourth of the repair parts it had requested.

Beyond that, shortages in ammunition, uniforms and other items have been noted. Three solutions have come from McNamara. One is a crash program to make up for past mistakes, with all of the waste of such haste. Another is a juggling of plans so that stockpiles once thought inadequate are suddenly "blueprinted" into adequacy. Another is a simple shift of material from one place to another, to Viet Nam for instance, putting the goods wherever the spotlight may fall most brightly.

So far the secretary of defense seems to have got away without any truly searching probe. That fact may ultimately prove to be the weakest link of all in our chain of defense and in our hopes to deter Communist aggression against us for all time.—Copyright 1966, Los Angeles Times.

Going To The Dogs

The story in last week's Spectator, "Dealing In Dogs," brought a stranger kind of response that most special reports bring . . . a response of a confused public.

There are critics on both sides of the fence, of course. Those who believe in research and believe in using dogs for it and those who totally disagree with any kind of experimentation with animals.

But, in this case of Ohio State University using dogs for research (1400 of them a year), readers had trouble in coming up with any distinct criticism. They could see each other's points of views and most were unable to actually pin-point their precise feelings on the subject.

Why? Mainly because heretofore legislators had given little thought to dogs. There are few legal guidelines in existence today that say this is right for dogs or this is wrong.

Now the picture is changing. The Ohio Humane Federation is testing a case of a dog-dealer in Dayton hoping to get a district Court of Appeals decision that will regulate the sale of animals.

The most encouraging news comes from Washington where Ohio Congressman Robert Sweeney has just introduced a bill to regulate the transportation, sale and handling of dogs and cats used for research and experimentation.

This is a start toward Federal regulation. As Congressman Sweeney put it: "For too long now we have looked the other way and ignored this national problem in the name of research."

Sweeney feels it's "about time that the Department of Agriculture regulates the activities of animal buyers and supervises humane treatment of animals."

In short, Capitol Hill is finally going to the dogs. We'd chuckle at that line if the problem were not so serious.

Scissors, Anyone?

The Spectator notes with some amusement that State Finance Director Richard Krabach is campaigning to get the federal government to keep President Johnson's name off signs heralding construction projects in which federal funds are involved.

Krabach, who is notoriously generous with anything except money, offers in return to keep Governor Rhodes' name off the construction signs.

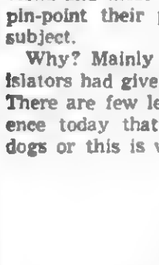
Now it probably never occurred to Krabach, but with such signs some unsuspecting taxpayers might get the impression that construction they see going on results from the $1-billion in bonds Rhodes got from the voters.

And has anyone noticed President Johnson cutting any ribbons on Ohio interstate highways, even though the federal government pays 90 percent of the costs?



No matter whose name is on the sign, you can bet who will be cutting the ribbons between now and the next election.

By The Spectator's
TED BEARDSHEAR

With most all of the new television sets having UHF as standard equipment, Columbus and Central Ohio have a chance to enjoy an entirely new kind of TV viewing.

WOSU-TV 34 consistently shows programs in good taste on a wide variety of topics. Cultural, educational and broadening programs are the average, rather than the exception.

BEARDSHEAR

It is a treat of a night to sit in front of the TV and not be harassed by the inanities of commercial offerings. Many programs on the larger networks are, if not ridiculous, downright insulting to the intelligence. Personally, I am fed up with seeing long-haired male guitarists singing "Yey, Yey, Yey!" Perhaps it is of interest to the teen set, but not to me.

Then most situation comedies have all the plot and imagination of ninth-grade humor writings, with the notable exception of Dick Van Dyke whose mystique I have not yet pinpointed.

Westerns are the bane of TV existence. "Bonanza" seems to have captured the flavor of the West without the absurdities of most other programs, mainly because it tends to humanize its characters rather than presenting them as objects of worship.

By and large, Huntley and Brinkley do a creditable job with the news, but most local newscasters are hampered by numerous commercials and limited resources on national issues.

One cannot categorically call commercial TV a "Wasteland," as the severest critics do . . . but then, one cannot claim it is offering the best fare, either.

The answer, of course, is the rise of National Educational Television. Eggheads can now enjoy TV without an accompanying sense of guilt. And the viewer of regular TV has available at the flick of a dial a refreshing change of pace.

And a change of pace is very important. Repetition is deadening. With all due respect to WOSU-TV 34 which I enjoy, I turned off last Friday's opera in favor of Fred Flintstone.

They Said It

"Life is such a scramble today that we haven't the time to stop and appreciate what it means to be an American. Some of us don't even know what it means. Worst of all, some of us don't even care. The future of this nation is being seriously challenged at this moment and it's important that we're aware of the fact that our way of life is worth preserving. It's important to appreciate, at this critical time, the wonderful heritage we have been handed down by people whose patriotism was never hidden"—Wellington (Kan.) News.

"So Far, So Good"

MARQUIS CHILDS: The Schwartz Affair

WASHINGTON — Because Washington loves political whodunits the real meaning of the Schwartz affair may be obscured by the thousands of words reporting plot and counterplot. In the perspective of American policy on travel to outlawed nations and on the admission of aliens with unwanted ideologies even the shabby method of removing Abba Schwartz as Director of the Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs is important only as a sign of which way the wind is blowing.

CHILDS

Schwartz was put in his post by President John F. Kennedy with the goal of restoring some of the traditional freedom to America's passport and visa policy. Out of the McCarthy era and thanks in large part to the McCarran Act the United States has come to look like a frightened elephant. Applicants for visas to visit the United States were put through an examination calculated to make them appear suspects admitted to the land of the free on grudging sufferance.

With his volatile energy and enthusiasm Schwartz set out to change this. In hundreds, if not thousands of cases where foreign visitors — scientists, artists, political figures — would have been kept out by the McCarran Act Schwartz called on the Attorney General to waive the provisions of the law.

The absurdity of barring anyone who has ever belonged to a Communist or Fascist party is well illustrated in the instance of Graham Greene, one of Britain's most distinguished novelists with a world-wide reputation. For a brief time in his student days Greene was a member of the Communist party. It took an Attorney General's waiver to get him a visa good for two weeks to visit New York during rehearsals of a play made from one of his novels.

In most of his efforts Schwartz was bucking bureaucrats in the State Department linked with forces in Congress bent on keeping the old rigid controls. This is one of those curious unofficial combines that deserves to be thoroughly investigated in the upcoming inquiry into the Schwartz affair.

Deputy Under Secretary of State for Administration William J. Crockett is credited with engineering the plan to abolish the Bureau of Consular Affairs in great secrecy months before it was surfaced, with Schwartz discovering at the last moment he had been reorganized out of office. One of the principal powers is Mrs. Frances Knight, head of the Passport Office, who reigns with seemingly unassailable authority as Secretaries of State come and go.

On Capitol Hill the power of the combine resides in the Internal Security subcommittee of the Senate and the Joint Committee on Immigration and Nationality Policy. Rep. Michael A. Feighan (D. Ohio), a staunch exclusionist in the passport and visa field, is chairman of the joint committee.

The important question for the future is whether this combine is now to determine policy in a field vital to America's standing in the free world. The atmosphere as the emotionalism over the war in Southeast Asia builds up may encourage a return to the old rigidities, thereby reversing all that Schwartz tried to do.

State Department administrators dealing with the moguls of Congress, who hold a penurious and sometimes vengeful hand on the purse strings, are often pushed to the wall. Chief among the moguls is Rep. John J. Rooney of New York. On the Appropriations Committee Rooney pares allowances for foreign service officers and rides hard on American embassies.

Shortly after the pulling and hauling over Schwartz's removal it was announced that American scholars desiring to go to Red China for study would have their passports properly validated. This is a token of little meaning, since China is unlikely to grant the necessary visas. There will be a very close watch on the direction policy now takes.—Copyright 1966 by United Features.

'More I See Of Men . . .'

To The Spectator:

I read with interest the article by John Auble, Jr. ("Dealing In Dogs," Mar. 16 Spectator). I was a little annoyed at Dr. Stilson's remark about the value of a dog's life compared to a human's. Perhaps Dr. Stilson has never lived alone with just a dog for company and has never been protected by dogs as I have.

I quote the statement made by Frederick the Great: "The more I see of men, the better I like my dog."

To The Spectator:

I feel you were unduly harsh in your editorial supporting the new freeway (Mar. 9, Spectator). Must it be assumed that those people who still retain some human values and love of beauty in this day of creeping urbanization, are thinking only of their own best interests?

PATTI DENNEY

Looking At Forest

To The Spectator:

Your freeway editorial indicates a superficial examination of the situation. The thousands of dollars spent on planning to date are only peanuts when compared to the cost of the project, or the cost to the public for a wrong choice.

My primary concern is for good city planning, not for 20 years but for many more years. We are looking at the entire forest — not just the trees. We don't feel that the best trees need to be cut down to provide a path into the forest.

IN & AROUND TOWN

EDITED BY ROLAND SUNKER

A guide to performers and performances in the Columbus area this week

Mitzi Joyce Is Back

Entertainers who "come back" after an accident are well-known in show business circles. There's Jane Froman, Gypsy Markoff, Sammy Davis, Jr., to mention a few. In Columbus, appearing nightly at Howard Johnson's West, another entertainer is making a comeback after an accident. Her name is Mitzi Joyce, an accordionist for many years, now singing and playing Hammond Organ and piano.

Mitzi has been featured in several local spots and in such cities as Atlantic City, New York and Pittsburgh. After an accident in 1962 which forced her to give up the accordion, Mitzi made the switch to Hammond Organ and piano. Her many fans agree that she has the right musical touch. She gets many requests for a medley of Glenn Miller tunes, and her vocalizing of "Night Train" along with other old and new favorites will make you a regular fan.

Happy Noel(s) At Lincoln Lodge

There is an unusual, unpredictable, and versatile act currently playing in the cocktail lounge at Lincoln Lodge. The Noels, with Ruben performing on an electric guitar and Nancy keeping a hot tempo on drums. Vocally, they are great together and individually.

Nancy steals the show, not because she is the prettiest, but this gal sings and clowns like a seasoned star. She is a natural entertainer with personality to spare. Ruben is a handsome young man, who besides handling the guitar with ease, is a fine comic. Teamed with his partner, Nancy, they could be another Phil Ford and Mimi Hines.

The Noels offer a fast-paced act with some pretty fancy comedy, mixed with songs from light opera and the latest hit tunes.

Just one word of advice to those who catch their act on weekends. Be prepared to tolerate the big band sound in the back room. Friday and Saturday nights, Lincoln Lodge has dancing for its patrons. However the orchestra music can easily be heard in the cocktail lounge. This is frustrating to customers trying to enjoy the lounge act. Even though the Noels are good, it is hard for them to fight the competition and hold the attention of their audience.

To Give Child's Play At Battelle

The play will take place at Battelle Memorial Institute Auditorium Mar. 25, 7:30 p.m., Mar. 26 at 10 a.m., 11:30 a.m., 1:30 p.m., 3:30 p.m. and Mar. 27 at 1:30 p.m., 3:30 p.m. and 5:30 p.m.

The show is under the direction of Mrs. Adeline Peake, with Claudia Miller, an OSU senior, playing Beauty. The beast is portrayed by David Hopton of Worthington. Other performers include Fred Calland, Jean Martinez and Joan Griffin.

Everyone in the show gives freely of time and talent. All proceeds are given to Children's Hospital.

Hans Conreid To Be At Cap Sunday, May 1

Celebrated actor Hans Conreid, who was scheduled to appear at Capital University Friday, Apr. 15, will instead perform Sunday, May 1 at 8:15 p.m.

The reason for the change is due to the continuing run of his play, "Absence of a Cello," which was presented at Ohio State University in February.

While at Capital, Conreid will give a lecture performance.

FEATURED

ONE OF THE featured performers in Klauser's Bear Act dons a dunce cap to nonchalantly circle the stage in the 16th annual Shrine Circus at the State Fairgrounds Coliseum, Mar. 31 through Apr. 9. Also included in acts from all over the world are tons of elephants, Joe Frisco's Wild Animal Act, Gerard Soules and His Poodles of Paris and many others. Tickets may be purchased at the Masonic Temple or at the door.

If you run out of flannel patches for cleaning your shotgun or rifle, use facial tissue. Tissues tough enough, carry oil well and absorb old dirt and oil beautifully.

Another Year, Another Flight

JERRI MOCK
At it again . . .

By The Spectator's
MAGGI DONALDSON

Not many family arguments end up with a brand new successful internationally-acclaimed career.

But that's what happened when Jerri Mock and her husband had a disagreement two years ago.

After a slight spat, husband Russell said, "why don't you get in your plane and fly somewhere—maybe Chicago."

"What would I do in Chicago?" Jerri asked.

"Well what about New York?" suggested Russell.

"Oh, why not take a trip around the world," said Russell kiddingly--and that's exactly what she did—two years ago this month she flew around the world, broke a record (the first woman to do it) and won international acclaim.

Now Bexley's "flying housewife" is at it again. She's put in an extra supply of groceries for ad-executive husband Russell and five-year-old Valerie, (her teenage sons are in college) she's packed a toothbrush, dressing gown and one change of clothing into a peanut-sized overnight bag (it measures about 5 by 19 inches) —jumped into her Super Skylane Cessna, dubbed "Miss CBU" after Columbus Business University, one of her sponsors, and is off (or about to be) to break another world's flying record for women.

This time she will attempt to break the record for distance in a straight line for women. The record is currently held in Russia and at one time was held by Amelia Earhart.

Recently she was finishing up last-minute details here before taking off for Wichita where huge cabin gas tangs, holding 450 gallons, would be installed — then she'll head for "somewhere in the mid-Pacific," said husband Russell.

No one is quite sure where she'll start the flight—perhaps from Wake Island. Details have to be worked out in these next few days but she hopes that good tailwinds will bring her right back to Columbus. The trip will entail about 10,000 miles over water, including the trip to the starting point (wherever it is) first, and during that time the diminutive Jerri will be flying strictly by compass.

She expects to be in the plane 40 to 45 hours nonstop, and has stocked the tiny craft with nu-v food bars (they look like chocolate bars but contain no chocolate — only vitamins and minerals), which taste like dried apricots.

But doing the unusual is usual for Jerri. For the last two years she's been assembling a cookbook from the Washington Embassies (another hobby — flying is a hobby started about 10 years ago for the 41-year-old pilot).

She's won prizes for her cooking; produced an operatic radio program and education TV show. "Whatever she does she does well," husband Russell continued.

The last-minute press conference was scheduled for 9:30 a.m. On arrival reporters asked for Mrs. Mock at 9:30 a.m. The reply was "we've never known her to be early—but we've never known her to be very late either." And that's the way she flies. She runs a tight ship and has usually arrived 'on schedule.'

Civil War Is Fought Once Again

During an in-depth study of the Civil War the students became involved with every aspect of Southern life during the 1860's, with hours spent on replicas of the great battlefields, the forts, the cannons and iron clads, the cotton fields, the mansions and the cabins and the period dress.

William Adams Wins Promotion In Viet Nam

Young Gets Nod

Jim Young was elected president of the Groveport Businessmen's Association at the annual meeting held at Desert Inn this week. Ed Seymour and Louis Haines will serve as vice-president and secretary-treasurer respectively. Named to the board of trustees were Ray Stambaugh, Dick Hamler, Kermit Alspaugh, Mrs. Betty Allensworth, Berman Thompson, Marvin Dutcher, Young and Haines.

ONLY ABOUT ONE percent of the girls in Ohio who are members of Future Homemakers of America earn the State Homemaker degree which Helen Crumley, left, and Marilyn Gilkey will receive next month. Marilyn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gilkey, 409 Cron-dr, and Helen, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Crumley, Rager-rd.

Two Earn Homemaker Degree

Marilyn Gilkey and Helen Crumley, members of the Groveport - Madison chapter of FHA, will be among the students awarded the degree of State Homemaker during the Ohio convention at Vets Memorial, Saturday, Apr. 23.

Marilyn, who is an expert seamstress (she made the blazer she is wearing in the picture and cook, (her bread took first place at the Ohio State Fair last summer) plans to became a Lutheran missionary and hopes to serve in New Guinea.

A member of GAA, and the marching and pep bands and the Luther League, Marilyn fulfilled her community obligations as a State Hamemaker through welfare work.

Helen, who is a senior, plans to attend Ohio State University to prepare herself for a career in teaching home economics.

Among the home projects which earned her the State degree, was the capability shown when she took over complete charge of her home while her mother was hospitalized. She also has proved her worth to her father by taking charge of the milking machinery.

Helen is a member of the marching band, 4-H, GAA, Tri-Hi-Y, Farm Bureau Youth, Luther League and the Madisonian staff. Last year she was a delegate to Buckeye Girls' State.

DEADLINE APPROACHING

The final date for signing an agreement to participate in the wheat and feed grain programs is Apr. 1, according to Owen VanSchoyck, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee.

OBETZ And Hamilton Township — Ruth Borden 491-8141

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Skeen of Bossier City, La., were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ringhiser from Feb. 3 to 20. While here they visited many friends. Bill is with the U. S. Air Force at Barksdale, La.

The Obetz Christian Church is asking for good used clothing. They are stocking a supply room at the parish house. The clothing is to be used in case of an emergency in the community. Shoes are needed. If the clothing is not needed within a specified time, it is sorted and taken to the state hospital and state school. Both institutions desperately need clothing at all times. For therapy, the church would like to collect coffee cans with plastic lids, foil pot-pie pans and pie pans, any kind of sewing supplies, old magazines and story books and catalogues. Please contact Mrs. Paul Barr or Mrs. Calvin Borden if you have any of these items to give. It will be greatly appreciated by the CWF of Obetz Christian Church and also the state school.

The Obetz Christian Church is having Lenten services each Wednesday evening until Holy Week. Services are Thursday and Friday evenings during Holy Week. Services are also being held at the Zion Lutheran Church, Obetz-rd, each Wednesday evening. A "Study of the Gospel of John" is being held at the Obetz Methodist Parsonage on Hillcrest-av, each Wednesday evening for five evenings during Lent. The Rev. Charles E. Titko leads the study.

Keep Saturday evening, Mar. 26, open and attend the fried chicken and baked ham dinner sponsored by the WSCS of the Obetz Methodist Church in the cafeteria of the Hamilton Township High School. Serving begins at 4:30 p.m. There will also be a bazaar table. Mrs. Virginia Wiseman is chairman.

Don Spires has returned home from the hospital. Taylor Fuggitt is also at home and would enjoy having his friends call on him.

Wedding anniversary congratulations this week go to Mr. and Mrs. Russell Chapman and Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Ellis.

Mar. 3, Thursday evening, the Hamilton Central PTA meets.

Lean Season Seen For Depthless H-T

Perennially cinder-strong Hamilton Township, returning only two sound '65 vets this spring, could be in line for a lean season.

Ranger mentor Ray O'Dell reported a light turnout for the sport, practically assuring another depthless season.

"WE WENT with only 20 kids last spring and it does not look like I'll have that many to work with this spring," O'Dell relates.

The Rangers finished second (behind champ Franklin Heights) at the SSL Meet last spring but will be without stalwarts like shot and discus man Frank Peters (won District in shot, tossed shot 55', flung discus 141'), hurdler-relay man Gary Hammonds, sprinter Paul Keller and H-T's lone hurdler — Steve Knorr.

"That lack of depth hurt us last spring. You just got chopped up at the big meets when you're spread too thin," O'Dell remarked.

THOSE THREE returning vets are junior sprinter-broad jumper John Gorczyca (capable of turning in a 10.3 in the 100 if an ankle sprain heals up), senior Bob Rinehart (broad jump, low hurdles, 880 relay), who O'Dell figures should hit 23' in bj, and senior discus man Ralph Morgan (already hit 135').

Help could be forthcoming in the distance department from transfer students Mark Haesceke (miler), Gary Harrington (880) and Steve Brazil (880).

BESIDES his graduated lettermen, O'Dell is missing several other returning vets —who haven't returned.

One of these is miler Charlie Hart (4:30), who O'Dell still hopes will report before the season opener. "He's (Hart) got speed he hasn't even used yet," the H-T coach mused.

MAVERICK

With Muddy Shoes

By RICHARD L. PAUGH

The eighth annual meeting of the Buckeye Big Bucks Club was held at the Grange Hall outside of Mt. Gilead, Mar. 12. This is always a high point in my early spring activities, having had a hand in the forming of the BBBC.

This year, it was attended by a record 185 members and guests who lugged along 50 trophy deer for display.

THE BIG Bucks Club is probably the most exclusive sportsman's club in the world. In order to qualify for membership, you must have taken in fair chase an Ohio deer that measures extremely high by Boone and Crocket standards.

PAUGH

The most interesting part of the agenda was the unveiling of proposals for the 1966 deer season. Traditionally, the Division of Wildlife test-runs their ideas for each up-coming season by launching them at the Big Bucks' Meet.

Not in my memory has the public hearings or the Wildlife Council made a dent in the proposals. They invariably reach the hunting public the way they are proposed.

OHIO WILL have three different deer areas this fall. As is the 1965 hunt, the five northwestern counties will enjoy a five-day, any size, any sex season but the hunter must show proof of an invitation to hunt private lands before he is issued a special permit to hunt Paulding, Defiance, Williams, Fulton or Lucas Counties.

The rest of the State is divided into half by a line running roughly from Sandusky in the north to Portsmouth in the south.

All west of this line will be closed to gun hunters with the exception of those five already mentioned counties. Archers will be allowed to hunt western Ohio for 2½ months for any size, any sex deer.

ALL OF Ohio east of that line will be open to the gun hunters for bucks only during a five-day period starting about Nov. 28. As you who hunt Ohio's deer can readily see this is a much more generous plan than was offered in 1965.

The big factor in changing the thinking of Ohio's game biologists was the tremendous increase in the road-killed deer during the last 12 months.

During 1965 there were 845 deer reported killed by automobile traffic in Ohio. This was roughly twice the amount killed by hunters during the hunting season.

AS MY readers already know, I am the first to yell when I don't like the way a deer season is set. By the same token, I'll be among the first to compliment them on better planning this year.

I liked what I heard almost without exception. That exception being the "bucks only" clause. It took Michigan 30 years and Pennsylvania 20 years to convince the public it was necessary to kill does as well as bucks in order to preserve the proper balance of the herd.

Now I fear Ohio is begging for the same people-problem in allowing the hunter to think of killing bucks only.

I JUST hope our game biologists are at the same time psychiatrists so that when the time comes to try to balance the herd, they can convince Ohio's hunters too many does spoil the herd.

• • •

A motion was carried unanimously to look into the possibility of having 100 or more deer captured at Ravenna Arsenal each year for transplanting on public lands elsewhere.

C-W, Teays Valley Vet-Studded But Pitching Is Question Mark

By BOB WHITMAN

There is a well-founded theory that baseball is a pitcher's game, and if anyone doubts it just ask Canal Winchester baseball tutor Bob Miller.

For lack of pitching has been Winchester's Achilles tendon for the past few seasons and looms as a giant question mark on its 1966 baseball outlook.

"We should be pretty fair, if our pitchers come around," the veteran Miller said, "we have a lot of experience only losing three of 11 lettermen."

Miller looks for the infield to be sound with the possible addition of freshman Chris Hanners at either second or third and Bill Miles, a 6-4 sophomore at first base.

Other top prospects for diamond slots include Greg Williamson; Richard Bellar, Bob Griffith, Greg Abbott and Jerry Shackelford.

Miller feels that the hitting will come around this season. "We don't have many power hitters returning," Miller said, "but that was due to their inexperience last year."

HANDLING THE mound duties for the Indians this season will be five that Miller feels could develop. Hummell, the only full time pitcher returning, is expected to get a big lift from Griffith, a hard-throwing sophomore.

• • •

Teays Valley baseball coach Russ Gregg is probably recalling the peerless "Tinkers-to-Evers-to-Chance" double play combination daily as he searches for a pair of glove men to round out an otherwise sound diamond unit.

"We have to fill those vital spots (second base and shortstop)," Gregg said, "to be strong."

That strength will be a must this season as the South Suburban League fades and the new Metropolitan circuit begins (Whitehall and Reynoldsburg are new members).

THE VIKINGS have eight returning lettermen from last season's 10-8 squad, including a dandy centerfielder-pitcher in Rick Pickering. Pickering batted .333 last year and had a 5-1 pitching mark.

"He is the toughest defensive outfielder around," coach Gregg added.

There are a couple of candidates to fill in the vital infield spots — Glen Gulick and Fred Patricio — to go along with firstsacker Love, a .235 hitter.

Fridley, 10 Veterans Spark Carroll Thins

By JACK WITTENMEIER

Despite the loss of three-fourths of a mile relay quartet which finished second in "A" state competition last year (3:33 flat), Carroll track mentor Harold Miller can be fairly optimistic about Bulldog cinder fortunes again this spring.

Eleven returning vets, including a pair of winners at the recent Indoor Track Meet at OSU, don't exactly leave Miller out in the cold.

Only competitors to outspeed Fridley in four indoor tests this spring, in fact, have been East's Sol Espie and South's Tony McQueen —two of the Columbus City League's swiftest sprinters.

ALSO BACK is Gale Glendenning, Bulldog 880 specialist who took a first in the 1000-yd. run at the Indoor Meet and placed fifth in the state last spring in the half mile (2:03).

Glendenning is all that remains of Carroll's '65 state runnerup in the mile relay with Ken Davis, Bob Fraley and Jim Buchanan departed via graduation.

But the nine other returnees appear to give Miller a sound nucleus for another banner season.

ALSO BACK are miler Gary Romine (4:40), pole vaulters Tom Rayburn and Kenny Craigo (both 12' performers) and broad jumper Alva Reid, who went to the regionals last year on the strength of a 20' 6" and like efforts.

Other vets include Ron Fisher (hurdles), Harvey Martin (relays), Jerry Rathburn (shot, discus), Thane Hecox (440, mile relay) and A. K. Miller (distance events, high jump).

Hamilton, Distance Vets Top G-P Cinder Hopes

By JACK WITTENMEIER

Groveport track mentor Bill McCann has at least eight returning lettermen back this spring but it's unlikely that the Cruisers will be able to contend with one-two '65 Mid-Eight finishers Gahanna and Hilliard again this season.

McCann has at least eight vets back—not counting five '65 standouts (including top sprinter Dave Heil) who haven't reported this spring.

ALSO MISSING are three key graduates — sprinter broad jumper Dan French, hurdler J. R. Green and shot-discus flinger Jeff Mosic.

Groveport could be best off in the distance events with veterans Pat Hubbard, Ronnie Miller and Brian McKinley back in that department.

ALSO BRIGHTENING Cruiser distance hopes is top prospect Jim Gallione, a cross-country standout last fall who's reporting out for track for the first time this season.

Groveport's four remaining returning lettermen sprinkle experience in several events with Larry Stimpfle back for the hurdles, Mike Riffle returning to the shot and discus, Mike Click back broad jumping and Mike Miller lending savvy to the sprint list.

Looking best so far among non-lettermen are Donnie Miller (sprints, pole vault), Fred Barrett (distance events), Chrie Millington (high jump), Bob Penix (440 sprints), Clifton Howard (sprints), Jim Cover (sprints) and shot-discus prospects Roger Adams and Bill Marshall.

EBBA Signup Set For Apr. 2

Edwards School-area boys interested in playing baseball this summer must register either Saturday, Apr. 2 or Saturday, Apr. 9, at either the Winchester Park or Edwards School ball diamonds.

Registration hours will be 9 a.m. till noon both days. Boys eight to 14 are eligible to play in the league.

Registration forms are available this week at the school. They must be filled out and returned with the registration fee and a birth certificate at the time of registration.

The Edwards Boys Baseball Association voted earlier this month to continue its affiliation with the Groveport Little League.

For more information on registration, call 491-3914.

Four Of Top 25 Eligible For Challenge Stakes

Four of the nation's top 25 pacers (according to the Championship Ratings submitted by the Harness Racing Institute's electronic brain) are eligible to run in Scioto Downs' Challenge Stakes three-year-old pacing division — highlight of the '66 season which opens May 27.

The four top horses include True Duane, Butler Byrd, J. H. Primrose and Bank Time.

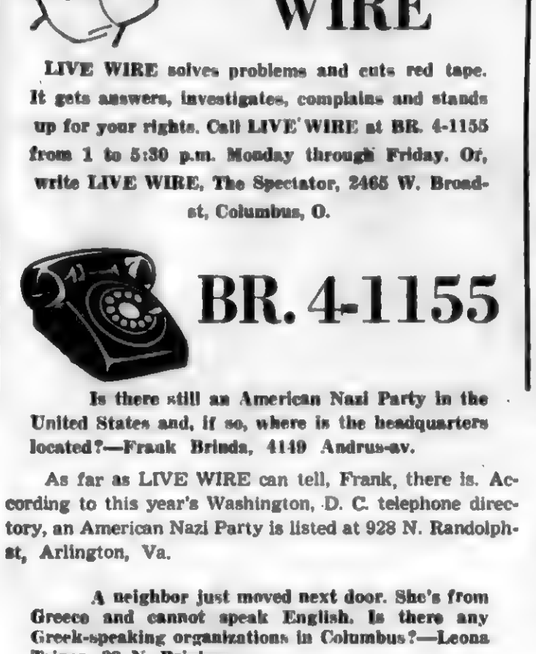
LIVE WIRE

LIVE WIRE solves problems and cuts red tape. It gets answers, investigates, complains and stands up for your rights. Call LIVE WIRE at BR. 4-1155 from 1 to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Or, write LIVE WIRE, The Spectator, 2465 W. Broad-st, Columbus, O.

BR. 4-1155



Is there still an American Nazi Party in the United States and, if so, where is the headquarters located?—Frank Brinda, 4149 Andrus-av.

As far as LIVE WIRE can tell, Frank, there is. According to this year's Washington, D. C. telephone directory, an American Nazi Party is listed at 928 N. Randolph-st, Arlington, Va.

A neighbor just moved next door. She's from Greece and cannot speak English. Is there any Greek-speaking organizations in Columbus?—Leona Triner, 38 N. Brinker.

There are two, however LIVE WIRE could not determine how active they were. One is the Greek-American Progress Association headed by Mrs. George K. Lias, 4273 Olentangy River-rd. The other is the Greek Orthodox Ladies Philoptochos Society. The president is Mrs. George Crist, 2239 W. Broad-st.

Your LIVE WIRE must be disconnected. Haven't you guys heard that it's Spring? Why show us pictures of freeways and sewer plants in your paper when there are prettier things to photograph now

Gracious! Spring fever must have hit our photogs. Hope this shot remedies it — it's the prettiest Spring scenery we could find.

We live behind Jerry's Drive Inn (Olentangy River-rd) and we're constantly bothered by tire-squealers there. I realize it's private property, but what can a citizen do to correct something like this? —Harassed, Rainbow Apartments.

A LIVE WIRE call to Dick Sensenbrenner at City Hall put the situation into the hands of the Juvenile Bureau which has been directed to investigate the matter. Patrolmen will watch the area and grab any who squeal out onto a city street. One method you might try is getting together a neighborhood group to approach the management with your problem. Chances are, if it's handled right, he'll cooperate with you.

'Newshounds' Cover Farm At Lazarus

(Editor's Note: You never know where budding journalists are growing. The Spectator was pleased Monday to receive a packet of stories written by third-grade students at Cassingham Elementary School in Bexley and second grade students at North Franklin who recently took a field trip to the animal farm at the F & R Lazarus Co. Their stories, complete with by-lines, appear herewith as Spectator exclusives):

She Sees A Big Turkey

She Liked The Burro

By MOLLY GARDNER
Cassingham School

My class and I went to Lazarus. I took my camera and took some pictures. My favorite animal was a burro. He was nice and brown and chubby.

I liked the fox. He was asleep and was a nice brownish red.

The ducks were yellow and there was a turkey. He had colorful feathers. Then we came to the kangaroo. He got up and hopped for us. There were some goats we called Billy goats gruff.

There was a baby goat. There were some lambs and their mother.

I liked the monkeys. They were playing, fighting and eating. The rabbits were in a pen with the ducks and chickens. There was a guinea pig with them. I enjoyed this trip. Thank you, Mrs. Tate.

ROSE NAFZGER

"MOST bridge partners have one AIM!
Have we TWENTY-SIX points for GAME?"

The number to remember is, of course, 26! Twenty-six points means game; it's just as hard to make nine tricks in no trump, as it is to make 10 tricks in a suit, hence the number 26, for game! Always try to think in terms of addition of yours and partners total points. Experts will always tell you that slams and minor suit games are the rarities—it's making game that happens the MOST! Remember the MAGIC number — 26!

Ground Broken For $1 - Million Royal Crown Cola Bottling Plant

By The Spectator's JIM SIMPSON

Ground was broken Tuesday morning for the new $1-million Royal Crown Cola Bottling plant on Stelzer-rd.

Headed by Harold Schottenstein, the family operation consists of Harold, Alvin and Calvin — all actively engaged in the bottling and distribution of Royal Crown, Cinch and other similar soft drinks authorized under the familiar name of Canada Dry.

The new plant, with its parking and loading areas, will occupy 10 acres of the 70 acres now owned by the holding company under the name of Schott Enterprises, Inc.

The architectural plans were made in the offices of Harold Schofield, a Gahanna architect, under the supervision of Paul Mullins.

The engineering layout of the entire property was done by Edward Maddy, an associate of the engineering firm of Evans, Mechwart, Hambleton and Tilton of Gahanna.

Footing excavations were made by Dedger Jones, an independent steel fabricator who has been tentatively awarded the erection of the steel work at the site.

A fill had been previously made under the supervision of Alvin Schottenstein from local materials. Foundation masonry was contracted and built by Clyde Wright, a masonry contractor.

Today there are over 100 employes at the old Royal Crown plant on E. Livingston under the supervision of Elmer Born, Ohio's ablest soft-drink mixologist.

Mrs. Alice Harris is the office manager for the company while Robert Aldredge is the recognized creator of Royal Crown signs.

Finance Man Refutes Banker

John Advent, public relations director for Capital Finance, which operates in 18 states, has taken issue with O. E. Anderson, executive manager of the Ohio Bankers Association, headquartered in Columbus.

Anderson, in an article in The Spectator, said "the attempt by the Ohio General Assembly in 1965 to regulate and control a vicious second mortgage lending racket is backfiring into an even greater problem for Ohioans, thanks to a 'loophole' in the law being used by some representatives of the small loan industry."

Anderson not only bombed the small loan industry, but swung at Attorney General William Saxbe and reproached the 107th General Assembly.,

Basically, Anderson's wrath stems from a new law passed by the last session of the legislature which was intended to curb the operations of sharpshooters in the second mortgage field. This it did. But it went further. It also gave small loan companies additional lending powers. Anderson objects to this.

The law seemingly now permits corporations affiliated with small loan companies to make loans on personal property for periods of up to five years, at total interest and service charges and in amounts well above those permitted under the small loan law itself.

A point by point account of Anderson's charges is: 1. that small loan firms could collect some $4,000 in interest and other charges on a $5,000 loan for five years.

To this, Advent replied "the law specifies $8 add-on interest. Any school kid knows that if you borrow $5,000 at $8 add-on, this comes out to $400. This, multiplied by five years is $2,000, not the inaccurate figure of $4,000. The $2,000 charge is a reasonable rate for $5,000 at this maturity. It is the same rate charged by banks."

The second of Anderson's charges claims the new law could result in "so much high cost over-lending to persons already overburdened with debt as to bring on an unparalleled wave of personal bankruptcies."

To this, Advent replied "banks are concerned because the new law permits small loan companies to cut into the lucrative consumer loan business. So far, more than 800 second mortgage firms have been issued licenses by the state. These firms have millions of dollars invested in this new lending field.

"This charge of increasing bankruptcy with this law is ridiculous. If anything it will help stave off potential bankruptcy. This law ended a vicious second mortgage lending racket. The reason people patronized the racket was because they could not get help elsewhere. If we are doing any business under this (law), it is because the people we are helping were not encouraged elsewhere. We do not — nor do the banks — knowingly lend money to potential bankrupts. We're in the business of making money by lending money. We seek the best credit risks possible."

Advent concluded with "it may require considerable convincing to persuade the next legislature it made a mistake, especially since:

•Anderson and the Ohio Bankers Association urged passage of the second mortgage bill and even helped write some of the provisions.

• The Attorney General said it was perfectly legal, and

• The Better Business Bureau fought for its passage."

The pinch-a-penny MG Sports Sedan. Costs little to buy, a pittance to maintain, and the way it eks out 30-miles-to-a-gallon, even less to run. The MG Sports Sedan is tight with a buck, but generous where people are concerned—room for five, ample luggage space and expansive areas of glass. And it's not all work and no play. The MG Sports Sedan handles better than most sports cars—bucket seats, four-speed stick shift, disc brakes, an 1100 cc engine (up to 90 mph) and precise rack and pinion steering reveal a true love for the sporting life. The price tag reveals a true love for the buck.

Help Me Deliver Another Knockout Punch!

This is Batman speaking . . .

I was very happy to meet a number of you Columbus citizens last Friday when I personally distributed my record, "The Batman Theme," to those who have helped me fight the "Bleacher."

We tried to get to all the homes, but the Batmobile developed mechanical trouble — probably the work of the "Mechanic Maniac."

I'll be continuing my rounds each day this week so, if you've sent in your coloring entry with a $3.50 subscription to the official Batman Spectator I'll be seeing you soon!

This fourth contest ends at midnight, Mar. 29, so hurry. Help me deliver this knock-out punch.

And, watch for your name in my official Batman column. Now a word from Robin, the Boy Wonder:

"Holy, jumpin' Spectator, Batman. The Bleacher is weakening and, thanks to the fine crimefighting citizens of Columbus, we'll win in our fight against evil."

Thank you, Boy Wonder.

We want to hear from you. Remember, the 45 rpm goes to you automatically (delivered by me, in person) to those who subscribe. If you're already a faithful Batman Spectator reader, then you must send in a subscription anyway and it will continue for one year after your present subscription expires.

The winner of each week's contest gets a LP album of select Bat tunes.

Zap! Crunch! Biff! Bam!

OFFICIAL BATMAN CRIME-FIGHTING SPECTATOR SUBSCRIPTION

Please enter my entry in the Batman coloring contest and begin a one-year subscription to the official Batman newspaper, the dynamic Spectator. This entry blank entitles me to a 45 rpm "Batman Theme" record delivered, in person, by Batman's official representative.

Lynch Claims Administration Is Sabotaging Medicare Plan

Paul J. Lynch, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, indicated this week that Ohio's Republican administration is "deliberately sabotaging" Medicare.

According to Lynch, career social workers have privately admitted they have been told to go slow on pushing medicare among the aid-to-the-aged recipients.

"The state has done so little in this field that it had been characterized as 'a deliberate policy of discouragement' by one welfare official," Lynch tells the Spectator.

Lynch cited a recent front-page story in an afternoon daily newspaper in Columbus which was headlined, "One Million Senior Citizens reject Medicare Program." The candidate says that the headline should have read: "Ohio's Republican State Administration Deliberately Sabotages Medicare."

The lieutenant governor hopeful feels that Ohio is already low in the assistance granted to those who draw aid-for-the-aged support.

"It had been expected that Medicare would be especially helpful to them since they have so little to live on without considering medical expenses," Lynch said.

Lynch says he also feels that the state and local news media have failed to push Medicare. He claims it will result in more and more persons going without basic medical services; more charity cases; more state taxes and local charity drives to pick-up bills that could've been paid through the hospitalization plan.

"The complete lack of concern evidenced by Ohio's department of Welfare can be characterized as nothing less than criminal," Lynch theorized.

"Medicare is a fact despite the opposition of the radical right. Those newspapers and public officials who continue to oppose it fight their battle on the editorial pages and the political platforms rather than by depriving those in need by sabotaging what is now available as a matter of right and need."

PROCLAIMS POISON PREVENTION WEEK

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

Reuter To Address Conference

Featured speaker at the eighth annual Agricultural Marketing Conference at The Ohio State University will be Richard Rueter, assistant secretary of state and director of the Food-for-Peace Program for the Department of State.

The Mar. 29 conference will be highlighted with Reuter's talk on "The Challenge of Food and Population." General theme for the event is "Exploring Ohio's Agricultural Production to a Hungry World," according to Charles Ingraham, Extension specialist in agricultural business management and conference chairman.

COSI Selects New Staffers

Appointment of two new staff members at the Center of Science and Industry, 280 E. Broad-st, has been announced by S. N. Hallock, COSI director. Both men are currently working on the installation of the "Triumph of Man" exhibit the center received from the New York World's Fair and other projects.

At the center, Louis J. Fountas, of 531 Loveman-av, will serve as supervisor exhibit design and production, and Charles O'Connor, of 1858 Bedford-rd, will serve as coordinator exhibit and graphic service.

Named OSPB Assistant Director

Mrs. Joseph M. Harter, 1928 Berkshire-rd, has been appointed to the staff of the Ohio Society for the Prevention of Blindness as assistant director, according to Dan A. Scarberry, president. She will be in charge of coordinating and directing program activities for the society all over the state.

Resort Model Is Feature

Feature attraction of the 1966 Home Show to be held at the State Fairgrounds Mar. 26 to Apr. 1 will be a "vacation" model home.

This is the same house visited by thousands when it was built on the roof of the Abercrombie and Fitch building in New York City.

The home is designed to show the newest ideas in resort home building, decorating and landscaping.

Visitors will be permitted to walk through the model home.

Surrounding the model home will be nearly 300 exhibit spaces where over 175 leading Central Ohio dealers, distributors and manufacturers will display hundreds of new items and services for the home.

John A. Kight, manager of the show since its inception in 1926, credited comments from many of the more than 125,000 visitors at last year's show for bringing the "vacation" home to the 1966 Home Show.

Miss America Writes Book; Available Here

Every parent is familiar with the "mirror-conscious" stage of their young daughter's development — those long hours in front of a mirror, preening, lamenting, practicing and . . . just thinking.

In "That Girl In Your Mirror," a new book just off the press, Miss America 1965, Vonda Kay Van Dyke, peeks over every girl's shoulder and talks with her about the girl in her mirror.

Helpful personality and beauty hints, fascinating "Miss America" sidelights, and real challenge for setting goals in life make "That Girl In Your Mirror" a girl's best friend.

This is just the kind of counsel girls are looking for . . . from just the kind of girl they'll listen to.

The book is now available at Christian Book and Gift Store, 179 S. High-st.

Trunk Shows Are Dated

"Careers Girl, Office Girl, College Student" will be the theme of informal trunk shows according to Ted Yeager, Fashion representative for Adele Martin.

The trunk show will include a complete collection of spring and summer dresses.

Ruth Solman, buyer for the Union, will assist Yager in the presentation.

Trunk showings at the Union's suburban stores are scheduled for Lane Avenue, Wednesday, Mar. 23; Graceland with informal modeling, Thursday, Mar. 24; Town and Country, Friday, Mar. 25, and Northland, Saturday, Mar. 26.

Results of the first year's analysis of Mississippi River silt by the U.S. Department of Agriculture show that pesticides applied to crops have not resulted in a significant amounts of residue in the silt.

MAR 1966

IT WAS a new world for Dick Voorhies and Rena Robinette of Canal Winchester when they invaded the beauty shop of the Penta-County Vocational School, but they seemed slightly amazed on how complicated it is for a woman to pursue beauty. In the up-to-the-minute greenhouse where even the highly developed skills of greenskeeper are taught are Mrs. Judy Shade and Mrs. Vernon Bulman of Whitehall with County Superintendent Tom Quick and other school officials in the background. Although the tour was an educational one, there was still time for a little horseplay, as when Canal Winchester principal Marlin James "secured" Jeff Reinhard, C-W student council president in the dentist's chair while Dick Nicholson, Gahanna guidance instructor, watched the fun. Jeff, as an extremely articulate young man, was invited on the trip by James who felt him well-qualified to take back the story of "Penta-County" to his fellow students.

Penta-County—

would be admitted to such a school?"

One look at the breadth of the program and the hundreds of thousands of dollars of equipment left little doubt that any one school could imitate the instruction offered.

For example, the trades and industrial area included a complete school of cosmetology, a job printing shop, an industrial electronics department, a body shop, an auto mechanics school, a dental laboratory, and a machine shop with heavy manufacturing equipment.

As to the question of what kind of students are offered this training, the answer is the same as to "What kind of students are in the conventional high school?"

Statistics indicate that students graduating with craftsman and technician status will earn from $7,000 to $9,000 a year. This is from $3,000 to $4,000 more than the expected earnings of a student who ends his education with a high school diploma without vocational training.

The Penta-County program developed when the fact that 81 percent of Ohio's secondary school students are enrolled in a college preparatory type program leading to a profession in which only seven percent of the population actually works.

When voters of the five Franklin County school districts were asked to support a similar proposal at the November election, the necessary votes could not be mustered.

In May, the taxpayers will again be asked to enter into a partnership with the Federal government (matching funds are available) to offer the type of education that will equip the high school graduate with saleable know-how.

It will cost the taxpayer two mills to provide this education, but this millage provides a dividend.

With the individual schools relieved of the responsibility of educating an estimated 25 percent of the juniors and seniors in the district, the demands for additional local facilities will be pared.

Eibling—

Evaluation of the districts which have, according to Eibling, grabbed so much wealth, range down to Hamilton with a per pupil evaluation of $4,842. Other evaluations in the county system include Canal Winchester, $11,529; Madison, $9.810; Mifflin, $6,895; Plain Local, $11,304; Reynoldsburg, $7,625; Scioto - Darby, $9,412; Washington, $12,518.

(Other City school systems within the county generally compare favorably with Columbus. They include Whitehall, $10,874, Bexley, $18,146; Westerville, $8,912; Worthington, $12,181; Upper Arlington, $16,622 and Grandview Heights, $31,536).

Leader well recalls when Western Electric was transferred to the City District in 1957.

After a decision of the Ohio Supreme Court in 1964 which was upheld in the lower court that the transfer was illegally made, the $20,000,000 facility reverted to Jefferson Local.

If this property which represents one-third of Jefferson's tax evaluation, were returned to Columbus, the county district would lose $400,000 of its $2,000,000 budget — and a total of 14 pupils.

"This could only mean," Leader stated, "that our schools' financing would be inadequate, our schools overcrowded, salary schedules would be unattractive to good teachers and a drastic cut in teaching aids and text books would be initiated."

Tom Quick, Franklin County superintendent, contends that each of the nine districts for which he is responsible can be badly hurt if Eibling's suggestions are followed with the exception of Plain Local and Canal Winchester.

Carl Miller of Canal Winchester, while agreeing his district would not be affected today, does not believe a future threat can be discounted. (He bases his fear on Columbus' annexation policy).

The administration of the South-Western School District (pupil evaluation $12,610) reiterated Huff's position that Eibling is, at best, "jumping the gun" on the study now in committee.

Reporting that South-Western has recently been named as one of the 212 "pace-setting" school systems in the United States by the U. S. Office of Education, Paul Noblitt, director of public relations, states the district will fight any policy that will result in "pupil education" suffering.

He emphasized that Eibling's accusation South-Western is transporting children living within 500 feet of a city school is one that can "fit on another foot."

Students formerly attending Franklin Heights, a stone's throw from their homes, are now forced to "walk, not ride," two miles to West High.

Phil Williams, Madison Local superintendent, maintains the evil of "sudden death" annexation for school purposes lies within the fact that such moves do not have an appreciable effect on the Columbus schools, while it can be a prime factor in the effectiveness of the district whose duplicate is reduced.

"Smaller districts have some problems inherent with their size, but we are attempting to meet these through cooperative efforts, as in vocational education," he added.

Another of Eibling's angles refuted by Grizzell is that identical municipal and district boundaries would eliminate "confused tax rates."

Columbus is edging into his district along Henderson rd and the loss of this area would hardly change the fact that varying tax rates exist in the Village of Dublin and four townships.

Washington serves (Norwich, Washington, Perry, Concord and Jerome), located in three counties (Franklin, Delaware and Union).

He further denies any confusion, arising from these rates, declaring it merely a "simple accounting procedure."

Washington district has 1,400 students spread out over 40 square miles.

"Columbus doesn't want either the duplicates or the students in our outlying area. How are these children going to be educated if our industry is taken from us?" he asked.

Huff (of Hamilton) brought out that in recent years many larger cities are breaking their school districts into several autonomous divisions (San Francisco, Minneapolis, New York, Chicago, for examples) with studies showing that districts over 30,000 become unwieldly.

"When districts become so large," he stated, "administrators stop thinking about the education of children, becoming bogged down in everything from bus problems to those boundaries."

"Ohio schools are dedicated to training citizens — in the way best for all — not in the way most agreeable to Columbus," Huff added.

He concluded, "In education in this area, the boundaries of the city of Columbus are no more important than the corporation limits of Calcutta."

Well, Hallelujah!

Motoring in Groveport will be a little smoother after the decision handed down by Judge Henry Holdren. The village with the perennial problem of street maintenance has sought release of $17,000 collected from water users for several years ago to build a proposed sewage disposal system. When the community intered in contract with the county for construction of the plant, the money was frozen and it took the recent court decision to make it available for anu municipal need other than the defunct sewer. According to Mayor Bob Baer until the street committee meets and consultations are held with the Gas Co. officials to learn their plans, the question of which streets will be resurfaced cannot be settled. However, Main-st enjoys top priority.

LET'S KNIT
A SPORTY SUIT

By The Spectator's
URSULA duBOIS

For the sporty, carefree look try this many-an-eye catching two-piece suit.

The garment features a simple slit neckline.

URSULA

Illustrated instructions are written in sizes eight through 22.

All sizes are included on one pattern.

Send 15 cents extra for first-class mail and special handling.

Please print plainly your name, address, pattern number and zip code.

It's up to you. The earlier you begin saving for retirement here the more often your profits will compound. In 10-20 years of safe, convenient saving, up to 25% or more of your nestegg can be supplied by earnings alone! Start your program next payday.

Groveport Faces Insurance Hike

Council jumped the maximum fine on OMVI charges from $50 to $250, which should, it believes, make walking look good to the driver who has had too many for the road.

The proposed peddler ordinance requiring a $5 permit, daily registration with the police and a $50 fine for false identification promises to limit house-to-house solicitation to bona fide salesmen with adequate credentials.

But the threatened raise in insurance may prove a tougher nut to crack.

The recent Ohio Inspection report states that unless the village indicates within 30 days that it plans further water works expansion, it will be necessary to change the village's rating from Class 6 to Class 7. (This would result in an approximate eight percent increase in residential fire insurance and from two to five percent on commercial properties.)

The report asks that a third well and pump with dual drive be added, an emergency power source set up and that additional elevated storage of at least 150,000 gallons be constructed.

Council hopes a convincing argument can be made by showing little new construction since the last report. The capacity of the Fire Department pumper and the availability of Blacklick Creek for extra water at the new junior high school.

Another water problem was met with the resignation of John Wyatt, the third water superintendent in the past six months.

ELMER HOWARD, currently on the street payroll, was appointed to the post, effective Apr. 1, at a salary of $250 a month. When not so involved, he will continue his duties as a street employe on an hourly basis.

With what might be regarded as considerable patience, a local resident complaining about the conditions at the corner of College and Wirt-rd left satisfied with Mayor Bob Baer's assurance "We're working on it." She stated that her battle to get the corner cleaned up has been waged for 16 years.

Other business included appointment of Marshal Albert Whipple as street commissioner (a post required by state law), a promise to clean out Henderhan Ditch and to review parking regulations and discussion of organization of a police association. Such an association would, through publication of a local directory, provide additional equipment for the department.

Baer urged council members to attend the meeting Wednesday, Apr. 6, of the Groveport Planning Commission when Regional Planning representatives will report on the progress of the master plan. As it nears completion, it is believed it is time to revive spade work for a Community Improvement Corporation to implement the recommendations of Groveport's "blueprint of the future."

THE ESTHETIC values of the scene which greets persons traveling Wert-rd as they approach its intersection with College-st in Groveport leave something to be desired. But even Mayor Bob Baer, who usually doesn't run from a village problem, is stymied by this one. After council authorized a survey it was determined that the above outbuilding straddles the corporation line and that of Canal Land lying to the west. Neighbors and officials agree the eyesore is just that, but who has the authority to force the property holder to do something about it? The village, the township trustees, the county commissioners, or the county or state health officials? To date only one fact is indisputable—the "scenic route" through Groveport is not along Wert-rd.

'Shadow Of Great City' Irks Crabbs

By The Spectator's
JANE ROBINSON

Bob Crabbs, superintendent of Whitehall Schools, is not a man to mince words.

This was made clear when the steering committees of the school districts participating in the Southeast Joint Vocational District met recently to hear Dr. Byrl Shoemaker, director of the division of Vocational Education for the Ohio Department of Education.

The question of the lack of direct support from the Columbus Chamber of Commerce and of the reluctance of industry to endorse the proposed program (except "off the record") came up.

Crabbs stated he felt it high time all realized that "living in the shadow of a great city" is no bed of roses.

He indicated that pressures exerted by officials of both the City of Columbus and the Columbus Public Schools are responsible for this attitude.

"Tom Quick is a gentleman and a scholar and won't pinpoint the blame," Crabbs stated. "But since I am neither, I can and will."

Dr. Shoemaker was equally frank when he lashed out at parents who stand in the way of their children taking advantage of vocational training.

"These parents are condemning their children to a lifetime of menial jobs by using them as pawns in the adult world of status-seeking!" he exclaimed. (This was in the reference to evidence that some children are steered into courses which they will never use because it suits Mom and Dad better to contend Junior is readying himself for college.)

Shoemaker was also emphatic about the fact that jobs of today are for those "who know something and can do something" and not for those who think they can earn a living "with their backs."

"And furthermore," he added, "being merely a bright young man cuts little ice."

The educator quoted the statistics resulting from a Ford Foundation survey of 10,000 academic students without college preparation with 3,000 students receiving vocational training.

Eleven years later, the student with actual know how had gotten a job more quickly, had fewer periods of unemployment, and possessed the greater earning power.

Almost equally important was that no difference could be determined in conversational habits, the leisure interests and the social and civic activities of one group from another.

Harping back to the theory that it is ridiculous for 81 percent of high school students to study toward professions which can absorb only 7.6 percent of the labor force, Shoemaker scoffed at a world where we "honor the poor philosopher and ignore the good plumber."

"With this attitude," he said, "neither the pipes or the theories will hold water."

TOASTMISTRESSES HOST BUTTERFLIES

". . But we'll guarantee they'll fly in formation."

The veteran member of the Scioto Chapter of Toastmistress Club was discussing the butterflies to which the stomach of the less-than-experienced public speaker plays an unwilling host.

She was conceding that the training offered by her organization cannot shoot down those butterflies — only regulate them.

The occasion was the tea following the speech contest held at Lockbourne AFB Officer's Club recently to determine who should represent areas 4 and 5, at the district level Saturday, Apr. 2, at the Fort Hayes Hotel.

The winners were Mrs. Anthony Cennamo, 253 Crosswell-rd and Mrs. Edward O'Brien, 19 D. Buckeye-cr, LAFB.

Mrs. O'Brien's carefully prepared and beautifully delivered talk on the "The Grand Canyon of the Colorado — Nature's Eternal Sculpture" was an aural tribute to the Toastmistresses' motto "To use our language with grace and facility."

She injected into a well-worn subject a reverence that brought the audience to the brink of the Canyon —"with humility before our Maker."

She sees it as evidence that God, in preparing a world for man, foresaw his need to draw inspiration from his surounding and as a "legacy of love to man's soul."

Mrs. Cennamo with ready wit, but an undercurrent of seriousness, asked, "Who is Sylvia?"

She described Sylvia as the "perfectionist whose dishes are always done, pillows always plumped, ash trays always cleaned and whose schedule includes "a peck on the cheek" reserved for her husband as he walks in the door.

She pictured her as the mother whose child is toilet-trained at 15 months, who never gets dirty, and who associates only with "other nice little boys."

But the point she drove home was "Are you Sylvia — the unhappy perfectionist who is the 'successful failure'?"

The women of the Jubilee, Airess, Y-City, Scioto, Timely, Diction Aires, and Squa-Kon-Za clubs are part of an international organization, 17,000 strong, which believes that a woman can learn to be as articulate at a podium as at a bridge table.

Find the woman who can inspire her canvassers to beat the sidewalks for her favorite charity, find the woman who can sway a city council toward neighborhood improvements, find the woman who can swing votes to her husband — and it's a good bet you've found a "Toastmistress."

HATS WERE OFF to Mrs. Edward O'Brien, left, and Mrs. Anthony Cennamo recently in a group which respects words as "the body of thought." They were Mrs. Cennamo representing the Scioto Club and Mrs. Edward O'Brien of the Airess group, winners of the speech contest of Areas 5 and 4 respectively of Council 6 of the Northeast Region of the International Toastmistress Club.

State Is Facing Serious Shortages In Personnel

By The Spectator's
JOHN AUBLE, JR.

Critical shortages existing in the state's employment picture indicates that Governor James Rhodes may have robbed Peter to pay Paul in his austerity efforts.

Charles Ream, the state's chief of personnel, told The Spectator this week that the number of state workers is "critically low" — the lowest in the history of the state in many job areas.

A report issued in Feburary from Ream's office shows a total employment figure for last month of 43,748 in various state civil service positions. The number is 44 less than the employment total in January.

According to Ream, the major reason that Ohio is falling behind in employment is low salaries paid to civil service workers here.

> "We don't have a shortage of people but we have a shortage in some skills. There's ample manpower if we train it."
>
> —Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz

"We can't hope to compete salary-wise with other states — or, with private industry — when it comes to getting skilled personnel," Ream says.

The majority of state workers, the Ream report shows, are employed in the field of mental hygiene and correction. Nearly 15,000 hold jobs in this field.

The second highest employment field in the state is in the highway department where 10,158 have found jobs. An additional 1991 are employed in a field labeled "highway safety."

Ream indicated that the figures are not high enough — that Ohio is ranking "fourth or fifth" in the country in state employment.

"The shortages have become more pronounced in the last year," Ream added. He said he hoped a downward trend in state employment doesn't continue.

Where is the biggest shortage of state workers? Unlikely enough, it's in the field of state liquor store clerks and managers.

"We may have to go out on the street and recruit to fill these positions," Ream said. "We'll even start hiring women for these jobs if we have to."

IN THE NEWS THIS WEEK...

From Spectator Area News Sources

Val Farm Filly First

Mrs. Ora Moore of Canal Winchester has good reason to be proud of her namesake. Several years ago her close friend Mrs. Lowell Fletcher, owner of Val Farms at Refugee and old 33, registered a Morgan filly with the name Val's Ora in honor of Mrs. Moore. This weekend, Val's Ora was shown at the All-Breed Spring Horse Show at the Coliseum, one of the largest shows in the nation. She came away as Junior Champion in the three-year-old mare class and as Grand Champion of the entire show. Another Val Farm filly, Shelanah was Reserve Champion in both these categories. Trophy's Becky Date, the stables' prize mare, won the Open Fine Harness Class and was second in the four-year and older class as well as in Open English Saddle.

Somebody Will Gain

When Hamilton Local School Board turned thumbsdown on a proposed Head Start Program for the community this summer, it created a problem for the Columbus Metropolitan Area Community Action Organization. But the problem was one not too difficult to take — that of what to do with the money that had been earmarked for the district. It was solved by a motion authorizing the CMACAO staff to use their discretion "to spend the additional funds left from Hamilton School funds."

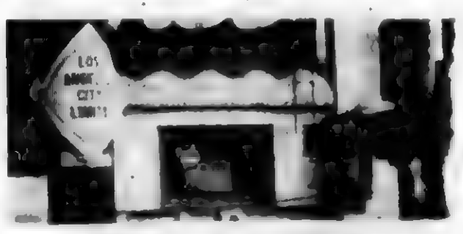
A Lily In Your Lapel

High School students from Groveport and Canal Winchester will join hundreds of volunteers from Y-Teen clubs Saturday, Apr. 2, on street corners and throughout shopping centers to sell lilies. Sale of the little lapel flowers is part of the annual Easter Seal program which makes possible therapy, clinics, schooling, camp and other direct help for crippled children through the Franklin County Society.

And Off We Fly

Mayor Mike Miller of Canal Winchester and Mayor Bob Baer of Groveport will be flying high next Monday. They are among the 25 civic leaders invited by Col. Kenneth Northamer, Commander at Lockbourne AFB, to visit Tactical Air Command Headquarters at Langley Field, Va. The trip, to be made by G-130, is designed to give the guests an insight into the organization furnishing most of the Air Force personnel serving in Viet Nam.

$50 For A Name



Names submitted by students for the proposed joint vocational school will be narrowed down to five Friday. The screening will be done when presidents of the student councils from the five school districts (Canal Winchester, Groveport, Reynoldsburg, Whitehall and Jefferson) meet at Whitehall with press representatives and Tom Quick and James Spadafore of the county office. The entries making the finals will be turned over to the Joint Vocational Board and the name selected as the most appropriate will be worth a $50 saving bond to its author.

Churches To Join

The Rev. Jerome Null from the Benfield Avenue Christian Church will speak at the Good Friday Community Service at the Ohio Avenue EUB Church. The service from noon until 1 p.m. is sponsored by the South Side Ministerial Association. Assisting in the joint worship will be Pastors Carl Butterbaugh, Harrison Gruenler, Don McMinn and Fred Ketner. Miss Janet Gutknecht of the Livingston Methodist Church will sing "At the Foot of the Old Rugged Cross."

Carriers To See Show

All Spectator newspapers carriers will get a chance to see a gigantic Batman movie (15 reels of the caped crusader), courtesy of the Drexel Theater, 2254 E. Main-st. Each Spectator newsboy supervisor and the Circulation Department at 2465 W. Broad-st has free passes to four and one-half hours of the Dynamic Duo. The free tickets are good for the special showing Saturday, Apr. 9, at 9 a.m.

WILLIAM S. WHITE: Deep In The Heart Of Taxes

WHITE

WASHINGTON — The blowtorch heretofore directed within the Cabinet almost exclusively at Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara is now turning its highest flames upon Secretary of the Treasury Henry Fowler.

Though Rusk and McNamara are, of course, still sweating quite enough over the war in Viet Nam, Fowler is for the first time at the center of the blast. Now it is the matter of tax policy.

Again, as in the Viet Nam issue, the real source of heat is from Democratic and not Republican members of Congress. Again, too, a deep issue is raised concerning the proper division of both legal power and practical responsibility and savvy within the American government.

The Viet Nam critics have in truth been seeking more than simply to fulfill their constitutional role to advise with the executive department on foreign policy. Instead, they want to seize control of that policy. And Fowler's new critics are seeking not partnership with the executive on tax policy but rather immediate and direct domination of that policy.

To be sure, there is one basic difference between these two situations. The right of the executive department to be the chief initiating and implementing force in foreign policy is undebatably clear in the Constitution itself. Congressional intrusion in this area, therefore, has been traditionally, and rightly, undertaken only on soft feet.

They are demanding now that the Secretary of the Treasury come out instantly for a general tax increase this year, as a cold press upon what they see as a super-heated economy likely to produce inflation.

Fowler's view is expressed in the old saying that there is a time to keep one's shirt on and that such a time is now. The view of his Democratic critics in Congress is that it is now time not only to take off the shirt, but also to set its tails afire.

Fowler thinks they have taken a wrong turn here because they are trying to compare an apple with a pear. For it was necessary at the time of Korea to put on certain brakes which are simply not required now.

Then, the United States military establishment had shrunk to a skeleton and money had to be poured out of barrels to build it up. Now it is a vastly muscled thing that does not even remotely require frantic emergency expenditures. Thus, there is now nothing like the relative amount of dangerously hot money that was running around then. — Copyright, 1966, by United Features.

BARRY GOLDWATER: Clay Feet And Statesmanship

GOLDWATER

Both Lyndon Johnson and Charles de Gaulle command the majority of votes in their respective countries. Both are considered successful politicians, and both have rather noticeable feet of clay when it comes to world statesmanship.

Gen. De Gaulle has just tried to put the finishing touch to our most important free world alliance, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. He has done it out of a combination of injured pride, distrust of America and isolationist concern for French security.

But most of all he has done it, in all probability, in reaction to President Johnson who instinctively shies from foreign policy matters and who faces up to the challenge of communism on a crisis-to-crisis basis rather than with a broad view and a strong plan.

In Viet Nam, President Johnson says, we are at war with communism. It is a war that is being fed by Communists everywhere, not just Chinese Communists. Yet, in almost the same breath, the President calls for increased trade with the Soviet Union. He studiously ignores Communist conflict everywhere else in the world and permits his secretary of defense to pursue a policy of clear-cut one-sided disarmament.

To Europeans, this muddled state of affairs means that they must attend to their own safety without as much reliance on America as in the past.

In Viet Nam, there is increased speculation that Robert Kennedy's proposal for a coalition government, including Communists, is a sort of trial balloon for the kind of peace that would be acceptable to President Johnson after a face-saving lapse of time. This would mean a Communist political triumph that could never be won militarily. And it means more confusion for Europeans who see American anti-communism shifting like sand.

One result is isolationism, as exemplified now by De Gaulle and his promise to have all troops in France out of NATO control and under French control by 1969. Another is French determination to have her own nuclear defenses.

Such an independent force never would have been needed had not President Johnson deliberately let NATO go to pot. In order to avoid a campaign issue he stymied all efforts to give NATO the sort of dependable nuclear defense force that would make it unnecessary for individual nations to build their own.

I cannot in any way condone Gen. De Gaulle's persistent efforts to finish what Lyndon Johnson started — the destruction of NATO. But I cannot, in conscience, say that the blame is De Gaulle's alone. Much of the blame can be traced directly to U. S. foreign policy — rather, the lack of such policy under this administration.

Ever since the White House became the center for global ward-heeling rather than the center of freedom's drive against tyranny, as it was under Dwight Eisenhower and John Kennedy, the grand alliances of free men have been crumbling.—Copyright 1966, Los Angeles Times.

Columbus, Ohio, Wednesday, March 30, 1966

Meanwhile, Back Home

Governor Rhodes is to be congratulated for his recent clear-cut stand in support of President Johnson's policies in Viet Nam.

The governor reportedly personally drafted a resolution adopted by fellow governors at a recent White House briefing by the President.

The resolution read, in part, "It is the unanimous opinion of the governors here assembled that the policies being followed by the President in pursuit of our national objectives in Viet Nam are sound and the only rational policies to be followed under the circumstances."

Rhodes is to be particularly congratulated for taking a position in the forefront in view of his usual policy of avoiding public positions on any matter of controversy.

The Spectator reserves the right to disagree with Governor Rhodes and it urges him to take public positions on controversial issues of state government, as well as national affairs, so that the people of Ohio will be able to assess the substance instead of merely the image of the man.

The USO Needs Help

One of the largest and most meaningful civilian war efforts — the United Servicemen's Organization — now finds itself in need of assistance for the first time in many years.

Betty H. Agler, associate director of the USO Council of Columbus, has issued an "urgent appeal" to local groups to give "immediate" help to the organization and staffing of the USO in this city.

To give you some idea of how great the need is, consider these figures:

An average of 40 men are leaving the Columbus Induction Station daily for basic training. Some 400 to 500 military personnel pass through Columbus weekly. Nearly 14,000 military men and dependent families are stationed in this area.

Daily "farewell" parties for inductees at Fort Hayes are now being held each day at 3:30 p.m. Workers are needed for this project.

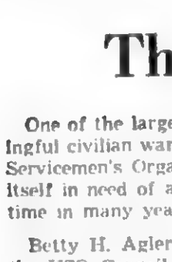
More volunteers are needed for the current USO program at Lockbourne Air Base and the USO has announced plans to begin a USO club in downtown Columbus.



If you've ever been a serviceman away from home you know how welcome the USO club was. This is your chance to return the smiles of greeting and the good fellowship.

An Old Friend

By The Spectator's
TED BEARDSHEAR

It was late. There was a knock on the door. I opened it to find a friend I hadn't seen for a time so I let him in. He seemed upset.

Little sparkles of liquid were in his eyes. Slowly, and with difficulty, he made his way to the kitchen table. I fixed him a cup of coffee which he let cool undrunk on the red-checkered table cloth.

BEARDSHEAR

"What's wrong?"

His story was filled with the idiocies of logic that happen in most emotionally charged situations. Now and then was a calm and lucid insight. But it was all scrambled like the white and the yolk of a beaten egg.

What help I offered was useless as he rebuffed every suggestion. The only thing was to listen.

His conflict was duty versus freedom.

The ambivalence was his mixed feelings about both situations. He could choose neither one without the other beckoning ever so strongly in the opposite direction. He was a man on a rack.

Finally, as the evening wore on, he told me his solution. "I will meet death as an old friend," he said. It was said in passing. I paid it no attention. I thought it an expression of his agony.

But as he talked, I sensed nothing interested him. The problems which could have been solved by a simple solution so colored his view that his life had lost meaning. There was no excitement, no vitality, no sense of wonder. He dismissed any passion that keeps most men alive with a faint wave of his hand.

It was obvious. He wanted nothing but death.

What does one say to a man who does not want to listen? What does one say to a friend who rejects any intrusion into his own assessment of things?

Nothing.

One listens. One makes oneself available.

And one hopes.

I saw him rarely after that night. He never knocked again. I later heard he killed himself.

He said he would meet death as an old friend.

I suppose he did. He had already given up on life.

They Said It

"Any large-scale strike today is much more than a matter between employer and employes. Strikes increasingly are directed against the public. Thousands of people and often hundreds of businesses are affected indirectly, but damagingly. This is a principal reason why the whole structure of our labor law needs review." — New York Herald Tribune.

"Go!—But You May Hold Your Umbrella Over Me From A Distance"

MARQUIS CHILDS: Quackery Or Cure?

WASHINGTON — The hope that springs eternal in the human breast is subject to no more tragic frustration than in the scourge of cancer. Each year an estimated 300,000 Americans die of this disease in all its sinister forms.

Out of the cycle of hope and despair that so many sufferers go through has come a drama still stirring the deepest passions. Four promoters in Chicago, including a noted physiologist, brought out a cancer remedy called Krebiozen.

CHILDS

Is it quackery for profit or is it, as its promoters and advocates claim, a beneficial medicine that the "doctors' trust" in the American Medical Association is determined to drive out? The answer to that question has been subject to fierce pulling and hauling, including one of the longest Federal court trials on record.

Banned from interstate commerce by the Food and Drug Administration, Krebiozen is still sold in Chicago. The new, aggressive head of FDA, Dr. James L. Goddard, says Krebiozen is merely mineral oil, and he is determined to keep it out of interstate trade even though he can do nothing about the hundreds of cancer victims who pay $9 a day for a dose.

At the trial of the four promoters—for fraud and conspiracy — lasting nine months in Chicago, evidence showed that $1,000,000 from the sale of Krebiozen had been put in Swiss and Canadian banks. Shortly after the trial ended, Dr. Stevan Durovic, developer of the remedy, was indicted for evading nearly $1,000,000 in federal income tax. He left for Paris just before the indictment was returned.

Massive evidence was introduced at the trial to prove that the promoters had made big business of Krebiozen, defrauding innocent victims by the thousands.

Out for six days, the jury was at first reported divided six to five for conviction of one or more of the defendants. Finally the verdict was for acquittal of all four defendants. The Department of Justice has now started an investigation into jury tampering.

A repeated accusation of Krebiozen advocates is that the Food and Drug Administration refuses to test Krebiozen.

One of the striking facts about the controversy is the political support Krebiozen has enlisted. Even since the trial the White House has been so importuned, notably by a mass appeal from a mother who believes her daughter will die if she cannot obtain Krebiozen, that FDA was called on for still more documentation.

In 1964 when he was a Senator, Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey asked the then Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, Anthony J. Celebrezze, if he could not lift the interstate commerce ban. Celebrezze said no.

Those who followed the trial in its labyrinthine course saw a pattern reflecting a growing public attitude — down with government, put the bureaucrats in their place, the "doctors trust" is part of the stranglehold of "big government." This conveniently ignores the fact that the American Medical Association has been the stoutest enemy of Medicare and government intervention in medicine.

It also ignores the increasing magnitude of research into cancer supported by the federal government. The amount for this purpose in 1940 was $570,000. This year it is $163,768,000. That could be the answer to the scourge and to those who seek in desperation any remedy — Copyright 1966, by United Features.

Letters To The Editor

What's Indebtedness Figure?

To The Spectator:

It appears there is a big discrepancy in the newspaper reports on Ohio's Bonded Indebtedness as of date. On Mar. 3, a downtown evening daily had a write-up saying it was $1.9-million less than when the present Governor took office. It was followed to state that the bonded indebtedness on Jan. 31, 1962, was $369-million. Deduct $1.9-million off that amount which means the present figure would be $368-million.

But, the morning daily newspaper on Mar. 19 said the total was $461,200,000 according to State Treasurer John D. Herbert. That's $3,210,000 higher than the afternoon paper's figure — a paper which cleverly said "These are (State Finance Director Richard) Krabach's figures."

I believe that every citizen in Ohio should know the proper amount of the bonded indebtedness as well as the interest we are presently paying on the total indebtedness.

A news report Mar. 22 said the state sold $50-million more bonded indebtedness notes which really put the present administration "on top" for all time.

J. A. S.

Frebis-av
Columbus, O.

(ED. NOTE: Malcolm H. Galbraith of the State Auditor's Office says the bonded indebtedness in the 1965 report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1965, was $451,210,000. The interest rate is not constant because of the varying rates of the bond issues.)

Letters for publication must bear the writer's name and address. The editors, at their discretion, may permit use of initials or pseudonyms if this is requested for a good reason. In general, preference will be given to writers willing to take responsibility for their views. Letters should be kept as short as possible. All letters are subject to editing.

Likes Penta Pattern

To The Spectator:

They say imitation is the sincerest form of flattery and I'm sure that's the case with the Franklin County School Board.

I read, with delight, your report from Toledo, O., about County School Board representatives going to the Penta County area to view the successful vocational school set-up there (Spectator, Mar. 23).

Many of us realize that not all children are going to go to college and definite steps have to be taken to insure their future.

Christian Scientist To Give Public Talk

Man's potentialities for developing "spiritual perception" will be explored at a public lecture coming to Columbus Tuesday, Apr. 5, under local Christian Science auspices.

MARTIN H. HEAFER

Martin N. Heafer, C.S., a recognized Christian Science practitioner from Houston, Tex., will be the speaker. His lecture will examine in detail the elements of spiritual perception, its relation to Christianity, and how it develops in the life of an individual. Title of the lecture is "Open Your Eyes."

All Churches of Christ, Scientist of Columbus are sponsoring the event. It will take place at 12 noon in the Neil House.

Heafer is a graduate of Southern Methodist University in mathematics, served in the United States Army Air Corps during World War II, and in 1957 withdrew from a business management position to go into the full-time practice of Christian Science healing.

He is currently on tour as a member of the Board of Lectureship of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

Forecast: 36% Increase In Convention Income

More than $22 million, finding its way into Columbus business tills, provided a healthy assist to the city economy in 1965.

And this total, spent by delegates to the more than 1000 conventions held here, will be raised to an impressive $30 million this year, or an increase of 36 percent, if officials' expectations for an even bigger convention year are justified.

Now in its 25th year of active participation in the profitable convention business, Columbus is fast becoming one of the leading contenders in this part of the country for large meetings.

Among conventions being held here for the first time in '66 is the Central Division U.S. Ski Association to meet in Columbus Apr. 1-3, with 1000 delegates from states east of the Mississippi.

Hotels and motels, restaurants and retailers benefit directly from the convention business, and the capital's economy booster by the money is a boon to everyone.

CROP Seeks $500,000

The Church World Service-CROP Department of the Ohio Council of Churches announced today that it is launching a "Combat World Hunger" campaign to raise at least $500,000 for economic development, self-help programs, population control and necessary food relief in India, Africa, and Brazil this year. The major thrust of the campaign will be during the Thanksgiving season through community appeals of the churches.

A Conference on World Hunger to be held Tuesday, Apr. 12 in Columbus, will be the state-wide launching of the "Combat World Hunger" program. Persons attending will represent the various denominations, county CWS-CROP committees, Councils of Churches, Ministerial Associations, United Church Women and other interested persons.

CONFERENCE SET

The seventh annual pediatric conference, sponsored by the Ohio State University College of Medicine, will be held Mar. 30 and Apr. 1 at Children's Hospital.

Royal Crown Bottling Facility Underway

Construction of the new $2.5 million Columbus Royal Crown bottling plant at 950 Stelzer-rd has begun.

At recent groundbreaking ceremonies Lt. Gov. John Brown and Columbus Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner, represented the state and the city.

Harold Schottenstein, president of Schott Enterprises Inc., bottlers of Royal Crown Cola, Diet-Rite Cola, Cinch, Diet Cinch, Canada Dry, Suncrest and Dad's Root Beer, said the new 110,000 square foot facility will be one of the most modern operations of its kind in the world.

The company now employs 100 at its 446 E. Livingston-av plant. Schottenstein said this will increase to more than 150 once the Stelzer-rd facility is in operation.

Dedger Jones of Arrow Construction Co., has been awarded the sub-contract for steelwork and masonry construction.

Huntington National Bank and Trust Co. has construction financing with the major loan committment being assumed by Equitable Life Assurance Co., according to Schottenstein.

More than 50 flavors and sizes are currently being bottled at the 70,000 square foot Livingston-av plant.

Harold S. Schofield of Gahanna, achitect and general contractor, said he hopes to have the bottling plant completed with bottling operations in full swing by early fall.

Most of the equipment is to be automatic and located on one level. A balcony from which visitors can watch operations is a particular point of interest, Schottenstein said.

Buckeye Federal Certificates Earn 4¼% Interest

A new rate on savings certificates at Buckeye Federal Savings and Loan Assn. will become effective Apr. 1, according to William S. Guthrie, president.

On 12-month savings certificates, Buckeye Federal Savings will pay 4¼ percent. To earn this rate the deposit must be $1,000 or more, in multiples of $1,000, and remain on deposit for one year.

If held less than one year, Buckeye Federal savings certificates will earn the regular passbook savings dividend rate of 4¼%, compounded quarterly.

Buckeye Federal savings certificates will earn at the new rate from date of purchase. Their increased dividend rate will also apply to all current savings account certificates, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1966.

Outdated Drafty House Windows Are Replaced By Low-Cost Nu-Sash

Unique New Product Provides An Economical Method Of Updating Home, Eliminating Old Window Problems

Doing something about those old-fashioned, drafty, hard-to-wash house windows that cause high heating bills has been a vexing and costly problem for homeowners who want to modernize. However, a handsome new product now provides an easy, inexpensive solution.

BEFORE:
Old window is unsightly, hard to wash, is difficult to open, and lets in wind and cold.

AFTER:

The product — Nu-Sash — is an aluminum double-hung unit specifically designed to replace old house windows. What's more, the cost, including installation, is approximately 40% less than any other method of updating old windows. They can be purchased with no down payment and modest monthly installments.

Despite the low cost, Nu-Sash windows are packed with outstanding features not found in windows used in many new homes being built. For example:

Stretching and straining on tipsy ladders or sills to wash outside window glass is completely eliminated. Nu-Sash lift out easily for convenient cleaning inside the home.

Eye-catching, modern design updates the appearance of the home, inside as well as out.

Painting, puttying and almost all other maintenance is completely eliminated, since Nu-Sash are constructed entirely of aluminum and rigid vinyl. An anodized protective coating keeps the aluminum finish bright and new-looking indefinitely.

Coil spring balances raise and lower the sash smoothly, effortlessly, without binding or sticking. Sash cords and weights are eliminated.

One of the reasons Nu-Sash is much less expensive than other methods of replacing old windows is the unique manner in which they are installed. There is no costly construction work. Inside plaster and woodwork is never disturbed.

Expert mechanics merely remove the old sash, insert jamb liners and snap the Nu-Sash into place. The usual window can be converted in just 20 minutes.

The product can be used to replace all types of house windows — oriel, double-hung, casement, stationary, and in-swinging French type. A picture window model also is available to replace single-pane fixed windows, as well as double and triple units found in older homes. The picture window features a large center section flanked by double-hung or sliding sash for ventilation.

Nu-Sash has been tested under rigid laboratory conditions. Results show it is superior to standards for air leakage set by FHA for new house windows. Savings in heat alone should pay a large share of Nu-Sash cost.

A heavy-duty model window also has been designed for schools, apartments, factories, and commercial buildings at a comparably low cost. Detail drawings and estimates available.

H-T OPENS 'METRO' PLAY . . .

Pitching Keys Carroll Pennant Push; Defense Spearheads Groveport Hopes

By BOB WHITMAN

It looks like another run off between Carroll and baseball brand name Liberty-Union for the Fairfield County flag this spring.

Marlo Mills' Bulldogs posted a 12-3 mark last season that was good enough for a fifty share with rugged three time State "A" king Liberty-Union.

RETURNING TO the Carroll diamond are six letter wearers, including a pair of hard-throwing hurlers who combined for 10 wins against a lone defeat in last year's ride to the top.

Back are pitchers Leon Hiles (8-1) and pitcher-slugger Ron Buskirk (2-0 on the mound and .444 at the plate).

"We should have more pitching depth this year," Mills said, "with the addition of Bill Frye."

FRYE WAS PROMOTED to the pitching staff after a successful summer season. He lettered for the Bulldogs last year as a freshman.

Besides the three pitchers, Lannie Lott (second baseman), Steve Fridley (outfield), and catcher Jerry Hysell earned letters last season.

Sophomore Bill Lupfer and senior George Hallarn are battling for the first base position to round out the defensively sound infield.

"We should be as good defensively this year as last," Mills said, "but we will miss Brian Campbell's fine play at shortstop."

CAMPBELL's glove work and .457 batting average earned him a berth on the All-State baseball team last spring.

Mills cited four other prospects that will be pushing for starting assignments as he mentioned Joe Ridgeway, Tom Stebelton, Tom Kandal and steady shortstop Lonnie Kosch, "who is developing into a strong hitter."

• • •

Defense is the big item at Groveport also this spring with the Cruisers boasting four lettermen from last season's 13-5 (seond place in the Mid-Eight, a game behind champ Hilliard) team. Bob Blagg's nine also starts this year winning 13 of their last 14 diamond tries.

Back are pitcher Danny Stone and catcher Jerry Falter plus a pair of slick infielders in Rick Longstreth and Dave Paini.

BLAGG'S HITTING and pitching are the big question marks, but if just the pitching comes around "our defensive play will give us a title contender."

Besides Longstreth and Paini at the shortstop and third base positions respectively, the infield slots are filled with Dave Gerhardt at second and Mike Masters at first base. When Masters is on the mound as a reliefer, Dave Stokes will hold down first.

• • •

Hamilton Township will open up Metro League action this season with four returning lettermen for coach George Hamric to work with.

FCL TITLE DEFENSE THEIR GOAL

Distance Is Key Hope For Young T-V Squad

By JACK WITTENMEIER

Green may mean "go" for some people but the word indicates inexperience as applied to his 1966 track squad for Teays Valley mentor Marion Waits this spring.

"We're very young this spring," Waits relates. "In fact, most of our 35 boys out this season are either freshmen or sophomores."

WAITS DOES have six returning lettermen back to form a nucleus for his young Viking squad, half of them ticketed for long distance duty — a department where the T-V coach feels his squad will show the most strength.

Back are milers Danny Swank (senior) and Pat Kunke (junior) and junior half-miler Steve Puckett. Complementing that trio are vets Greg Hall and Bob Graham, both 440 juniors, and senior pole vaulter John Smith.

Smith, who cleared the bar at 11'6" last spring, is expected to hit the 12' mark this spring.

TOP PROSPECT appears to be frosh high jumper George Coey, already up to 5'8" this spring.

"It's really too early to know about the others," claims Waits, whose Viking thins will perform on the home oval every Tuesday and Thursday this season (4 p.m.).

Two highlights of the Teays Valley thin season will be the annual T-V Invitational (May 16, 10 teams entered) and the first Metropolitan League Meet (May 18 at Worthington).

WAITS FIGURES Whitehall looks strongest in the pre-season lineup of Metro loop schools with Franklin Heights (defending SSL champ) and Pleasant View next in line.

"Reynoldsburg had some good athletes last year who are back this spring. Hamilton lost its good weights man (Frank Peters) but returns a fine sprinter in (John) Gorczyca.

"They (Hamilton) will probably battle us for last place."

T-V LOST some fine seniors via graduation from the '65 squad, including Tom Ray, a half miler and low hurdler, who departed with school records in both events.

Last T-V Youth Baseball Signup Scheduled Apr. 2

Final date for registration is Saturday, Apr. 2, at the Council House (1 p.m. and 7 p.m.).

Tryouts will be held Saturday, Apr. 9 at TV High School. Boys 13, 14 and 15 years of age and all girls 11-15 years of age should report at 9 a.m.

Boys 9-12 years of age should report at 3 p.m.

Documentary Of Jewish People To Be Telecast

"Let My People Go," the Xerox special to be seen locally on TV-4 Thursday, Mar. 31, at 8:30 p.m. is more than a television documentary.

The special traces the age-old journey of the Jewish people in an epic examination of a people's tears and redemption. It is an historic document for all humanity.

In creating "Let My People Go," films are used which have never before been seen publicly. Included are captured Arab and German footage, film taken by Haganah and Irgun cameramen while smuggling "illegals" into Palestine, and priceless movie film of the earliest Jewish settlers as they literally converted sand dunes into a living country.

"Let My People Go," traces the struggle from the fall of Jerusalem to Rome's Legions, through the earliest persecutions right up to the armistice following Israel's War of Independence against seven Arab nations.

EDITED BY ROLAND SUNKER

A guide to performers and performances in the Columbus area this week

Cuddle Up To The Cuddl-Upps

The Cuddl-Upps, with Dolly Morgan on vocals and drums and Dottie Vee at the 88's and vocalizing are currently performing at the Olentangy Inn cocktail lounge. Not only do they sing well individually, but harmonizing produces an interesting sound.

Dolly is an entertainer in every sense of the word. She has a happy effervescent personality and plenty of enthusiasm and knows how to sell a song. Comedy is another of Dolly's talents. Her clowning and crazy antics are natural. She is funny without really trying. A cute, pixie singer is Dolly.

On the black and whites, Dottie Vee is a virtuoso of the piano. She plays a clean and crisp swing, jazz and all of the old standards. While Dottie is not a song belter like Dolly, her voice is pleasing and enjoyable.

Both of these girls are experienced entertainers, together they are explosive. Th Cuddl-Upps show great promise as a new act. They are fun and entertaining.

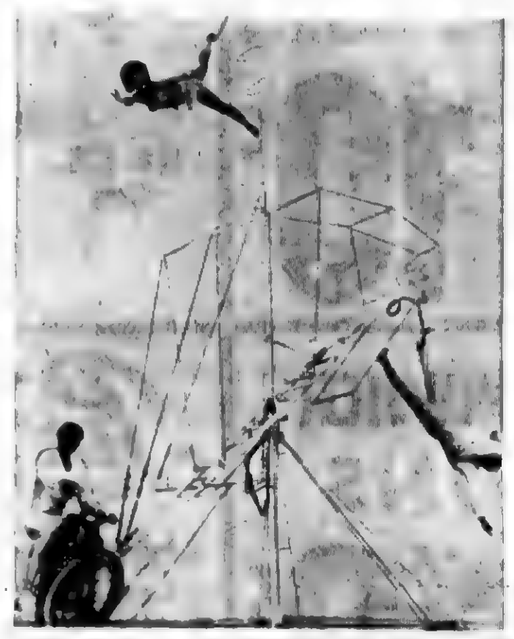
THE CUDDL-UPPS, Dottie Vee and Dolly Morgan, are currently performing nightly in the cocktail lounge of the Olentangy Inn. This dynamic duo is seen from 9 p.m. until 2 a.m. Monday through Friday and from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. Saturdays.

"The Gibson Man"

Merle Lemon is one of America's leading young guitarists. His lifelong desire was to be a piano player, and this has caused him to take a uniquely effective approach to guitar styling. Self-taught, Merle performs with true artistry in all forms of music . . . rock and roll, bluegrass, country-western, jazz, folk and popular.

Merle's professional background includes extensive radio and television work, as well as cross country tours with long runs in many of the leading night spots. His wife Susan, has been a professional partner in all of his endeavors, combining beauty with talent as a drummer and a vocalist.

A talented guitarist, a fine looking young man . . . the husband of a pretty drummer-vocalist . . . an impressive list of attributes to be sure. But Merle Lemon, "The Gibson Man," is much more. He is a "walking, talking, breathing, demonstrating, encyclopedia of guitar artistry."



Merle Lemon will be at Van's Music Sales, 3504 North High-st, Friday, Apr. 1 at 8 p.m. An evening of guitar artistry is free to the public.

Try Sir Loin—Some Knight

The Sir Loin Steak House in Hilliard is a perfect place to take a wife or sweetheart for candlelight and a romantic atmosphere. The music played by the John Horst Trio is just about the best around town for listening and dancing. It's soft and sweet, arranged with a dancing rhythm. If you are a rock and roll fan, you won't enjoy this group. The old standards and popular tunes of the day are their musical menu.

With Dick Kemp and Red Heflin on saxophone and drums and John Horst on electric organ, this trio plays music, real live, old fashioned, pretty music. Hear them some Friday or Saturday night.

Appearing nightly at the Sir Loin is Toni Brockman in the piano lounge. This is a talented lass who is sure to please. Another feature of the Sir Loin is the gourmet menu, offering all types of gourmet food. It is the finest.

SHRINE CIRCUS UNDER WAY

THE ANGELOS is one of 27 acts appearing in the greatest Shrine Circus to ever play Columbus. Circus Director Richard E. Goudy announced that tons and tons of elephants are booked for the show, as well as many wild animal acts and the best aerial artists in the country. Emanuel Zacchini's X-15 Gemini Twin Flight Missile will rocket two human projectiles. Performances are at 4 p.m. and 8 p.m. daily and at 10 a.m., 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. Saturdays. There is no show Sunday. Prices are the same as they were 16 years ago

IN WEST VARIETY CAST

IS WIT

PHYLLIS DILLER, a creative, natural wit writes a lot of her own material, which by the nature of her craft must be supplemented by jokes and gags she buys. Much of her material comes from housewives all over the country. Phyllis makes her only Columbus appearance this year at the Veterans Memorial Saturday, Apr. 9, at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are on sale at the Hartman Theatre Box Office, 79 E. State-st, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily, except Sundays.

Cedar Point To Open

The new $100,000 Silver Dollar Restaurant going up at Cedar Point indicates that people yearn for the days of yesteryear.

The old Silver Dollar that seated 150 has been razed and the new one will accommodate 300.

The Gay 90 atmosphere will be continued including the sawdust - covered floor, The ancient player piano and college-boy waiters wearing sailor straws and checked shirts.

Opening is set for May 28.

Children's Play Slated

Gallery Stagecrafters will present "Chain of Jade," a fun-filled children's play in the tradition of the Chinese theatre, in the Jewish Center Auditorium, 1125 College-av, Sunday, Apr. 3, at 3:30 p.m. Tickets are 25 cents.

THE SPECTATOR SUPPLEMENT

LIVE WIRE

LIVE WIRE solves problems and cuts red tape. It gets answers, investigates, complains and stands up for your rights. Call LIVE WIRE at BR. 4-1155 from 1 to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Or, write LIVE WIRE, The Spectator, 2465 W. Broad-st, Columbus, O.

BR. 4-1155

Maybe LIVE WIRE can settle the old "seashore or mountains" vacation dilemma. What do the experts say about the best vacation spot these days?—Mrs. L.M., Columbus.

Local travel experts say, emphatically, that Mexico is now THE place in the sun for vacation-goers. Fishing at Puerto Vallarta or sightseeing in Guadalajara, Mexico, is the choice of many Americans and the trend is growing.

I thought that maybe LIVE WIRE could get in touch with Batman and get his views on why we cannot win the war in Viet Nam. Since Batman is a respected national figure, I though that he might have the latest word on the action. President Johnson might even be interested in his comments — Donald Stewart, Pleasant View High.

Donald, when the combined minds of the top leaders in this country fail to come up with a solution how can you expect one man — even with Batman's capabilities — to find an answer? Besides, Gotham City gives him all the trouble he can handle.

It is the general impression that the Ohio State Fair 1965 operated at a large loss. I think all citizens of the state should be apprised of the financial ending of the Fair — J. A. Spain, 297 Frebis-av.

A LIVE WIRE connection with Jeff Keirns, manager of the Ohio Expositions Center, says the 1965 state fair operated at a profit of $46,729.31.

I'm having an argument with my buddy about the length of the racing track at Sebring, Fla. By

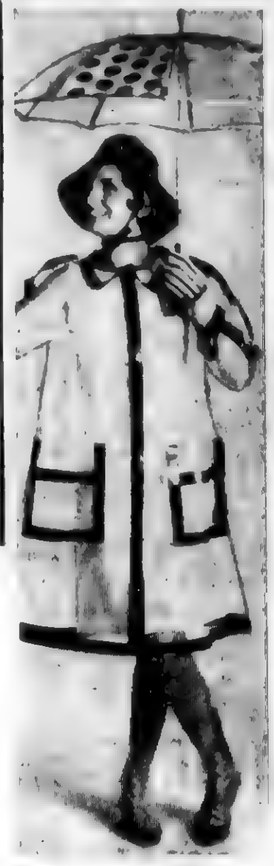
First, a check with Les Kelter, one of the nation's top sportscasters, confirms that the Sebring, Fla., race track is 5.2 miles. Racing dying? Nonsense. Last year, for example, 400-million Americans bought tickets for auto racing events.

As an expectant mother, I'm concerned about rubella—commonly known as German or three-day measles. Much has been written about it lately but is there any research being done in this country to cure it?—Mrs. G. H., Hilliard.

There are steps toward research right here in Columbus. The Children's Hospital Research Foundation has been awarded a three-year, $67,000 Ohio Department of Health grant for establishment of a rubella research and diagnostic laboratory, Henry G. Cramblett, M.D., and Vincent V. Hamparian, Ph.D., will head the laboratory.

How do you get people to keep their cats at home? We're made to keep dogs tied up — why not cats, too?—Pauline, Columbus.



Laws for cats are non-existent because they are unenforceable. At least this is the opinion LIVE WIRE learned from Reynoldsburg's city council which had a real cat-fight before declining to legislate Tom's rovings. There are cat repellants on the market. They're inexpensive — and, often effective.

Is there still a national investigations committee on aerial phenomena in existence as there was in 1960? — Wayne Carver, 4985 Vanderbilt.

Yes, Wayne, there is. The committee was founded in 1956 and is still listed in operation at 1536 Connecticut-av, N.W., Washington 6, D.C. Donald P. Kayhoe is the director.

I live on W. Mound-st. We want sidewalks out here from Wayne west. How can we get them when many blocks on Mound do not have property owners facing the street? — Mrs. Geraldine Schott, 702 N. Ogden.

LIVE WIRE contacted the Division of Engineering and Construction in Columbus. They furnish free permits for individual sidewalk construction. That would fix things in front of your house. However, getting sidewalks all along Mound-st is a more complicated procedure. Abutting property owners must petition City Council. (Even if the homes do not face Mound-st, property owners of corner lots must help finance the streets they face and the street alongside their homes.) The City assumes two percent of the overall cost. The assessment can be placed on the tax duplicate to be paid in 10 semi-annual installments.

"A three-bid doesn't mean more STRENGTH: It only shows some LOUSY length!"

This is where a partner who hears the bid, gets almost as excited as the bidder who opens with a "short" club! Your partner does get the message, though, if he passes, knowing he himself has no opening bid! Remember, you never open at THREE, when you can open at ONE! I'll tell you lots more, later, about that interesting "short" club bid. That short club, always makes them flub their dub!

Vinyl Makes Rainwear News

A PRETTIER YOU

By MARIANNE TOMLINSON
Spectator Fashion Editor

April showers may bring May flowers but they also bring what-to-wear problems.

Don't let this dampen your spirits and make sure that you're prepared for the rainy days ahead with some new fashions designed specifically to keep you dry and happy.

Why look drab on gloomy days when manufacturers are making water-proofed garments better looking than ever before?

Invisible waterproofing that makes coats and capes pleasant to wear even on sunny days are being featured this season.

Taking the country by storm (excuse us!) right now is the Vinyl raincoat. It's bright and shiny and is available in gay, floral prints, solids, plaids, animal stripings and dots of all dimensions.

It's a fun look — but, also a practical one that is guaranteed to keep you dry. It needs no waterproofing and you can just wipe it clean.

And, if you're a home-sewer, you'll find the same bright Vinyl in the fabric departments. You can design your own raincoat . . . plus a hat, handbag and gaiters, and even outfit the small fry in posies and polka-dots that you clean with soap and water.

In contrast to the modern look of the Vinyl coats there are many classic styles available too. One such line of raincoats is called "Misty Harbor." We were introduced to their fine features at the "Lamp Post" in London, O.

They are classically styled in what they call "posh" Poplin. They have other thoughtful additions, too, like extra buttons, an identification label, an inside pocket and even a hanger in the neckline that says: "Wear in good health."

If you're in the market for some new rainwear you have a "rainbow" selection from which to choose.

Boo-Boop-De-Do Back Again

Recreate the excitement and razzle dazzle of silent films, prohibition and the F. Scott Fitzgerald era.

Suddenly waists are lower, hems are higher.

After dark, tank tops give way to halter necklines or gowns cut-out at the waist in back as St. Laurent decreed.

You'll invest in gilt-edged securities with glittery trim at hem and neckline or completely cover yourself in a gold gown of siren sequins.

Wit 'N' Wisdom

By JACK WITTENMEIER

Spectator Sports Editor

Sources in Hollywood have finally leaked out the signing of Dodger holdout pitchers Don Drysdale and Sandy Koufax to movie contracts.

Wittenmeier

It seems the pair of LA hurlers are pretty sore about not getting that $1-million package and are going to take it out on baseball in general in a new "007-type" production.

THE CELLULOID will be called "From Buzzie" With Love" and will center around the Dodger front office's dastardly attempts to sign their star hurlers.

The part of the devious Bavasi will be played by Casey Stengel in his first major comedy role since retiring as field manager of the New York Mets.

The movie will be shot on location at Drysdale's humble $50,000 home in Beverly Hills and the studio is promising an outstanding cast of supporting actors.

Just for starters, Ted Williams will play the role of a mild-mannered LA sportswriter and Jonathan Winters will play the entire Philadelphia Phillie infield in what the studio tabs "a masterpiece of cinematography."

The plot, a thriller from beginning to end, exploits baseball's signup problems.

EASILY THE most exciting scene is the one in which Koufax is trapped in a recreation center steam room in his field uniform and told to sign or strangle to death as his diamond togs shrink.

In another classic, Drysdale is warned that if he doesn't sign, the leftfield fence at Dodger Stadium will be reduced to 127 feet.

Probably the most poignant scene unfolds in the closing minutes of the film when Koufax is asked to autograph a baseball for little Joey Cough, sickly son of ole' Pete, the peanut vendor at Portal Seven in the Stadium's upper deck (both played by Jonathan Winters).

THE COVER of the ball is an ingeniously disguised 35-year contract but we can't tell you how Sandy gets out of this one.

Dodger fans are urged not to miss this film. It's probably the only way you'll get to see your mound heroes, this baseball season.

ABOUT 15 YARDS WORTH!

TRYING TO to weave his way through two of the NFL's best Saturday night was Howard Clendenin (3) of Reynoldsburg's Super Church All-Stars during a benefit game with the Cleveland Browns. Called for "unnecessary roughness" on the play were Brown defenders Jim Houston (left) and Tom Hutcheson (87). Pro cagers downed Church five, 72-71, in overtime after Thursday All-Stars clobbered Tuesday night counterparts in prelim, 80-50. (Staff photo by Jack Wittenmeier).

MAVERICK

With Muddy Shoes

By RICHARD L. PAUGH

While enjoying the big game fishing off Florida's west coast, I received an invitation to visit the new sportsman's complex known as River Ranch Acres.

It is situated just about dead center in Florida on the bass-packed Kissimmee River. I was pleasantly amazed when I arrived to find everything the outdoorsman could wish for in both the hunting and fishing accommodations.

PAUGH

THE CENTER of the ranch is the beautifully appointed lodge, complete with guest rooms, lounges, a trading post and a terrific restaurant. Out back is the campground nestled amongst gigantic moss-draped trees.

To the immediate west is the quarter-mile track and and spotless horse barns. Past that is the most complete kennel I have ever seen, to house "loaner hounds" or — if you bring your own — accommodations for traveling dogs.

To the east of the lodge is the great Kissimmee River and the River Ranch Marina with tackle shop, boat livery and lounge. There is a picnic ground and playground for the children and horse drawn surreys for the lookers.

HUNTERS MIGHT well remember River Ranch for this fall, the back pasture has over 13,000 acres complete with deer, wild hog and quail like I've never seen in Ohio.

The brushlands abound in such exotic varmints as armadillos and gators and the fishermen have the aforementioned Kissimmee River to try.

Seven-pound bass are common and the biggest lunker recorded topped 14 pounds. Also among the living are crappies, speckled perch, shellcrackers and chain pickerel.

HOWARD ANGELL, the genial marina manager took me out for a try but the unseasonal flooding turned it into a pleasurable morning cruise.

I talked with the natives along the shore and their tales of piscatorial paradise turned me green with envy.

The second day of my hurry-up stay was spent on horseback (ouch). My hosts — General Manager John MacDonald and his assistant, Cy Oemler — squired me across the vast hunting preserve on a trip I'll never forget.

We rambled through flat lands of palmettos that house countless explosive coveys of quail and the prehistoric-looking armadillos.

THESE armor-bound rodents would make the craziest varmint hunt ever conceived. They would be very hard to stop with a handgun and their tough shells and deceptive speed could cause an Ohio hunter to swear off the sport.

Way out back, along the banks of Kissimmee, there is a perfect oasis where the guests are hay-waggoned to in the starlight for combination steak barbecues and folk sings. Like Mac says "something for everyone!" Deer and wild hog signs were everywhere.

Cy had just returned from a two-week course at Winchester's Gun Club School in Connecticut where he gathered plans for a soon-to-be-started trap and skeet club.

THIS ADDED venture would just about complete the picture of River Ranch. If you are planning a trip to Florida, make it a part of your plans to stop by and meet these far-sighted folks who are experts in the field of outdoor recreation.

River Ranch is just west of Sunshine State Parkway at Exit 17. This is a prime example of what can be done by private enterprise in a country that was founded on the principle of individual initiative.

Last year industrial friends of 4-H provided over four million copies of educational publications and other materials to aid 4-H'ers in their projects.

Kegler's Korner

By NORMA KIRKENDALL

Readers of "Junior Bowler" will see articles on attire by Columbus' Helen Latham.

Finally met a bowler who actually went the hypnosis route to try to improve his bowling. It seemed to work for one series with about 20 pins over average—but had to be repeated before each session and never seemed to have a carry-over.

WHAT IT seemed to achieve was relaxation—so it looks like a bowler could do it better for himself if he's got a strong enough "relaxer" attitude.

Bowling is still the only sport where a healthy young man can have plenty of trouble beating his grandmother.

Maxie Kosof, originator of the World Endurance Classic has come up with a World Singles Classic — but you'll have to go to Ogden, Utah, to try for the $16,000 prize possible to top bowler in a 20-gamer challenge.

AND IF you are a traveler — visit Edison, New Jersey's 112 - lane Edison Lanes on Apr. 30 - May 1 to see the Eastern Championship of the BPAA 24th annual National Men's Doubles Match Games.

Want some attractive league banquet souvenirs? Write John Mazey, AMF Bowling, Westbury, N. Y. 11590, for free lapel pins or tie tacks in quantity you need.

THE STARTING POINT: The beginning bowler determines his starting point by placing his heels two inches from the foul line with his back to the pins. He then takes four and a half brisk walking steps. (The extra half-step is for the slide).

After determining the starting point, turn around and try it several times. If you feel cramped, lengthen the approach slightly.

If you feel you are stretching your steps to get to the foul line, shorten the approach.

QUOTE FROM 1918 ABC-souvenir program: "This tourney . . . will bring together . . . prominent women bowlers of the Middle West. It is confidently expected that this assembling of the ladies interested in bowling will result in a bowling boom in the popularity of this healthful recreation among the members of the fair sex."

How's that for a prophecy?

Spend some time in the local display rooms of trophy houses and see the new and definitely beautiful 1966 trophy lines. In spite of pins, medals, rings, plaques and belt buckles, the trophy remains the favorite award (besides cash, of course).

WONDER who has the biggest collection in the city? Or who has the oldest trophy?

Spectator Renews Its 'No-Hit' Club

With "spring training" just about wrapped up and the 1966 high school baseball season just around the corner, The Spectator announces the resumption of its "No Hit Club."

The club, which began last spring, honors each Spectator-area schoolboy pitcher who twirls a no-hit game during the baseball season.

Eight members were admitted to the club last spring: South's Keith Bugos, Hartley's Scott French, DeSales' Jim Bower, Watterson's Gene Rogers, Central's Pete Eyer, Reynoldsburg's Craig Shade and Rosary's Charles Masterson and Mike Shaffer (combined on no-hitter).

"No Hit Club" members are mailed a certificate (via their school) recording their no-hitter and entering them in the Spectator's club.

Sporting Chances

When the Scarlet and Gray Cup Series is contested at Scioto Downs the week of August 22nd, 164 two and three year old trotters and pacers will be eligible for the Early Closing series named in honor of former athletic greats at Ohio State.

One entry from Columbus should prove to be a real "hunch bettor's" delight. She is Miss Buckeye Time, a daughter of Ohio Time, owned by Don Pontius of 1465 Georgesville-rd.

* * *

Game Protector Robert Terry reports that fishermen are catching some nice channel catfish at Hoover Reservoir. These fish range in size from two - three and a half pounds and are being caught at the north end of the lake with shad strips.

Some walleyes are being taken with night crawlers and shysters. With the continued warm weather, the walleye bonanza should start at any time.

The 1966 edition of the Columbus Jets' Sketch Book is off the press and available to the public.

The new Sketch Book can be obtained at any of the 25 banking offices of the Ohio National Bank or at Jet Stadium.

The book includes information on each International League squad and complete information on Columbus baseball.

The Bat Column

This is the Batman speaking.

The third week of the five-week long Batman March-Against - Crime contest brought fantastic results. All of Gotham City is aglow talking about the dynamic Spectator.

The big winner in the third week's Batman coloring contest is:

DAVID KAVE, 3089 Ruhlav, Bexley. He gets a big Batman long-playing album.

Other entries rallying to the support of Batman and Robin include:

Ken Schoenfeld, 918 Varsity; Marilyn Radcliff, 2771 Vanderberg; Carl Finkes, 3210 Paxton-dr, Hilliard; Robert W. Morse, 1928-B Spruce-dr, Lockbourne Air Base.

If you have sent in your $3.50 subscription to the Batman Spectator, then the caped crusader himself will visit your house with a 45 rpm record.

If you haven't sent in your subscription money, do so immediately so Batman can set-up a time to visit your house.

(If you already subscribe a $3.50 subscription is required which will take effect as soon as your present subscription expires.)

If you choose to center the contest more than one week during March, an additional subscription for each entry is needed.

See you next week, citizens of Columbus!

Group Aids Local Foreign Visitors

The Central Ohio Council for International Visitors, Inc., COCIV, which held its first annual meeting recently, is organized to arrange activities for short-term foreign visitors to Central Ohio.

Visitors sent to the community by such governmental agencies as the Bureau of Education and Cultural Affairs, the Agency for International Development, Department of Labor, Commerce, Agriculture, Interior or Health, Education and Welfare, or non-governmental agencies and institutions, are treated to such activities as their particular case requires.

For example, The Central Ohio Council's first visitor was a woman journalist for a newspaper in Hiroshima, Japan. Her main interest was in women's affairs. In Ohio, she wanted to learn more of home and family life, how housewives combined home and club activities. She was also interested in housing for the elderly.

The four-day visit to Columbus was part of a two-month tour of the United States, financed by a United States Department grant through the Leaders and Specialists program.

Individuals, representatives of organizations and businesses interested in objectives of the council can choose from a number of different membership programs. For more information, call Richard S. Phalin, 2432 Nottingham-rd, at 486-0365 or Mrs. Nina E. Addison, 2689 Charing-rd, at 488-7319.

Knapp Brothers To Open Second Shoe Outlet

Knapp Brothers Shoe Manufacturing Corporation of Brockton, Mass., will open its second retail store and direct selling service center in Ohio at 1250 Morse-rd, Thursday, Mar. 31, at 9 a.m.

The company is the largest direct selling shoe manufacturer in the United States and ranks tenth in dollar volume out of 1,000 manufacturers in the shoe industry.

Knapp has 11,000 "shoe counselors" throughout the United States selling to consumers directly at their homes or places of business. There are 676 Knapp "shoe counselors" in Ohio.

According to Robert Grady, manager, retail sales, Knapp Shoes, the new Columbus store will carry 235 shoe styles for men, women and boys. Sizes are from 5 to 18, AAA to EEEE and most prices range from $10.50 to $25.95.

Paul Martin has been named by Knapp Shoes as manager for the new Columbus store in the Woodward Park shopping area. A free gift will be given with shoe purchases during the grand opening.

Ask a librarian to help plan a list of books to suit reading interests.

IN THE NEWS THIS WEEK...

From Spectator Area News Sources

Don't Forget A Sack

No one will leave the Saturday Easter Egg hunt sponsored by the Auxiliary of the Leach Benson Post 220 in the Canal Winchester village park, empty-handed. After the 1 p.m. hunt for 50 dozen eggs, according to Mrs. Richard Weisel, chairman, there will be individual treats at the shelter house for each of the children (toddlers through third grade). Separate happy hunting grounds have been set off for the second and third graders, the kindergarteners and the first graders and little ones with special eggs serving as claim checks for prizes for each age group. The only ticket needed is a sack in which each youngster can carry away his loot.

An Easter Shower

Obetz council presented the village a chocolate covered Easter egg this week: an extra 500 gallons of water for the $5 monthly minimum. The second such bonus within a year, it allows customers to use 4,000 gallons for the flat rate. Other council action included an okay for the water board to go under the C&O RR tracks on Alum Creek-dr with 16-inch casing. Service will be extended north to Williams-rd as funds can be appropriated.

Pancakes Unlimited

From 7 a.m. until 7 p.m., members of the Tri-County Kiwanis Club will be serving pancakes, sausage, fruit juice and coffee Saturday, Apr. 16 in the multi-purpose room of the Canal Winchester School. William W. Woodward, chairman of the second annual Aunt Jemima Pancake Day Festival, states proceeds of the jubilee will go to the Tri-County Kiwanis Community Development fund which sponsors activities such as the Youth Employment Service initiated last year. The adult tickets at $1 and the children's at 50 cents guarantee all the pancakes you can eat, as well as generous servings of Meusel's Winchester Farm sausage.

Spring Is Music Time

The 250 members of Grovepoprt instrumental music department will present the annual spring concert under the direction of Lawrence Gillum at 8 p.m. Friday, Apr. 15, in the high school gymnasium. The beginning band, the cadet band and the senior band from grades five through 12 will all perform. Dr. Arthur Metyca, chairman of the music department at Otterbein, who completed his doctorate at the University of Illinois, will be guest chairman and soloist. General admission for students and adults is 50 and 75 cents and reserved seats are available at $1.

Names Proposed

A group of press representatives and student leaders sent three names to the Franklin County Board of Education last week — one of which is to be chosen for the proposed vocational high school. Picked for final selection by the board were the names Artisan United, Eastland Vocational and Vohio Union. Voter approval for the school will be sought in the May primary. The school will serve vocational students from Gahanna, Whitehall, Reynoldsburg, Groveport and Canal Winchester. The three choices for names were narrowed down from 19 submitted by students at the five high schools involved.

Sailing To Miami

Richard Rutter, Canal Winchester senior, will be off to Miami University this fall with a four-year Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps scholarship in his pocket. Uncertain what academic courses he will pursue, Dick does know that in return for the NROTC scholarship which is complete, even to living allowances, he will spend the four years after earning his degree in the Navy. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rutter, 89 Park-st, Dick is an honor student, plays with the band and is a member of the Petenaus staff.

ANYONE YOU KNOW?

HERE'S THE Dynamic Duo — 1943 vintage. That's Lewis Wilson (who?) as Batman and Douglas Croft as Robin as they appeared in Batman movies over 20 years ago. The 15-reel serial will be shown in its entirety Saturday, Apr. 9, beginning at 9 a.m. in the Drexel Theater, 2254 E. Main-st. The showing is free to all Spectator Newspaper carriers. They can get tickets from their supervisor.

COULD YOU USE a new refrigerator in your life? Ed Seymour, chairman of the first annual auction of the Groveport Businessmen's Association has promised he'll bring down the gavel on one during the sale beginning at 11 a.m. Saturday, Apr. 16, at the Big City Garden Center, 5075 Hamilton-rd. Members of the reactivated civic club will pick up merchandise (either donated or to be sold on consignment). Committee members to be called for pick-up are Ed Seymours, 836-5521; Gary Eubank, 836-5864; Tom Hughes, 836-5439; Dick Hamler, 836-5918; Mrs. Betty Allensworth, 836-3151, Mike Misko, 836-3634 and J. Groveport Men Eye Gala Fourth As Auction Goal

It seems an apt term.

Currently up to their gavels in their plans for the auction Saturday, Apr. 16, they have skyrocketed into plans for a Fourth of July celebration that will combine the features of Ashville's annual hoe-down, Canal Winchester's Labor Day whoopee and the County Fair.

But to get first things first: let's consider the auction which is planned to finance the three-day long party in July.

Already lined up for the sale at Big City Garden Center on Hamilton-rd which will begin at 11 a.m. (1am of shine) is everything from a tractor and a used cat to hand tools and brand-new ceramic tile.

This Saturday morning four trucks will start to roll and every home in the community will hear a knock at the door as merchandise is collected for the auction.

Although the men frankly admit they hope most goods will be donated, they will accept merchandise on consignment. (A ten percent commission will be charged on major items and 20 percent on the rest.)

Wives of the men have volunteered (GI fashion) to man the soft drink coffee and sandwich trailer.

By unanimous vote, the membership at a special meeting this week decided on the area just north of the Garden Center as the hub of the Fourth of July activities. (The parking available for 1,500 cars, led to this choice over that of the swimming pool area.)

The carnival area will open on Saturday with concession booths leased and operated by local business men, rides, refreshment stands, an open-air dance floor.

Sunday afternoon Miss Groveport will be chosen who will win a modeling course and the opportunity to lead the Monday parade.

It is this part of the celebration that will prove whether the "Go-Go-Boys" can get Groveport going.

Huff Asks Financial Advisory Committee

Recommendations to the Hamilton Local School Board presented by Superintendent D'Alan Huff who has been on leave of absence should provide its members with food for thought.

Chief among his proposals are the establishment of a lay budget committee, administrative separation of the junior and senior high schools, and a depth study of the vocational education program.

Huff, who is not returning to the district next year, sees the need for a financial advisory committee to compensate for a new superintendent's unfamiliarity with the district's problems.

Specifically recommending that board members refrain from appointing themselves to the committee, he suggests it could be made up of one community leader, one parent of a student, the president of the Hamilton Local Teachers Association, one teacher and one non-certificated employe.

Stressing that the committee should be composed of the "most intelligent and capable persons willing to serve," he asks that the administrative staff work with the committee as staff members, not as members.

Huff sees salaries and programing as prime concerns.

His recommendation that the grades, seven, eight and nine be an administrative unit distinct from the higher grades has been previously considered, first in 1962 and again in 1964.

The classes for the anticipated 809 enrollment at the junior high level would be scheduled during periods three through 10. The 600 senior high students would attend class during the first eight periods of the school day.

Along with the division, Huff submitted some curriculum changes which involve dropping the third year of foreign languages,

Young Will Back Twyford

YOUNG

U.S. Senator Stephen M. Young has announced his support of the Democratic Party-endorsed candidate for 12th District Congressman, George W. Twyford.

Sen. Young's intentions to support Twyford, in the May 3 primary campaign against Columbus attorney Robert Shamansky, were included in a letter made public by Twyford this week.

The letter states, in part:

"At the moment I do not know just when I shall be able to be in the Franklin County area, but I am hoping and expecting to arrange matters to enable me to attend one or more meetings some time in April, and also speak out on radio in support of you.

"You have every qualification to be an outstanding Congressman."

Looking beyond the May primary to the November general election, Young wrote:

"I hope very much that you will be nominated and elected to Congress. On the basis of what I've heard, your prospects are excellent . . . I'll do everything I can to help you."

Humane Society Pooh-Poohs Dog-Napping Reports

By The Spectator's
JOHN AUBLE, JR.

Unhappy pet owners hinted to The Spectator this week that the Franklin County Humane Society is "unfairly doing away with stray dogs" picked up on streets here.

A Humane Society spokesman, however, indicated telephone reports were all smoke and no fire—largely prompted by recent national publicity given to dog-nappers.

Richard Sensenbrenner says the mayor's office has had "numerous" reports and complaints recently about the Society but that the city had "no legal control" over the Groveport-pk operation.

Actually, there seems to be no control at all on city, county or state levels as to what the society does with dogs picked up in Franklin County.

The workers there wear badges that say "Franklin County ... Police." They are given so-called "police powers" by the County Probate Court and yet, the Society says they are not answerable to county officials.

To complicate matters, the Society says it operates under Ohio law and yet the state seems to have no power over the operation.

JOY OF LIVING

When a couple dozen eight-year olds were asked to tell "What Ester Means To Me" the promise of springtime, egg hunts and Easter duds popped into a lot of minds.

But most of the youngsters also told the story of the Resurrection of our Saviour.

Not all expressed it the same way—

"That Jeuse died to save our sins."

"That Christ was kill and got up again."

"Of happens when God arose."

Yet they remembered the general idea.

Will you?

JACKIE'S COURTIERE FORESAKES THE FAMOUS FOR "MRS. AMERICA"

Talking with a woman's dressmaker strips her of glamor as surely as a glimpse of her with a head full of curlers.

This might not hold true if the dressmaker had stars in her eyes for her client, but Nini Rhea is a business woman and Jacqueline Bouvier another ring on the cash register.

Mrs. Rhea, now a designer with Bee Line Fashions, stopped over in Columbus last week, and seemed rather bored with the subject of her role as dressmaker to the young woman who later became the wife of the late President Kennedy.

This ennui is apparently a recent development as only three years ago she authored a book "I was Jacqueline Kennedy's Dressmaker."

In fact, she was so eager to see the story in print that she, upon advice of her publishers, neglected to consult with Mrs. Kennedy about the accuracy of her recollections or how the first lady of the land felt about the reminiscing.

"My publishers were afraid she might say no," Mrs. Rhea explained.

Although speaking pleasantly of Miss Bouvier's wit and charm, it was evident that she had her catalogued as a "tall 10" who purchased dresses and suits in the $40 to $150 price range, leaned to "hot pink" and heavy material and who avoided spike heels and hats like the plague.

According to Mrs. Rhea she was the guiding light that developed Miss Bouvier's natural taste into "the Jackie Look," described by the fashion consultant as "elegant simplicity."

Mrs. Rhea evidenced few regrets for forsaking her socialite clientele in Washington and Philadelphia for the army of women who buy, in their homes, the moderately priced Bee Line fashions sold by 20,000 housewives.

"I thought substituting less expensive fabrics in my designs might be difficult, but have learned to overcome the problem" she said.

The switch also has separated her from the field of evening fashions which she especially enjoyed.

And though it has removed her from the temptation of writing about the rich and famous, it has not killed her yen to write.

Her latest effort, soon to see print, is a "how-to" book for the woman who wants to create a high-fashion wardrobe for a song.

"If there is a single lesson I can give to one who wants to develop style," Mrs. Rhea concluded, "it is not to copy, but to be themselves."

Clair Methodist Slates Activities

Clair Methodist Church located on Barthman-av at S. Ninth-st celebrated its 48th anniversary as a church organization and its sixth anniversary in the present church Palm Sunday.

Rev. Granville Hardin, minister of the Centenary Methodist Church, was the guest speaker for the afternoon service, and the choirs of the Centenary Church rendered music.

The members of the two churches dined together in the lower auditorium of the church following the morning worship service.

EASTER LILIES ARE BLOOMING

PREPARING FOR EASTER, Raymond Sims, Jr., proprietor of Sims Florist Shop and Greenhouse, pauses for a moment to check a tray of blossoms. He explained that lilies are forced into bloom in preparation for the coming Easter Season and kept in bloom by regulating the greenhouse temperature. They and a complete array of spring flowers and house plants will be ready for customers to have delivered or to call for and take home themselves, if they wish, for Easter Sunday. The Sims greenhouses are on new Rt. 33 at Rager-rd, two miles southeast from the Hamilton-rd intersection and about two miles northwest of Canal Winchester. Rager-rd intersects Groveport-pk, one and one-half miles east of Groveport.

Viet Nam Women Visit

Two top South Vietnamese women diplomats were here yesterday to help the Ohio Collegiate Association On World Affairs and Columbus Business University call attention to International Day.

Mrs. Tran Thi Thu Van, second secretary, and Miss Nguyen The Loc, third secretary of the Embassy of Viet Nam, Washington, D.C., addressed a joint Convocation of CBU and OCAWA at the Chittenden Hotel Ballroom.

Their visit marks the first time any ranking women diplomats from Viet Nam have visited in the City of Columbus.

International Day is Tuesday, Apr. 19, here.

Wants Answers

Philip Q. Zauderer, candidate for the House of Representatives from the 60th District, lashed out against what he called a "concerted effort by public officials to avoid the interested public from being informed with respect to their activities in conjunction with the Grange Mutual Casualty Company." Specifically Zauderer questioned the recommendation of J. Otis Ford as advisor to Grange Mutual saying: "We cannot help but wonder whether the close friendship Mr. Ford enjoys with Governor Rhodes and his loyalty to the Republican Party did not take precedence in the director's consideration at the time these recommendations were made." And finally, "There are questions, the answers to which every policy holder of Grange Mutual Casualty Company is entitled, as well as every citizen interested in good government."

Church Women's Day Is Next Wednesday

Miss Brenda S. Stringer, 1966 Miss International of Ohio and a young Columbus Business University coed, will be the guest at the 12:15 p.m. luncheon when United Church Women meet for Church Woman's Day, Wednesday, Apr. 13, at the YWCA, 65 S. Fourth-st, at 9:30 a.m.

As part of International Understanding Day, Miss Stringer will bring greetings and a brief message from her recent goodwill mission to Washington, D. C., representing the Ohio Collegiate Association on World Affairs in preparation for the local observance of International Day Tuesday, Apr. 19. While in Washington, Miss Stringer laid a wreath on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and President Kennedy's grave, called on Senator Dirksen, and was Honorary Press Secretary to Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson.

The afternoon program, "What is Europe," will present another phase of International Understanding through the eyes, hands, and hearts of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Riley and their illustrated talk.

The morning will be devoted to business led by Mrs. H. Richard Hahn, president, and a panel on Ohio's New Housing Law.

Luncheon reservations must be made through the local representative by Sunday, Apr. 10.

Lions' Auxiliary Schedles Meet

The Southeast Lions Auxiliary will have its monthly dinner meeting at the Berwick Party House, Monday, Apr. 11 at 6:45 p.m.

The program will be provided by a representative of a local phone conmpany. The subject will be, "Brightening the Home and Decorating Unlimited."

Mrs. Jack Kirby, president of the auxiliary, will conduct the business meeting. Election of officers will follow.

The total number of magazines distributed in the United States in 1929 was 1.8 billion. In 1964, the total rose to 4.7 billion.

WILLIAM S. WHITE: Looking For A Place To Stand

WHITE

WASHINGTON — The young and ambitious politicians who are attacking the hard-line stance in Viet Nam are making a profound mistake in not consistently disassociating themselves from the excesses of the extremists on their side.

The point is not especially applicable to the older advocates of giving in to attempts of the Communist Viet Cong to shoot their way into the South Vietnamese government. For Senators like William Fulbright of Arkansas and Wayne Morse of Oregon have little chance to rise further in their careers.

But such Democrats as Sens. Robert Kennedy of New York and Vance Hartke of Indiana and such Republicans as Gov. Mark Hatfield of Oregon and Mayor John Lindsay of New York are walking on minefields.

Those politicians who do not come through loud and clear against plainly subversive forms of "protest" will be asking for deep trouble in the future.

For example, Hatfield, whose position on Viet Nam is not miles away from that of Morse, could not possibly be nominated for Vice-President unless a GOP convention repudiated a policy in Viet Nam strongly supported by former President Eisenhower and the entire Republican leadership of Congress.

Nor could Lindsay without taking firm action to stop the use of New York streets by marchers self-identified with the Communist cause in Viet Nam.

Again, even without this complicating factor, Sen. Robert Kennedy could never be chosen for President by the Democrats without a convention repudiation of the last three Democratic Presidents—Harry Truman, John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson.

Hartke could not reach the goal said by some of his friends to be in the back of his mind — the eventual Democratic leadership in the Senate — unless at least four-fifths of its Democratic membership suddenly confessed total error on Viet Nam.

The unalterable truth is that the commitment to halt armed Communist assault in Viet Nam is far bigger than merely Democratic and Republican. It is a historic national credo not to let armed communism shoot its way forward anywhere in the world.

It is a policy backed by four Presidents. It began with Truman's decision not to allow Greece and Turkey to be overrun by another "war of liberation." It carried over in Eisenhower's firmness, first in Lebanon and then in Viet Nam. And so it went, through the Administrations of John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson.

In all our history, the right to dissent has been qualified by the accepted obligation not to give aid and comfort to an enemy actually killing American soldiers. That American extremists are giving that aid and comfort is being exultantly broadcast even now by the controlled press in both North Viet Nam and Red China.—Copyright, 1966, United Features.

BARRY GOLDWATER: As High As An Elephant's Eye

GOLDWATER

Pretend the problem doesn't exist and blame the trouble on somebody else.

That is precisely what top Democrats are doing about the growing fact of inflation.

I say "fact" of inflation because the shrinking of the dollar in the past year is well established. If the administration won't admit it, the average American can judge for himself. He has only to check the prices on his grocery list, read about the other price increases in the newspapers, watch the interest rates go up or keep an eye on frantic White House efforts to stave off price increases in basic industries.

Inflation spells political trouble for the Democrats in this year's congressional elections, so they're looking for a suitable scapegoat to absorb the blame.

President Johnson already has singled out the nation's business community for the honor. His skillful, well-publicized viewing with alarm every price increase proposed by major industries gives the subtle impression that greed of the nation's corporate giants for still greater profits is the root of the inflation problem.

Because the rising cost-of-living is on the minds of all Americans, especially those who work on a family budget, the topic receives prominent attention in the press. Republican leaders for the same reason have devoted attention to the subject and recommended that the government take remedial fiscal measures to counteract the trend.

These two developments have provided Senate Democratic leader Mike Manafield with a new scapegoat. He has charged the press and Republicans with "trying to talk the economy into a non-existent inflation."

He did not mention the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, the American Bankers Association or the countless other responsible groups in the nation which claim inflation is here and growing.

It might help if the Democratic leader would explain the controversy now raging within the administration over the proper timing for a move to raise income taxes as an anti-inflationary move.

While Sen. Manafield accuses the press and the Republicans of talking the economy into inflation, he is actually trying to talk away a growing nightmare brought on by uncontrolled and exorbitant government spending in a time of war. Government is the real culprit in inflation with the irresponsible fiscal policies it has foisted on the nation.

Mansfield and other Democrats, particularly those up for election this year, can be expected to use every smoke screen in the book to obscure the obvious relationship between government spending and the increase of prices in the market and everywhere else Americans shop for the necessities of life. But the truth is bound to emerge, especially since the administration is making no effort to halt the overabundant flow of government cash into the economy.—Copyright 1966, Los Angeles Times.

Politics And Booze

Last week, The Spectator carried a story telling of serious personnel shortages in state jobs. Most critical of these shortages, according to the state's Chief of Personnel Charles Ream, are in the liquor department.

The telephone started ringing. Calls came from men who said they had devoted many years to the liquor department. They said they are registered Democrats and that they were asked to resign from their $200 to $600 a month jobs because of their party affiliations.

One man, a 63-year-old who gave nine years to the liquor department, said he even asked for a demotion if he could stay. He was managing a liquor store. The state reduced him to a clerk (hoping, he feels, to discourage him). When that didn't work, they shuffled him from store to store. Finally, he was asked to resign.

Perhaps there is politics at all levels. It's hard to understand, however, why a state official would cry about personnel shortages when even one qualified man is turned away because of his party affiliation.

There's Still Time

Sunday, Mar. 27, hundreds of volunteer workers canvassed Columbus and Franklin County in the 1966 Easter Seal Parade.

Many contributed. Many did not.

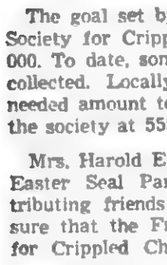
The goal set by the Franklin County Society for Crippled Children is $100,000. To date, some $61,737.99 has been collected. Locally, we lag behind the needed amount to continue the work of the society at 555 S. Monroe-av.

Mrs. Harold Eibling, chairman of the Easter Seal Parade, said: "Our contributing friends and neighbors can be sure that the Franklin County Society for Crippled Children will take every possible step to maintain and develop the direct services that give practical hope to crippled children."

And Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson said in a letter to the Easter Seal Society: "In be interested aand devoted to our youth is an inherent part of our democracy. The design of our democracy today is to utilize to the fullest the talents of each individual. For nearly half a century, your organization has served the youth who need help most."

The Spectator joins these two women in asking for support for this worthwhile campaign.

The 1966 drive continues until Easter Sunday, Apr. 10.



There is still time to send contributions to: Crippled Children, Post Office Box 2118, Columbus, O., 43216.

Little Lapses

By The Spectator's
TED BEARDSHEAR

The old adage about the absent-minded professor must have some truth to it.

After all, if one watched closely, those same traits attributed to the teacher can be found anywhere.

BEARDSHEAR

For example, three times this week one of the workers has left his desk to get a pack of cigarettes from the cigarette machine. And all three times, this poor soul has plopped 35 cents into the coffee machine instead.

There was once a psychologist who was expert in placing personal problems in a historical framework. In fact, he could lecture for hours about the evolution of a particular oddity, frequently going back to ancient Egypt for openers.

He was, however, incapable of remembering where he parked his car in the morning and frequently I had to help him search for it after work.

One medical man had difficulty keeping track of keys and small items. Since he was getting on in age, he worried about his lapses as a sign of "slowing down." But while searching frantically for a writing implement to scratch out a prescription, he could recall with pinpoint accuracy what medicine and what dosages he had given me three years before.

Then there was this friend in college. He was extraordinarily gifted intellectually, yet in introducing his fiancee to a family friend one evening he actually forgot her name. He later married her. He had to. It was the easiest way to remember her last name.

We once had a staff photographer who left to take a series of important pictures for an entire spread we had planned. He diligently went through the assignment, clicking off shot after shot at a variety of settings. He had, of course, forgotten to load the camera with film.

One day after a particularly hard time at work during which I had struggled manfully with a front page story, I stepped into the street. I was immediately accosted by a young man with a sack full of papers.

Thinking it was a competitor, I purchased it to see how bad we had scooped him.

You're right, I bought a copy of our very own paper. It had my nameline on the front page and I stood calmly in the busy street reading the story I had spent the afternoon writing.

They Said It

"Watch That Carpet, Fella"

MARQUIS CHILDS: Poor, Poor Chi-Chi

WASHINGTON — A rare example of East-West coexistence, and hopefully even cohabitation, offers a ray of relief in the grim flow of the news. Chi-Chi, the London Zoo's female giant panda, has been flown to Moscow to be introduced to An-An, the Moscow Zoo's male panda.

A footnote to the rigidity of America's China policy is recorded in Chi-Chi's earlier wanderings. She was originally to come to the United States, the Brookfield Zoo in Chicago having offered $50,000 for her to the Swiss animal dealer who had brought her from China to Europe.

CHILDS

Chi-Chi was one of two giant pandas outside China where the species in the great bamboo forests in the Province of Szechwan is said to be increasingly rare. This was, then, a coup for the American zoo. Everyone was presumably happy, including Chi-Chi, whose owner was exhibiting her in European zoos at a special fee.

But at this point the United States Treasury intervened and what followed was a farcical bureaucratic hassle. Was not Chi-Chi really a produce of Red China? And didn't she, therefore, come under the ban of the trading-with-the-enemy act, dating from World War II, which prohibits any commerce with Communist China? It appeared that the United States would lose one of the two pandas outside the bamboo curtain.

An appeal was taken to Dr. Theodore H. Reed, director of Washington's National Zoo. He was asked if he could not help find a legitimate loophole to let Chi-Chi in. Maps were consulted. Wasn't it possible that she had strayed from the mountain fastness of Szechwan into Bhutan or even through Tibet into Nepal before she was captured? For three days Chi-Chi's fate hung in the balance.

Finally the ruling was negative, Chi-Chi was denied admission, having been found beyond a doubt to be a product of Communist China. In the fall of 1959 the London Zoo snapped up the prize.

It is the inflexibility of the American position, as shown once again in the hearings before the Fulbright committee, that puts the United States in a striking contrast with the Western Allies. They not only buy from China but sell in increasing volume from year to year, although the total is nothing like as large as the trade of Western Europe with the Soviet Union.

West Germany has trade relations with Peking, although Bonn does not formally recognize Red China. The French last year put on a big trade fair in mainland China's capital and sent high-ranking representatives to preside over it. Britain entered into a deal to sell Viscount planes to China.

The trading-with-the enemy ban was applied to China in 1950 and has apparently never been re-examined as part of American policy. The same ban applies to North Korea and North Viet Nam.

With only two pandas outside of China — there are said to be a half-dozen in Chinese zoos — Chi-Chi on her mission to Moscow will be given tender, loving care in the hope that her union with An-An will be fruitful. She has been notably depressed in the spring and the fall and, a curator at the London Zoo put it with typical British understatement, this is ascribed to the inadequacy of her sex life.

The offspring, if any, will plainly have a very high value in the zoo world with bids from everywhere. But for Washington it presents a problem that the Treasury may already be brooding over. Chi-Chi was born in China, lived in Britain, had a honeymoon in Moscow where her young may be born. The Treasury must decide whether her cubs will carry any of this taint. — Copyright 1966, United Features.

Letters To The Editor

Slums And Inner Values

To The Spectator:

I have read articles in The Spectator that presented a grim picture of "life in the ghetto," as it is now fashionable to call the slums of big cities like Columbus.

The public has been fed the idea that one group of Americans — the slum-dwellers — are virtually captives imprisoned in tenement cages.

It is tragic that serious problems should be reduced to melodrama and grossly sentimentalized.

Let's not forget that slums are made by the people who live in them. Millions of us live in houses that are old. But, we take care of them. We go to the dime store and buy a can of paint and we fix a window when it is broken. We spend money on real needs, not on liquor or on flashy items we can't afford.

To eliminate slums, the slum-dwellers themselves will have to improve their own deficiencies of character. Today's slum dwellers, if they are ever to amount to anything, must look inside themselves for help, not to the Great Society. One thing Washington can't give away is character.

Letters for publication must bear the writer's name and address. The editors, at their discretion, may permit use of initials or pseudonyms if this is requested for a good reason. In general, preference will be given to writers willing to take responsibility for their views. Letters should be kept as short as possible. All letters are subject to editing.

Easter Cruelties

To The Spectator:

Easter often becomes one of sadness for many children who have received live baby chicks, ducklings or rabbits as Easter gifts. Many of these babies, through unintentional neglect, and mishandling, become ill and die.

I urge parents to refrain from giving such baby animals as gifts during the Easter season. These baby animals are not pets and certainly should not be considered as toys.

Give stuffed, mechanical or candy animals instead. We have had the unfortunate task of putting many baby chicks, ducklings, and rabbits to sleep because of illness resulting from malnutrition or injuries during this time of year.

Violence For Sale

To The Spectator:

This is the age of the Protest. Everybody's protesting something. I'd like to lead a campaign to get manufacturers to cutback in their manufacturing of toys of violence for youngsters.

I saw a toy rack in a supermarket here. One plastic bag was labeled "Bring Your Child A Smile." It contained toy hand grenades.

A Year For Farmers

The sun shone on the average tenant farmer, according to the statistical report on 1965 averages versus those of 1964 in four Ohio counties including Franklin and Madison. Gross cash farm income rose to $18,662 from $14,001; increased net worth was $3,445 from $453; and equipment values to $11,950 from $9,532. Production records were also uniferwly higher with bushels per acre of corn hitting 85; wheat, 35, and soybeans, 25. Number of pigs per litter increased from 6.3 to 6.7 and number of pounds of milk per cow rose to 12,032, from 10.015. Also encouraging was the figure that the percent of farm income that went to family living dropped two percent to 21.

C-W Board Employs Teachers And Ponders Space Delemma

When the elementary addition was built to the Canal Winchester School, total school capacity was set at 750.

Now, a dozen years and 300 more students later, the school is bulging at the [illegible].

When the board met with the architects at a special meeting Friday, three hours ticked by without any definite decisions being reached.

It is a foregone conclusion that the board will place a building bond issue on the November ballot, but how large a one is an unknown factor.

Voters turned down a similar issue last year, and with rising costs, it is realized the facilities proposed at that time will be more expensive.

However, with subdivision growth more certain now than at any time in the past, the question of whether earlier predicted needs will be adequate has arisen.

Past boards have been reluctant to take the school needs to the public piecemeal, felling that a building program should anticipate several years' growth. Such a program avoids the resentment voters feel when called upon to "up the ante" time and time again.

The regular April meeting which would have been held next Tuesday has been postpined until Tuesday, April 19.

The architects will be on hand at that time, and with some definite recommendations which may or may not be acted upon.

Asked what arrangements will be made to accommodate 1966-67 students (a building program cannot be initiated in time to relieve the pressure by then) Superintendent Carl Miller declined to speculate. He indicated however, that until more classrooms are made available, the "make-do" system will have to continue.

The only business on which action was taken was the offering of contracts to certificated personnel, and the employment of one new instructor. She is Mrs. Barbara Clover of Carroll who will teach history, English and speech. Mrs. Clover is currently with the Lancaster school system.

COBA AWARDS

Dairymen from Franklin County earning superior production awards for herds producing over 450 pounds of butterfat and that are 75 percent or more the result of COBA sires are: Glen Lackey, Canal Winchester. Floyd Barnhart, Groveport; Lester and E. Wildermuth, Canal Winchester; Harold and Dale Rawn, Canal Winchester; Raymond King, Hilliard; Ohio State University; Wilbur Gantz, Grove City and Robert G. King, Hilliard.

OBETZ

And Hamilton Township — Ruth Borden — 491-8141

The regular monthly meeting of the Hamilton Central PTA is Thursday evening, April 7 at the Central Elementary School. Hamilton Township School Boosters meets Thursday evening, Apr. 14. at the high school. All parents of children in athletics, band and choral groups are urged to attend. This includes junior high parents as well as high school.

The boosters recently purchased baseball uniforms for the junior high boys. By supporting the boosters, the students receive equipment that the school board is not permitted to buy. Election of officers is in May.

During Holy week there will be services at the Obetz Christian Church beginning with Maundy Thursday service at 7:30 and Good Friday service at 7:30. Sunrise service is at 6:30 a.m. followed by breakfast at 7:30, church school at 9:30, worship service at 10:30, baptismal service in chapel at 7:30 p.m.

On Maundy Thursday there will be candlelight service of the upper room at Walnut Hill Methodist Church, with Obetz Methodist joining. Also on Friday night there will be services at Walnut Hill with both congregations.

Easter Sunday morning sunrise service is planned by MYF followed by a pancake breakfast with worship services at 10:45.

Calvin Gives Schedule

Services during Holy Week at the Calvin United Presbyterian Church include holy communion, Thursday, Apr. 7, at 7:30 p.m.; Easter Sunday, Apr. 10, an early service will be held at 8 a.m.; an Easter breakfast will be served at 8:40 a.m. and Sunday School will begin at 9:30 a.m.

The regular Easter service is at 10:45 a.m.

The Blues Had It

Of its 20 entries in the Ohio Industrial Arts Convention at Sheraton Plaza recently, the Hamilton Township Industrial Arts Department walked off with 10 blue ribbons. They went to Paula Lindsey, the one girl in the drafting department, Steven Beggrow, Jim Britton, Charles Avery, Robert Adams, Tim Oliver, Michael Olenik, Eddie Johnston, Jerome Letsko and Perry Rogers. Marvin Metersky was faculty chairman for the exhibit, assisted by Robert Dickey and Dario Gattie. Ninety schools displayed 2,026 projects.

IN & AROUND TOWN

EDITED BY ROLAND SUNKER

A guide to performers and performances in the Columbus area this week

A 'Spectacular Extravaganza'

Peanuts, popcorn, clowns, pretty girls, elephants, trapeze performers and high wire artists are only parts of the 16th annual Shrine Circus. From Joe Frisco and his wild animals to the flying human missiles all three rings keep you on the edge of your seat. This year's show is truly a "spectacular extravaganza."

An exciting and unusual act is Joe Frisco's wild animal act. Lions, tigers and bears perform in the same cage. A real spine tingler is the Angelos, riding a motorcycle on a narrow platform high above the sawdust while excuting tricks on a trapeze attached to the motorcycle. The final stunt is one of the most death-defying and daring you will ever see.

With an exquisite, fashionable wardrobe, Gerald Soules and his Poodles of Paris have a cute and highly trained animal act. These poodles are really showmen. Soules has spent many hours training these dogs.

These are just three of 27 top acts in the circus that are sure to please all kids from five to 90. There is still plenty of time to enjoy this year's show, with two performances every day and three on Saturday. Go and be young again, at least for two and a half hours.

Benefit For New Theatre

The Ohio State University Players are producing the classic melodrama, "The Drunkard," this spring on the OSU campus.

Proceeds from the production are to go toward a new treatre to be built within the next two years.

"The Drunkard," one of the most famous of all melodramas, is a temperance play. It contains the stock hero, heroine, and, of course, the evil villain who holds the mortgage to the heroine's home.

It is full of fun and laughter and the audience should come prepared for a hilarious evening of theatre.

The show will be given in Derby Hall for five performances, Apr. 22, 23, 25, 26, with a matinee on the 23rd.

Tickets are $1.25. No reserve seats are available.

Lincoln Lodge Swinging

Last Saturday night was the closing of the Noels at Lincoln Lodge. Not only were there many friends to see them off, but a couple of well-known musicians stopped by to sit in. First to join the Noels was Alfred Gallodoro with his saxophone and clarinet. Saturday night he backed up his reputation. Also stopping in was Merle Lemon, one of America's leading guitarists. For those of you who missed the action, all I can say is that this had to be one of the best collections of talent in town that night. The music lovers who were present heard some terrific sounds.

E. G. Marshall To Star In Finney Play

"This Winter's Hobby," the Jack Finney play, brings E. G. Marshall back to the stage for the first time in seven years. The last four years Marshall has portrayed Lawrence Preston in television's top rated series, "The Defenders."

Playing a very ordinary middle-aged man who works in a real estate office, Marshall accidentally kills a man in a barroom brawl and the strange blackmail that follows makes for one of the most bizarre plays in a long, long time.

Marshall was long noted as one of Broadway's most distinguished actors. His work in "The Ice Man Cometh," "The Skin of Our Teeth" and "The Crucible" established him as a top performer.

Major Theatrical Event

An event of major theatrical importance, the presentation of Eugene O'Neill's great play, "Long Day's Journey Into Night" will take place on Apr. 12, at the University Hall Theatre on the OSU campus. The production will continue through Saturday, Apr. 16, with a matinee on that day at 2:30 p.m.

The story is simply one day in the life of a family of four and the action has been described as "not forward but inward." Both publication and production go against the expressed instructions of the playwright. It is frankly autobiographical. The intensely personal story he tells is veiled only by the family name. Substitute O'Neill for family name in the play and you have one of the most tortured family histories ever put on the stage.

IPC Names Director

Paul Morris of Columbus has an impressive list of credits to qualify him as musical director of the Independent Players. The club, now in its 45th year, is currently rehearsing "The Most Happy Fella" to be presented at the Veterans Memorial Hall Apr. 29 and 30. Morris has a fine tenor voice himself and has appeared in such operatic roles as "La Boheme," and "Street Scene." He has been with IPC since 1961 and his able baton has helped him mold his club into one of the finest non-professional music theatres in the country.

Tickets are available from all club members or by calling AM. 2-8709 or GA. 1-8535.

Good Friday Concert

Tickets for the Columbus Symphony's Good Friday performance at First Community Church are now available at the church switchboard or at the symphony box office. The Symphony Orchestra and Chorus will present Bach's "Passion Accoding to St. John" at 8 p.m. in the church sanctuary. Cost of the tickets is $2.50.

Cancer Society Benefit Planned

This Saturday from 9 p.m. until midnight at the Golden Bull, 4784 N. High-st, the fabulous Electrons are playing for dancing A Go-Go. All teenagers are invited. For your parents information, there will be adult supervision. While there is no admission charge, a small donation will be required. All donations are to be given to the American Cancer Society for the fight against cancer. So benefit yourself and the American Cancer Society, be sure to be at the Golden Bull this Saturday. The Electrons are a well-known group and this sounds like a swinging evening.

Joe Pyne Show Splits

WRFD's hour-long "Joe Pyne Show" has been divided into two half-hour programs daily Monday through Friday. The program is now heard at 1 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. each, day, with one of Pyne's guests being interviewed on each show.

The change comes as a result of growing listener demand to air the program in part during a time when working people could listen.

Batman, Robin Star At Drexel

"An Evening With Batman and Robin" opens today at the Drexel Theatre for one week only.

The famous multiple-chapter film has been assembled into one continuous presentation to meet audience demand.

Husky Lewis Wilson plays Batman. Douglas Croft, a typical American boy, appears as Batman's inseparable pal, Robin, the Boy Wonder.

There are continuous shows from 7 p.m. Saturday, Sunday and Monday there are shows from 2 p.m. at the Drexel Theatre, 2254 E. Main-st.

SYMPOSIUM SET

"Consumerism — 1966," a symposium on business and consumer interests will be held at 9:30 a.m. Thursday, Apr. 7, in the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company auditorium, 215 N. Front-st.

CHOIR TO PERFORM

Trinity Methodist Church, Cambridge and Fifth, will present its Chancel Choir in a performance "The Seven Last Words of Christ," Good Friday, Apr. 8. The public is invited.

THE COMMUNITY STAGE

By CLAUDIA ELKINS

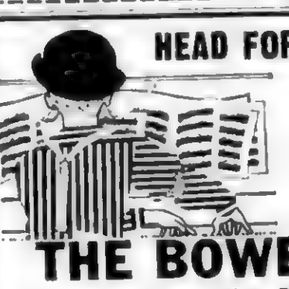
Depth is the key word for Players Club's "A View From The Bridge." It reaches from the alley to the bridge, from the depth of human ugliness to the height of human beauty.

Director Gerald Ness enhances Arthur Miller's movingly tragic play in every role. The set, lights, sound and even the projection of the stage adds tones of involvement.

John Purdy, Edye Mendelson, Raymond McIver, Pauline Rawlins, Tom Larrimer, Cur Meeks and eight others complete an excellent cast, deserving of a second curtain call.

Performances are this Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Apr. 7, 8, 9, for Players Club member and guests.

A SWINGER



MICKIE FINN and company hold forth with plenty of swinging music and foot-stomping on the gala premiere of NBC Television Network's "Mickie Finn's" color series Thursday, Apr. 21, on TV-4.

IN & AROUND TOWN

EDITED BY ROLAND SUNKER

A guide to performers and performances in the Columbus area this week

A 'Spectacular Extravaganza'

Peanuts, popcorn, clowns, pretty girls, elephants, trapeze performers and high wire artists are only parts of the 16th annual Shrine Circus. From Joe Frisco and his wild animals to the flying human missiles all three rings keep you on the edge of your seat. This year's show is truly a "spectacular extravaganza."

An exciting and unusual act is Joe Frisco's wild animal act. Lions, tigers and bears perform in the same cage. A real spine tingler is the Angelos, riding a motorcycle on a narrow platform high above the sawdust while excuting tricks on a trapeze attached to the motorcycle. The final stunt is one of the most death-defying and daring you will ever see.

With an exquisite, fashionable wardrobe, Gerald Soules and his Poodles of Paris have a cute and highly trained animal act. These poodles are really showmen. Soules has spent many hours training these dogs.

These are just three of 27 top acts in the circus that are sure to please all kids from five to 90. There is still plenty of time to enjoy this year's show, with two performances every day and three on Saturday. Go and be young again, at least for two and a half hours.

Benefit For New Theatre

The Ohio State University Players are producing the classic melodrama, "The Drunkard," this spring on the OSU campus.

Proceeds from the production are to go toward a new treatre to be built within the next two years.

"The Drunkard," one of the most famous of all melodramas, is a temperance play. It contains the stock hero, heroine, and, of course, the evil villain who holds the mortgage to the heroine's home.

It is full of fun and laughter and the audience should come prepared for a hilarious evening of theatre.

The show will be given in Derby Hall for five performances, Apr. 22, 23, 25, 26, with a matinee on the 23rd.

Tickets are $1.25. No reserve seats are available.

Lincoln Lodge Swinging

Last Saturday night was the closing of the Neels at Lincoln Lodge. Not only were there many friends to see them off, but a couple of well-known musicians stopped by to sit in. First to join the Neels was Alfred Gallodoro with his saxophone and clarinet. Saturday night he backed up his reputation. Also stopping in was Merle Lemon, one of America's leading guitarists. For those of you who missed the action, all I can say is that this had to be one of the best collections of talent in town that night. The music lovers who were present heard some terrific sounds.

E. G. Marshall To Star In Finney Play

"This Winter's Hobby," the Jack Finney play, brings E. G. Marshall back to the stage for the first time in seven years. The last four years Marshall has portrayed Lawrence Preston in television's top rated series, "The Defenders."

Playing a very ordinary middle-aged man who works in a real estate office, Marshall accidentally kills a man in a barroom brawl and the strange blackmail that follows makes for one of the most bizarre plays in a long, long time.

Marshall was long noted as one of Broadway's most distinguished actors. His work in "The Ice Man Cometh," "The Skin of Our Teeth" and "The Crucible" established him as a top performer.

Major Theatrical Event

An event of major theatrical importance, the presentation of Eugene O'Neill's great play, "Long Day's Journey Into Night" will take place on Apr. 12, at the University Hall Theatre on the OSU campus. The production will continue through Saturday, Apr. 16, with a matinee on that day at 2:30 p.m.

The story is simply one day in the life of a family of four and the action has been described as "not forward but inward." Both publication and production go against the expressed instructions of the playwright. It is frankly autobiographical. The intensely personal story he tells is veiled only by the family name. Substitute O'Neill for family name in the play and you have one of the most tortured family histories ever put on the stage.

IPC Names Director

Paul Morris of Columbus has an impressive list of credits to qualify him as musical director of the Independent Players. The club, now in its 45th year, is currently rehearsing "The Most Happy Fella" to be presented at the Veterans Memorial Hall Apr. 29 and 30. Morris has a fine tenor voice himself and has appeared in such operatic roles as "La Boheme," and "Street Scene." He has been with IPC since 1961 and his able baton has helped him mold his club into one of the finest non-professional music theatres in the country.

Tickets are available from all club members or by calling AM. 2-8709 or GA. 1-8535.

Good Friday Concert

Tickets for the Columbus Symphony's Good Friday performance at First Community Church are now available at the church switchboard or at the symphony box office. The Symphony Orchestra and Chorus will present Bach's "Passion Accoding to St. John" at 8 p.m. in the church sanctuary. Cost of the tickets is $2.50.

Cancer Society Benefit Planned

This Saturday from 9 p.m. until midnight at the Golden Bull, 4784 N. High-st, the fabulous Electrons are playing for dancing A Go-Go. All teenagers are invited. For your parents information, there will be adult supervision. While there is no admission charge, a small donation will be required. All donations are to be given to the American Cancer Society for the fight against cancer. So benefit yourself and the American Cancer Society, be sure to be at the Golden Bull this Saturday. The Electrons are a well-known group and this sounds like a swinging evening.

Joe Pyne Show Splits

WRFD's hour-long "Joe Pyne Show" has been divided into two half-hour programs daily Monday through Friday. The program is now heard at 1 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. each day, with one of Pyne's guests being interviewed on each show.

The change comes as a result of growing listener demand to air the program in part during a time when working people could listen.

Batman, Robin Star At Drexel

"An Evening With Batman and Robin" opens today at the Drexel Theatre for one week only.

The famous multiple-chapter film has been assembled into one continuous presentation to meet audience demand.

Husky Lewis Wilson plays Batman. Douglas Croft, a typical American boy, appears as Batman's inseparable pal, Robin, the Boy Wonder.

There are continuous shows from 7 p.m. Saturday, Sunday and Monday there are shows from 2 p.m. at the Drexel Theatre, 2254 E. Main-st.

THE COMMUNITY STAGE

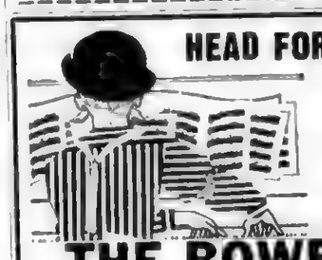
By CLAUDIA ELKINS

Depth is the key word for Players Club's "A View From The Bridge." It reaches from the alley to the bridge, from the depth of human ugliness to the height of human beauty.

Director Gerald Ness enhances Arthur Miller's movingly tragic play in every role. The set, lights, sound and even the projection of the stage adds tones of involvement.

John Purdy, Edye Mendelson, Raymond McIver, Pauline Rawlins, Tom Larrimer, Cur Meeks and eight others complete an excellent cast, deserving of a second curtain call.

Performances are this Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Apr. 7, 8, 9, for Players Club member and guests.



A SWINGER

MICKIE FINN and company hold forth with plenty of swinging music and foot-stomping on the gala premiere of NBC Television Network's "Mickie Finn's" color series Thursday, Apr. 21, on TV-4.

Last Inning Rally Edges Canal, 4-3

Rosary High pushed across a lone run in the last of the seventh inning to nip Bob Miller's Canal Winchester crew, 4-3, last Friday.

Rosary was led offensively by two George Bush hits.

Cavalier, Card Relays Pace Cinder Docket

By JACK WITTENMEIER

The schoolboy cinder season kicks off strongly from the starting blocks this week with one of season's top state attractions set for Cincinnati and a prime local plum ready for Worthington's oval.

Cincinnati Purcell plays host to some 40 Ohio teams Friday and Saturday for the fourth running of the Cavalier Relays at Cincy's Traechter Stadium.

THREE LOCAL schools are entered for the all-relay event — Upper Arlington (defending '65 champ), plus City League strongboys East and West.

Also included in the lineup will be all Cincinnati and Dayton schools, four from the Cleveland area and an additional seven from Toledo.

So big is the event, in fact, that Cincy's Sheraton-Gibson Hotel has donated some $2000 worth of housing to teams traveling more than 125 miles to the Queen City.

EAST COACH Lee Williams sees Dayton Dunbar, Dayton Roosevelt, Cleveland East Tech, Arlington and his Tigers as likely prime contenders for the '66 Cavalier laurels.

"The field will be stronger this spring," Williams relates, "because the timing is better. Last year the Cavalier running conflicted with the Mansfield Relays and the top state teams were torn between the two big meets."

MOST TEAMS will join the field Saturday, however, when both field and running prelims get under way at 10 a.m. Finals are set for 1:30 p.m.

The Cavalier running will be strictly a relay event with two-man teams representing their respective schools in the field category.

Relay events include: four-mile, two-mile, mile, 880, 440, sprint-medley, distance medley and shuttle hurdles. Field events will be: shot put, discus, pole vault, broad and high jumps.

East shot puter Grady Bobo topped his field last year (55') as did Don Washington (not out this spring) in the broad jump (22'11") but the Tigers had to settle for second place via the two-man scoring system.

• • •

MID - EIGHT powerhouses Hilliard and Gahanna plus host Worthington look like early favorites Saturday in the Cardinals' Relays — the top local cinder attraction of the week.

Host coach Les Eisenhart has introduced two new events —the distance medley (quarter mile, half mile, three-quarter mile) and medley relay (quarter mile, two 220's, half mile) — into the 15-event meet.

OTHER TRACK events include: two mile run (lone non-relay event), four-mile, 440-yd, shuttle hurdles, mile, sprint medley, two-mile and 880-yd relays.

Field events (three - man teams) will include: shot put, discus, pole vault, high and long jump.

Two junior high events — the 440 and 880 relays — will also be run.

ALL RUNNING (and one field) events saw new records set last spring. The longest standing mark belongs to Gahanna in the discus throw the 1960 Lion trio combining for 412 ft., 4½ in.

The Cardinals won their own Relays last spring although Brookhaven paced the record - breakers (three). Worthington edged the Bearcats, 51-42½.

Metro League Opens With Baseball Apr. 12

MAINSTAYS IN TEAYS VALLEY FLAG DRIVE

Four High School Leagues Open Flag Drives This Week

By BOB WHITMAN

That familiar call, "Play Ball," echoes around the area diamonds this week as the school boy sluggers unwind for the first full week of baseball.

But the way things shape up, the action looks more like end of the season title bids.

SOUTH'S Bulldogs open up City League play Tuesday at Brookhaven while Central District Class AA runner-up West meets tough area foe Central in key City Circuit games.

Dick Eaton's North bunch faces Whetstone in a game that will show sophomores on the firing line as will Marion - Franklin's clash with Eastmoor (all City) League games on Tuesday).

IN A TOP Franklin County League game, a pair of last season runners-up — West Jefferson and Dublin— are matched tomorrow night.

The Franklin Heights-Reynoldsburg match will end a week of baseball for Ed Lewis' Falcons.

Four straight diamond wars are on the agenda for Franklin Heights starting with Walnut Ridge (tonight), Arlington (Thursday), Lancaster (Friday) and topped off with a double dip against Worthington on Saturday.

READY'S BUD TRAPP has a similar situation but not as plentiful. The Silver Knights meet a trio of City Loop foes — Eastmoor (tomorrow), South (Monday) and North (Wednesday).

Trapp's Knights, the defending Central Catholic League Champs, handled the City teams last year, going unharmed in pre-loop play.

The new Metro League is christened Tuesday with three games, Reynoldsburg at Franklin Heights, Whitehall at Pleasant View (defending South Suburban League champions) and Teays Valley at Hamilton Township.

WEST WILL work the revenge angle against the Central Pirates, for the gritty Cowboys are still smarting from last year's 1-0 shiner that the Bucs hung on them.

For South and coach Bob Nolan, the Brookhaven game will be the one.

"They (Brookhaven) are the team to beat in the City League this spring," Nolan said, "their pitching is as strong as any other team's."

SATURDAY THE Mid-Eight League gets under way with doubleheaders on all fronts.

Westerville battles Mifflin twice, Grove City travels to Gahanna, Hilliard goes to Groveport and out-of-towners London and Marysville meet.

Wit 'N' Wisdom

The place — A major Army training center somewhere in the USA.

The time — A few months hence.

"Excuse me, sir—but it's about Private Clay again."

"I thought you had gotten him settled."

"Not exactly sir. It seems he found out a couple of the fellows in his barracks Wittenmeier were from Illinois. I guess he's pretty touchy about—"

"FIRST it was Maine, now Illinois. Did you work out the arrangements with the chaplains?"

"Yes, sir. He gets the chapel right after the Catholic services."

"Did you tell him we've voted him captain of the base boxing team?"

"HE CLAIMS he is the base boxing team, sir."

"Don't you have any progress to report?"

"Oh, yes sir! He's taken very well to marching and the base dentist claims his checkup was the quickest in Army history. Doc says he never closed his mouth once."

"THE PROBLEM at hand is placing him in a specialty. Where do we have the most slots to fill?"

"We could place him nicely in recruiting, sir."

"Please, sergeant! I haven't had my lunch yet."

"HOW ABOUT our space program, sir! I understand we're pretty close to landing a man on the moon."

"Too close. They think now they'll be able to get him back to Earth."

"How about Viet Nam, sir?"

"The UN says no. They claim it would be too soon after that mess with the tear gas."

THE OFFICER reached for his phone. "There's just one other chance. My friend Admiral Seagoing owes me a big favor."

There was a slight pause as the call rushed toward Annapolis.

"Hello, John? Harvey here. John, I was wondering if we could make a little swap. I have a young man here who — John? John?

THE SERGEANT was silent for a moment and then he frowned. "It doesn't seem exactly fair, does it sir? I mean, after all, we did take Presley, didn't we?"

Cinder Standouts

Rick Weber, Bexley sprinter, who helped pace the Lions' 78½ to 48½ track win over Reynoldsburg last week with firsts in both the 100 and 220 events.

East's shuttle hurdle quartet (Rod and John Jones, Dale Allen and Jim Lake), who tied the event record (:58.8) as Tigers won Brookhaven's Fairweather Relays last week.

Independents Cop Cage Title; Roy Proven As Judo 'Goliath'

The Lockbourne AFB Independents captured the Dependent Youth Activities cage championship recently, downing the Credit Union Hawks, 85-48, in the final game of the three-day tourney.

Steve McLaughlin and Dave Parent shared scoring honors with 30 points each while Jim Britton dropped in 18 for the losers.

INDEPENDENT squad members included: coach Elliott Morrison, McLaughlin, Parent, Glenn Harris, Randall Mason, Fred Billiter, Dick Fetter, Dave Knorr, Dick Hall and Terry Houghtaling.

Al's Texaco won the regular league championship with an 8-1 mark. Squad members included: Ed Hart, Jim Knox, John Carrillo, Mike Kitchen, Roy Bennett, Dave Brackney, Don Vosbury, Jack Schneider, Ray Posey, Carroll Hartsoe and coaches D. O. Hart and Bob Maiz.

SEVEN-YEAR-OLD Roy Hartstein, son of Capt. and Mrs. Fred Hartstein, of 4103 Colby-av, Columbus, provided a modern day version of "David and Goliath" at the TAC judo championship competition recently.

After taking the worst of the demonstration in the early going, young Roy suddenly brought his judo finesse to the fore—flipping his heavier opponent to the mat several times.

AFTER deciding he had had quite enough, burly Smith walked over to shake Roy's hand—only to be flipped to the canvas one more time!

Separate proposals shall be received for the various items of equipment as noted on the bid form which will be provided.

All proposals shall be made in conformity with the General Code of Ohio, and on blanks furnished by the Board of Education and shall be enclosed in a sealed envelope and addressed to the Board of Education, Madison Local School District, Groveport, Franklin County, State of Ohio, and endorsed Proposal for Equipment Contract showing date and hour of opening on the outside of the envelope.

Each bid must contain the name of each and every person interested therein, and shall be accompanied by a bid bond with corporate surety thereon, authorized to do business in the State of Ohio and satisfactory to the Board of Education, or by certified check on a solvent bank located in the State of Ohio, in an amount equal to ten per cent (10%) of the total amount of the bid, conditioned that if the bid be accepted a contract will be entered into, and the performance thereof properly secured by a performance bond in accordance with the law.

Said bonds or certified check shall be made in favor of the Board of Education of Madison Local School District, Franklin County, State of Ohio, and shall be made payable to Charles I. Dean, Clerk-Treasurer of said Board.

The bond or certified check shall be forfeited if said bidder fails to enter into a contract and secure the performance thereof, within ten (10) days after notice of acceptance of the bid. A performance bond with corporate surety thereon satisfactory to said Board in an amount equal to one hundred percent (100%) of the aggregate bid price contemplated in accordance with law will be required.

The Board of Education reserves the right to reject any part of any or all bids.

By order of the Board of Education of Madison Local School District, Franklin County, State of Ohio.

WATERSHED WINS TOP PRIORITY

The flash-floods for which Blacklick Creek is infamous may become a thing of the past.

Hopes for the end of the flooding came with news that the application of the Blacklick Creek Water Shed Committee has been given top priority rating by the Ohio Department of Natural Resources.

According to Jim Bates of Reynoldsburg, chairman of the steering committee, this means a study to determine the feasibility of such a water shed can be started this year.

However, once feasibility is established, the plan has a long way to go.

Planning must be completed, congressional appropriation made, judicial and voter go-ahead obtained, contracts let and the actual work begun.

The most optimistic can not forecast any tangible results before 1970.

The program, made possible under Public Law 366, has a four-fold goal.

It involves flood control, soil conservation, development of recreation areas and low-flow augmentation.

Although the first three of these benefits are of interest to property owners in the 62 square miles included in the proposed conservancy district, the fourth is of particular future interest to Reynoldsburg.

The municipality empties its effluent into Blacklick, and in summer months when the flow is decreased, water polution presents a problem.

Only with adequate flow can the treated sewage be diluted to the degree that a health hazard isn't imminent.

Another long-range possibility of the program is increased water supplies for the municipalities through which the creek runs.

Although wells now furnish Reynoldsburg, Brice and Groveport with water, it is conceivable that these sources could become inadequate.

Of more immediate concern is the flood threat which has brought creek waters to the Reynoldsburg Post Office steps and within a foot of the sewage treatment plant and evacuated persons in Blacklick Estates from their homes.

As Bates pointed out, residential construction and completion of Interstate 70 in the east will accelerate runoff and add to a situation already endangering life and property.

When the study is complete, three courses may be taken to get the project under way. It could become an autonomous branch of the now inactive Scioto Conservancy District, it could be financed by county appropriations under the Ohio Drainage Law or the committee can file for the formation of a new conservancy district.

It is this last course which is most probable.

This would involve approval by the judges of the probate court of Franklin, Fairfield and Licking counties. Property holders in the district would also be called upon to grant the power to levy taxes for costs not borne by governmental agencies (such as the purchase of land easements.)

Although costs for a project of this scope are envisioned as extremely low, it is never-the-less realized voter education will be necessary to assure the public the tab is in line with the benefits.

Serving on the committee which has the backing of all government entities involved are Ray Belfridge of Lancaster, Pete Ashton and James Kiggins from Fairfield County, Charles Fishpaw of Reynoldsburg, C. Holmes Hummell of Brice, Fred Tussing of Truro Township, Tom Wycoff of Blacklick and Mayor Twyford of Reynoldsburg.

combining current problems with other social studies and introducing creative writing and some new approaches to industrial arts.

In the vocational field, Huff reccommends that an outside consultant be retained to review the programs of the past three years and to program the future. He indicated that Dr. William B. Logan, OSU professor recognized as an international authority, may be interested in participating in such a study.

Other items on the superintendent's report stated that special help is being given to seniors in danger of not graduating, that the survey of employe opinions on their insurance program will be in the hands of the board next week, and warned of the need for student protection, to require physical examinations of teachers.

Huff also informed the board new construction under way is 85 percent complete and asks that firm approval be obtained from the county engineers to connect an emergency four-inch line to the Hamilton Meadows water system. Estimating the cost at less than $4,000, the superintendent believes the line should be put in use this summer.

Although he recommended accepting the bids for blacktopping at the high school, Obetz and South submitted by Strawser Paving at about $7,000. Huff asked such improvement at Central be deferred until construction is complete, and the ground settled.

ON ISSUE OF BONDS

NOTICE OF ELECTION

Notice is hereby given that in pursuance of a Resolution of the Board of Education of the Eastern Franklin County Joint Vocational School District, Franklin, Fairfield and Licking Counties, Ohio, passed on the 18th day of January, 1966, there will be submitted to a vote of the people of said School District at the Special Election to be held in the Eastern Franklin County Joint Vocational School District of Franklin, Fairfield and Licking Counties, Ohio, at the regular places of voting therein, on Tuesday, the 3rd day of May, 1966, the question of issuing bonds of said School District in the amount of one million six hundred fifty thousand Dollars ($1,650,000) for the purpose of acquisition of real estate; constructing a school building and structures; improving the sites thereof and acquiring furniture and equipment for same, as provided by law.

The maximum number of years during which such bonds are to run is 20 years.

The estimated average additional tax rate amounts to six cents ($0.06) for each one hundred dollars of valuation, which is (0.6) mills for each one dollar of valuation, outside of the limitation imposed by Article XII, Section 2 of the Constitution, as certified by the County Auditor.

The Polls for said Election will open at 6:30 o'clock A.M. and remain open until 6:30 o'clock P.M. Eastern Standard Time of said day.

By order of the Board of Elections of Franklin County, Ohio.

The family gathered at the home of Mrs. Roller's sister, Vivian Kuhlwein, Thursday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Kuhlwein left Friday for Tulsa, Okla., to visit her brother, Atlee Sawyer and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Mossbarger of Circleville Monday visited her sister Mrs. Lottie Kissell.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston Lambert have returned to the Blake home after spending a month in Chicago. Her mother Mrs. Grace Blake is steadily improving after a long illness.

Carroll Thins Win Opener

Speedy Steve Fridley set the scoring pace as Carroll opened its 1966 track season with a lopsided triangular meet win over Zane Trace (36) and Amanda (31) last week.

Other firsts were taken by: Tom Rayburn (shot and pole vault), Kenny Crago (high jump), Don Bigham (two mile), Gary Romine (mile), Thane Hecox (440), Gale Glendenning (880) and Alva Reid (220).

Carroll also copped the mile relay event.

T-V Tryouts Saturday

Tryouts for participants registered in the Teays Valley Youth Baseball League program will take place Saturday at TV High School. The tryout schedule is as follows:

Boys (13-15) and girls (11-15)—9 a.m.; boys (nine-12)—1 p.m. and boys (seven-eight)—3 p.m.

Tailored after the pattern set by Canal Winchester, the community will be sub-divided, with each area (hopefully) entering floats into the competition

High school bands will play, color guards will march, fire, farm and industrial equipment will parade, horses will strut and the kids with pets and decorated bikes will vie for trophies.

"This is our chance to get the people of Groveport together," said President Jim Young, predicting the parade will be at least a mile long.

The "big show" will close Monday night with fireworks already on order—a rocket every 15 seconds.

If the auction is a money-maker, the display will last an hour — otherwise limited to 20 minutes.

In an effort to avoid "splitting the chowd" and to unite the community, the welcome mat is out to the Lions.

In the past, the local service club has usually held a fish fry on the Fourth.

The invitation went out, "Come, pitch your tent with us."

Congress acted requiring warning labels on cigarette packs. Is it working? Is anyone still carrying the banner to snuff out cigarettes?—A Non-Smoker, Reynoldsburg.

The banner is still being carried. The government has created the National Interagency Council on Smoking and Health — 20 people who have united to stamp out smoking. The Surgeon-General's office tells LIVE WIRE that they estimate that there are now about 18,000,000 ex-cigarette smokers in this country. They added that the number of physicians who smoke has declined 30 percent. The American Cancer Society is going after the teenage market with a comic-book pamphlet "Where There's Smoke . . ." that's available for high-schoolers.

I want to rent a judge's chair. I tried calling the court house and theatrical companies but no one can help me. I know judges must wear them out — where can I get one?—Carole, Columbus.

According to Columbus Municipal Court Judge Tom Moody a "judge's chair" is a furniture term and not used strictly in connection with judges. LIVE WIRE learned that it's merely an overstuffed, swivel and tilt type chair with a high back that comes above the head. Most are leather or vinyl covered and used by business executives, too. Try an office supply house, Carole. They'll be able to help you.

Food is so expensive, would it be less expensive to make everything from scratch and ignore ready-made mixes?—Mary Jane Wetzel, 283 Brevort.

The Franklin County Co-Operative Extension Service disagrees with you, Mary. They say statistics bear out that food costs have not risen as fast as other things we buy and that only 18.5 percent of income is spent for food in this country. They do not believe that food is THAT expensive. As for the ready-made mixes, in many cases already prepared food is cheaper. For example, instant potato flakes are less expensive than raw potatoes due to savings in transportation and storage costs. And when one considers the time savings involved in ready-mixes the extension service feels that a smart food shopper can save more money by buying wisely than she ever could by spending more time in the kitchen.

Why should I pay a $50 fee to file for bankruptcy? What the heck, if I had 50 bucks I wouldn't be bankrupt.—R. K., Columbus.

Actually, the initial fee is $40 for court costs according to John Nerny in the office of Columbus Federal Bankruptcy Referee D. J. Kelleher. An additional $10 is asked if a trustee is appointed. Other $10 fees can be tacked on for such items as orders of disclaimers. If you are that hard up, the Government has a nice, easy credit plan. Just sign a poverty affidavit and they give you three months to come up with the dough. No carrying charges, either.

Our school days were brightened by putting frogs in the teacher's desk. Are the days of the good, old, wholesome prank gone forever?—M.R., Grandview.

They don't make ink wells anymore for pig-tail dipping. Pranks are still here, though. Just last week LIVE WIRE learned that many of the students at South High showed up with alarm clocks — all set to go off at 11 a.m. sharp. Principal Harold Washburn got wind of the idea and gave it the old gong. The frustrated students rang back, however, with a cafeteria strike.

They'd just rather that you sort 'em!"

It seems that some bridge players have a flair for rehashing hands so recently theirs! To me this is almost as boring as watching a bunch of women bowling (and I'm one of them). They throw out the ball and if it isn't a strike — a long inquest into the matter is held, and it lasts and lasts and lasts! !

A PRETTIER YOU

By MARIANNE TOMLINSON
Spectator Fashion Editor

Wigs are the big fashion newsmakers today. If you're looking for one—or, if you'd like to learn to care for the wig you have—you can be taught all kinds of styling tricks at the Lazarus Wig Fashion School Apr. 18-21.

The school is a complete two-hour course in wig selection, styling and care, according to Conrad Cady, nationally-famous wig authority who'll conduct the school in the Sixth Floor Assembly Center.

Class times are 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. each day of the school with special sessions at 6 p.m. on Monday and Thursday.

The Lazarus Wig School is the first of its kind to be held in the United States. Instruction will be offered in both human hair and the new R and M Living Wigs of modacrylic fibre.

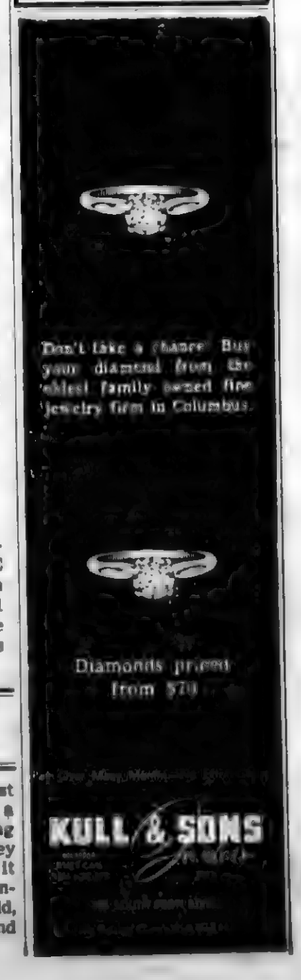
Wig Fashion School classes will be open to women who do not own wigs on a first-come, first-served basis. There is no charge.

Cady and his staff of wig experts will instruct the women on such subjects as: How to select a wig to complement skin coloring; how to brush and style a wig like the professionals; how to care for a wig at home; how to put on and remove a wig without mussing the style. I was especially pleased to note they will also teach how to use wiglets, half-wigs and chignons.

The latter instruction should be beneficial because it has long been my contention (from purely personal experience) that a hairpiece is a mighty handy thing to own. They are easy to manage, are comfortable to wear and can produce many versatile hair styles.

According to Mr. Kenneth, the much publicized hair stylist of New York, "Ladies are getting away from the ultra-short severe hair-do that looks as if it were drawn on with a pencil. My clients are asking for hair with more freedom to it. For evening I am drawing the hair back with the fullness behind."

What has this to do with wigs and hairpieces? Quite a lot.



Short haircuts are great for daytime because they are easy to care for and look marvelously uncluttered under hats. Then if you go hatless, add a hairpiece or a wig and you're all set without a trip to your hairdresser.

You can even look like you came from Mr. Kenneth's (or the local equivalent) simply by smoothing the hair back from your face and adding fullness in the back via your hairpiece.

Whatever your stage of fashion . . . bouffant or sleek . . . you'll have plenty of opportunity to try your hand at the Lazarus Wig Fashion School. Get your reservations in early. Classes are open to the public at no charge but tickets are necessary. Tickets can be obtained at Lazarus second floor wig and millinery counter, or the wig counter at Lazarus Northland and Lazarus West.

If you're in the market for a wig, you might be interested to know, 95 percent of all ladies buy a shade close to their own hair coloring. Of course if you want to find out if blondes have more fun, go ahead and try it.

Kegler's Korner

By NORMA KIRKENDALL

Tom Dern and Ron Spohn are making news again — their doubles achievements are appearing in ads for Master Bowling Controls.

Nancy Tatum, a recent arrival from California and member of WIBC staff, hit a 647 and consistently appears in league high lists these days.

MANY BOWLERS complain of splits — but imagine the plight of Dr. Glyndon Rowe of Detroit who in 1964 had 12 consecutive splits in ABC play.

The Amos Imperial Doubles Classic league has had a run of 700's for several nights. Consistently rolling them are Jim Shaw, Ron Beach and Ed Thomas. The last count was 53 series of 700 or better in this league.

Ohio's Governor Rhodes is an avid booster of bowling and was on hand Apr. 2 at the finals of the $100,000-Firestone PBA Tournament of Champions in Akron — bowling in the Celebrity Pro-Am.

THE FASCINATION of bowling derives probably from the sheer fun of knocking things down. One expert thus explains the game's remarkable gains in this country.

Another suggests, on the same theory, that cavemen, with roughly spherical stones, were the first bowlers.

At any rate, there seems to be no doubt that persons in widely varied circumstances enjoy letting go with a ponderous missile that can cause havoc — and noisy, splendidly visible havoc — among conventionalized wooden soldiers.

AND THERE is more to it than that. Bowling is a safe exercise and a good conditioner. More big firms promote bowling among employes than any other activity. Unlike football, it is a game for players, not spectators.

It is truly a family diversion; father can cope on a par with his robust sons, whose mother will have a good chance, too.

It is thoroughly democratic, and a "leveler of men" in that the average score of the champions is never much greater numerically than that of the fairly good player.

SHOULDER ANGLE: The bowler's shoulders always are at a right angle to the line he intends his ball to follow. For example, if a bowler is trying to get a strike from an angle other than a straight line perpendicular to the foul line, he should assume that angle with his shoulders.

Also, on spares such as the seven pin or 10 pin conversion, he should approach the foul line at an angle.

Jungle Jim Looks Great, Even At 60

Johnny (Jungle Jim) Weissmuller was in Columbus Sunday and he says he'll take on heavyweight champion Cassius Clay any day of the week.

"Just give me 10-feet of water," he said, his sun-tanned face breaking into a smile.

At 60, the most famous Tarzan of them all packed them in at Swimco, Inc., 2155 Riverside-dr, to see the swimming pool that bears his name.

There hasn't been much change in the guy over the years. He still looks like a milk-fed quarterback and it's hard to believe he has a 24-year old son who's 6'6" and who plans to star in more Jungle Jim adventures.

But right now Johnny has bigger things on his mind than swinging from vines. He's engaged in the swimming pool business with Gold Medal Pools—one of which is called the Johnny Weissmuller.

The Swimco people are handling the pool here. And, it's a beauty. Every Weissmuller pool is furnished complete with an efficient filter system, pump and motor, automatic surface skimmer, pool accessories and chrome-plated fittings.

"Every home should have one," Johnny said. "Swimming is the greatest exercise in the world." He says he swims everyday at his Chicago home and that's the reason he looks like a man of 20.

Weissmuller has spent most of his live in water. He holds 67 world swimming records, 52 national championships and five Olympic gold medals —three of which he earned in the 1924 Olympic games.

He was selected "Greatest Swimmer of the First Half Century" by the sportswriters of America in 1950.

'NOW PLAYING RIGHT FIELD—KING KONG!'

Despite the fact that it's one of the prettiest parks in the Cactus League, Cleveland Indian outfielder Leon Wagner isn't too happy about playing ball at Phoenix's Papago Park, spring training home of the SF Giants.

It seems the park is close to the Phoenix Zoo and that brings back memories for Wagner.

WHILE PLAYING right field for the Giants several years ago in Grand Junction, Colo., Wagner noted a menagerie of animals close behind the retaining wall as he jogged out to his position.

"About the fourth inning," "Wags" recalls, "the cheering of the fans upset a few of the animals, and when I went out to right in the fifth I could see the gorilla trying to get out of his cage.

"Then the lions and tigers started roaring, and I called time — just to collect myself.

"MAN, that was a rough afternoon. I kept looking over my shoulder to make sure they didn't break out."

All of us who are worth anything, spend our manhood in unlearning the follies, or expiating the mistakes of our youth. — Percy Bysshe Shelley.

MAVERICK

With Muddy Shoes

By RICHARD L. PAUGH

What causes a fish to strike at a bait? If we ever get the complete answer to that one, we'll ruin the joy of fishing.

There are, of course, several facets to the subject size of lure, color, speed, shape, etc.

AFTER THIRTY years of day dreaming on creek banks, I have come to believe the action of a lure has more to do with pleasing or displeasing a fish than all the other features put together.

PAUGH

Each lure or bait has an optimum speed at which it works the best. Slow it or speed it up and the action goes wrong. I am convinced that fish are almost color blind but that the lightness and reflection of surface light has a bit to do with the visibility underwater.

The farther away a fish can see a lure, the farther he can be seduced. I believe movement attracts the eye much more than color or shape both in and out of the water.

NONE OF MY theory applies to the bottom feeders. To entice them, you simply throw their natural food out and let it sink to the bottom. If they drive by while they are hungry, they will hit the bait.

This is a big problem in correctly running a trout contest. The biggest ones usually come from a pay lake and the only way to take them is to throw a ball of worms out and let them sink.

Sooner or later the captive trout will strike. To get around this easy entry, most contests do not allow entries from pay lakes.

EARLY IN the spring the first waters to start giving up bass are the farm ponds. They clear up and warm up first. They are usually only about a half acre in size and the bass don't have a great deal of running room but plenty of food fish.

It is from these ponds that the lunkers have been coming in recent years.

The Outdoor Writers of Ohio are the keepers of the record fish in Ohio.

THEIR LISTINGS show the largest largemouth bass to be taken in Ohio is nine pounds, four ounces, measuring 24½ inches. It was taken by Rick Sage of Cincinnati on Apr. 19, 1963, from a Hamilton County farm pond.

If you take a sizeable fish in Ohio by fair means, here is the way to enter it in the Outdoor Writers records. Within six months of the date it is caught, send the weight, length, girth and a photo (signed by two witnesses) to Dick Widman, P.O. Box 104, Upper Sandusky, Ohio 43351.

He is co-chairman of the Fish Committee for 1966. I'm sure that many fine species have been taken and not reported.

THIS IS A shame for the record holders are presented with a beautiful certificate denoting that their catch was a record when it was caught.

I have a limited number of beautifully printed OHIO RECORD FISH charts that I will send out free to those who will send me a stamped, self-addressed large size envelope. Mail your requests to the MAVERICK, P.O. Box 6353, Columbus, Ohio 43224, and I'll rush them back to you.

I MIGHT add that several categories are still open—no fish reported at all. They are: sunfish, bowfin, blue cat, gar, paddlefish and white perch.

In the special bowfishing division remaining open are: bowfin, gar and sucker. If you take any fish in these categories, rush the proof in to us and you'll reign supreme—until someone beats you.

LET'S KNIT . . .
A SHELL AND STOLE

TV-MOVIE STAR BARBARA WERLE
Stole, shell are show-stealers

The two items are an easy to fashion stole No. 78 which can either be knitted or crocheted and a knitted leaf sequin shell No. 24.

With merry clickings of the knitting needles "knit-it-yourself fans" can extend greetings to the arrival of spring.

URSULA

To achieve that extra touch of fluffy elegance, the stole when finished receives a vigorous brushing. Illustrated instructions for the stole come in one size.

The shell can also be fashioned by anyone that can knit or purl a stitch. Perhaps you may wish to knit the shell in a plain stockinette stitch and after completion give your own decorative embroidery abilities free reign. Illustrated instructions for the shell are written in sizes 10 through 16.

To obtain pattern No. 78 or No. 24, send 50 cents for each pattern in coin, check, or money order to:

Castellarin, general home service director, Columbia Gas of Ohio Inc.

The Status Of Women

By MAGGI DONALDSON, Spectator Society Editor

"In spite of the fact that opportunities have never been greater, statistics show that women are not preparing for, or accepting their place in the professional or academic ranks, or in positions of leadership in other fields."

So said Mrs. Kathryn A. Moore, state chairman, Status of Women Committee of the American Association of University Women, when she spoke to state leaders of 41 women's organizations and agencies at the Neil House Thursday, Mar. 31. At that meeting women voted unanimously to establish an Ohio Citizen's Committee—making a total of three committees on the status of Ohio women.

Stating that the 20th century is dominated by change in social, political, economic and technological fields which offer great opportunities to women — the danger lies in that "we just talk about it and do nothing positive about it.

"Women comprise more than half the population and the female population continues to increase faster than the male group; there are now 100 females for every 96.4 males. However, in the U.S. House of Representatives women's membership is about 2.5 percent; of physicians only six percent are women, and of lawyers 2.6 percent. Some 17 million women in a month are full time workers. There are a total of 23 million working women. The 1970 forecast is for 30 million.

"Women's ancient function of caring for her home and children still stands but with the possibility of 30 years of employment (she may go back to work when her children are in school) a totally different emphasis must be placed on various aspects of her development and the entire employment pattern must be changed.

"Freedom of choice of occupation is limited by economic considerations but one of the most persuasive limitations is the social climate in which we prepare ourselves for what we wish to do," she continued.

The newly-formed continuing committee will offer aid and cooperation to the new Governor's Committee and the Legislative Services Commission committee. Mrs. William Langley was named president of the new committee, and Mrs. Henry Grinsfelder, secretary. New officers will appoint a steering committee of 20 to establish policies and procedures. Membership on the committee is open to any interested individual or organization.

It was hinted that one of the first acts of the new committee was to urge the governor to appoint a Negro and Jewish representative to his group.

ART SERIES POPULAR

Continuing Education Women's Classes Filled

Avant-Garde artists of the late 19th and early 20th century were thought "ash can artists" by the American public of that time, declared Professor Jerome Hausman, director of OSU's School of Art. These artists included Monet and Van Gogh.

The statement was made at the first meeting of the fourth in a series, sponsored by the University's division of Continuing Education for Women held each Tuesday from 7:30 to 9 p.m. from Mar. 29 through May 24.

More than 40 applicants for the art series had to be turned away because of limited facilities, stated Dr. G. Robert Holsinger, division dean.

"Art shows the problems men have faced in their time and is often the mother of our emotions — therefore art principals of the past fail and reach only similarity in form since the artist has not 'lived that experience,' Prof. Hausman continued.

"Today's art is an act unto itself and today's artists view the canvas as an arena for action for its own sake — today's paintings are not pictures but an event," he continued.

He explained that pop art was the "taking of ordinary articles out of context in order to see them in a new light." Op art, he said, is the dynamics of pure vision and depends on precise control of its elements.

The division inaugurated the first non-credit program for women in January 1965 when a 10-week series on "Modern Drama" was offered. "Problems of American Foreign Policy in the Nuclear Age" was offered for the Spring Quarter 1965 and the Winter Quarter 1966 offered — "Population and World Problems" and "Avant-Garde Theatre."

The demand for such programs has been so great we hope to enlarge our facilities as soon as possible Dean Holsinger proclaimed.

No Women Head Depts. At OSU

"Of the 400 adult education students attending Ohio State University classes, approximately 50 percent are women," stated Dean G. Robert Holsinger of OSU's Division of Continuing Education, during a chat regarding the new Governor's Committee. No one from the university has been asked to serve on it as far as he knew.

"On the non-credit side of the program we can't keep up with the demand," he continued, speaking of the interest of women in higher education. "However, I know of no women administrators on campus outside of the Dean of Women."

Education certainly has a significant role to play in this commission — for all women not just mature women, he continued.

Thursday and Friday, June 16 and 17, his department is offering a residential workshop, "Your Opportunities Through Education," for women interested in degree or credit work.

Academic curriculum, updating of interest areas and placement opportunities will be discussed. Strong emphasis will be placed on service available to mature women students.

Clean, flameless electric ranges are preferred

2 to 1 for better baking.
Go flameless...put on a happy face!
Women do prefer electric ranges for baking. That's a fact. The reasons are very simple. Best baking results depend on accurate heat control. And electric ovens give perfect heat control because they are precise, electronic instruments. Set the dial at the temperature you want and that is the exact temperature you'll get! Another thing, electric ovens are completely insulated. This keeps the heat in the oven where it belongs. Bakes better, keeps kitchens cooler . . . two thoughtful reasons for going flameless. For more information on the merits of clean, flameless electric ranges . . . call the ELECTRIC company.

To Confirm Four

During the Palm Sunday service of the Worthington United Church, new members will be received into the congregation.

Members of the confirmation class are Mike Lee, Steve Overly, Cheryl Poling and Amy Rohr. All are members of the church's Youth Group.

Maundy Thursday services will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the new Worthingway School at the west end of Larrimer-av. A Fourth Century service, the "Office of Tenebrae," will be conducted by the minister and laymen of the church.

As scriptures are read telling of the passion of Christ, candles are extinguished till darkness symbolizes the death of Christ.

The celebration of holy communion will also be conducted.

New "Power-Vac" From Bogens Gives Gale-Force Furnace Cleaning

Arthur D. Bogen, general manager of Bogen Heating and Air Conditioning, announced today the arrival of their brand new furnace cleaner — Power-Vac.

"In 45 years we have seen and tested many furnace cleaners," Mr. Bogen said, "But this is the first one we believe in; the one we have approved! This cleaner is definitely superior, and never before have we seen anything so efficient, economical and powerful as Power-Vac!"

Mr. Bogen continued. "Power-Vac, for the first time, cleans the entire heating system . . . cleans places never before reached, including all piping as well as the vent pipe and chimney. This machine produces a 70 mile per hour gale force cleaning power, and sucks in 12,000 cubic feet of air per minute through a line attached to the home heating system."

Mr. Bogen explained that the main spreader of dirt in the home is the furnace. He pointed out the fact that the average furnace works 8 months out of the year. For greater heating efficiency, as well as a cleaner home, every furnace, unless it has an electronic air filter, should be cleaned thoroughly once a year. He said Power-Vac challenges embedded dirt, dust, pollen and air pollution in the home. This is the very first really complete furnace cleaner that actually makes Spring cleaning worth while, he added.

"The best time to have your furnace cleaned is now, after the long, hard heating season," said Mr. Bogen, "and right before Spring house cleaning. We're giving a special introductory offer — the complete cleaning of your entire heating system, only $22.50. A complete furnace tune-up is only $11.50! Now, customers may obtain both these services . . . a $34.00 value . . . for only $29.50. A saving of $4.50. We believe in this furnace cleaner and we want as many people to take advantage of this offer as possible! And, it's good to remember that the cleaning and tune-up are available separately if only one is needed."

Call CA. 8-6543 now and arrange for an appointment to the famous Bogen Power-Vac. have your furnace cleaned by Bogen Heating and Air Conditioning, Central Ohio's most reliable total comfort specialists, are located at 490 North High Street.

The Bat Column

This is Batman speaking.

The fourth week in the Batman's March - Against - Crime brought fine, freedom-loving results. Gotham City is pleased with the effort being made by Columbus citizens.

The big winner in the fourth week's Batman coloring contest is:

JAMES CONNER, 206 Derror-rd. He gets a big Batman long-playing album.

Other entries rallying to the support of Batman and Robin include:

If you've sent in your $3.50 subscription to the Batman Spectator, then the caped crusader himself will visit your house with a 45 rpm record of the Batman and Robin themes.

If you haven't sent in your subscription money, do so immediately so Batman can set-up a time to visit your house.

(Incidentally, if you already subscribe, a $3.50 subscription is required which will take effect as soon as your present subscription expires).

And, a final word. Be patient. Even Batman cannot possibly get around to all his crime-fighters right away. Response to his fight with the "Bleacher" has been overwhelming. So, if I haven't been to your house yet I will be . . . you can be sure of that. Batman does not let any of his friends down.

See you next week with our final Bat Column, citizens of Columbus!

Humane Society—

The Society is a private organization set up basically with help from the late Dickson L. Moore who left "the remainder" of his "net income" to be paid annually to the Society for the prevention of cruelty to animals, in the late 1940's.

Like other residents, Mrs. James Reade, 2256 Taylor-av, Linden, finds it hard to believe that the society is, indeed, preventing cruelty to animals.

She lost her Beagle Tuesday, Mar. 22, and called the Society on Thursday — two days later.

They told her they had "been bringing in a lot of Beagles" and invited the Reades down to look for their animal. Mr. Reade went down Friday and couldn't find the dog.

On Saturday — the next day — Mrs. Reade received a telephone call from a woman who claimed she had got the license number off a Beagle in the runway. The woman caller said it was Mrs. Reade's Beagle and Mrs. Reade confirmed the description.

The Reades went down again that Saturday and couldn't find their dog.

The Reades — like other families the past week — telephoned The Spectator with their plea. They immediately assumed that their dogs were being sold.

Humane society officials poo-hooed the reports, dismissing them to a Spectator reporter as "merely the work of a handful of trouble-makers."

One of the Society wardens claims they operate under Ohio law which says they must keep the animal for a scant three days . . . that they can "legally" throw them into an on-the-premises gas chamber after the three days expire.

Moreover, the animal must have a current license or the Society shows little mercy. "If the license is a 1966 one, we try to find the owners," a Society employe said. "If it's a 1965 license, the dog is in violation of the law and handled like any other stray."

He added that the majority of the strays picked up are sold "as pets" or put to sleep . . not much comfort to pet owners in this county who are wondering this week to whom to turn to look deeper into the society's operations.

Marketing Group Honors Rhodes

Governor James A. Rhodes has been named Marketing Man of the Year by the American Marketing Association's Central Ohio Chapter.

Rhodes will be honored at a dinner May 4 at the Sheraton-Columbus Hotel.

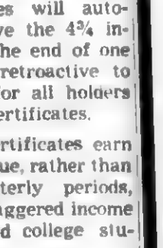
Dr. Alton F. Doody, president of the chapter, said the governor was chosen for the award because of his leadership in expanding the markets for Ohio products and his efforts to bring new industry and investment into the state.

The award dinner, which starts at 7:30 p.m., is expected to attract about 500 guests. Doody said reservations can be made by writing the chapter's vice president, William Jamieson, at Battelle Memorial Institute, 505 King-av.

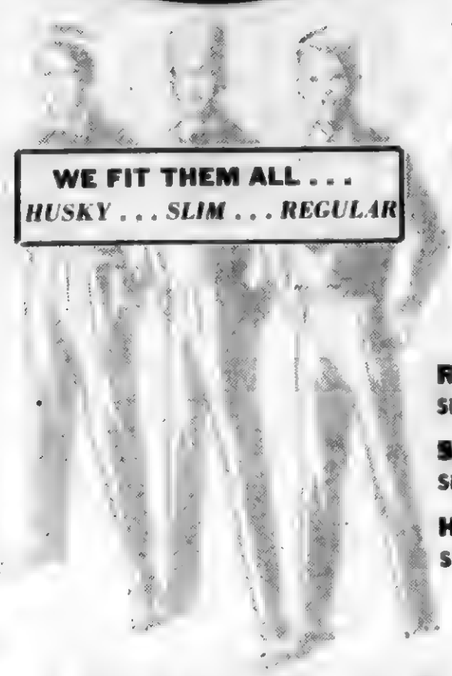
Central Savings Has Certificates Paying 4¾%

Walter F. Heer, Sr., president of Central Savings and Loan Company, announced that 4¾ one-year certificates as low as $3,000 in multiples of $1,000 are available to Central savers.

Present holders of three-year certificates will automatically receive the 4¾ interest rate at the end of one year. This is retroactive to Jan. 1, 1966, for all holders of three-year certificates.



As usual, certificates earn from date of issue, rather than standard quarterly periods, allowing for staggered income for retirees and college students.



If held less than one year, certificates will earn Central's regular passbook savings interest rate of 4¼% paid quarterly.

Ad Sales Up, Up, Up!

Advertising sales for The Spectator newspapers hit a record high in March, Publisher Robert Burdock announced today. "Sales for March were the highest of any month since The Spectator newspapers were acquired nearly a year ago," Burdock stated. Eight zoned editions of The Spectator enable advertisers to buy only the circulation they need to reach their particular market areas at rates which cannot be duplicated elsewhere, he added. "The Spectator management appreciates the growing acceptance by both its advertisers and its readers," Burdock said.

Tenenbaum Joins Staff

Robert G. Tenenbaum, 24, assumes duties this week as City Hall and State House correspondent for all Spectator newspapers. Tenenbaum brings to The Spectator an extensive background in news reporting in this newspaper's efforts to upgrade its political coverage in the greater Columbus area. A graduate of Ohio University, Tenenbaum served for three years as a legislative correspondent here for United Press International. A native of Brooklyn, N.Y., Tenenbaum has lived most of his life in Cleveland Heights, O. He and his wife, Judy, a teacher in the Gahanna public schools, reside at 1139 S. James-rd.

ROBERT G. TENENBAUM

Two Spectator staffers, Betty Daft and Tom Seslar, have resigned to accept offers by The Columbus Dispatch editorial department.

Coach Walker Quits

Groveport-Madison Superintendent of Schools Phillip K. Williams announced this week that Bill Walker, head varsity basketball coach for the past three years, has resigned his position at the school. The cage position is now open for applicants. Interested parties should contact Ralph Hudson, assistant superintendent, at Asbury School, 5127 Harbor-blvd, Columbus (837-3623). Walker did not state his future plans upon resignation.

Swing Your Partner

Groveport Band Parents have invited the teenagers of the high school to join them as they kick up their heels at the annual spring dance this Saturday, Apr. 16 from 8 until 11 p.m. The Groveport-Madison Dance Band will play for the round and square dancing with Jim Wagner calling the latter. Herbert Poenisch is the chairman for the event scheduled to help pay for the new band uniforms. Adult tickets are $1 and student tickets, 50 cents.

Let's Play Ball

All boys planning to play this season with the Groveport Baseball Club must register at Groveport High School between 9 a.m. and noon either this Saturday, Apr. 16, or the following Saturday morning. The registration forms for local lads eight through 17 who have less than senior grades will be passed out at school and also be available at the main concession stand on both Saturdays.

It's Home Cooking

A dinner featuring fried chicken and baked ham will be served by the WSCS of the Walnut Hill Methodist Church at 5 p.m. in the Parish Hall Saturday, Apr. 16 Homemade noodles and pies and cakes from the kitchen of the women of the church will round out the menu.

Volunteens Capped

Six local girls will be among the 150 Red Cross members working as Hospital Volunteens who will receive caps and pins Sunday, Apr. 17, at the Ohio Exposition Center. They are Sandra Browning, Barbara Parsley, Sandra Ward and Judy Wilson of Groveport Madison and Janet Sullivan and Cheryl Terry of Hamilton. The public is invited to view and vote upon the teenage art show from 2:30 to 5 p.m. at the Arts and Crafts Building from which Columbus artist Leland McClelland and a student committee will select ten exhibits to be included in the National Red Cross Overseas Traveling Art Show.

On 'Fair' List

At press time Calvin Willis, 13, and Charles Ferderber, 16, were listed as "fair" by Children's Hospital. They were both seriously injured when their school bus lost a wheel and overturned in front of Price Airport on Refugee-rd. Calvin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Willis, 1493 Willis-dr in Southview and Charles the son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Emery Ferderber of 1119 Secrest-dr, Lockbourne AFB.

Hamilton Hires John Savel

A three-year contract with a beginning salary of $13,500 as superintendent of Hamilton Local Schools was accepted by John E. Savel of Andover this week.

Scheduled to assume his duties July 5, Savel's experience includes 17 years as chief administrator in several Ohio schools and in North Africa where he directed the Air Force Dependents' School.

He is currently under contract to the Pymatuning Valley Schools, but has received verbal assurance he will be released to fill the Hamilton post.

A native of Republic, Pa., Savel graduated from Findley College, received his Master's from Bowling Green and is now working on his doctorate at Ohio State.

In addition to his wife, Mary, and their seven children (ages from three to 17) the new superintendent will bring to the district what he deems important in his role as administrator—"the personal touch."

Even before his employment was official, he was overheard seeking a consultation with the president of the local teacher's association, and a little later, in an interview with The Spectator, stated it was his intention to regularly attend PTO and PTA meetings and school social functions to establish a close relationship with the community.

He also indicated the teaching profession was in his blood, pointing out that each of his eight brothers and sisters is in the teaching profession.

Other important business transacted by the Hamilton Board this week was approval of two recommendations made last week by Superintendent D'Alan Huff.

The first will establish the junior high school as a separate administrative unit, and the second set up advisory budget committee, to be appointed by James Strouse, board president.

To be made up of school personnel and laymen of the community, the committee will have the specific responsibility of making salary scale recommendations that can restore Hamilton to a competitive position in the teacher market.

At the close of the meeting the board approved a motion directing a letter be sent to Huff asking him to be pres-

'Poor Morale' H-T Problem Say Coaches

By The Spectator's
JACK WITTENMEIER

First Of A Series — THE EMPTY BENCH:

Ever since Thomas Edison proved that one electric light bulb could do the job of 100 candles, nobody's been selling quantity over quality.

But conversely, nobody's been able to bury that saw about strength being measured in numbers either.

In major athletics (with the possible exception of basketball), a scarcity of warm bodies has usually spelled defeat, or surely a limited amount of success.

Such has become the case at Hamilton Township High School in the past year.

The '65 football team closed shop with less than 22 players (two full starting 11's), the wrestling team failed to fill each of 11 weight slots and early track returns show a squad which might reach 20.

As a result, the football team (league co-champion-ship in recent years), and the wrestling team (was 11-2 in '65) waded through lean seasons.

On the cinders, H-T appears headed for the same fate this spring—despite a long log of oval titles in the past several years.

Losses afield are of little concern to this query into Hamilton's athletic woes. But a scarcity of athletes participating in the school's athletic program is.

A measure of the student body at Hamilton Township is comparable to nearby Groveport, which has no problem filling athletic rosters.

Why then does Hamilton Township have difficulty filling its athletic uniforms today when there were scarce-

Reveals Option To Sell To Commissioners

WATCH THAT FLAPJACK!

SELLING INSURANCE doesn't make a chef out of a man, but Tom Moore, Tri-County Kiwanis president, claims Bill Woodward is a fast-learner. Chairman Woodward is pictured getting in shape for the annual pancake festival in the multi-purpose room of Canal Winchester School which will begin at 7 this Saturday morning and give everyone the chance to eat all they can until 7 p.m. The menu includes sausage, fruit juice and coffee. According to the chairman, there will be prizes galore including a U. S. Savings Bond. Tickets are $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

According to Lot Smith, options have been signed on each of the four pieces of property along Spangler-rd earmarked for an incinerator site by Franklin County Commissioners.

He stated the final option was acquired when he "signed up" about six weeks ago for the 70 acre tract he owns.

(Options on 12 acres owned by Robert Ruetch, 36 belonging to Arthur Rohr and on a house and lot which is the property of Paul Miller were reportedly secured several months ago.

Smith stated that he signed the option reluctantly, as he would have preferred to keep the land for current farm use and possible subdivision in the future.

"I really had little choice," he stated, explaining that he was convinced the land would have been acquired by condemnation if he had not been cooperative.

"All the difference in the end would be that I would have sacrificed the option price," he added.

Smith seemed fairly well-satisified with the terms of the option ($2,000 an acre if it is excerised) but pointed out that the 20-acre asparagus field he had planted five years ago would be in only its second year of 15 years of commercial productivity this year.

Dan Dawson who has led the fight against the incinerator in the area expressed surprise when informed of Smith's action.

"How could he sign an option," he tsked, "when the courts have issued a restraining order against the commissioners negotiating further options until a pending suit is settled?"

"If the commissioners entered into such an agreement after Jan. 10 it would look like contempt of court to me," Dawson added.

IT'S HIGH TIME

THE AUCTION of the Groveport Businessmen's Association is the Big City Garden Center on Hamilton-rd has made a watch-watcher out of Kermit Alspaugh. He claims that when the hands of your clock point to 11 this coming Saturday morning, Ed Seymour will start the chant of the biggest auction that the community has ever seen. Proceeds are earmarked for Fourth of July festivities.

Julia Brown Hits King, NAACP

By The Spectator's
JOHN AUBLE, JR.

Her throat straining, Mrs. Julia Brown stood on the stage in the North High School auditorium in front of a roster that said "Let Freedom Ring — 283-1881" and she shouted that Martin Luther King is the "biggest liar in the United States" and "oh," she said, "he's the greatest enemy of the Negro people."

She spit the words out, this woman who says she worked for the FBI for nine years in the Communist party in Cleveland, O., and she had about 800 people clapping and believing her, and she said the John Birch Society is the greatest organization in the world. Her Columbus appearance was sponsored here by a man named William Ohliney who is the promoter of the local "Let Freedom Ring" telephone message.

"I'd call Martin Luther King a Communist," she said, "if it didn't mean a million-dollar law suit. He's using my people (Mrs. Brown is a Negro) as dopes . . . he's using them and the Communist party is using them and they should wake up and organize and get the Communists out of the NAACP."

The verbal explosion came during a question-and-answer period following a polite talk about her activities as an FBI undercover agent. The explosion came and Mrs. Brown's eyes were afire now.

"The Communists are grooming Martin Luther King . . . they're grooming him and I predict that he'll run for vice-president in 1968."

And as Mrs. Brown talked about Communists she mentioned the name of Eleanor Roosevelt in the same breath and a handful of pickets who had walked back and forth in front of North High School in the rain got up and left.

They had been relatively quiet in the auditorium. They shouted things like "You don't know what you're talking about, Baby," and when a question was asked of Mrs. Brown as to whether or not the John Birch Society is a Communist front one of the protestors raised his voice and said "Yes it is . . . I'm a member."

The little agitation bounced off Mrs. Brown. The group was largely made up of Columbus NAACP members, a few members of the Spartacists Party here which professes Communism and members of a group that calls itself the Columbus Committee for Community Action.

And wherever the questions led Mrs. Brown she'd find her way back to emphasize the fact that she knows that Communists have "infiltrated the NAACP . . . they've infiltrated it and I know they've infiltrated it because I recruited more Communists in that organization than I have fingers and toes."

Mrs. Brown was talking to people who want so much to be patriotic Americans. She talked and a young girl who is a student at Ohio State University and who had paid to hear Mrs. Brown because she honestly wanted to be informed reached into her purse and pulled out a page of literature from the Columbus NAACP which protested Julia Brown's appearance.

And on that piece of paper was a mimeographed line that said: "Communists have tried unsuccessfully for many years to infiltrate Civil Rights groups. They have not succeeded." The line was marked by an asterick and at the bottom of the page was a footnote saying: "J. Edgar Hoover, MASTERS OF DECEIT, p. 247."

And this young girl had just heard Mrs. Brown say that J. Edgar Hoover is a "truly great American" and now her mind clouded because she thought she was believing in two truths that called each other lies and she knew — like many knew there Monday night — that she would have to look deep into her own heart and mind for the answer.

"Breadwinners And Homemakers" Seminar Is Set For Apr. 30

Representatives of leading area women's organizations last week heard plans for a unique seminar for women to be held in Columbus next month.

Some 50 women were luncheon guests of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co., at the Sheraton-Columbus as plans for the "Breadwinners and Homemakers Seminar" on Saturday, Apr. 30, were revealed by Miss Margaret Divver, Boston, second vice-president of the Hancock, and William J. Bird, San Francisco, vice-president, western division of the company.

The Columbus seminar, the sixth the company has sponsored, will feature some of America's most outstanding career women discussing subjects of importance to home management, family responsibilities, finance and career training. Other seminars have been held in Chicago, Los Angeles, Phoenix, Honolulu and St. Louis.

"This all-day meeting is specifically tailored for women of the Central Ohio area who have the dual responsibility of home and family and career," Miss Divvenr said. "The discussions and talks are planned to help women combine these responsibilities with greater ease."

Seminar participants include: Mrs. Marie T. Mills, associate superintendent, and director of Instruction, Mt. San Antonio College, Walnut, Calif.; Mrs. Charlotte Montgomery, contributing editor, Good Housekeeping Magazine, Westfield, N. J.; Mrs Julia Montgomery Walsh, general partner, Ferris and Company, Washington, and also a member of the New York Stock Exchange.

Mrs. Frances L. Feldman, associate professor, Social Work, University of Southern California, Los Angeles; Miss Jane A. Howell, C.L.U., sales director of women agents, western division, John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co., San Francisco.

Vice Admiral John L. McCrea, U.S.N., (Ret.), vice president, Client Relations, John Hancock, Boston, Mass.

Mr. Bird will serve as moderator of the forum and Miss Divver is scheduled to address the morning session of the seminar which is expected to attract more than 300 Central Ohio Women.

Miss Divver also stressed that the forum will be presented without charge. Invitations will be mailed early in April. Advance reservation forms may be obtained by writing or calling the John Hancock general agency office, 42 E. Gay-st, CA. 4-5246.

Also on the Apr. 30 schedule is a "No-Host" luncheon at the hotel and a 4 p.m. reception which will give those attending an opportunity to meet and talk individually with seminar participants.

WILLIAM S. WHITE: Dominican Republic: Red Target

WHITE

WASHINGTON — The Communists are preparing to have another go at the Dominican Republic in the hope of sabotaging the free elections scheduled there for June 1.

The Tri-continental Congress, a Communist and front outfit formed in Castro Cuba, has called for "worldwide demonstrations" for Apr. 24. This will be the first anniversary of a deeply Communist-infiltrated revolt designed to destroy the republic and would have but for quick military intervention by the United States.

The central aim of the new "demonstrations" is to create in the Dominican Republic enough chaos to foul up the elections.

But a Communist success is another question. In the first place, the Inter-American Peace Force, commanded by Brazilians, still stands in the republic.

In the second place, the hard-core Communists on the ground are still shaken from what two of their leaders have publicly conceded, in the World Marxist Review, was a punishing defeat a year ago.

The estimate of good diplomatic and intelligence sources, though possibly too hopeful, is this: While Apr. 24 will bring much screeching from Communist cells everywhere, the ultimate Communist party goal in the Dominican Republic itself is not likely to be attained.

The intermediate Communist objective is to drive the Inter-American Peace Force out of the republic. Here, the outlook is altogether favorable for us. The moderate candidate for president, Joaquin Balaguer, if elected, would certainly support the maintenance there of the IAPF shield so long as the ability of his government to suppress subversive assaults should be in the slightest question.

And if the leftist but still not Communist candidate, Juan Bosch, should win, the assumption is that he, too, would privately welcome the IAPF so long as his regime might be imperiled.

In short, the intervention first of the United States and then of Latin America collectively in the Dominican Republic has been proved to Latin America itself to have been sound and necessary. Even those Latins who still criticize it in public do not talk the same way in private.

The only people who are really fooled any more are a few American Senators who proclaim that their thinking is "new" but are in truth buying a dusty old stereotype from a very long yesterday.

Their attitude reflects an enduring tragedy of our time. Because more than a dozen years ago the forces associated with the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy conducted howlingly unfair "Communist" witchhunts against men who were nothing of the sort, the new left here still supposes that men who are incontestably both Communist and dangerous are not really either. — Copyright, 1966, by United Features.

BARRY GOLDWATER: Johnson Has Proved Me Right

GOLDWATER

President Johnson's most outrageous attack on economic good sense is his telephone crusade to convince American businessmen to cut back their capital spending.

The idea of a President secretly phoning all over the country, as it has now been announced he did, to cajole businessmen into standing pat, rather than enlarging their plants and creating new jobs, is an insult to every concept of the Presidency familiar to me.

There seems to be no end to this use of Presidential power for behind-the-scenes pressure on Americans and their private affairs. It is a blot on fundamental civil liberties and privacy, an inexcusable passing of the buck, shifting the blame for inflationary pressures from government policy, where it belongs.

Consider what this Rule by Telephone means to every American who works for his living or has investments or insurance to safeguard his old age.

There is no question that inflation is an economic thief that robs us all — the poor particularly, the aged most cruelly, the future most insidiously. As an example of the inflationary signs in our economy, the cost of living has gone up significantly under this administration.

But it is the cost of government that has gone up most. This administration, which has failed to put any economic priorities on spending, despite our fighting a war, is spending more money than any government in recorded history. Your money.

Federal spending applies the greatest inflationary pressure to our economy.

The President of the United States is an officer who supposedly serves all the people rather than runs all the people. But he has actually asked that the American private economy shift into low gear so that the government spenders can keep going in overdrive.

The President has asked that capital spending be held down. But this spending is for new tools, new shops, new stores new factories, adding up to new jobs somewhere along the line, increasing the ability of working Americans to compete successfully with their overseas counterparts. This means economic common sense and solid growth.

But the President wants that growth stunted so that he will not have to cut a single penny from the political spending programs he has rammed through the recent rubber-stamp sessions of Congress.

I have long predicted that, if President Johnson ever had to choose between expansion of the private economy, where most of us make our living and through which we pay all the government bills, and his political spending, he would choose politics all the way.

Once again, President Johnson has proved me right.—Copyright 1966, Los Angeles Times.

"An Informed Citizen Is The Cornerstone Of Democracy"

Robert Burdock, Publisher — Don R. Bucknam, Advertising Director — John Auble, Jr., Managing Editor — R. H. Rogers, Business Manager

Columbus, Ohio, Wednesday, April 13, 1966

On The Line

A Columbus housewife answers her phone and is stunned by the voice on the other end of the line uttering a steady stream of obscenities.

Misuses of the telephone is a growing problem. Ohio Bell answered more than 84,000 complaints about annoyance calls last year.

What do you do with annoying phone calls?

The Spectator suggests these steps: Call the police if a threat is made; Know to whom you are talking; If someone calls and asks "What number is this?" don't answer the question; Instruct children and babysitters not to give out information indiscriminately; If a caller makes an indecent remark, hang up quickly — but softly since people who make such calls are looking for a reaction.

It's your telephone. Use it on your terms.

We Still Pay

This being an election year, we are going to hear a great deal about the highly-touted policy of "no new taxes." From a political standpoint, it is very appealing. Individuals and industries alike love to bask in the warm glow of a "hold-the-tax-line" philosophy and they are inclined to reward its creators at the ballot box.

But behind this impressive facade the termites are at work. Whatever the temporary advantages, there is going to be a day of reckoning. Ohio is able to maintain its status quo tax structure only by neglecting social services, and eventually the problems created by this neglect are going to worsen to a point where they constitute a pressing and expensive emergency. Some have already reached that point. Others are close on their heels.

Consider the present situation in Ohio. We have just been told, in a 262-page citizens' report, that the state's mental health program is substandard. Welfare clients in Ohio exist on grossly inadequate allotments, condemned to the prison of poverty by governmental penny-pinching and public apathy. Our juvenile institutions are overcrowded and understaffed and their programs sapped by financial starvation. The state's proportionate contribution to the public school system has declined and local property taxpayers are rebelling. Our support of higher education is lagging. In short, when it comes to public services, the word for Ohio is "inadequate."

When we reach the point where these problems can no longer be swept under the rug or covered with a coat of fresh paint, the citizens and industries of Ohio are going to pay dearly in terms of tax dollars. It is always more costly when problems are permitted to deteriorate and you have to buy your way out of a crisis.

Nor will higher prices be the only negative factor. In the process of confronting these crises, Ohio and other states with similar tax philosophies are going to lose more of their sovereignty, because the solutions will come from outside their borders.

Eventually, we will have adequate welfare, mental health, juvenile rehabilitation and educational systems. These are national necessities and they can no longer be left to the not-so-tender mercies of states like Ohio, which measure achievement in terms of dollars not spent for social services. In the absence of state responsibility the federal government is going to take over more and more programs. This process is under way now and there is every indication that its momentum will steadily increase. Washington is filling the vacuum created by state apathy and inaction.

It follows that as the federal government continues to involve itself in poorly-run state programs it will be seeking more tax revenue. And Washington will be able to get that revenue because of its pre-eminent position as a tax-collector. Corporations with a retarded sense of social responsibility can leave a state that insists on a tax level high enough to maintain adequate social service programs. But they cannot escape the federal government and the taxes it may levy for the same programs.

Thus, individuals and industries are really deluding themselves when they applaud a policy of "no new taxes" on the state level. The programs that are reduced to impotence because of this policy invite Federal intervention and with it, higher levels of Federal taxation. In the long run, nothing is gained. Indeed, it can be argued that a great deal is lost.

For one thing, it costs more. As noted, it is more expensive to buy your way out of a crisis and it is usually at the crisis stage that the Federal government enters the picture. Washington has to spend more because, in the past, the states have spent so little. It is also true that expenses rise when the money has to be sent first to Washington and then returned to the states. But, in the absence of state initiative, this is the only viable procedure.

With these higher costs goes a corresponding decline in state authority. What Washington pays for, it will also supervise, either directly or indirectly. Federal standards for mental health, welfare, juvenile rehabilitation and education will be established and the deadline for action is moved up each time Washington has to intervene to pull the state out of the fire. After all, if the Federal government is going to have to provide the money to assure adequate programs, then it might just as well run them, too.

One could wrangle interminably about the rightness or wrongness of this trend, but the argument would be academic. By neglecting social service programs to maintain politically expedient tax structures, Ohio and other states have abdicated the responsibility; they have said in effect: "Washington, take over." The pattern has been set and it is not likely to change. The Federal government will continue to increase its power; the states, largely by choice, will continue to surrender theirs. And the new taxes that aren't paid at the state level will be paid in Washington. — DICK COMPTON, WRFD "Commentator"

They Said It

"Retraining of workers whose skills are no longer needed is a fine thing. Education for the children of poor families is also needed. Federal aid, if accompanied by complete local freedom, is acceptable. When it comes to the point of having to guarantee every family an annual income, then something has happened to this great nation."—Rochester (N.H.) Courier.

"The Washington Word On Identified Flying Objects Is To Wait For 'Em To Come Down"

MARQUIS CHILDS: Sun-Tanned Good Guy

SAN JOSE, CALIF. — In the scrambled politics of this fantastically growing state, Ronald Reagan, the actor turned politician, gives a smooth, professional performance. He is straight out of Central Casting, a crusader seeking to put idealism into government — the kind of role played in another time by Jimmy Stewart in "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington."

"I am not a politician," he tells every audience as he barnstorms through the San Francisco Bay area and this news seems to please his listeners.

CHILDS

What he says with the skill of the professional — the pause for the laugh at the wisecrack gently dropped in, the timing for the applause — seems to have almost no relevance to what is happening in this crowded, complex society on the Pacific slope. The acrid smog, polluted waters, highway deaths on the freeways, the omnipresent threat of violence in the Negro ghettos of which Watts is only one — these have no place in Reagan's view of the political scene. His is the standard conservative line, cut taxes, cut back government spending, return to the virtues of the past, but blandly homogenized with the help of the public relations firm of Spencer, Roberts Associates, Inc.

Reagan seems likely to win the nomination for Governor in the primary on June 7. His principal rival, former Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco, is close to the middle-of-the-road Republicanism of the past embodied in Earl Warren who left the governorship only 12 years ago to become Chief Justice of the United States. But no television audience would ever take Christopher for the sun-tanned good guy out to demolish greed and corruption in government.

The chaos in the Democratic party is such that if Reagan gets the nomination it is conceivable he will defeat Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown, who is running for a third term.

Reagan faces a large order of chaos in his own party. Unreconstructed Goldwaterites, whom the candidate confronted in the California Republican Assembly here, control most party organizations. Given his allotted time to speak to the Assembly, Reagan blithely chose to call for questions and answers. Up from the audience rose a dark-haired young woman to put in the tones of a junior Miss Savonarola this query:

"What was the exact date when you left the United World Federalists?"

If some dark crime out of his past had been suddenly brought to light the composure of the candidate could not have for the moment been more visibly shattered. In the hush that fell over the Assembly a man roared from the audience, "Wasn't that when you were a Democrat?" Here was another heresy.

But Reagan rose manfully to the occasion. When he got out of uniform in 1946 he was very naive. He had really believed that war could be prevented. Yes, he had belonged to the United World Federalists. But as soon as he learned the bitter truths of Communist perfidy at home and abroad he resigned, 1963?

The young woman persisted. It must have been earlier than that.

"Yes, I was naive," he said with his boyish grin. "I was a Democrat." And the audience applauded long and loud, loving him again.

But applause and cheers are not the main object of the candidate's speeches. He wants his audiences to be reassured, to believe that if only Republicans can unite and unhappy Democrats jolted out their naivete can join them, all will be well again. — Copyright 1966, United Features.

Letters To The Editor

Says Solution's Obvious

To The Spectator:

Regarding the light at Highland-dr ("Freeway Woes Worsen," Apr. 6 Spectator), the fact is that even with the Olentangy freeway all traffic generated from Bethel-rd to N. Broadway is doomed to travel the present road into town.

No freeway entrance is provided to the south over this section. The undeveloped areas (all to the west) will increase this traffic and the congestion of the crosstown roads as they develop.

The solution is obvious. Highway design must be an integral part of city planning and cannot be done by highway engineers alone. Major highways must be spaced to provide the least travel distance for the average traveler and pre-planned to encourage the orderly development of the city.

Let's turn the Olentangy Freeway over to the qualified city planners. Vote against ordinance No. 144-66.

Inviting Washington Here

To The Spectator:

The longer our state administration, with voter support, avoids its social services responsibilities in order to present the false image of no necessity for further taxes, the sooner Washington will be moving into Ohio to meet the inevitable emergency of human suffering in our rich state.

Ohioans will have to buy their way out of a financial crisis with higher taxes.

The surest and quickest way to surrender state power to Washington is to repeat the grievous error of 1962 or re-electing this publicity-seeking political opportunist who is jestingly mentioned for President of the United States.

Defends Dismissals

To The Spectator:

Reference is made to your lead editorial entitled "Politics and Booze" (Apr. 6 Spectator).

The editorial makes reference to a 63-year-old unnamed man who gave nine years to the Liquor Department as a store manager, and that he was then reduced to a clerk and finally was asked to resign.

The personnel file of this 63-year-old man (his identity is well-known to this department)—as well as the personnel file of any other store employe who claims to have been dismissed without just cause—is available for examination by any representative of your publication.

LEGAL NOTICE PROPOSAL FOR SCHOOL EQUIPMENT

Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Education of the Madison Local School District, Groveport, Franklin County, State of Ohio, at the Office of the Clerk of said School Board, Groveport, Ohio, until 12:00 noon, April 25, 1966, for the purchase of equipment and furniture to be delivered to the High School Building, Groveport, Ohio. The bids will be opened and read aloud on the above named date at 12:00 o'clock P.M. Purchase of equipment will be made within four weeks after bids are opened.

Specifications are on file at the office of the Clerk of the Board of Education and Superintendent of Schools. Copies of said specifications may be obtained from either office.

Equipment for which proposals are to be received include classroom furniture and miscellaneous loose equipment.

Separate proposals shall be received for the various items of equipment as noted on the bid form which will be provided.

All proposals shall be made in conformity with the General Code of Ohio, and on blanks furnished by the Board of Education and shall be enclosed in a sealed envelope and addressed to the Board of Education, Madison Local School District, Groveport, Franklin County, State of Ohio, and endorsed Proposal for Equipment Contract showing date and hour of opening on the outside of the envelope.

Each bid must contain the name of each and every person interested therein, and shall be accompanied by a bid bond with corporate surety thereon, authorized to do business in the State of Ohio and satisfactory to the Board of Education, or by certified check on a solvent bank located in the State of Ohio, in an amount equal to ten per cent (10%) of the total amount of the bid, conditioned that if the bid be accepted, a contract will be entered into, and the performance thereof properly secured by a performance bond in accordance with the law.

Said bonds or certified check shall be made in favor of the Board of Education of Madison Local School District, Franklin County, State of Ohio, and shall be made payable to Charles I. Dean, Clerk-Treasurer of said Board.

The bond or certified check shall be forfeited if said bidder fails to enter into a contract and secure the performance thereof, within ten (10) days after notice of acceptance of the bid. A performance bond, with corporate surety thereon satisfactory to said Board in an amount equal to one hundred percent (100%) of the aggregate bid price, conditioned in accordance with law will be required.

The Board of Education reserves the right to reject any, part of any, or all bids.

By order of the Board of Education of Madison Local School District, Franklin County, State of Ohio.

Charles I. Dean, Clerk
Wayne A. Wilson, President

ON ISSUE OF BONDS NOTICE OF ELECTION

Notice is hereby given that in pursuance of a Resolution of the Board of Education of the Eastern Franklin County Joint Vocational School District, Franklin, Fairfield and Licking Counties, Ohio, passed on the 19th day of January, 1966, there will be submitted to a vote of the people of said School District at the Special Election to be held in the Eastern Franklin County Joint Vocational School District of Franklin, Fairfield and Licking Counties, Ohio, at the regular places of voting therein, on Tuesday, the 3rd day of May, 1966, the question of issuing bonds of said School District in the amount of one million six hundred fifty thousand Dollars ($1,650,000) for the purpose of acquisition of real estate; constructing a school building and structures; improving the sites thereof and acquiring furniture and equipment for same, as provided by law.

The maximum number of years during which such bonds are to run is 20 years.

The estimated average additional tax rate amounts to six cents ($0.06) for each one hundred dollars of valuation, which is (0.6) mills for each one dollar of valuation, outside of the limitation imposed by Article XII, Section 2 of the Constitution, as certified by the County Auditor.

The Polls for said Election will open at 6:30 o'clock A.M. and remain open until 6:30 o'clock P.M. Eastern Standard Time of said day.

By order of the Board of Elections of Franklin County, Ohio.

City National Bank Lockbourne Rd. Office Open April 18th

FAREWELL BANKETTE

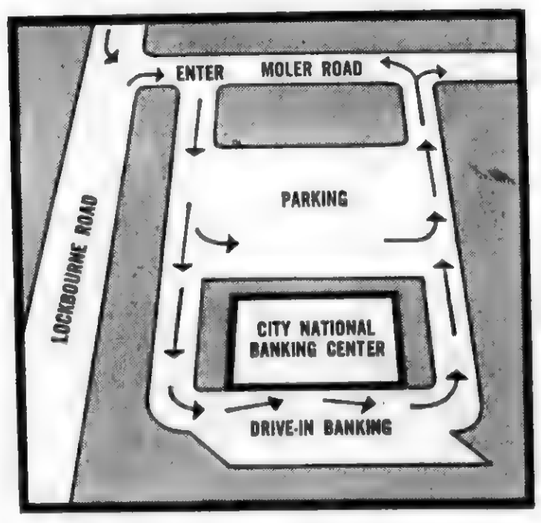
South Columbus asked for, "Good Neighbor" Banking. And our BANKETTE office allowed us to provide the services requested. We want to say "Thanks" to all our regular City National customers for banking with us in the temporary building with its small lobby space. We tried not to inconvenience you in any way.

But, now it's time to say "farewell" to the temporary office. On April 18, City National will take the wrappings off of your new banking center. We feel certain it will meet your growing demands for better banking services.

A Message from the Lockbourne Road Office Manager

John S. Patton
Manager
Lockbourne Road Office

"To all of our customers and the fine people of south Columbus. Please accept this as your personal invitation to use all of the services at the new Lockbourne Road Banking Center. We want you to feel that this is your bank. And we look forward to handling your complete banking needs in the most friendly and personal manner."



Lockbourne Rd. Banking Center

City National promised you a completely modern banking center. Here it is. We think you will find everything a growing community demands in the new Lockbourne Rd. office. There's a community meeting room for area clubs and organizations. Three drive-in windows. Safe deposit and night depository service. A 50 foot teller's counter. A huge lobby to provide fast, convenient banking services for the south Columbus neighborhood. If you haven't been using the "Bankette" why not stop in at the new office? Meet your "Good Neighbor" banking friends. This would be a good time to start banking with City National.

"GOOD NEIGHBOR" BANKING SERVICES

- Checking and Savings Accounts
- Investor-Saver Bonds
- Instalment Loans for every purpose
- Home and Commercial financing
- Travelers Checks
- Cashiers Checks
- Trust Services and Travel Arrangements

Whatever banking service you need, you can quickly arrange it at the new Lockbourne Road Office.

The beautiful skyhigh showplace restaurant which the Stouffer Foods Corporation of Cleveland has designed and brought to Columbus is now open for dining pleasure. Joining a distinguished group — the Stouffer Top restaurants — (nine in America's most cosmopolitan cities) Columbus' Top of the Center crowns this city's new Columbus Center building at 100 E. Broad-st.

Lucille Lights Lincoln Lodge

The Lucille Linwood Trio is playing your favorite songs in the cocktail lounge at Lincoln Lodge Motel. Featured with Lucille is Richard Frye, one of the best pianists I have had the pleasure to hear for some time. With good styling and a fine feeling for music, you can almost hear a pin drop when this man does his solos on the 88's.

Of course, everyone knows Lucille's vocal ability. She is as good as ever. Her personality and showmanship are as entertaining as her voice. Filling out the trio is Bernie Dugo on bass. This man's talents are way above average. He fits in well. Music to enjoy should be the motto of the Lucille Linwood Trio.

Carson Appears For Cancer

Robert Carson, TV and Movie actor, will make several appearances in Columbus Thursday, Apr. 14, in behalf of the American Cancer Society. He will attend a neighborhood "coffee" at the home of Mrs. Watson Walker, 1801 Oak-st, at 10:30 a.m. and be honored guest at a tea in the home of Mrs. Walter Dewey, 1616 Tremont-rd at 3 p.m. He will also appear at the dinner which will precede the Press Club's annual Gridiron Show, which "roasts" politicians. The dinner is at the Southern Hotel and the show at the Southern Theatre. Carson, whose first wife, and brother Jack, died of cancer, has appeared in many movies, including "Wall of Noise," "How to Murder Your Wife," and "The Great Race," the latter currently showing at the Palace Theatre.

Music At Knave's Cave

I won't say the Betty Saint Duo plays angelic music, but, for two people, they do produce lots of pretty sounds. Working in the Knave's Cave at the Arlington Arms Motel, this group has been packing them in for over three years. Al Evans is the other half of the duo. He is an excellent drummer as well as being a pleasant, enjoyable singer. Betty is a pianist's pianist. Having great feeling for music, her keyboard stylings are creative and interesting. The duo is fun to hear. The musical moods are as relaxing as the intimate decor of the Knave's Cave. The candlelight atmosphere is very romantic. The melodious songs of the Betty Saint duo are also very romantic. Add to this combination the fact that the Knave's Cave is just about the only place in town where one can "trip the light fantastic."

FOOTBALL All-Americans Ike Kelley and Howard "Hopalong" Cassady piloted the oil-can racers in last year's Columbus Soap Box Derby. Boys 11 through 15 can learn how to build regulation racers much faster than these two oil-cans by watching the series of instructional programs that began last Sunday at 5:45 p.m. on TV-4.

Soap Box Derby Plans Are Started

Columbus Soap Box Derby preparations are underway, and boys 11 through 15 should be registering and getting their rule books and wheel kits for the 1966 running of the downhill race.

This year's sponsors are WLW-C TV-4, Chevrolet dealers of Columbus and the Columbus Jaycees. Don L. Collins is chairman of the Derby Committee for the Jaycees.

The Spectator Newspapers are working with the sponsors in order to provide better information to the boys taking part in the derby.

TV-4 has started a series of instructional programs, broadcast every Sunday at 5:45 p.m., to help boys learn how to build racers for the July race. Boys living outside the Columbus Derby area, whose community is also having a Soap Box Derby, are welcome to watch these programs for helpful building tips.

These Sunday afternoon "Soap Box Derby Workshops" will be hosted by TV-4 sportscaster Dave Collins. With diagrams and sample cars, instructors will show the boys the best tips on building and driving a racer.

The TV-4 Sunday 5:45 p.m. workshop subject for the month of April are: Apr. 17 — color film of the '65 Derby, and Apr. 24 — outline of derby events.

Sun Tones Shine

The Sun Tones from Miami, Fla., are the featured quartet in this year's annual SPEBSQSA barbershop song fest. International champions in 1961, and organized since 1958, the group offers smooth song styling and a rich blend of harmonious music. Also appearing on the same bill are the Roaring 20's from Cincinnati and the Wayfarers from Columbus. Another highlight of this show is the appearance of the Continental Chorus, directed by George Steadman. Considered as one of the most outstanding choruses in the country, it is wholly composed of members of the local singing society.

Proceeds from the barbershop show help support an institute fighting speech defects of children. Besides bringing together people who love to sing, the SPEBSQSA's main purpose and motto is "We sing that they shall speak."

For an evening that promises to be entertaining, be sure to attend this parade of quartets, Apr. 23 at Veterans' memorial.

Mershon Announces Schedule

The Cleveland Orchestra, the Martha Graham Dance Company and Soprano Eileen Farrell are highlight features of Mershon Auditorium's Great Artist Series for the 1966-67 season.

The season opens with the Martha Graham Dance Company appearing on Oct. 18. The Cleveland Orchestra plays Nov. 16 and the New York City Opera Company presents "Tosca" Nov. 30.

Winter quarter offerings include the Vienna Choir Boys Jan. 20, 1967, and The Royal Winnipeg Ballet Feb. 7. "Porgy and Bess" will be seen Feb. 16. American pianist Eugene Istomin will be heard Mar. 8.

Soprano Eileen Farrell concludes the series Apr. 7.

TO APPEAR

Ray Charles, his orchestra, and the Raelettes, will appear in concert at 8:30 p.m. Friday, Apr. 15, at Veterans Memorial. Tickets for the performance are on sale at Central Ticket Offie (Richman's), 37 N. High-st, Sears Northland and Town and Country and Discount Records, 1956 N. High-st.

RANGERS READY FOR FIRST METRO TRY

Baseballers Try Again To Get Into Weatherman's Good Graces

By BOB WHITMAN

In weather more suitable for a forward pass than a pitched ball, area baseballers found themselves at the mercy of sleet and winds that were without mercy last week. Thus, only a handful of the games slated were completed.

Now, Canal Winchester and Groveport head the Southeastern area's 11 game card this week as schoolboy diamondmen attempt to vault the weatherman again.

BOB MILLER'S Indians have three on friendly soil, hosting Marion Franklin (Thursday), St. Mary (Friday) and Academy (Tuesday).

Groveport travels to play Hartley today and has a double dip date with Grove City Saturday on the road.

Teays Valley dives into Metro League play with a pair against the league's elite. Russ Gregg's Vikings host four-time title winner Pleasant View (three in a row in the South - Central and last year's South Suburban League titlist) Friday with a Tuesday date against Ed Lewis' Franklin Heights group and their slick pitcher Mickey Pless.

CARROLL, ALSO, has a pair of league battles in its quest for the Fairfield County crown. Mario Mills' Bulldogs go on the road for both with a trip to Lancaster Fenwick (Thursday) and a game in Amanda (Monday).

Hamilton Township tackles Franklin Heights (Friday) and meets Whitehall (Tuesday) in Metro action this week.

Teays Valley managed to pin Circleville, 9-3 and Marion Franklin got the long ball into Hamilton Township, 13-1 in last week's play.

MARION FRANKLIN, Winchester's Thursday foe, got plenty of muscle from catcher Dale Darnell. Darnell led the pace with seven RBI's, furnished by a home run and a double.

The Red Devils got a good mound show from Ed Reeves, whose two-hitter silenced the Rangers. Reeves is one of coach Charlie Maloney's standout sophomores.

THE HAWKS stalled South (top City League pick) last week 0-0 in 10 innings as senior pitcher Dave Rogers allowed only five hitters.

South dropped Hartley 3-0 earlier last week as Hawk hurling ace Scott French suffered the loss. French managed five shutouts including a no-hitter last spring.

Groveport grabbed its 14th straight regular season win in opening action last week.

Beulah Opening Saturday

Beulah Park opens its spring meeting of 25 days this Saturday and all indications (600 horses on tap, 200 more expected) point to an excellent season.

Highlight of the spring season (May 7) as usual will be the Robert J. Dienst Memorial Handicap, worth $7,000 added and at a mile and a 16th.

The schedule at Beulah during the meet — which runs until May 14 — calls for nine races daily except on Tuesdays and Saturdays. There will be 10 events each Saturday and eight on Tuesdays. Post time on weekdays will be 2 p.m. and on Saturdays the first race will go at 1:30 p.m.

For the opening program, there will be the usual Inaugural Handicap ($2,500) and and this will be contested at 5½ furlongs.

Members of the Armed Forces of the United States, now on active duty, will be admitted free to Beulah during the season, merely by presenting their I.D. cards at the gate.

LAFB Hosts Handball, Mat Tournaments

The Air Forces' top wrestlers and handball players will converge on Lockbourne AFB for world-wide tourneys in the two sports Apr. 18-22 at the base gym.

Handball play is scheduled 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. all five days. The double elimination tourney consists of singles and doubles play.

Elimination matches in the free-style wrestling division are scheduled for 7 to 10 p.m. Apr. 18 with championships starting at 7 p.m. the next day.

Greco-Roman eliminations are scheduled from 7 to 10 p.m. on Apr. 20 with finals the next day at 7 p.m.

THE SPECTATOR SPORTS

MAVERICK

With Muddy Shoes

By RICHARD L. PAUGH

Ohio's wildlife is and has been under the control of political forces in Ohio for a long, long time.

Whatever party is in power has absolute domain over everything that swims, crawls or runs. Everything that is—except the voter. The crucial weeks ahead can mean a great deal to Ohio's outdoorsman.

THE Federally-ordered reapportionment has given us a fresh cave wall on which to scratch our hunting and fishing exploits.

PAUGH

There is one sure-shot way you can make yourself felt in any given part of our state government. When men from your area ask for your vote, make them work for it.

Ask them in return what they have in mind for the outdoorsman. Are they satisfied with the way things are going, do they have improvements in mind?

LET YOUR vote go to the man who will represent you properly. This does not mean challengers are necessarily better than the incumbents. Let each office speak for itself.

When the present administration took over, substitute House Bill 573 was passed. It gave the public three safeguards over improper operation of the Division of Wildlife.

First, the Wildlife Council—seven people appointed by the Governor to meet once a month and review the management of fish and game. This is strictly an advisory group with no legal means to force action. (This was shown when they were unanimous in their disapproval of the raising of horsepower on state lakes.)

They were not even represented at the hearing.

THIS BRINGS us to the second safeguard of the citizen — public hearings. Here again the public wishes were ignored when overwhelming odds were ignored on Jan. 13 at the hearing to raise horsepower.

The third safeguard for the sportsman are game hearings held each spring to get the feeling of the citizen in planning the hunting seasons for next fall.

Last April, I decided to find out how closely the county game hearings were allowed to effect the outcome of the seasons. I attended the Franklin County hearing at the Youth Center on the Ohio Exposition Grounds.

WHEN THE time came to talk about the 1965 deer season, many men there voiced opinions.

Just before the subject came to a vote, I asked my first question. I wanted to know how many deer Ohio had in its herd. The poor game management fellow sitting there had difficulty not choking on an answer.

He just didn't know. No one had supplied him with a pat answer. I asked if he could make a call and come up with a total and he declined.

I THEREBY made the motion that—in lieu of that most important piece of information — we vote for a closed season in case the herd was in real danger. It was seconded and passed easily.

Without my help, 12 other counties also voted a closed season. Just to confuse you a bit more, let it be noted here that 98% of proposed regulations pass through the game hearings unchanged no matter what the sportsman decides.

There are the three legal safeguards, all really powerless to really give the outdoorsmen what they want: the Wildlife Council—a perfect rubber stamp, the Public Hearing—a time-wasting formality and the game hearings—a farce.

THE ONLY true control you maintain is in your pick of State Senators and Representatives. Use it but use it wisely.

The 1966 Game Hearings for Franklin County sportsmen will be held at the Youth Center at the State Fair Grounds, Apr. 14 at 8 p.m.

There usually aren't enough serious hunters and fishermen attend these meetings to play a hand of poker, let alone enough of them to convince the State they have firm opinions.

Mifflin Hosts Fishin' Clinic

For the first time in history, the fine art of fishing will be taught in Central Ohio public schools.

As far back through the years as there has been a public school system, young boys have been prone to a maneuver known as 'playing hooky' each spring when balmy days and creek-banks beckon.

NOW A-DAYS, forward thinking school officials are aware that it is almost as important to teach the proper use of spare time as it is to teach our youth the rudiments of earning a living.

PRINCIPAL David Buxton of Mifflin High School has agreed to allow a two-part fishing clinic to be held at the school on Apr. 19-20 from 3 to 5:30 p.m.

The first session will be classroom study of Ohio's fish, where to find them, types of fishing and proper baits.

The second session will be actual demonstrations of casting techniques and a study of the placing of lure to best assure success.

IT IS HOPED that school authorities all over Central Ohio will attend with an eye to holding clinics of their own.

Richard L. Paugh, Spectator outdoor writer and author of the prize-winning Maverick With Muddy Shoes is donating his time and equipment in hopes he might bring a wholesome form of recreation to those who have not been exposed to the wonders of nature as a means of recreation.

T-V Loop Meets

The Teays Valley Youth Baseball League will meet tomorrow, 7:30 p.m., at the Ashville Council House.

Managers for boys' and girls' teams are needed.

The league will sponsor a dance at the Ashville Elementary School, Friday, Apr. 22. Proceeds go toward the purchase of equipment.

Cruisers, C-W End 'All Even'

Groveport's Larry Stimpfle and Charlie Hamilton and Canal Winchester's Jim Burke and Chris Hartman took top individual honors last week but the Cruisers and Indians finished in a dead-heat 63½-all tie in the area's number one cinder attraction.

Stimpfle took both hurdle events, Hamilton finished first in the 220 and broad jump, Hartman copped both shot and discus honors and Burke got wins in the 100 and 440 besides running on C-W's winning mile relay quartet.

Other Winchester first came in the high jump (Bill Miles) and pole vault (Dave Cook) while Groveport got blue ribbon points in the 880 (Pat Hubbard) and mile (Jim Gallione).

In the only other area action during the nearly freezing week, Mike Riffle won both the shot and discus events but Groveport lost anyway to DeSales, 70½ to 36½.

What do twelve strikes add total a perfect game? When (like Jack Bosco) you string them 10 in a first game (280 score) and start your second game with two more (for 214) Jacks 218 third score through a series of 712 high this season at Stardust.

Tenpins made its bow on Mar. 31 in Hong Kong with a new AMF 10-lane house.

LUCKILY, fouls are a minor plague, not often repeated by one individual. Record for the most fouls in league series is 37 by Bud Mathieson of Ocean Park, Calif.

J. Edgar Hoover FBI director, has been named winner of the 13th Annual Distinguished Service Award of the Bowling Institute of America and will accept it Apr. 22 in San Francisco at the annual convention.

Twins have a habit of bowling alike. In the city tournament, twins Jean Landenberger and Jan Mercurio won first place, while perennial twin-winners Marge Merrick and Lib Miller came in fifth.

WAYNE ZAHN is the proud winner of the $25,000 first place slot in the Firestone PBA, relegating Dick Weber to second place once again.

The ABC convention is now history, with some new amendments to rules which we'll pass on soon. The WIBC counterpart will offer changes and we'll "digest" these for you. Too early yet to talk about ABC tournament standings as they change daily.

Answering a question—Yes, you should slide. A slide, just before releasing the ball, is natural and necessary to maintain accuracy and a controlled follow through. If the bowler comes to an abrupt stop, he must let the ball go abruptly.

AREA BOWL: The beginning bowler should aim the ball not at the pins 60 feet away, but at a much closer target.

He may use a system of spot bowling, which means aiming over one specific board, usually the second arrow from the right channel, and delivering the ball over this spot.

However, spot bowlers have a tendency to steer or guide the ball, so beginners are encouraged to area bowl until they become accurate and consistent in their delivery.

AREA BOWLING means allowing the ball to roll one board to the left or right side of the second arrow. Therefore it is an area target rather than one specific spot.

Rome To Host 'Shoe Tourney

An indoor horseshoe tournament will be held at New Rome (Apr. 16-17, 23-24 and 30-May 1), sponsored by the New Rome Horseshoe Club.

Qualifying dates will be this Saturday and Sunday (noon till 9 p.m., both days) at the indoor courts on Pasadena-av (one block north of Route 40 in New Rome).

The entry fee is normal and two trophies will be awarded per class (each class containing six pitchers). All 'shoe pitchers are welcome.

THE WEATHER DIDN'T 'COOL' THEM OFF!

MID-40 DEGREE temperatures didn't seem to have much effect on this Hilliard foursome Saturday at the Worthington Relays. Bill Humes, Joe Weaver, Tom Kenney and Jerry McAlister are pictured warming up after lopping off three-tenths of a second in the sprint medley event (broke 1:37.1 mark also set by Hilliard in 1965). The same quartet shortly later tied the existing 880 relay record. Wildcats also broke discus mark at Relays but settled for runnerup spot behind hosts. (Staff photo by Jack Wittenmeier).

Wit 'N' Wisdom

By JACK WITTENMEIER
Spectator Sports Editor

The baseball coach sat down wearily on the dusty bench and studied his scorebook for a moment.

The look really wasn't necessary because he hadn't missed one pitch of the nine innings. He know his team had lost and had done so quite impressively.

WIPING A few drops of perspiration from his forehead, he looked up and nodded his head in the direction of his players, getting cups of pop at the concession stand.

Wittenmeier

"They've just got too much going for them," he said, shielding his eyes from the bright summer sun.

"I've had these kids all through the school baseball season and during this whole Summer League. These stupid mental errors just should not be. They just don't think baseball because they've got too much on their minds.

"THEY AREN'T thinking baseball this afternoon. They are too concerned about what they're going to do after the game, tonight and tomorrow."

The coach continued, explaining how you thought only baseball while playing baseball when he was an active player. "Of course," he added, "I guess there wasn't quite so much else to do then."

The memory flashback came back sharply to us this spring as we contacted area coaches on prospects for the upcoming season.

IN OUR recollection, we cannot remember a time when so many high school lettermen who should be returning to their sport this spring aren't returning.

The reasons are about as varied as there are absentees.

They stretch all the way from one coach at a school converting over to vocational education program warning that that kind of system will eventually kill high school athletics to the timeless suggestion that in the springtime, a young man's fancy turns to something quite different from shagging flies or racing a stopwatch.

MAYBE THAT lonely coach sitting on that dusty bench last summer had the right count after all.

If he's right, perhaps he has brought to light this generation's strangest irony . . . that of producing athletes unmatched in ability and then spreading them too thinly in an era when spare time has become an almost unattainable luxury.

Poor Morale—

Why have previous letter winners gone "sour" on the Ranger athletic program and failed to report back to duty?

An ex-Hamilton coach sluffed off any charge of "de-emphasis of athletics" at the school, suggesting that three factors might be biggest in explaining waning of participation.

"In all fairness," the coach stated, "any coach who can break even in his season at Hamilton Township is doing a good job.

"It's difficult to create an interest among the transients (roughly 40 percent of H-T students come from Lockbourne AFB). They may be here today and gone tomorrow."

The coach offered as an example nine top grid prospects from the junior high, half of whom had moved out of the district by the time they would have been seniors.

"Even with all the cooperation in the world, (on the part of the administration) this problem is difficult to overcome."

The coach indicated that relationship between the athletic and administrative segments at Hamilton Township was not the best in his last year at the school.

The coach added that a reduction in practice time to two hours (changing into athletic gear, practice, showering and out of the building) "hurt some sports," adding that it cut down on vital conditioning time.

In the departed mentor's opinion, the broadening of the school's athletic program (tennis, golf, intramural programs) limited use of facilities for existing programs.

"Every coach likes to decide how he wants to run his team. But in some instances, the administration said 'no' to some of the plans. The last year, it got pretty hard to get along with sometimes."

Listing "poor morale" in regard to the athletic program as most likely to blame for sparse turnouts this past year, the coach added that a school board decision to make all coaching contracts "open" last summer "hurt a great deal all the way around."

"The coaches had worked hard to develop a program. The athletes and parents had faith in the program. When you make such a big change, it shakes the faith of so many people.

"The new coaches came in under a lot of pressure. Morale was low, some of the remaining coaches were not happy, they were not acquainted with each other and the new coaches had to prove themselves to the athletes.

"On top of that, people always like to see a winner and it looked like the school should field some decent athletic squads this past year.

"I'm not bitter about leaving," the coach added. "I feel I'm a lot better off where I am now."

"The saddest thing, in my opinion," he concluded, "is that some of those boys have a great deal of potential. I hope things clear up so they can fulfill their opportunities."

Another coach, still at Hamilton, described the athletic situation as yet another transition at the school.

"We went through a poor period, then were on top for two or three years and then started a normal transition downhill.

"We finally got rid of the element who said 'I don't care' through rigid practice requirements.

"Just when it looked like we had a good group of boys interested in the program again, we began to run into interference and it started to show in the athletic program.

"Boys are young and many of them don't think twice. There was a sort of bloodless rebellion and a lot of the boys said 'to hell with it' and went out and got jobs.

"Then came the blowup of the staff and the boys resented the firing of some of the coaches.

"You always have a number of kids who'll stick it out through thick and thin but there are too many others who will participate only when there's no complications.

The coach added that "curriculum changes" at the school also took their toll on prospective athletes.

"We've gone into this vocational program by leaps and bounds. It's hard to get these kids out for sports.

"In my opinion, vocational education is going to kill off high school athletics."

Next week: "Balance," administration by-word.

ent at all board meetings from Apr. 14 until his resignation is effective in June and make himself available to them and the school at other times.

(Huff, becoming ill during the meeting, had turned it over to the administrative principal and was not present when Bill Lares introduced the motion.)

Strouse was made responsible for determining whether Huff, under threat of withholding of salary, complies with the request to his (Strouse's) satisfaction.

Hubert Gibbs, board member, withdrew his second of this motion and refrained from voting on it after his offer to assume this responsibility by making a personal "office check" each day was declined.

Stressing that he is vice-president of the board and "has nothing else to do" he stated he felt it was a "personal matter" when his proposal was turned down.

Also on the agenda was the acceptance of nine resignations and the employment of several faculty members including Dario Gatti, industrial arts department-ment instructor and football coach., who had been denied a contract at the regular March meeting.

When did the first Mother Goose nursery rhymes originate? — A Teacher, Columbus.

In 1694 the Frenchman Charles Perrault published the first book in which the term "Mother Goose" was used. Some believe the stories used at that time heralded back to "Goose-Footed Bertha," the mother of the French ruler Charlemagne.

Is it true that they now have a birth control pill that determines the sex of babies?—R. S., Columbus.

LIVE WIRE believes that we may have a contradiction in terms in the popular usage of the term "birth control," R.S. "Birth control" pills are used to prevent conception — not to influence the future sex of the child. Perhaps you are thinking of recent studies which noted that women, after using birth control pills for some time and then quitting them, were prone to have multiple births. Some researchers also tell LIVE WIRE that stopping the use of the pills tends to increase fertility.

We've heard so much complaining lately about Puppy City in Reynoldsburg. Why doesn't the Better Business Bureau check into it? — Sally, Whitehall.

LIVE WIRE learns that representatives of the BBB have conferred with the Columbus Academy of Veterinary Medicine in regard to Puppy City complaints. A BBB spokesman tells LIVE WIRE that answers to complaints by PUPPY CITY owners, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rosen were not "satisfactory," however they gave no indication on what BBB's next step may be.

What is the cost of living in Hawaii, compared with that of Ohio?—Larry, West Jefferson.

"Well, Larry, the cost-of-living index for Honolulu is 102.3 compared with indexes for Cincinnati and Cleveland where they list a figure of 107.1. Sydney Clark, in his book "All The Best In Hawaii," feels that overall costs for short-time visitors are about the same as the mainland. He did note, however, that natives complained prices were 25 per cent higher than the mainland. In short, take some money, Larry, if you plan to stay.

What was the first brand of toothpaste?—Mrs. H. B., Hilliard.

As far as LIVE WIRE can determine, the first brand of ribbon tooth-paste originated in Chillicothe, O., in 1906. It was called "Chief White Eagle." Colgate came out in ribbon form in 1907.

Dumb Animals?

The adjective dumb has been used so often in connection with animals that "dumb animal" has almost become one word.

But, lately, scientists are discovering that animals are far from dumb. In fact, some of them seem about as smart as we are.

BEARDSHEAR

The Navy has been conducting experiments for some time with dolphins. Convinced they can communicate, capable scientists are trying to record sounds and decipher "dolphin talk."

It is not beyond the realm of possibility that dolphins can be trained to search out lost objects in the sea . . . such as the bomb that was recently lost off the coast of Spain.

More close to home is the search of Dr. Ernest E. Good, an associate professor of zoology at Ohio State University.

Dr. Good is attempting to learn about the role of learned behavior in the life of two frisky river otters.

And he has turned up some incredible things. For example, the otters, a two-year-old male and female, are given to frequent wanderlust. Not content with their pen and a fish-stocked 5000-gallon pool on campus, they are becoming an all-too-familiar sight on OSU's sidewalks, parking lots and playfields.

"Our facilities certainly aren't escape proof as far as otters are concerned," reported Good, who was called to the campus three times in one week to round up his wayward research subjects.

But the wanderlust and the escaping would not be significant in themselves if the otters hadn't shown a remarkable capacity.

Placed in the bottom of a dry swimming pool, the male otter was encased by five foot high walls which were thought to be sufficient to bar his escape.

However, Good said, the animal set up an overturned laboratory stool which happened to be in the pool, pushed it against the wall and climbed out without trouble.

"This actually is tool-using," Good explained, "It's something one might expect of a monkey, not an otter."

As with the dolphins, Dr. Good's study includes recording the otters' "language," which he reports is "extensive."

I once knew a dog which could parlay bringing in the paper with sharing his master's martini.

The Print Explosion Hits In Columbus

"Holy Firecrackers, Batman! Prints are exploding!"

Evidence of the print explosion is seen in every area of women's apparel — most every time of the day or night—and for most every woman.

The new prints fall into two groups. One style for "Young Moderns" and another for "Sophisticates." Thus when a woman wears a style intended for her age, figure and personality, her clothes have the custom look.

Sophisticates choose a very large-scale dramatic and colorful abstract print. These, too, may be floral designs but are very big and very bold.

Popular again this season is the print-lined coat with its matching print dress. Surely a leading fashion for day or night, you'll find it in every price range.

Tattersall checks are back, too. The wide spaced, racy checks are seen extensively in coats, suits, dresses as well as accessories.

And, of course, there is the most dramatic fashion change this year — the "sleeved look." This year sleeves are eye-catching and dramatic. Styling includes full, puffs, bells, flares, ruffles, pleats and cuffed sleeves.

Have yourself a print explosion! They're fun.

BRIDGE QUICKIE

By The Spectator's
ROSE NAFZGER

"Bridge-work sounds so very DENTAL! Well, it isn't! BRIDGE is MENTAL!"

But, it can be so much FUN too! I'm talking about an average group of players, who get together every week or so, get to know each other's foibles and form, each expect no more and no less from each other and therefore can relax and have a wonderful time at a marvelous game! As for bridge being mental, isn't just about everything? There ARE two vital factors, to begin with, in bidding: You must know the true value of your cards and you must understand your partner's language, in exchanging information about each other's holdings. Language, in bridge, refers to which author's method you are using — not the kind you utter under your breath!

Where Will Madison House 15,000 Students?

Lot Smith, Madison Local School Board member, was discussing the 10-year enrollment projection prepared for the board by its architects, Van Buren, Blackburn and Associates.

The survey sees the current enrollment of around 3,100 jumping to 4,072 next year, hitting the 8,000 mark in five years and exploding to 14,336 during the school year of 1975-76.

The projection is a revision of a 1962 report which included probable enrollment for the past four years.

The architect's figure of 1,644 for 1962-63 fell off 130 short. The following year their estimate of 2,202 was only four students over actual enrollment. In 1964-65 the report was again short (by 61 pupils) of the 2,806 students in school by the end of May. By October of the current term enrollment was within 25 students of the 3,104 predicted.

The revised estimates are made with the assumption that each new housing unit in the district will put an average of one child into the school system.

The three major housing developments taken into consideration are Blacklick Estates with 1,000 units by 1968-69; Amberly (on the south side of Refugee-rd, east of Noe-Bixby) with possibly 270 by 1968-69; and Glen Haven (south of Amberly and north of Blacklick) with 1,500 new homes by 1975-76.

Other factors weighed include general social trends that bear upon number of students, the effect of the completion of the Columbus trunk sewer line, the possible loss of territory because of annexation and the anticipated drop-out rate.

The report indicates the declining rate of the ratio between property evaluation and student population will plunge alarmingly.

In the past 10 years the tax duplicate rose approximately 55 percent to $28,618,800, while enrollment climbed 125 percent.

But the architects believe this is just the beginning.

The 140 percent increase in pupils in the next five years will continue to outpace property evaluation growth which is estimated to increase only 43 percent by 1969.

This means not only a severe limitation on bonding capacity but the property wealth behind each student dropping to below $6,000 from the current figure of slightly over $9,000.

The minimum enrollment projections could be a little more encouraging as they are considerably lower. (For example, minimum charts estimate 1975-76 enrollment at 10,950 students compared to the 14,336 reported probable.)

However, actual enrollment proved an average of 56.3 percent over comparable minimum estimates of the 1962 survey.

Measles Becoming History

By The Spectator's
MARY BILDERBACK

The introduction of the measles vaccine has been heralded as one of the greatest accomplishments in the history of public health by "The Journal of the American Medical Association."

No longer does this itchy, debilitating misery of childhood need to be an inevitable part of growing up.

Unfortunately, people have not regarded measles as a dangerous, crippling illness.

One of the most prevalent of all major childhood diseases, the majority of children have had it by the time they are 12. Nearly every child is susceptible at the age of nine months.

Dr. O. M. Goodloe, Columbus Health Commissioner, said that measles is the cause of numerous children's deaths brought about by complications such as bronchial pneumonia, obstruction laryngitis and various skin complications.

Dr. Goodloe said that one of the worst results of measles is encephalitis or mental retardation, as the target of the virus is directed to the brain.

Cases reported show that one child in 1,000 contracts encephalitis.

"For approximately three years, we have had the vaccine available to us," said Dr. Goodloe. "If we used it adequately, measles could be eliminated from the Columbus area within the next twelve months."

"The Columbus Health Department has made measles vaccination available for the past 14 months to susceptible individuals admitted to the infant and well-child clinic, but public apathy fed by the myth of harmlessness has made it difficult to do an adequate job in protecting these youths."

Measles is caused by a virus that is among one of the smallest organisms known. The incubation period from the first exposure to the onset of the illness is seven to 14 days.

Symptoms include a fever, running nose, sneezing, bulgy eyelids, red eyes and a harsh, bronchial cough.

Three to five days after these symtoms, a rash appears. In 1965, the Columbus Health department reported 3075 cases of measles and one death.

In previous years, physicians who suspected brain involvement from measles kept quiet, for there was little point in sounding the alarm when nothing could be done to combat the disease. But a single dosage of the new vaccine is expected to produce permanent immunity.

Children who had the ten-day to two-week type of measles do not need the vaccine for they have built up their own immunity. Other children who are suspectible should be inoculated before the measles season reaches its peak in May.

The vaccines are not for German or red measles.

Dr. Goodloe hopes that in the near future measles inoculations will be mandatory for children entering school. At the moment he has launched a "Measles Eradication Program" in Columbus which is sponsored by the Academy of Medicine.

Though measles has always been accepted as being as much a part of childhood as stubbed toes and dirty hands, Surgeon General Luther Terry said that measles can be wiped out in this country in two years now that we have a safe effective vaccine.

THEY EARNED THE TITLE

STATE HOMEMAKER is an honor that comes to but few of the thousands of girls in FHA, but two juniors at Canal Winchester, Ann Cartt, left and Nancy Haffey are indicating where their names will soon be engraved on the "roll of honor." Ann's projects, winning her new status, included work for the Bloodmobile, TB Seals, the Heart Fund and Clothes to Kenya. Nancy, whose interest in home economics is matched by her love of her cornet, is a member of the band and choir and director of the Pep Band. She also belongs to the FHA, GAA and Student Council. Ann is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hervie Cartt, Winchester-Lithopolis-rd, and Nancy the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Haffey, Gender-rd.

'Cancer Cure Just $ $ $ Away,' 'Checkup, Checks' Crusade Aim

More than 15,000 volunteers will determinedly crusade for a life-saving cause throughout Franklin County from Saturday, Apr. 16, through Thursday, Apr. 21.

American Cancer Society Crusaders will distribute educational literature on the value of checkup and early treatment that will, quite literally, save the life of many who heed the message.

Crusaders are further armed with the knowledge that "the cure for cancer is just dollars away," and will accept donations to advance research into the cause and cure of cancer.

Funds collected are used for research and professional education that will enable doctors to stay abreast of latest trends and practices in the diagnosis and treatment of cancer.

More volunteers are badly needed, and interested persons may call the American Cancer Society office, BR. 6-5134. Crusade captains and leaders are also reminded to report their roster of volunteers to the Cancer Society office.

Dr. Arthur James, professor at Ohio State University, is county crusade chairman. Neighborhood leaders are:

Madison Township
Miss Virginia Dutcher, Mrs. Virginia Troutman, Mrs. John Conley, Mrs. Wesley Hines, Miss Paula Thompson, Miss Glenna Thompson, Miss Barbara Dutcher.

Canal Winchester
Mrs. Byron Russell, Mrs. Betty R. Morehart.

Groveport

A's Pay Off At LAFB

Making an "A" in school pays off for Air Force members!

Forty-two Lockbourne men received Tactical Air Command Incentive Awards for earning final grades of "A" in Ohio University on-base college courses.

For their efforts, the men were presented award checks computed at the rate of $7.50 per semester hour credit.

The on base off-duty program at Lockbourne is part of an Air Force wide education program aimed at increasing the educational standards of military members.

Ideas Worth $268,675 To AF

Saving the tax payers' dollar is not the primary mission of the Air Force but seven AFB airmen have taken a step in that direction.

Cost reduction suggestions submitted by the airmen can save the Air Force an estimated $268,675.65.

Saving expectations include those of T/Sgt. Clarence E. McNeeley, $242,963.28; S/Sgt. Robert W. DeGrossa, $900 a year; A/1c Wilfred D. Paradis, $3,100 yearly; T/Sgt. Raymond J. Vasinda, $204; M/Sgt. Donald L. Cozart, two ideas for $2,101.69 and $611.46; A/1c John J. Coffing, $882.03 and S/Sgt. Richard E. Palm, $2,163.20.

PAYMENT SET

Shorn wool payments for the 1965 marketing year will amount to 31.6 percent of the dollar returns each grower received from the sale of shorn wool during 1965, Owen VanSchoyck, chairman Franklin Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, has announced.

PROMOTED

David Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Berman R. Thompson of Groveport, has recently been promoted to cadet airman second class in the Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps at Capital University, where he is a student.

Hide-A-Way Elects Two

F. J. (Don) Donelson and Joseph W. (Wally) McGough have been elected officials of the Hide-A-Way Hills Co., a year-around resort development about five miles south of Lancaster off U.S. Rt. 33.

Donelson, who was elected chairman of the board, is a former builder of residential and commercial properties and originated the idea of the $8-million Hide-A-Way development.

Joseph Murphy Blasts Secretive Insurance Hikes

"The public, who will pay the bill, should be heard from before any increase in insurance rates is allowed," said Joseph J. Murphy, in Circleville, recently.

Murphy, a former state representative and now Democratic candidate for State Senator in the 17th District, told the Pickaway County Democratic Executive Committee:

"Presently only the insurance company spokesmen are heard before a rate increase is allowed. Why not follow our Democratic principles and allow John Public, who will pay the rates, to give his side of the question, as is done in Florida and elsewhere?"

FEED HINT

Using pelleted feed when creep feeding lambs can result in faster weight gains per day than the regular method of feeding, according to Ralph Grimshaw, Ohio State University Extension sheep specialist.

Edwards Jamboree Coming Up

A meal so reasonably priced that the entire family can enjoy eating out without denting the budget is promised at the Edwards School Spring Jamboree sponsored by the PTO.

Scheduled from 4 to 9 p.m. Saturday, Apr. 23, at Edwards on Alum Creek-dr, games planned include a fish pond, cane toss, balloon dart, and dodge ball. Children can roam the haunted house while their mothers haunt the bake sale tables.

The proceeds from the Jamboree, which is the organization's only money-making project of the year, will be used to purchase equipment for the school.

Bud Keller and Lew Riggsby are co-chairmen of the event and Mrs. June Martin and Mrs. Delores Clark co-chairmen of the kitchen brigade.

AN EASTER BIRD?

LIKE ALL tots her age, little Vickie Lynne Burt has a firm belief in the Easter Bunny. But when she saw the tree in front of the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Brantner, 462 Main-st, Groveport, sporting colored eggs, she may have wondered if there isn't an Easter bird as well. Vickie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Burt, 5010 Harbor-dr.

THE POSTERS prepared by Mrs. Karen Patton, Edwards art teacher, tell the message that sixth graders Yvonne White and Mark Diehr want to get across—"It's Jamboree-time."

C-WINCHESTER, MADISON PLAN PENTA-COUNTY TRIP

The stories brought back last month by the persons who toured the Penta County Vocational School are expected to pack another bus the morning of Monday, Apr. 25.

Any resident of the five local school districts (Canal Winchester, Madison, Jefferson, Reynoldsburg and Whitehall) which have formed the joint district is eligible to register for the tour which will leave Groveport - Madison High School at 6 a.m., with return slated for the late afternoon.

Reservations, accompanied by the $5 fee must be taken to either the Canal Winchester or Groveport school office by 9 a.m. Friday, Apr. 22. With only 40 seats available, the applications will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis.

The registration fee covers lunch, transportation, a guided tour of Penta after which the local proposed vocational school facilities would be tailored.

Another step is scheduled Thursday to inform voters on what vocational education can mean to youth of the districts when an "interested business" of Gahanna will sponsor a luncheon at Don's Restaurant for community leaders.

Representing Madison will be Kenneth Ackerman, Woodie Haynes, Dwight North and Paul Painter. Invited from the Canal Winchester area are Francis Bitler, Kenneth Eubanks, Gayle Taylor, Neil Wyman and Ralph Eisnaugle.

Murphy Top Cadet

The honor of selection as "Distinguished Cadet" in the Air Force Reserve Officers' Training Corps at Ohio State has been earned by Dennis Murphy. The cadet, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Murphy, 340 Cherry-st, Groveport, received the award on basis of character, leadership and officer potential as well as demonstrated academic achievement. Now a senior in the College of Arts and Science, Murphy graduated from Groveport-Madison in 1962.

Volunteens Capped

Twenty area girls will be among the 150 Red Cross members working as Hospital Volunteens who will receive caps and pins Sunday, Apr. 17, at the Ohio Exposition Center.

They are Anita Lightle, Marsha Breckenridge, Dianne Sheets, Earline Spangler, Sue Whitcomb, Debbie Davis, Pam Duryer, Patti Farnsworth, Joey Gritter, Linda McNabb, Sue Willis and Marlyna Young of Grove City High School.

Carol Anne Dillon of Hilliard and Joe Ellen Dupler, Marilyn Lloyd, Margie Master, Jackie O'Shaughnessy, Connie Speer, Cheryl Yahn and Judy Daley of Pleasant View.

The public is invited to view and vote upon the teenage art show from 2:30 to 5 p.m. at the Arts and Crafts Building from which Columbus artist Leland McClelland and a student committee will select 10 exhibits to be included in the National Overseas Traveling Art Show.

What Goes There?

Although her husband is skeptical and Lockbourne AFB officials apparently unimpressed, Mrs. Shelby Gordon of 134 Madison-st, Groveport, is still certain she saw an unidentified flying object near the base last week. Stating she watched the glowing red and white object (which she compared to a large square box) hover at tree-top level for about three minutes, Mrs. Gordon estimates it was not more than 30 feet in front of her. When she ran into a neighbor's house to summon a corroborating witness, the "UFO" disappeared. According to Virgil Peters, Obetz policeman, a request to investigate a similar sighting near Circleville was heard over the cruiser radio the same evening.

Hartman Makes Opening Special For Entire Family

Kites will be flying high this weekend in Canal Winchester with Don Hartman Inc., passing out the airborne craft free to the kiddies who bring their parents to the formal opening at 38 S. Waterloo-st.

For mother and dad there are "he and she luggage kits" free with Norge purchases, a portable TV to be given away and specials on all items during the three day opening, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

In addition to the appliance specials including top brand names such as Norge, Motorola and RCA this weekend is the time to get famous Goodyear tires at cut-rate prices and the auto services specials include a three-way bargain in which Hartman will rotate your wheels, repack the front wheel bearings and adjust the brakes for $1.19.

Nurses Slate Breakfast

The Diocesan Council of Catholic Nurses will hold its annual communion breakfast Sunday, Apr. 24. Mass will be at the Cathedral at 10 a.m. with breakfast following at the Columbus Sheraton Motor Inn at 11:30 a.m.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. Virginia Stack at 263-2676 or with Miss Helen Gilligan at 231-7117. Please make reservations by Friday, Apr. 15.

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

Schiff Elected Prexy Of VFRA

Herbert H. Schiff, president, Shoe Corporation of America, Columbus, was elected president of the Volume Footwear Retailers Association at its recent annual meeting at the Statler Hilton Hotel in New York. He is now head of the national association whose member companies operate more than 10,000 footwear stores and departments throughout the country.

Veteran State Examiner To Retire

State Auditor Roger Cloud announced today "with regret" the impending retirement of a veteran state examiner, Emil C. Ebert, 70, of 184 Winthrop-rd.

Ebert has been state examiner for more than 29 years, serving in the Division of Liquor Audits.

A Navy veteran of World War I, Ebert is a charter member of the American Legion. He also is a member of Humboldt Lodge of Masons, Aladdin Shrine, and First Congregational Church.

Brooks Goes To Washington

William H. Brooks, director of Public Utilities for the City of Columbus, was recently in Washington, D.C., attending a conference on "Transportation Decision Making—Its Environment and Methodology."

The director obtained the information concerning the transit industry that he feels was helpful to him in his efforts to develop an adequate transportation system for Columbus.

While in Washington Brooks attended some of the sessions of the National Legislative Conference of The National League of Cities.

Porter Appoints Volkema

Mrs. Mary C. Porter, 2908 Crescent-dr, a candidate for state senator from the 16th Senatorial District, announces that Russell H. Volkema, an attorney with offices at 88 E. Broad-st, has been appointed chairman of the Porter for Senate Committee. Volkema, who lives at 662 Marburn, is active in many professional, civic and fraternal organizations.

Columbusites On Instructor Roster

Eleven Columbus men were included on the roster of instructors at the recent Insurance Institute Schools' licensing examination course the sponsorship of the Ohio th esponsorship of the Ohio Association of Insurance Agents, Incorporated.

Local instructors were Norman D. Aylesworth, Edward P. Becker, David V. Carlson, Charles Chaney, John R. Chorgan, Raymond W. Kapp, Karl J. Krug, Jr., James H. Middaugh, Eugene J. Midel, Richard E. Rohland and Louis F. Von Ville.

The week-long course was devoted to preparing its students for the state licensing examination.

Columbus Joins National Library Week Celebration

Columbus will join more than 5,000 communities in all 50 states Apr. 17-23 for the observance of the ninth annual National Library Week.

Twin slogans for this year's observance are "Read —Keep Growing" and "Know What You're Talking About —Read."

National Library Week is sponsored by the National Book Committee, Inc., and co-sponsored by such groups as the American Library Association, the Advertising Council and the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

The Columbus Public Library thinks of the week as a "plea for assistance rather than a 'come-on.'" It is asking the community to "help us promote something that deserves support 52 weeks a year."

Columbus School For Girls Dates Admissions Test

Columbus School for Girls announces an admissions test will be given at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, Apr. 16, for both scholarship and regular applicants.

The testing has been scheduled primarily for applicants to grades seven through 12 who were not able to come for the first test, Mar. 19. Girls interested in applying as either scholarship or regular candidates are welcome.

All interested parents are urged to call the school at 235-5587 for further information.

DANCE SCHEDULED

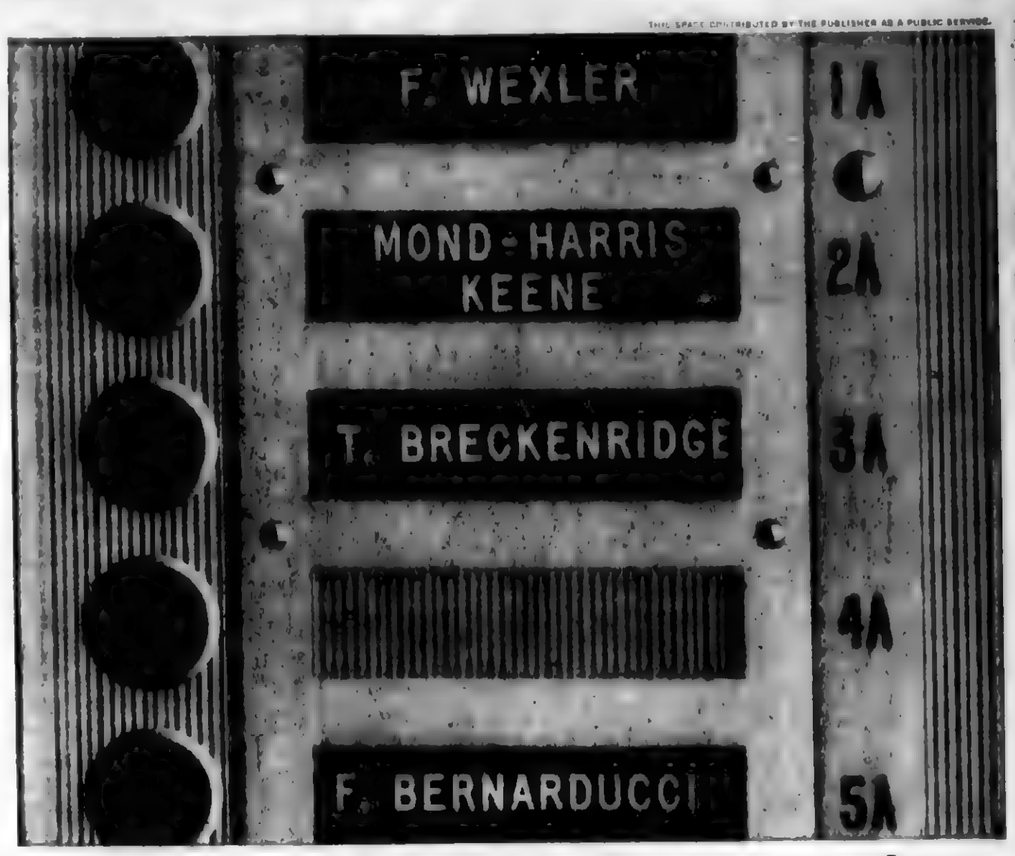
Pope John XXIII Council 5429 of the Knights of Columbus is holding a spring dance Apr. 16 from 9 p.m. to 12 midnight at St. John's Parish Center on S. Ohio-av. Refreshments and snacks will be included in admission price. For information and reservations call 279-0191.

SALES UP

February sales of Ohio retailers rose four percent above the February, 1965, level, resuming an uptrend interrupted in January, according to the Ohio State University Bureau of Business Research.

DEADLINE APPROACHING

Eligible World War II and Korean Conflict veterans can file for increased insurance protection under the new GI insurance program. Applications must be received by the Veterans Administration before midnight, May 2, 1966.



SYMPOSIUM SET

"Consumerism — 1966," a symposium on business and consumer interests will be held at 9:30 a.m. Thursday, Apr. 7, in the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company auditorium, 215 N. Front-st.

Lucky for you it's always the guy next door.

This is a way many of us think about cancer: as if it only strikes the guy next door. And because you're you, avoids you. Perhaps you're lucky. But in 1965 cancer killed 805 guys next door every day. About 295,000 during the year.

Now it's impossible for it to always be the other guy all the time, for all of us. One day it may be someone in your own family. It may be a dear friend. It's not always going to be the guy next door.

What are you going to do about it? Simply live in fear and hope that it will never be you? It needn't be that way. There is something you can do about cancer.

You can have a health checkup every year. Many cancers are curable if detected early and treated promptly. Over 90,000 Americans die of cancer each year who might have been saved. But they delay seeing their doctors until it's too late. Remember: many cancers can be cured. But they must be discovered in time.

There are cancers that science does not yet know how to cure. It's to gain this knowledge that money is needed. To continue the constant attack on cancer's resisting secrets. Is it caused by a virus? Can drugs be developed to cure cancer? Why do some people get cancer while others don't? Money to continue support of the many research projects well underway at medical centers throughout the country will help provide some answers.

By fighting cancer with a checkup and a check, someday it won't have to be the guy next door. Or you. Or anyone.

PROPOSAL FOR SCHOOL EQUIPMENT

Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Education of the Madison Local School District, Groveport, Franklin County, State of Ohio, at the Office of the Clerk of said School Board, Groveport, Ohio, until 12:00 noon, May 9, 1966, for the purchase of equipmen and furniture to be delivered and installed at the Groveport-Madison Junior High School, Hamilton Road, Groveport, Ohio and the Asbury Elementary School, 6127 Harbor Blvd., Columbus, Ohio. The bids will be opened and read aloud on the above named date at 12:00 o'clock P.M. Purchase of equipment will be made within two weeks after bids are opened.

Specifications are on file at the office of the Clerk of the Board of Education and Superintendent of Schools. Copies of said specifications may be obtained from either office.

Equipment for which proposals are to be received includes library furniture and miscellaneous loose equipment.

Separate proposals shall be received for the two library groups and for the total equipment as noted on the bid form, which will be provided.

All proposals shall be made in conformity with the General Code of Ohio, and on blanks furnished by the Board of Education and shall be enclosed in a sealed envelope and addressed to the Board of Education, Madison Local School District, Groveport, Franklin County, State of Ohio, and endorsed Proposal for Equipment Contract showing date and hour of opening on the outside of the envelope.

Each bid must contain the name of each and every person interested therein, and shall be accompanied by a bid bond with corporate surety thereon, authorized to do business in the State of Ohio and satisfactory to the Board of Education, or by certified check on a solvent bank located in the State of Ohio, in an amount equal to ten per cent (10%) of the total amount of the bid, conditioned that if the bid be accepted, a contract will be entered into, and the performance thereof properly secured by a performance bond in accordance with the law.

Said bonds or certified check shall be made in favor of the Board of Education of Madison Local School District, Franklin County, State of Ohio, and shall be made payable to Charles I. Dean, Clerk-Treasurer of said Board

The bond or certified check shall be forfeited if said bidder fails to enter into a contract and secure the performance thereof, within ten (10) days after notice of acceptance of the bid. A performance bond, with corporate surety thereon satisfactory to said Board in an amount equal to one hundred per cent (100%) of the aggregate bid price, conditioned in accordance with law will be required

BE GLAD YOU'RE COOKING WITH GAS!

Some days it just doesn't pay a lady to get up. From the first jingle of the alarm (you turned it off and slept through) to the jangle of the phone at a quarter to five (it's Dad announcing he's bringing somebody to the dinner you haven't even thought about yet), everything is absolutely the wrongest.

But if you're cooking with Gas, lady, you can relax. Gas ranges understand women—especially on Those Days.

Because Gas cooks faster than electricity, Gas ranges stretch your time. Automatic heat controls on Gas ranges keep a master chef's eye on dinner while you repair your face. And the true low-heat ability of Gas lets you hold dinner serving-hot until you're ready.

Get a modern Gas range. Then, even on one of Those Days, you can count on something going right.

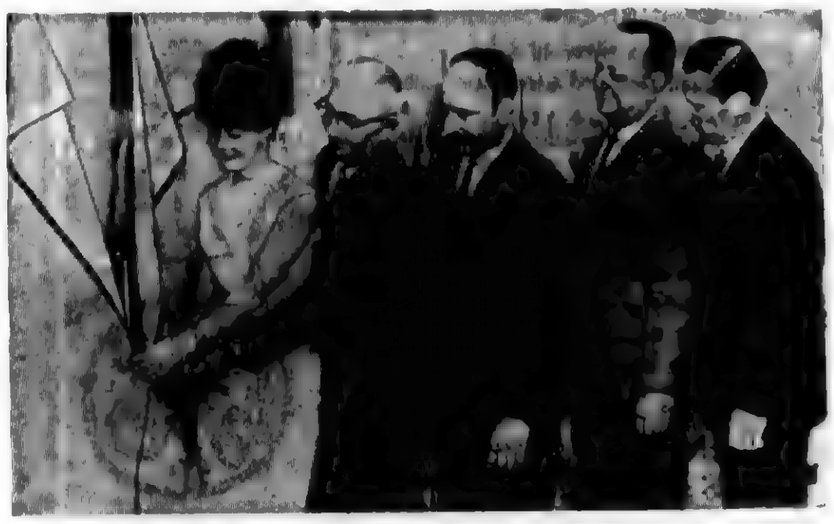
LET'S KNIT

An Eye-Catching Ensemble

By The Spectator's
URSULA duBOIS

An eyecatching ensemble for any time of the day is modeled by Cynthia Lynn of CBS Television's "Hogan's Heroes."

The sleeveless dress No. 50 uses a set of large needles and a set of small needles. These needles, combined with a drop stitch method, make for a fast completion of the dress. The URSULA pattern also gives instructions for a variety of shells. Illustrated instructions are written in sizes eight through 18. All sizes are included on one pattern.



Casually thrown over Miss Lynn's shoulder is bangle box jacket No. 72. This jacket has three-quarter length sleeves with a slight ball effect and white iridescent bangles. These are held in place with a loop stitch method which the pattern explains in detail.

We used a lilac worsted to fashion the dress and jacket. Approximate total cost for this outfit is $10.

Illustrated instructions for the bangle jacket are written in sizes 10 through 20. All sizes are included on one pattern.

To obtain pattern No. 50 or No. 72, send 50 cents for EACH pattern in coin, check, or money order to: Usula duBois, Spectator Pattern Department, 2465 W. Broad-st, Columbus, O. Send 15 cents extra for first class mail and special handling.

Please print plainly your name, address pattern number and zip code.

Want To Ride Like A King For A Commoner's Price?

By The Spectator's
JANE ROBINSON

Does he or doesn't he?

Only his dealer knows . . . whether the chartreuse Cadillac your neighbor drives is his own or one of the 4,000 leased cars in Franklin County.

Local agencies believe those leasing low and medium-priced automobiles regard it as a status symbol and are as quick to flash their lease as a newly-engaged girl her diamond.

But it's a different story when a man signs a contract for a "prestige chariot."

The aura of presumed ownership of a $7,500 car is even sweeter than that coming from the impeccable credit rating associated with car leasing — and the man in the gray flannel suit knows it.

The ball was started rolling more than a decade ago when the president of United States Steel declared, "We're in the steel business, not the automobile business," and made arrangements to lease rather than own its vast fleet of company cars and trucks.

Other corporations, quick to see the tax advantages and eager to part with maintenance and trade-in headaches, soon gave impetus to this new facet of the automobile industry.

And now Mr. Individual is clamoring to go for the joy-ride. (The fact that 96 percent of those who lease cars renew their contract indicates it is indeed a joyride.)

But it's a seller's market.

As one dealer put it, "The man to whom we lease a car becomes our partner, and we're pretty particular about whom we're in business with."

Actually, it is easier to buy a home than lease a car. Lessors prefer their "partners" to be homeowners — certainly not a prerequisite for the mortgage shopper.

He stressed that his firm is looking for the "cream of the crop" and statistics prove that is exactly what lessors are skimming off the transportation market.

While 10 percent delinquency is considered normal on the financing of privately-owned vehicles, the delinquency rate among car lessees is an amazingly low one percent.

Just what are the advantages of car-leasing over those of car-ownership?

The usual contract provides the lessee with a brand-new car to be driven two years for a monthly payment slightly lower than those involved in financing a like model.

At the expiration of the lease (unless he exercises an option-to-buy agreement), he will turn the car in and receive another brand new model.

With most warranties outliving the contract, the lessee is assured of little expense other than normal maintenance, he is able to write off his rental as a business expense, and he has conserved both his capital and his borrowing power.

And at the end of the two years he knows he won't be running around town trying to ferret out a dealer who will give him a liberal trade-in allowance. He is out of the used-car business.

The car lessee will be expected to carry insurance (usually $100,000 - $300,000 liability, $100 deductible and fire and theft) which may be higher than that which he would customarily buy, but this is not a serious deterrent. (Inclusion of insurance in the monthly payment is optional.)

Dealers concede that relatively few automobiles are leased at the widely-advertised prices.

For example, a compact currently tagged at $52 a month is a "stripped-down" model without the automatic transmission, power steering and brakes and radio most customers demand.

By the time car specifications have been boosted to meet individual requirements and tastes, the monthly tab is most often in the $70-$80 range.

However, at least one white luxury convertible was delivered this week to the tune of $168 a month.

And the classified section of the New York Times is carrying an ad that might solve the problem of a man Valentine shopping for "the woman who has everything."

If he's willing to part with a $1,000 bill on the 15th of each month he can rent for her a 1966 Rolls Royce.

The dealer will accept your collect call for further details, but before you waste your breath—

Are you considered a "Substantial Citizen?"

That's the $64 question that must have an affirmative answer before you can rent a Rolls — or a Volkswagen.

PLAN BALL

COMMITTEE MEMBERS of the Franklin County Democratic Party are counting tickets for the upcoming Campaign Ball to be held from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Friday, Apr. 22, at Valley Dale. Chuck Selby will provide the music. The dance is open to the public and tickets are available at the door. From left, Mrs. Richard J. Ryan, Richard J. Ryan, chairman, and Mrs. Donald Washburn.

OSU Campus Crusade Embracing Mid-Ohio

"Operation Other Side," a week-long religious emphasis program sponsored by the OSU Campus Crusade for Christ, involving the Ohio State Campus and the central Ohio community, is under way at the university until Apr. 16.

Schedule includes:

Thursday, Apr. 14 — Tom Workman, former OSU student body president, and Charles R. Powell, 1965 student body president at the University of California at Berkeley, will be masters of ceremonies at a Student Leadership Prayer Breakfast to which over 1000 student leaders have been invited. Dr. William Bright, president of Campus Crusade International, will speak.

Tom Barrington and Tom Workman, co-chairmen of "Operation Other Side," will emcee a Campus-wide Variety Program to be held at Mershon Auditorium at 8 p.m. The Christian Minstrels from Minnesota, Andre Kole (billed as America's leading illusionist), concert pianist Karl Dennison, and Dr. William Bright will participate.

Friday, Apr. 15 — A Prayer Breakfast honoring the OSU faculty and administration, will be held at 7 a.m. in the Ohio Union Ballrooms. Patterned after the National Presidential Prayer Breakfast and financed by local business men and churches, the breakfast will feature Dr. Carl F. H. Henry, editor of "Christianity Today," as guest speaker.

Saturday, Apr. 16 — Dr. William Bright will speak at the annual Spring Banquet of Campus Crusade for Christ to be held at 6 p.m. at the Ohio Union West Ballroom.

National Symphony To Perform At Vets

The National Symphony of Washington is known as the orchestra of the presidents because it is so frequently called upon for programs at state dinners and other occasions honoring visiting dignitaries.

Since its founding in 1931, it has enjoyed the favor and support of all official Washington. Under the direction of Howard Mitchell, it will be heard at Veterans Memorial Monday evening, Apr. 18, in the last of the season's Symphony Club concerts.

The most familiar and popular of all symphonies, Beethoven's Fifth, is to be the feature of the program. Other works scheduled will be by Wagner, Sibelius and Vaughn Williams.

Howard Mitchell, conductor of the Washington National Orchestra, believes in "music for everyone," and because of this policy the orchestra has become the most widely supported of any in the country. More than 25,000 individuals and business firms contribute to its sustaining fund.

When Students Ask About The 'Dark Mysteries' . . .

By ADRIENNE BOSWORTH
(Excerpt of story printed in the Mar. 4 edition of the WRFD-Radio "Commentator")

"Sex education cannot prevent illegitimate pregnancy and venereal disease the way driver education can prevent automobile accidents."

Dan Spivey, former health science teacher and now vice principal of Westhaven Junior High School, leaned back in his chair and explained his point: "In driver education we teach a skill. The skilled driver is less likely to have an accident. In sex education we present facts. We dispel misinformation. We try to get the kids over the bugaboo of talking about sex. We try to help them develop a wholesome attitude toward sex. But it does not influence promiscuity one way or another."

Then why bother?

"We teach about the circulatory system and we teach about the digestive system and the respiratory system. The reproductive system is no more or no less important. It is part of the total concept of health education," replies Mrs. Ina Singleton, a trained nurse and 11th-grade health teacher at Brookhaven High School.

These are two examples of opening up the Columbus classroom as an arena for formal instruction on a topic that is loosely tossed about these days from billboards to soda counters, from theater marquees to shaving lotions. But, according to Lester W. Huber, assistant superintendent for instruction, there is no "frontal attack" on sex education in the Columbus public school system. Rather, such instruction is permissive. If it is taught, it is part of the health course in 8th and 11th grades.

At this stage, Columbus' attitude toward sex education falls somewhere in the middle of the national scholastic spectrum. Some school systems forbid it entirely. Others, such as those in Chicago and Washington, have approved pilot projects.

Whether sex education is included in a health course in Columbus depends upon the attitude of the school principal and the individual health teacher. The 8th grade textbook, Your Health, Today and Tomorrow, touches only fringes of reproduction in its material on the endocrine system. The source material for sex education is in the supplement to the textbook, For Youth to Know.

Whether sex education is taught in a particular school also hinges on community attitudes. "And it is not taught where a particular community would resist," says Spivey.

The students obviously are aware of the divergence in curricula around town. Mrs. Singleton, who does deal with the subject in her classes, relates: "My students come to me and say, 'They don't teach sex education at such-and-such a school.' They think the other kids are missing something."

Most of the students who have received sex education in the classroom champion the course.

"Children," observes Mrs. Singleton, "ask questions — and need to have them answered."

Mrs. Singleton broaches the subject by telling her class: "Some of you might be embarrassed by the subject we are going to discuss. Some of your parents may not want you to receive this information here. If this is the case, you may go to the library." If a parent objects to his child receiving sex education in school, the student is excused from class when it is discussed. Mrs. Singleton has never lost a student. But Spivey recalls one student whose mother objected on religious grounds.

The 8th grade health science course, if it includes a sex education unit, begins with social adjustment, including dating and boy-girl relationships. It then advances from human growth and physiological changes to the reproductive system and venereal disease.

The sex education unit is started far enough into the term to give the teacher time to build up the necessary rapport with the class. The teacher discusses dating first as the avenue into the subject of sex. "It is better to have sex creep into the discussion than to hit the class with it," says Spivey.

Available to the 8th grade teacher is a film, Human Growth, that deals with reproduction and is geared to the grade level. The 8th grade course is coeducational.

The 11th grade course is run on a team-teaching basis at Brookhaven. Boys and girls are together for some classes and separated for others, with Mrs. Singleton instructing the girls and her male colleague, the boys.

At the 11th grade level, says Mrs. Singleton, "We hit reproduction and venereal disease pretty hard." The course also covers male and female anatomy, sexual intercourse, pre-natal care and birth.

The biggest problem with sex education in Columbus schools, insist some teachers and students, is that it begins too late, thus allowing many wrong notions to sprout in the youngsters' concept of sex. Mrs. Singleton says she is "astonished" by the misinformation harbored by her high school students: "These youngsters think they know so much, but they don't know. Those who really know, probably because they have good relationships with their mothers and fathers, are in the minority."

The fact that most youngsters are allowed to stumble on sex "information" rather than getting it through authoritative instruction is supported by studies showing that more than 90 percent of young boys get their information from other boys and 40 to 50 percent of the girls from their girl-friends.

The students also sense the need for earlier instruction. Says a high school junior: "I think it should be taught, but earlier. Too many have already made mistakes."

Spivey admits there is "no magic time" to begin sex education. However, he believes the 8th grade is not early enough: "It should be started in the 4th, 5th or 6th grade, depending upon the community."

So, why isn't it taught earlier?

Mrs. Edna Lamber, head of health and physical education for the city school system, claims that a foundation for sex education is being created in the lower grades. She adds, however, that a variety of circumstances can prevent a child from being exposed to basic birds-and-bees instruction in elementary grades.

One reason, she says, is the high mobility rate of Columbus families. "I can see that a child transferring from one school to another can miss out on this subject," she says. Also a problem, she says, is the fact that many students come to Columbus schools from other states where the foundation for more sophisticated instruction was never laid.

Mrs. Lambert further maintains that elementary level sex education might not make as great an "impact" as a film such as Human Growth, and in some cases "the pupil wouldn't absorb what is being taught. We teach reading in the early grades, but there are always some students who get to junior high and can't read well."

The health teacher who complains about lack of preparation for sex education, Mrs. Lambert contends, probably feels there isn't enough emphasis on the subject in the lower grades. However, she says: "The math teachers also think we ought to teach more math in elementary school."

Some teachers and administrators don't feel as strongly about early introduction to sex education in the classroom, acknowledging the delicate nature of the topic. For example, one elementary school principal, who noted that her school avoided the subject, said:

"We have to be pretty careful in elementary school. If we find a need for such information, we contact the parents." At the high school level, however, Spivey and Mrs. Singleton say most parents are happy to have the school's assistance in providing sex information. "I've had parents call me at home and come to me at PTA meetings to say thank you," Mrs. Singleton says.

A clear distinction is draw between sex education and sexual morality. The latter is not a hard and fast issue in the classroom. "We talk about the implications of intercourse," Spivey says, "but it is not the school's job to dictate a moral tone. That's the job of home and church."

PROTESTING NEARLY everything, these women from the Press Club of Ohio who call themselves the "Gang from ANTI" warm up with beer and freedom songs. Joe Dunlap rehearses, from left, Miss Martha Brian, Mrs. Nancy Avren, Mrs. Bea Green, Mrs. Cindy Swaney and Mrs. Vanessa St. Clair. The "gang" will stage a protest with a "sit-in" dinner and a "demonstration" guaranteed to offend local, state and federal politicos at the Southern Hotel tonight in the sixth annual Petticoat Preview. The attentive and warmly approving pooch yowling in the foreground is "Casey", a long-time Press Club friend, owned by Miss Marjorie Utley. "Casey" is the show's guest star.

Press Club Women To Show Petticoats

A demonstration will be held at the Southern Hotel tonight as the "Gang From ANTI" arrives to protest just about everything.

Members of the "gang" are the women of the Press Club of Ohio who are presenting the sixth annual Petticoat Preview, the gals' counterpart to the stag Gridiron Show which is slated for tomorrow evening.

Opening with an espresso hour, this evening's activities will continue with a "sit-in" dinner and the "demonstration," a singing satire on local, state and federal politics. Thes women will then preview the 1966 Gridiron Show, "The Boys From UNCLE."

The men's show was started by the Press Club 10 years ago. After four years of being left out of this annual event, the women persuaded the men to open their dress rehearsal for a "petticoat preview." The women added a dinner and a show of their own.

General chairman of the Petticoat Preview is Mrs. Bea Green. Miss Mary McGarey is script chairman. Other aides are Mrs. Ruth Flavin, props.

Beta Alumni To Have Spring Roundup Apr. 14

The Rev. Dr. Seth R. Brooks, general president of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity, will be honored guest and featured speaker at the Spring Roundup of Betas, sponsored by the Central Ohio Beta Theta Pi Alumni, Apr. 14, at 7 p.m. at the Neil House.

Accompanying Dr. Brooks will be most of the other general officers and trustees of the national fraternity.

Brooks has been minister of Universalist National Memorial Church, Washington, D.C., since 1939, according to Charles F. Glander, president of the local Beta alumni and chairman of this year's Spring Roundup. He has been general president of Beta Theta Pi since 1960. He is a 1922 graduate of St. Lawrence College.

Glander indicated that the program for the evening will include a social hour at 6 p.m. at the Neil House, preceding the banquet at 7 p.m. He also said that "Fraternal Fifties" cards will be presented to those Beta alumni living in the Central Ohio area who have been active members for fifty years.

Concluding the evening will be the traditional "Loving Cup" ceremony, using the John Riley Knox Loving Cup which will be brought here from Oxford, Ohio, for this occasion. Knox was the founder of Beta Theta Phi on Aug. 8, 1839, while a student at Miami University.

Reservations for the Spring Roundup can be made by contacting Glander at CA. 4-4125 or HU. 6-4423.

The National Board of Trustees of Beta Theta Pi will meet in Columbus all day Friday, Apr. 15, and will go to Athens, O., on Apr. 16 to join in the celebration of the 125th anniversary of the founding of the Beta chapter at Ohio University.

Society Slates Speakers

A handicapped couple, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert E. Shelley, 653 S. Brinker-av, will be the guest speakers at the April meeting of the Parents' Group of the Franklin County Society for Crippled Children Wednesday, Apr. 20, at the Treatment Center, 555 S. Monroe-av.

A potluck dinner is scheduled for 6 p.m. A short business meeting and the speakers will follow the meal.

APPLICATIONS READY

Between Apr. 3 and 28 applications for absent and disabled voters' ballots may be filed with the boards of elections in each of the 88 counties.

Tuition-Free Education Advocated At Confab

Tuition-free college educations for all qualified applicants were advocated by two speakers at a college cost conference sponsored by the Ohio AFL-CIO in cooperation with Kent State University.

Speaking for free public college education at the recent conference were Dr. M. M. Chambers of Indiana University and Emery Bacon, assistant to the president of West Virginia University.

Dr. Chambers, a ranking expert on college financing, said elimination of college tuition fees would be an extension of the U. S. system of free high school education which he called "the marvel of the world."

Bacon said that the Labor movement advances five proposals to the problems of higher education: Expanding free public education to 14 years and eventually to 16, giving state universities adequate support, continuing federal support of higher education, consideration of compulsory attendance laws to meet manpower needs and broadening of both graduate programs and general studies for adults.

Dr. John Millett, chancellor of the Ohio Board of Regents, told the 240 Labor, business and education representatives that Ohio has made significant gains in recent years in dealing with the problems of higher education. Millett was challenged by Ohio AFL-CIO President Frank W. King, who charged that tuition at state schools is rising faster than state support. Said King, "We are losing the battle."

Conference chairman Robert D. Bollard, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio AFL-CIO, said that statistics indicate 72 percent of the population of the state have family incomes of less than $7,500. "It would appear from university profiles," he said, "that students from these families comprise less than 20 percent of the student body at our state universities and land grant colleges. And, these families bear a proportionately larger share of the high cost of education."

Dr. James H. Pelley, professor of education at Miami University, told the group that college education in Ohio is "becoming the prerogative of the rich and working class students are being priced out."

'Discussion Leadership' Is Topic At Seminar

The Columbus Chapter of the Administrative Management Society in conjunction with the local chapter of the Systems and Procedures Association, will hold a seminar on the subject of "Discussion Leadership," 9 a.m. Apr. 16, at the office of the Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., 95 W. Long-st.

All members of the association, as well as any other person, are invited to attend. A nominal fee of $1 is being charged for course materials.

PAYMENTS UP

Ohio's subsidy payments for financing the dependent children program may exceed the expenditures of last year, State Auditor Roger Cloud said.

8-Million Families Equipped With Automatic Dishwashers

BUILT-IN MODEL
Slide-Out Racks

Are you a modern homemaker? Not if you're still washing dishes by hand.

Eight million American women already have switched to doing dishes automatically.

Engineering and design advances have made today's automatic dishwashers the most efficient time-and-labor-saving kitchen appliance available. A housewife who still clings to the dreary three-times-a-day washing-dishes-by-hand routine is not only behind the times, she's also squandering hours that could be spent in more satisfying family pursuits.

Studies show that electric dishwashers free the average homemaker of about 90 minutes of messy cleanups daily — more if she has a large family or entertains a great deal.

Tableware that would ordinarily be stacked on the counters or sink, or washed after every meal, can be placed right in the dishwasher and washed all at once at the end of the day. New models handle large capacities, require no pre-rinsing of dishes and deliver tableware that's hygenically clean, bone-dry and ready to be stacked away on the shelves. There's no kitchen clutter and no extra dishcloths to add to washday chores.

Modern dishwashers are also easier than ever to operate and load, and are equipped with a host of automatic features.

Most models have pushbutton controls and a variety of cycles that can handle anything from fragile glassware to heavily-soiled cooking utensils. Big glide-out racks permit random loading, and you even load odd-sized platters and large pans with ease. Automatic dispensers release detergents and rinsing agents during the proper washing cycle. Many models have hot water boosters to assure the correct water temperature to provide sanitation and effective washing action.

There are several types of dishwashers from which to choose depending on the size and style of your kitchen, your need for countertop space and your preference for top-or front-loading.

Free-standing models are separate cabinet units that can be permanently installed at the end of a counter or anywhere in the kitchen. These front-loaders are available in a variety of countertops including wood cutting blocks and laminated plastic to match kitchen counters.

Undercounter models, also known as built-ins, are front-loaders that are permanently installed under a counter.

IN 30 YEARS

Nary A Foreclosure For First Federal

When it comes to the pointing with pride department, First Federal Savings and Loan Association points proudly to a record that is never reflected in its annual report.

That record shows that in 30 years of making mortgage loans, that total millions of dollars, First Federal has yet to file its first foreclosure.

RICHARD EIDSON
"We're proud . . ."

"We're proud of that record because it shows we know how to help people become homeowners through the type of mortgage loan that fits easily into a family budget," said Richard I. Eidson, president.

Eidson pointed out that in addition to maintaining low interest rates, First Federal provides other mortgage loan services that have helped it grow to one of the largest saving and loan associations in Ohio.

These services include holding closing costs to a minimum, reducing the red tape of closing and permitting prepayment of all or part of a mortgage loan without penalty. Thus if a homeowner earns extra money or receives a bonus, he can reduce his indebtedness and save on interest.

Eidson also commented First Federal has an historic right to use of First in its name. He said First Federal was the first savings and loan association in Columbus to be granted a Federal charter, to have insurance of savings accounts and to open a branch office.

First Federal has three offices, downtown at 65 E. State-st, 2680 W Broad-st and 2450 E. Main-st. Total assets are now in excess of $80-million.

Sun, Water, Wind, Fire Present Biggest Danger

Sunlight, moisture, wind and fire are the four deadly horsemen that prey on houses.

Each year thousands of homes are damaged or destroyed by the elements. In many cases, premature deterioration could have been averted in the design stage.

Roofs and sidings take the heaviest punishment from elemental home wreckers. Here is how the elements do their deadly work:

1. Sunlight causes paint to fade and dries out building materials.

Building products manufacturers devise many ways to defeat the sun's destructive rays. One method used successfully is to coat the material wtih mineral granules that absorb the rays.

Another method is to filter out harmful rays. An example of a filter-type finish is the acrylic plastic coatings used on mineral fiber sidings.

2. Moisture from leaks and condensation can damage gypsum wallboard, plaster and woodwork and cause paint to peel.

You can prevent this type of damage by repairing leaks promptly and caulking joints where leaks are likely to occur, such as around windows, doors and sills.

Provision for adequate ventilation for the attic, insulation of water pipes, use of effective storm sash or insulating glass on windows and use of "breather-type" exterior materials are some ways to prevent damage by condensation or trapped moisture.

3. Wind damages homes by hurling debris, knocking over trees, blowing off shingles and putting tremendous pressure on building materials.

Will City National loan young couple $11,300 to buy a house and then loan them another $2,800 to remodel the kitchen?

Yep—that's why we're the LOANINGest Bank in Town.

Being willing to help people get the home they want is our business. Sometimes it means making the mortgage loan and then another loan on the side. Surprising enough-we call it a side loan. Our mortgage loan plan has other equally clever terms, like a monthly reduction feature which means more of the payment goes to reducing the principal and less each month is charged as interest. Or the no escalator clause, which means the interest rate can't be raised during the life of the loan. It really has nothing to do with escalators.

If you're buying or building a house—find a willing banker to help you—see the Loaningest Bank in Town. And if you really want to remodel the kitchen—great.

CREATE YOUR OWN LAYOUT WITH DIVIDER

If hunting for a house or apartment has you frazzled because you can't find one with a good room layout, don't be discouraged. Room dividers may solve the problem perfectly.

Walls can be "shortened" or "lengthened," jutting columns concealed, and windows beautified by new see-through dividers that you can put up with just a screwdriver.

"Dividers in effect let you create your own layout," said interior designer Mary Ann Wills, who advises Galway, Inc., Chicago manufacturer of decorative space dividers.

Ideal for those who move often and, therefore, must rent living quarters, this type of easy-to-assemble "wall" is a practical long-range investment.

Screw-on panels are supported by floor-to-ceiling tension poles in a choice of traditional or modern designs and in several finishes. Extensions are available to cope with high ceilings.

"And when it's time to move in another year or so, your 'wall' goes right along, without leaving any holes for landlords to complain about," Miss Wills added.

She mentioned numerous ways in which decorative dividers can aid in solving furniture arrangement problems and saving money, too.

For example, suppose you have a long sofa and a short wall due to a badly placed dining "L." With a single divider section, you can lengthen the wall and, at the same time, give the dining area a feeling of greater privacy.

If you run into an arrangement of windows that defies the use of standard draperies, as is the case in some older buildings, consider using decorative dividers instead to create a dramatic effect.

Galway screw-on panels, which are detailed reproductions of hard-carved original designs, may be found in a variety of styles.

GENTLE WIPE

HARD-BOARD walls, perfect for room dividers, can be wiped clean with a minimum of effort using a damp cloth. Here the homemaker makes play of this one-time chore by doing her wall cleaning wearing a going-out dress.

LIGHTER

HANDSOME lighting fixtures are now available in such smart decorator styles that they add to the appearance of any home. These hanging lamps here dress up a recreation room.

WHY BOTHER WITH ONE-ROOM AIR CONDITIONERS WHEN-

WHOLE-HOUSE GAS AIR CONDITIONING COSTS $14.00 A MONTH TO OWN!

Probably the reason some people are still going for those roaring wind-tunnels called window air conditioners is that they haven't heard how little it costs to own whole-house Gas air conditioning.

Hear it now: Fourteen dollars a month— or less—not only buys a powerful three-ton capacity Gas central air conditioning system, but installs it, too. And there's no down payment.

Does the low price surprise you? It shouldn't, when you consider that a compact Gas air conditioner attaches to your present Gas furnace, converting it instantly into a matched heating-cooling team. Gas air conditioning is the quietest, longest-lived and most trouble-free of any central home-cooling system. And economical Gas can cool your whole house, every room, for a fraction of the cost of keeping a flock of noisy one-room air conditioners in electricity.

Send in the no-obligation coupon today, and enjoy summer with cool, healthful air in every room in your home.

MAKE KITCHEN A SOCIAL CENTER

Etiquette experts have dealt little, if at all, with rules for entertaining in kitchens. Perhaps they should.

"Except for very formal occasions, the tendency has always been for the family and guests to gather in the kitchen," observed Henry O. Radloff, vice president of the dinette division of B. Brody Seating Company, Chicago.

This tendency is even stronger today, he said, with family rooms and kitchens built side-by-side.

"So why not be sure your kitchen is as attractive to guests as your living room?" he suggested.

"You'll be a happier hostess when you're not constantly apologizing for the way things look."

An authority on kitchen planning Radloff listed several ways you can make yours more sociable:

1. Begin with the dining furniture, checking to see whether it is scuffed, wobbly and worn.

If the finish is marred and the upholstery split, make a bright new set your first step toward a more attractive kitchen.
